90 GALS. LIQUOR, 6 BARRELS MASH, 50 GALLON STILL SIEZED BY POLICE

Ninety gallons of alcohol and "moonshine," a quantity of "Old Crowe" and other whiskey, six barrels of mash and a 50 gallon still were seised by the local police Thursday night in a raid at No. 12 Third street. Boris Avdevich, Russian, 36, was arrested as proprietor of the liquor distillery on a charge of violation of the liquor law and later in the evening was released on bonds of $1,000 for his appearance in the city court this (Friday) morning. It was the largest liquor haul ever made in the city since the advent of prohibition. A customer caught leaving the place was summoned to court.

The place which has been in operation, it is said, for about these months, has been watched by the police for sometime. About 7:45 o'clock Thursday evening Sergt. Matthew Delaney and Officers Patrick Shahan and John Quinn were watching the house when they observed a customer go into the house. Shortly afterwards the customer left by the front door and was taken in charge by the police. He had a half pint of liquor which it is said he admitted purchasing in the place. It was later learned that he bought the stuff from Avdevich who charged him 50 cents for it.

The police then entered the house, a story and a half frame building and after climbing a narrow stairway found a 50 gallon still in operation. The still was in a small room with a low ceiling and the ceiling and walls of the room had been turned to a dark brown color from the continued heat from the still. The still, set on top of a large oil stove, reached to within a foot or two of the low sloping ceiling.

Around the small room were six 40 gallon barrels, filled with mash in the making. The still was complete in every detail. Lead pipes from the cellar supplied the water for the mash and there was a drain pipe leading to the sewage pipe in the cellar. The distilled liquor was cooled by pipes leading through a barrel of water.

Found in various parts of the house was the following collection of liquor: Seventeen 5 gallon cans of alcohol (16 of them full); 10 gallons of moonshine in one gallon glass jars; one quart of "Old Crowe" whiskey; two quarts of liquor in a bag, and 12 pints of liquor done up in a package. In the room where the still was in operation were found funnels, pans, etc., used in the distilling of the moonshine.

The police loaded the seized liquor into the patrol wagon and took it to police headquarters along with Avdevich. Police Officer Peter Sullivan was left to guard the still while the liquor was taken to headquarters. At police headquarters Avdevich admitted selling the small bottle of liquor found on the customer, according to the police, and further stated that he had been selling "more or less" liquor a week at his place. He stated that sometimes he sold 10 gallons a week, some weeks less and some weeks more. He is said to have been one of the principal wholesalers in the Greeneville district of the city.

When the police entered the house, the still, which was in operation, was too hot to dismantle. The oil stove was shut off and later the police made a second visit to the house and dismantled the still, which with tubing, and other equipment, was removed to headquarters. Sergt. Matthew Delaney headed the squad which comprised Officers John Quinn, Patrick Shahan and Peter Sullivan.

GRACE CHURCH AUXILIARY ELECTS ITS OFFICERS

The annual meeting of the Woman's auxiliary of Grace church, Yantic, was held Tuesday evening at the home of Dr. Lillian Lynes, No. 36 Bliss place. The officers' reports showed splendid progress has been made during the past year. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. H. L. Dow; vice president, Miss Lucy Davies; secretary, Miss Lois Manning; treasurer, Miss Annie Carpenter; United Thank offering treasurer, Mrs. H. J. Gibbs. Miss Agnes Thorpe was given charge of the birthday box offering. Following the business meeting sandwiches, cake and coffee were served by the hostess.

FILBURN CASE NOT EXPECTED TO BE TRIED

John Filburn, Jr., of this city, pleaded not guilty and elected to be tried by a jury on the charges of reckless driving and operating an automobile under the influence of liquor on the night of Dec. 11, when he was presented in the criminal superior court here Thursday morning before Judge Arthur F. Ells. Later in the day, however, it was learned that there will be no trial in the Filburn case as it is expected to dispose of it in another way. He is represented by Attorney Thomas M. Shields.

Filburn was driving an automobile on the night in question when he went to the scene of an accident on Mohegan hill and was alleged to have driven through the crowd and have been chased to Uncasville by the state police before he was caught.

FORECLOSURE JUDGMENT IS GRANTED WESTERLY MAN

Foreclosure judgment for $4,085.20 was granted Louis La Fontaine, of Westerly, against William L. Richmond, of Wequetequock by Judge C. L. Avery in the superior court here Wednesday afternoon. The property is in Wequetequock upon which a mortgage for $4,000 was given on July 6, 1926 and suit was brought after default upon the interest which was due Oct 6, 1927.

WITHDRAWAL OF APPEAL OVER LEBANON MAN'S WILL

An appeal taken to the superior court by Oliver A. Park and Hattie E. Howard over the will of the late George F. Parkhurst, of Lebanon, has been vacated, according to a notice filed with the clerk of the superior court.

The two appellants, who are heirs at-law, claimed that Parkhurst was easily influenced and that Mary F. Yerrington, executrix of the estate, exerted a great influence over George H. Parkhurst and she is alleged to have taken advantage of his enfeebled physical condition.

LOYAL CIRCLE HELD MEETING AND ELECTION

Loyal circle, King's Daughters held its annual meeting Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. George W. Carter, of 335 Main street, with an attendance of thirteen. Reports of the year's work from the various committees were read and showed an active year. Officers were elected as follows:

Mrs. George E. Zimmerman, leader; Mrs. Louise A. Wheeler, vice leader; Mrs. George W. Carter, secretary; and Mrs. Archibald Torrance, treasurer.

GAS IS LEAKING INTO TELEPHONE CO. CONDUITS

The city gas and electric department men are engaged in a search to locate a gas leak which is believed to be in Main street in the neighborhood of the Wauregan house. The gas finds its way into the underground conduits of the telephone company and from there into the manholes which become filled with gas and constitute a hazard which the city department and the telephone people are anxious to have corrected as soon as possible.

WILL BE TRIED FOR THEFT OF AUTOMOBILE

Before Judge Arthur F. Ells and a jury in the criminal superior court here this (Friday) morning it is expected that John Foley of Cleveland, Ohio, will go on trial on the charge of stealing an automobile in Montville on May 17. The machine belonged to Herbert Eccleston and is alleged to have been sold in Groton.

CHANGING PLEAS, MAN AND WOMAN ARE SENTENCED

Peter Gaganis and Mrs. Athena Angelopoulos, both of this city, who entered pleas of not guilty earlier in the week in the superior court here to the charge of adultery on July 20, made against them, pleaded guilty Thursday afternoon before Judge Arthur F. Ells.

The change of plea came after a long conference between Attorneys Thomas M. Shields, W. T. King and V. P. A. Quinn, counsel for the two accused, and State Attorney Arthur M. Brown who was prepared to try the case before a jury.

State Attorney Brown moved for sentence, recommending six months in jail in the case of Gaganis and six months in jail, but execution of sentence suspended under probation, in the case of the woman. Judge Ells passed sentence in accordance with these recommendations after counsel for the two accused persons said they had nothing to say.

It is anticipated that a divorce suit will be brought by Constantine Angelopoulos, the husband of the woman.

SETTLEMENT IN SUIT OVER AUTOMOBILE COLLISION

The $10,000 suit of Walter Talbot of New London against Arthur P. Boyle of that city, which was assigned for trial in the superior court here this week was withdrawn when a settlement was made for the plaintiff to recover $300 damages. Boyle had made a counter-claim for $10,000 and judgment was given for the plaintiff on the counter-claim.

Talbot brought suit following an auto accident between the cars owned by himself and by Boyle in the town of Montville on July 4, 1927. The plaintiff claimed damage to his machine, and serious injuries to his person.

CHOOSES JURY TRIAL ON LIQUOR VIOLATION CHARGES

Mrs. Rosa Behnke of Jewett City whose bond was called in the September term of the criminal superior court was before the court here Thursday, pleaded not guilty to charges of violation of the liquor law and elected to be tried by jury. She was charged on three counts with sale of liquor on Aug. 16 to Adelor Blanchard, with keeping with intent to sell on that date and with reputation from June 1 to Aug. 16. There was a second part of the information, charging her with being a third offender, to which she pleaded not guilty. Attorney Thomas M. Shields is her counsel.

ACCEPTS CHAIRMANSHIP FOR MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN

The combined membership campaign of the Retail Merchants bureau and the Credit Rating bureau announced several weeks ago got under way Thursday with the acceptance of the chairmanship of the campaign by Herbert B. Cary. The officers of both bureaus expressed their enthusiasm over Mr. Cary's leadership. The many public movements to which he has given his energetic support have proven him to be an outstanding leader fully capable of carrying the present project to success.

The object of the campaign is to strengthen all the organized mercantile efforts which come under the programs of the two bureaus. The Merchants bureau has long demonstrated its usefulness to the retailers in the special cooperative sales days it has held. Its aggressive activities in bringing more trade to town have been noticeable. It has protected the merchants against unfair competition and from unwarranted solicitation. A long row of minor activities are always on its program. The Christmas decoration on the streets are a regular feature of its activities. In addition to maintaining the present program new support secured through the campaign will be devoted specifically to a retail trade survey joined to a campaign of trade advertising which will locate new trade and bring it to Norwich.

One striking feature of the new arrangement is the availability of the facilities of the Credit Rating bureau to all members of the Retail Merchants bureau on the same basis of cooperation now in force. Twenty-five concerns have been maintaining the credit bureau and deriving the benefits from it. Under the new plan its scope will be greatly enlarged resulting in records of wider range and in greater service to Norwich retailers.

Chairman Cary and officers of the bureaus are preparing to present their plans in more detail in the immediate future in order that all Norwich merchants may be fully acquainted with the moves being made on their behalf.

FOUR MORE BODIES TAKEN FROM THE SUNKEN SUB. S-4

Two of the Bodies Were Found Beneath a Tarpaulin in the Engine Room Close to Where the Three Bodies Recovered Wednesday Were Discovered—The Other Four Were Found Nearby—When the Divers Were Forced to Halt For the Day They Were of the Belief That Other Bodies Remained in the Room—Naval Officials Say That Ordinarily There Would Be Ten Men in the Compartment.

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., Jan. 6.—(AP)—The bodies of four more members of the crew of the submarine S-4 were taken from the engine room compartment of the sunken ship by divers this afternoon.

Two of the bodies were found huddled beneath a tarpaulin close to where one of the three bodies recovered Wednesday was discovered. The other two, found today, were nearby and the divers expressed the opinion the four were lying together on the floor under the heavy canvas in an effort to keep warm when death overtook them.

Six divers made the descent from the diving ship Falcon to the submarine during the afternoon. When they were forced to halt operations for the day they were of the belief that other bodies still remained in the compartment which has already yielded seven. Ordinarily, naval officials say, there would be about ten men in the compartment while the ship was operating.

The first three divers down this afternoon were J. W. Ingram, Patrick McNulty and Charles W. Scott. While McNulty stood on the deck of the submarine, Ingram and Scott, the latter carrying a light, crawled down through the hatchway to the floor. A few moments later he found the first two bodies beneath the tarpaulin.

These bodies were removed and sent to the surface and the divers also were lifted to the top. Three others then went down, William Wickwire, Daniel Burd and John Kelley. They found the other two bodies. The tarpaulin had floated away in the meanwhile but the close proximity of the second pair to where the first were found, led to the opinion that the four men had been clustered together.

Ingram, when he had returned to the surface, said that after he entered through the engine room hatch he walked about five feet aft along the aisle between the two rows of motors when he stumbled upon the first two bodies. They were lying close together, he said, one with head toward the forward end of the boat and the other with head aft. The head of one of the men rested on the lower step of a short flight of stairs. The arms of one were folded on his chest and the other's were by his side. One of the bodies had but one shoe, the diver said. Both bodies were about four feet from the air compressor.

Diver Kelley, who was the first of the second group of divers to enter the engine room, said that he found the third body a few feet aft of the spot where the first two were found. He returned with it to the deck, drawing it out through the hatch. Diver Wickwire next entered the compartment and located the fourth body.

The bodies were regarded as being in a good state of preservation and opinion among the salvage personnel seemed divided as to whether the victims had been drowned or suffocated. When they were brought to the surface they were placed upon a small motor boat and taken to the Boshnell where they were placed in undertakers' baskets and draped with flags. Later they were transferred to the Maury and started on their way to Boston.

The second two bodies were brought to the surface about dusk and it was necessary to use an underwater light in order to complete the operation. The sea had become choppy and the wind was rising rapidly. It was decided to abandon operations for the night. Accordingly, the Falcon slipped her moorings and anchored about 00 yards from the spot as has been her nightly custom.

The actual time consumed in diving today was about three and a half hours, making the total diving time for the week about six hours.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

BATAVIA, Java., Jan. 6—(AP)—The famous volcano on the island of Krakatao in Sundra strait between Sumatra and Java which is now submerged in the sea, has greatly increased its activities within the last 24 hours.

ROME, Jan. 6—(AP)—Apparently satisfied with the manner in which the fascist program is being carried out, Premier Mussolini refrained from sending a circular letter to all the prefects at the beginning of the year, as is customary.

STREETS AND HOUSES IN EAST LONDON FLOODED

LONDON, Jan. 7—(AP)—An abnormal tide which followed yesterday's heavy gale raised the water in the Thames estuary after midnight to an unwonted height. The riverside streets and houses in east London were flooded.

Even in central London the water rose high enough to overflow the four foot parapet which protects Victoria embankment. Part of the embankment, near the offices of the Associated Press, is now under water, temporary holding up tramway service. This is a rare occurrence.

At 1.30 this morning the overflow had invaded the terraces of the houses of parliament in Westminster, and also the streets of Lambeth, opposite Westminster.

It was reported that the low line districts farther down the river are badly swamped and that police are arousing the residents and warning them of the danger.

From the terraces of parliament the water poured into the old palace yard which is the forecourt of the house of commons, just beneath "Big Ben" clock tower, flooding several inches deep.

In the vicinity of the Charing Cross and Waterloo bridges, the water has spread out over the embankment.

The waters penetrated the basements of numerous houses in the vicinity of the river, including Reuter's building, and also interfered with the electric mains, preventing the operation of news tickers.

PLANTATION PLUNDERED BY NICARAGUAN OUTLAWS

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 6—(AP)—Word was received by the government from Chinandega that a well-armed and mounted band of sixty men appeared this morning at La Cabrera de Ameya, attacked the laborers on a plantation, plundered and committed various depredations. The mayor of Chinandega has requested that national guardsmen be sent there for protective purposes.

Ameya is directly across the bay of Estero from Corinto, and there is fear that an attempt may be made to blow up the bridge from Corinto to the mainland, cutting off the mainland from the seaport of Parril.

A strike is in progress at Corinto and it is thought possible that the attack at Ameya may have been carried out by some of the strikers or their sympathizers. General Jose Maria Moncada has been endeavoring to settle the strike, but without avail.

United States marines to the number of 150 are expected to reach Corinto tomorrow.

NO TRACE OF SCHOONER REPORTED IN DISTRESS

NORFOLK, Va., Jan. 6—(AP)—No trace of the American schooner Alvena, yesterday reported in distress near Cape Hatteras, had been found up to an early hour tonight by the coast guard cutter Mascouin, which was sent out to aid the leaking four-master. The Mascoutin reported by wireless that it had been unable to find the schooner in the position given by the fruit steamer Sixaola, which came upon the Alvena yesterday and sent a message telling of her plight.

The Sixaola reported that the schooner was leaking, her pumps were out of order and that the nine men composing her crew were exhausted from battling with the elements. The Alvena still had her sails set and was making about five knots in a northeasterly direction.

The Mascoutin reported she would take the same course the schooner was supposed to be following and thus might overtake her if she still was afloat. The position of the ship as given by the Sixaola put her about 125 miles southeast of Cape Henry.

REMUS AND ATTORNEY ARRIVE AT LIMA, OHIO

LIMA, Ohio, Jan. 6—(AP)—George Remus, former "bootleg king" and wife slayer who was committed to the Lima state hospital for the insane by the probate court of Hamilton county arrived here tonight in company with his attorney, Charles H. Elston and deputy sheriffs from Cincinnati.

Instead of going to the state hospital, however, Remus and Elston went directly to the offices of Francis W. Durbin and D. C. Anderson, Lima attorneys engaged by Remus in what promises to be a bitter fight in this county to save him from confinement in the hospital.

ADMINISTRATIVE COMMITEE OF THE ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—(AP)—An administrative committee, which will determine questions of policy, was appointed today by the Anti-Saloon league.

It consists of Bishop Thomas Nicholson, of Detroit; F. Scott McBride, and Dr. E. H. Cherrington; Bishop James Cannon, of Richmond, Virginia; James A. White, of Columbus, O.; Dr. M. P. Boynton, of Chicago, and Dr. H. D. Carre, of Nashville, Tenn.

The committee will be empowered to adjust any disputes within the organization and iron out differences between those endeavoring to carry out its policies.

OBITUARY

Marvin Hughitt, Sr.

CHICAGO, Jan. 6—(AP)—Marvin Hughitt, Sr., whose span of service to railroading in the middlewest stretched back sixty five years, died here today after a paralytic stroke yesterday. He was 90 years old.

Until yesterday the veteran had a part in the direction of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad, with whose destinies he had been connected fifty-six years, twenty eight as president.

As he sat down to breakfast in his suburban home at Lake Forest, he was stricken and died without regaining consciousness. He will be buried Monday.

Charles Frederick Daly.

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Charles Frederick Daly, 65, vice president of the Durant Motors, Inc., died at his home here today, of heart disease. A widow and daughter, Mrs. Charles D. Barnet, survive.

Mr. Daly was formerly a vice president of the New York Central railroad. He was born in Canton, Ill.

Many "Dry" Raiders Fail to Hurdle Exams

Must Soften Requirements to Meet the Calibre of Men Wanted.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Federal prohibition officials see no reason why a hard-boiled revenue raider should be an intellectual giant to properly hold his job and for this reason they have appealed to the civil service commission to soften its examination requirements under which prohibition administrators and agents must qualify in accordance with the reorganization law passed at the last session of congress.

The "flunk" have averaged high, it was said, and even five of the administrative field colonels of the dry forces have failed to meet the requirements of the commission. The fatalities for the agents have been particularly heavy in the south where they have run as high as 85 per cent.

The administrators in Savannah, Fort Worth, Los Angeles, St. Louis and San Francisco, who failed, will be given another opportunity to pass the examination, but it has not been determined whether the agents will have another try at the questions.

"The situation is terrible," one administrator complained to the Washington officials. "It is more important for an agent to be able to smash a bootleg joint than it is to spell 'idosyncrasy.'"

"We don't want to hire a questionnaire, we want to hire a man," Prohibition Commissioner Doran asserted in expressing his alarm over the situation.

With a few exceptions, he believes he has a staff of prohibition agents who will come as near as possible to enforcing the law. He hopes the civil service commission will revise the examination so that in his opinion it will more nearly bring out the fitness of the man. The commission, he added, has shown a disposition of cooperation and helpfulness and he believes the present difficulty can be adjusted.

In the meantime, the present force of administrators and agents will continue to function and the operation of the civil service law will be held in abeyance.

MAIDEN VOYAGE OF NEW GIANT AIRPLANE CARRIER

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 6—(AP)—The U. S. S. Saratoga, new giant airplane carrier of the navy, passed the Delaware Capes an dout to sea tonight on her maiden voyage, which will carry her to New England and later to Puget Sound where she will join the Pacific fleet in May.

It took a fleet of seven tugs fifty-seven minutes today to warp the 888 foot vessel from her dock at the Philadelphia navy yard and into the channel in the Delaware river. It was the first time the Saratoga, on whose flying deck the largest airplanes can land safely, had cruised entirely under her own power. The fleet of tugs convoyed her through the vast fields of floating ice to the capes in order to be of assistance in case she should ground in the river channel.

The huge ship will proceed to Hampton Roads for ammunition and bombs and then go to Newport, R. I., for torpedoes. From there she will go to the Panama canal zone where 25 pilots are expected to practice flying from her immense flying deck.

GROWTH IN BROKER'S LOANS NOT CONSIDERED A MENACE

WASHINGTON Jan. 6—(AP)—Although loans to brokers and dealers held by New York federal reserve member banks have reached the unprecedented height of $3,810,023,000, President Coolidge does not see any reason for unfavorable comment.

The loans are larger than at any time within the history of the federal reserve system and are approximately a billion dollars in excess of those reported on January 5, 1927. During the last month they increased by approximately a hundred million dollars and except for a few minor fluctuations they have increased steadily for the last eighteen months.

The president, it was said at the white house today, believes that the increase represents a natural expansion of business in the securities market and sees nothing unfavorable in it.

PARTY SAILED FOR SIGHT SEEING TRIP OF AFRICA

NEW YORK, Jan. 6—(AP)—Two men and two women bound for Cairo, Egypt, to start the first organized sight-seeing tour of Africa were aboard the liner Franconia today when she sailed on her annual world cruise. They were F. D. Soverel, of New York; Dr. C. H. Ashton, of Franklin, Pa.; Mrs. J. M. Griest, of New Haven, Conn., and Miss J. K. Miller, of London, England.

Under the guidance of Maj. C. C. Wallace, author and big game hunter, the party plans to tour Africa from Cairo to its southernmost tip, the Cape of Good Hope. The tour will cover more than 10,000 miles.

French Peace Pact Reply Disappointing

Contains an Amendment Introducing the Words "Aggressive War."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—(AP)—A proposal from Paris to amend the Kellogg anti-war declaration treaty plan by confining it to wars of aggression cast a cloud today over prospects for early signature of such a pact by France and the United States and its presentation to the other great nations of the world for adhesion.

The note of the French government was presented at the state department by Ambassador Claudel. It drew out an immediate official, though informal comment that introduction of the words aggressive war would open the door to endless debate over determination of the aggressor in any conflict. The form of the American rejoinder to this unexpected twist in the anti-war negotiations is still to be decided.

The arbitration treaty negotiations are distinct from the general anti-war declaration pact idea and also do not affect at all the existing Bryan conciliation treaty between the two countries which is to run until twelve party. The panel of conciliators nommonths after enunciation by either inated by both countries and provided for in the treaty was completely restored a few months ago when vacancies on both the French and American lists were filled.

The Kellogg anti-war treaty was designed simply to supplement and round out the fabric of peace relationships with France and other countries already existing. Should it prove impossible to arrive at a formula satisfactory to both governments for the general anti-war declaration the arbitration and conciliation treaties with France and with other countries still remain as binding commitments tending to keep the United States out of war or hostile demonstrations of force in her dealings with other great powers.

As proposed to the Paris government, the draft arbitration treaty itself would contain a preamble declaration against resort to war. It would also have narrowed the exceptions from arbitration to questions of three specific classes only; those involving domestic concerns; those affecting a third nation and those in which the Monroe doctrine played a part. Aside from that, all disputes, not otherwise disposed of, would go to arbitration, the senate to pass upon the precise form of the question to be arbitrated.

OBJECT WAS TO SAVE ENTIRE CREW OF SUB S-4

BOSTON, Jan. 6.—(AP)—To save the entire crew of 40 of the sunken submarine S-4 rather than to provide six men in the torpedo room of the vessel with a little air was the first effort of the navy salvage fleet that gathered off Provincetown on December 17, Lieut. Commander Edward Ellsberg, who acted as salvage officer in the S-4 operations for two weeks, testified today before the naval court of inquiry, investigating the disaster.

The man who retired from the navy after salvaging the S-51 off Block Island in 1926, and returned to the service to aid in S-4 rescue work, occupied the witness stand almost the entire day and presented a defense of the navy's rescue work, carried on in rough seas and icy temperatures where the S-4 went down.

Answering questions as to why the rescuers did not first attempt to send air to the men known to be alive in the forward compartment of the submarine, rather than blow out the ballast tanks, Commander Ellsberg said it was thought wiser to try to save the entire crew rather than relieve six men who were at the time apparently in good condition.

GIRL PASSING WORTHLESS CHECKS IN PHILADELPHIA

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 6—(AP)—Police of this city are endeavoring to learn the identity of an 22-year-old girl brought into court today on charges of passing worthless checks.

She said her name is Jean Harrison and refused to reveal her real name. She said Mobile, Alabama, was her home and that her father, now dead, was a prominent lawyer in the south.

The girl admitted charges of having obtained more than $700 worth of clothing on bogus checks within two months. She told Judge Davis, before whom she was arraigned in quarter sessions court, that she was led to the desire for finery by "some unknown will power."

The girl denied having been arrested in New York city and said she had been visiting friends in Boston, to which city she went directly from her home in the south, before coming here. She refused to disclose the names of the friends she told the court she had been staying with in this city.

Judge Davis deferred sentence until next Friday.

A Word About Advertising.

The products you see consistently advertised in The Bulletin are worthy of your confidence.

It takes two things to make a consistent advertiser. One is a strong conviction that he has a product that will hold its place in public favor despite competition. The other is actual proof of that . . . the increasing popularity of his product.

If his product will not stand the test of comparison he would simply be throwing his advertising investment away. If the buying public rejects his product after it has been offered in advertising he has thrown his advertising investment away.

That's why the manufacturer who advertises his merchandise consistently is very sure of his quality . . . and why you may be sure of it, too.

Read the advertisements here in The Bulletin . . . it will guide you to the buying of worthy merchandise.

LINDBERGH LIONIZED BY CONGRESS OF NICARAGUA

In Joint Session the Lone Eagle Was Presented a Diploma of "Valor" and a Medal of "Merit of Honor"—Vast Throng Cheered as President Diaz Pinned the Medal on Lindbergh's Coat—Col. Lindbergh Responded With Characteristic Modesty.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 6—(AP)—Before a distinguished audience that crowded the legislative chamber of the national palace, Colonel A. Lindbergh today received from the congress of Nicaragua, in joint session, a diploma of "valor" and a medal of "merit and honor."

Sitting to the right of President Adolfo Diaz, and facing all the members of both the senate and chamber and diplomatic and church dignitaries, Colonel Lindbergh was told by General Alfonso Estrada, chief of staff, who opened the ceremonies, that he was a "True knight of the air" and that he had "honored Nicaragua and this chamber by your presence."

Adddressing himself entirely to Colonel Lindbergh, General Estrada said: "An official decree was issued and newly signed by the president in which a national holiday was proclaimed on the day of your arrival. You have honored Nicaragua and this chamber by your presence, and we wish to present to you our admiration. To the knight of the air, as you are called throughout the world, I wish to present in behalf of the nation a diploma and a medal which will always commemorate your visit to Nicaragua."

The vast hall resounded with cheering while the Nicaraguan national band played the Star Spangled Banner and the Nicaraguan national anthem as the general concluded and President Diaz handed Lindbergh the diploma and pinned the medal on his coat.

Responding, Colonel Lindbergh said: "Mr. President and members of the congress: I want to thank you for myself and for my country for the honor which you have done me here today. I cannot express to you how deeply I appreciate this honor but I wish to say that my visit here is one of the most pleasant which I have experienced and will never be forgotten. I want to thank you for the honors you have given me and I hope in the near future there will be many more flights between the United States and Central America."

Colonel Lindbergh left the chamber on the arm of President Diaz amidst a tremendous ovation and entered the car of Dr. Dana G. Munro, American charge d'affaires who drove him to the El Tizate coffee plantation where a luncheon was served.

The present fighting in Nicaragua was passed over at the brilliant banquet President Diaz gave Lindbergh last night at the Managua club, which was attended by 250 representative leaders of the social, economic and governmental life of the nation as well as foreign diplomats.

President Diaz, who has been ill for several weeks, and attended the banquet against the orders of his doctors, was unable to deliver his address personally and the honor of reading it fell to Prime Minister Callejas who was frequently interrupted by outbursts of cheering. The address in part follows:

"It has been said that the friendships of great men is a favor granted by the gods. Heretofore I had never believed that this expression was correct because I had never before had the opportunity nor felt the satisfaction nor had I been certain of being in the presence of a great man.

"Colonel Lindbergh, all Nicaragua pays homage to you; gives you a most hearty welcome and receives you with enthusiasm and gratitude; enthusiasm because the magnitude of your feats stir the hearts of all men, and with gratitude because by your visit you are conferring on us a marked honor, a high deference and a most gentle gesture of your goodness toward us."

Tumultuous cheering followed the address and all eyes turned toward Lindbergh who arose and replied:

"Mr. President, ladies and gentlemen: First I want to thank you for this reception tonight and also to express my appreciation to you as president of Nicaragua. I have looked forward for a long time to my visit to Central America and my only regret is that I cannot stay longer in this beautiful country, however, short as my visit will be, I will never forget Nicaragua, and I shall look forward to the time when I shall be able to return and spend more time with you. I thank you."

UNCOMMON ERROR IN "MEXICAN" DOCUMENTS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—(AP)—An "unusual" mistake found in Mexican documents published in Hearst papers, described again today as forgeries, has been made by Miguel Avila, procurer of the papers, in correspondence especially written by him by request, the senate committee examining the authenticity of the documents today was informed.

Carlos Cusachs, former naval intelligence officer and at one time a Spanish professor at Harvard university and the naval academy, told the committee that of the 86 misspelled words in the Mexican documents and more than 300 punctuation errors, one particularly was "very singlar."

He said that the word "usted" had been abreviated always as "ud," followed by a comma instead of a period. Cusachs, who has assisted the committee throughout its inquiry, said he asked Avila to type some letters and this abbreviation was made by him in exactly the same manner as appeared in the documents.

Avila, the swarthy skinned son of a Mexican father and Italian mother, listened intently as Chairman Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, of the committee, inquired if that mistake was very usual.

"It is a most uncommon error," Cusachs replied.

REP. BECK FIGHTS FOR HIS SEAT IN THE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Taking advantage of his first opportunity to defend himself against charges that he was ineligible for membership in the house, Representative James M. Beck, a Pennsylvania republican, today faced a house elections committee and vigorously denied the allegation that he was not a resident of the state at the time of his election.

Beck, who is a former solicitor general of the United States, contended that a long stay in Washington had not deprived him of his Pennsylvania citizenship. Pointing to George Washington and Benjamin Franklin, he declared that although both had been called away from their homes for long periods, no one ever questioned the fact that one was a citizen of Virginia and the other of Pennsylvania.

OIL BARGE IN DISTRESS TOWED IN TO NEW BEDFORD

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Jan. 6—(AP)—An oil barge reported in distress by the S. S. Carnifax off Hen and Chicken light, was brought into this port today in tow of the naval tug Triton.

The Triton was towing the barge from the naval topdeo station at Newport, R. I., to the scene of the S-4 wreck off Provincetown when the tow line parted and the barge went adrift. After difficulty due to high wind and choppy sea, the Triton succeeded in taking the barge in tow again and put in here to await calmer weather.

The Triton planned to proceed to Provincetown with the barge tomorrow if weather permitted.

NEW TRIAL TO BE SOUGHT FOR MRS. LILLIENDAHL

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Jan. 6—(AP)—Using the testimony of Sam Bark of Baltimore, chief witness for the state in the Lillendahl murder case as a basis, a new trial will shortly be sought for Mrs. Margaret Lillendahl, now serving a sentence of ten years in state prison for the slaying of her husband, Dr. A. William Lillendahl. This announcement was made here today, by Attorney Charles M. Phillips of Hammonton, counsel for the widow. They will seek to discredit Bark's testimony

THREATENING LETTER DOES NOT INTIMIDATE SAUNDERS

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Warned in a letter today that "the most brutal crime ever committed" would result if he failed to leave $5,500 in a secluded spot, Clarence Saunders, chain store magnate, defied the perpetrators, who signed themselves "The Three Ghostmen" to attempt to carry out their threat.

Put it in the paper that I will not have any bodyguard, and if they want to take a shot at me—let them try, was the succinct challenge hurled by Saunders, who four years ago gained national prominence in his sensational Wall street battle to protect from a "bear" raid shares of the Piggly Wiggly Stores corporation, of which he was president. Instead of paying the money demanded, Saunders offered a $1,000 reward for arrest of the writers of the letter.

Police announced tonight they had uncovered clues that likely would lead to the arrest shortly of one or more of the "ghostmen," but the nature of clues was not revealed.

"This is the only notice that we will give you," read the letter, which was neatly typewritten and correctly punctuated. It then directed that the money be left under a railroad trestle, be placed there by Saunders, and be in old $100 bills. He was warned that if he notified the police, it would mean "disaster for you and your whole family." The last two paragraphs written in capital letters, reiterated the warning.

GENERAL LEJUNE TO LEAD MARINES IN NICARAGUA

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Marine reinforcements recently ordered to Nicaragua will be led to that stricken little republic by their commander-in-chief, Major General John A. Lejeune. He plans to spend two weeks sizing up the situation there.

Aroused at reports of casualties among the marines in their efforts to run to earth the outlaw general, Augustino Sandino, and at word received at the navy department today from marine officers in Nicaragua that two marine deserters were training Sandino's men, General Lejeune, himself an old campaigner, announced unexpectedly late today that he would embark on Monday for Corinto.

Under present plans, he will sail from Charleston, S. C., on the light cruiser Trenton, which will carry also a part of the reinforcement detachment. The Trenton will pass through the aPnama canal and thence to Corinto on the west coast.

CUBA PREPARING FOR THE VISIT OF COOLIDGE

HAVANA, Cuba, Jan. 6—(AP)—Already the Cuban government is preparing for the visit of President Coolidge, who is to be here for the opening of the Pan-American congress. The official program for the entertainment of the president has already been arranged. It provides for many functions from the time of the arrival of the presidential party on Sunday afternoon, January 15, until its departure the following Tuesday.

The Pan-American congress will be opened by President Machada at 10:45 Monday morning in the National theater. The Cuban president will be followed by the president of the United States, who will deliver an address.

$100,000 FIRE DAMAGE TO GARDINER, ME., HOSPITAL

GARDINER, Me., Jan. 6—(AP)—The Gardiner General hospital on Dresden avenue, near Danforth street, was burned today. The nine patients were removed on stretchers or mattresses by volunteers without injury before the fire, which started near a chimney. The loss is estimated at $100,000

$14,500,000 GOLD SHIPPED OUT OF N. Y. MARKET YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, Jan. 6—(AP)—The balance of gold held in the New York market was reduced $13,000,000 today.

Outgoing shipments totalled $14,500,000 which were partly offset by an incoming consignment of $1,500,000 from Canada.

All the gold exported was destined for South American countries. Dillon, Read & Company shipped $6,000,000 to Brazil for the account of the Brazilian government. This was the fourth shipment and brought to $39,000,000 the total forwarded by the bankers for the Brazilian government in the past six weeks.

The Seaboard National bank shipped $5,000,000 to Argentina, and the French American Banking corporation and American Exchange Irving Trust sent $250,000 each to the same country. Uruguay will receive $3,000,000 shipped by the National Bank of Commerce.

The metal imported from Canada was received by the bank of Montreal.

PREPARING FOR DRIVE ON NICARAGUAN OUTLAWS

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 6—(AP)—Men and airplanes are concentrating in the province of Nueva Segovia in preparation for the drive against General Sandino and his guerrillas. The American marines who captured Quilali last week are well supplied with food and ammunition, and the wounded in the recent fighting are being well cared for.

The present location of Sandino is not known. The nature of the country affords fine hiding places for the rebel bands, but the American planes, in their patrols, drop bombs in likely spots or wherever there is the slightest indication of the presence of the guerrillas they are seeking.

Six new pursuit planes have reached Quilali, and the main section is in excellent shape to bomb the enemy.

Most of the towns in Nueva Segovia are taken over, the reinforcements will be installed. The national guard under General E. R. Beadle is being increased, and the men wil be put through a stiff course of training.

TROUBLE IN THE COMMON COUNCIL OF COHOES, N. Y.

COHOES, N. Y., Jan. 6—(AP)—The missing half of the Cohoes common council, sought for three days to complete a quorum and make possible the election of council president, will not be chased, accordin gto the county attorney, Dennis B. Dawson. The attorney stated tonight that he, Mayor Grosso and the three remaining aldermen are content to wait for the appearance of the missing members.

The missing aldermen, two men and a woman who failed to appear at a council meeting Tuesday, are supporters of one candidate, an attitude having the backing of the democratic city leader, Michael T. Smith. Mayor Cosgro, Dawson and three domesticated aldermen, also democrats, have their interest centered in another candidate.

EXECUTED FOR SLAYING MRS. BROWN AND HER SON

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 6—(AP)—Calm and silent to the last, Floyd Hewitt, 17-year-old slayer of Mrs. Fred Brown and her five year old son of Conneaut, went to his death in the electric chair at Ohio penitentiary tonight.

Hewitt, the youngest Ohio murderer to pay the supreme penalty by electrocution was a bedraggled figure as he was led into the death chamber, his long black hair hanging low over his face.

Not a word came from him, nor did he show any sign of emotion after a first startled look when he stepped into the room.

The current was turned on at 7:41 p. m., and two minutes later he was pronounced dead.

WILL BE NEARLY 10,000 SEATS FOR REP. NATIONAL CONVENTION

KANSAS CITY, Jan. Jan. 6—(AP)—Nearly 10,000 seats will be available for spectators at the republican national convention here next June, it was estimated today when seating plans were gone over by the committee on arrangements headed by William M. Butler of Massachusetts, chairman of the republican national committee.

The committee tentatively approved with minor modifications plans drawn locally for fitting up Convention hall for the convention.

Louis Shouse, manager of the building, estimated the total seating capacity at approximately 13,000. Delegates and alternates will require about 2,200 seats, approximately 800 seats will go to distinguished guests, and arrangements will be made to seat about 600 working newspapermen.

Disposal of tickets for spectators will be in the hands of the national committeemen, several of whom expressed concern over the demands that will be made upon them. The allotments, they said, would supply only a fraction of those desiring to attend the sessions.

TWO WOMEN BURNED TO DEATH IN FIRE IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP)—Two women were burned to death, a twenty-one day old baby, another woman and two firemen were injured when flames destroyed a five-story tenement building in upper Madison avenue today.

The dead were Mrs. Victoria Correa, 30 years old, and her mother, Mrs. Saturnina Martinez, 50 years old, who lived with her daughter. Mrs. Correa's baby had suffered only slight burns on the face when it was taken from the arms of its dead mother by firemen.

Mrs. Bessie Tauber, owner of the building, in whose rooms the fire broke out as she was preparing a meal, received burns. Fireman Thomas Carroll suffered a fractured ankle in a fall when the roof collapsed, and Fireman Quinlan was cut by broken glass.

Mrs. Tauber's clothing became ignited when flames shot from the gas stove over which she was working. Her endeavor to smother the blaze with a robe caused a spread of the fire. A girl identified only as "Fannie" who was employed by Mrs. Tauber, was missing but firemen believed she left the building at the first alarm.

Property damage was estimated at $25,000.

TRAFFIC BLOCKED IN SEARCH FOR BANDITS

NEW YORK, Jan. 6—(AP)—Fifty policemen blocked traffic from three streets today while they searched for three bandits, two of them Negroes, who escaped from a detective in a running gun fight, in the vicinity of 100th street and Amsterdam avenue.

Detective Harold Moore discovered the men in the act of holding up a pawn shop, and grappled with the white man, both drawing their revolvers. The Negroes abandoned their effort at robbery and fled after beating the detective about the head.

The white man managed to escape although wounded, and he left a trail of blood through alleys and yards by which Moore and another policeman followed him for several blocks shooting as they ran. After they lost the trail neighboring precincts poured out their reserves to form a cordon around the entire neighborhood.

Search through hallways, rooms, cellars and over rooftops of buildings failed to reveal further traces of the fugitives. A woman told police she had seen a man bleeding from a wound in the head drive speedily away in a taxicab before the reserves arrived.

WILLIMANTIC FIRE LOSSES SHOW DECREASE OF $68,225.87

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Jan. 6.—A decrease of $93,225.87 is noted in losses through fire during the fiscal year 1927, as compared to the 1926 figure, in the annual report issued by Fire Chief Henry J. Kelley. The gutting of the Wood block on Union street entailed a loss of $23,806.45 in building and contents, leaving the small total of $7,763.80 for minor blazes, the most serious of which was the destruction of the frame dwelling and store of Frank Armos, on Jackson street, a loss of less than $3,000. The total for the fiscal year ending October 31, was $21,570.25, while in 1926 it was $124,796.15, this including the Windham National Bank fire which occurred in the early morning hours of December 14, 1926. The year 1925 was unusually low, with a total of $13,849. In 1924 the total loss was $54,080.96, while in 1923 it was $42,106.39, showing a material decrease in fire loss for the past year.

Much of the credit for Willimantic's fire loss decrease is given to the reorganization of the fire department and an extensive program of fire prevention conducted under the supervision of Fire Chief Kelley. This has been accomplished through various approved methods, including building inspections, warnings against hazards, publicity and advice to school children.

The excellent apparatus and the general efficiency of the fire department have also contributed to no small extent to keeping down the fire loss. The department operates under two platoons of five men each and is centralized at the Bank street engine house. The officers are Fire Chief Kelley, assistant to the chief, Michael J. English and Lieutenant Charles A. Reynolds. Including the chief there are 11 regular men and 40 call members. The department is one of the most completely equipped of any city of like population in New England. Three new pieces were added during 1927, including a Mack pumper of 1000 gallon capacity, a Mack aerial ladder truck and a Ruggles hose and chemical truck. In addition there is a new Reo hose and chemical truck and a LaFrance pumper, a hose and chemical combination which is in good condition despite nearly 11 years of service. Extensive repairs were also made on the engine house for the accommodation of the new pieces and the comfort of the men. Two additional members were also added to the department as regulars. Over $30,000 was expended for these improvements during the year.

Engine company, No. 1, was called out this morning for the first time in 1928. The prolonged silence of the alarm was broken by a call to a brush fire on land owned by Dr. George Wilcox on West Main street. The Forester pump was used and the blaze extinguished without damage. It is thought that sparks from a passing train started the fire.

The funeral services for Louis Levesque were held from the home of his daughter, Mrs. Joseph F. Arrangements were in charge of the Hurteau-Bosse corporation.

Charles Brown, owner of the Eaton farm in Mansfield is telling his friends of a thrilling and chilling experience which he had a few days ago. He was standing on top of a runway of one of the ice houses at Eaton pond and was occupied adjusting a section of the chain that propels cakes of ice into the sheds. Suddenly he lost his balance and sliding down the runway, a distance of 40 feet, he landed into the water. The ice had been broken open at this point and Brown was fortunate in escaping an ice trap. Two men working about the sheds saw Brown's slide into the pond and hurried to the rescue. Brown was pulled out and rushed into his home for a change of clothing. He suffers no ill effects from his cold plunge.

WESTERLY

MANAGER UNITED THEATRE FAILS TO APPEAR IN COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Jan. 6.—When Judge Oliver H. Williams held the Friday session of the third district court four criminal cases were heard, one for possession of intoxicating liquors and three violations of automobile laws, two on state laws and one town ordinance. The session was interrupted by Judge Williams hearing in chambers a school superintendent, on a violation of school laws complaint. A civil case took the noon hour.

John Finlay, manager of the United theatre, who was given a summons shortly after midnight last Saturday at the Sunday morning New Year's performance by Westerly Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown for his appearance on Friday morning in Third district court, did not appear in court. It is apparent that no warrant has been issued to follow up the summons for alleged violation of the state law in running entertainments and theatres on Sundays without a license.

William Sorensen, of North Stonington, was charged with the reckless operation of an automobile Nov. 11th on Oak street when 7 year old John Dirico was struck and injured to the extent that he required hospital treatment. The Dirico boy was in court but excused from the witness stand when Judge Williams decided that he was too young to be heard. The defendant took the stand and claimed that the boy was running down the middle of the street with his head down and as he veered off the road the boy came into the auto which was proceeding up the hill at the time.

Other witnesses for the defendants were occupants of the auto, Otis Chapman of the Westerly- Norwich road, who stated that the auto was not proceeding rapidly for he, an occupant of the back seat of the Tudor Essex had many times traveled much faster. Jack Charles Sylvia, also a North Stonington resident, was on the front seat and told of the boy coming down Oak street hill. Judge Williams declared that all the pleas disagreed, the judge saying "I don't agree with the state and can't with the defense. The evidence shows that the auto gathered speed at the foot of the hill and that the cause of so many auto accidents was shown in this case where the driver failed to put on brake". Sorenson was fined $100. Notice of appeal was given.

Trial of the civil case, Granite St. Garage vs. Joseph Lupinazzo, to collect a bill for $194.91 for automobile repairs and supplies concluded the session. Judge Williams stated that he would hold the matter for consideration.

Other court business was disposed of as follows:

Criminal docket, State, Thomas E. Brown, chief of police of Westerly vs. William Darlington. Darlington, 24, appeared in court for a violation of town ordinance in failure to turn his auto to the right of a traffic beacon, at the intersection of High and Oak streets, Dec. 3d. Judge Williams fined him $2 and costs.

State vs. Natale Gabrielle, a complaint of keeping for sale or having in his possession at his store on Pierce street, intoxicating liquors with more than one-half of one per cent. alcoholic contents ot be used for beverage purposes. Gabrielle said he had 10 gallons of wine in his cellar for his own use. Later he pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $100 and costs.

State, Corp. James E. Norman, department of R. I. State police vs. Clary V. Palmer, member of Green Hill coast guard station, was an alleged violation of state auto laws. Defendant was charged with having an unlicensed auto belonging to him operated without registration.

Judge Williams declared that the accused had an excellent record at the station where he had visited and was disposed to give no sentence and no fine and would continue the case for three months.

State, Thomas E. Brown vs. William Sorensen. Ready.

Civil Docket, Cornelius H. Conway vs. Thomas Fuell. Judge Williams gave judgment for the plaintiff to recover $179.83 and costs of suit. John Murano vs. Clifford Brown. Continued one week. Luippoid Mineral Water Co. vs. Beppo Boumenot. Counsel agreed to two weeks' continuance. Gavitt Furniture company vs. Agnes C. Fraser and Arthur E. Fraser. Continued two weeks. Leroy Sherman vs. A. H. Shepard. Proof of claim in two weeks. Clifton H. Hall vs. John H. McCarthy. Ready. The Keller-Kohn Co. vs. Katherine P. Scott. Continued two weeks. John T. Edmonds Co. vs. Orrin L. Underwood. Defaulted and passed for proof of claim.

At a special meeting of Westerly town council held Thursday it was voted to grant a building license for the property of Abraham Leibovitz with assurance to be given by Contractor Charles Sherman to Building Inspector Thomas Wills that the safety of the structure will be given ample consideration.

Patsy Gabriel, 25, died Thursday at his home on Granite avenue after a short illness. He was born here, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gabriel. About two years ago, he was united in marriage with Miss Virginia Capalbo. He had been employed as a truck driver by the Smith Granite Co. Besides his wife, he is survived by his father John Fabriel, and four sisters, Misses Mollie, Julia, Rose and Jennie Gabriel, all of Westerly.

Mrs. Madeline Craddock Joyce, wife of Lewis Joyce, died Thursday at her home in Bronxville, N. Y. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah D. Craddock, and lived here with her parents for a number of years on Liberty street. She left Westerly about 20 years ago to make her home with her parents in Bridgeport, Conn. Since her marriage, she has resided in New York.

Thompson's Corners Community club held its January business meeting Thursday evening. The various committees for the past year gave their reports. The officers for the new year are: President, Ernest Saunders; vice president, William Clarke; secretary, Mrs. Israel Chapman; treasurer, Leon York; publicity committee, Mrs. Martin Stapleton; floral committee, Mrs. Edmund York; executive committee, Hampton Carr.

The American Legion post held its meeting Thursday evening when 10 members attended. They had their new legion caps of blue with gold. Adjutant Neil Morrison read the minutes of their last meeting, then Commander E. Francke read a short message to open the meeting. Commander M. Peck, of Lyme post was the honor guest. He gave a talk about the good of the legion and wants to enroll more members, so a membership drive is on to make the membership over 150. Chairman L. L. Smith, of the basketball game for the benefit of the post announced in two weeks the game with Battery E, team of Westerly and then dancing, so it will mean a big night for Legionnaires in the fishing village. Committee reports were read and then the meeting closed as Chaplain Dobson read the prayer. Ex-Army Cook Wilfred Lamphere gave his buddies pressed ham sandwiches with Camp Devens coffee also cream puffs. A play was put on "Waiting for a Morning Train at Centerville Railroad Station." It was in two acts. The Flying Cloud express is two hours late with Mayor Mike Jackson (Stretch Duhem) on the train. The station master, Jake Allen (M. Peck) called fatty by his friends; engineer, George Tyler, (Arthur Berry); fireman, Dave Lambert (Ted Anderson); Miss Nina Saunders (Miss Hannah Dowd) from St. Louis, cousin of Arthur Berry, Edward Steward (Eddie Morgan), calling the trains at the station. In the second act it is train-time on Saturday afternoon, with everybody going over to Cloverdale to see the annual football game between Centerville and that town. The station is crowded. One little fellow asked ticket agent what time the train comes and what track was it on and got the station master mad and he turned the hose on them so they called "Fire!" This got the fire company out. But Mayor Jackson did not miss.

Farmer Kenneth Steele on his farm Bright Eyes, Thursday afternoon went into the pen and picked out the largest hog there. Rollin Rathbun who knows how to use a knife, found it a hard animal to put to dreamland, but with the aid of the farm help soon the hog was no more. After Expert Rathbun got it all shaved and bucketed the hog weighed 497 pounds. This is the largest one butchered in the village this season.

The Baptist church is being rewired. The work is about finished by a local contractor and force of men.

WILLIMANTIC FIRE LOSSES SHOW DECREASE OF $93,225.87

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Jan. 6.—A decrease of $93,225.87 is noted in losses through fire during the fiscal year 1927, as compared to the 1926 figure, in the annual report issued by Fire Chief Henry J. Kelley. The gutting of the Wood block on Union street entailed a loss of $23,806.48 in building and contents, leaving the small total of $7,763.80 for minor blazes, the most serious of which was the destruction of the frame dwelling and store of Frank Armos, on Jackson street, a loss of less than $3,000. The total for the fiscal year ending October 31, was $31,570.25, while in 1926 it was $124,796.12, this including the Windham National Bank fire which occurred in the early morning hours of December 14, 1925. The year 1925 was unusually low, with a total of $18,549. In 1924 the total loss was $54,090.96, while in 1923 it was $42,106.39, showing a material decrease in fire loss for the past year.

Much of the credit for Willimantic's fire loss decrease is given to the reorganization of the fire department and an extensive program of fire prevention conducted under the supervision of Fire Chief Kelley. This has been accomplished through various approved methods, including building inspections, warnings against hazards, publicity and advice to school children.

The excellent apparatus and the general efficiency of the fire department here also contributed to no small extent to keeping down the fire loss. The department operates under two platoons of five men each and is centralized at the Bank street engine house. The officers are Fire Chief Kelley, assistant to the chief, Michael J. English and Lieutenant Charles A. Reynolds. Including the chief there are 11 regular men and 40 call members. The department is one of the most completely equipped of any city of like population in New England. Three new pieces were added during 1927, including a Mack pumper of 1000 gallon capacity, a Mack aerial ladder truck and a Ruggles hose and chemical truck. In addition there is a new Reo hose and chemical truck and a LaFrance pumper, a hose and chemical combination which is in good condition despite nearly 11 years of service. Extensive repairs were also made on the engine house for the accommodation of the new pieces and the comfort of the men. Two additional members were also added to the department as regulars. Over $30,000 was expended for these improvements during the year.

Engine company, No. 1, was called out this morning for the first time in 1928. The prolonged silence of the alarm was broken by a call to a brush fire on land owned by Dr. George Wilcox on West Main street. The forester pump was used and the blaze extinguished without damage. It is thought that sparks from a passing train started the fire.

The funeral services for Louis Levesque were held from the home of his daughter, Mrs. Joseph F. Paulhus, of 23 Brown avenue, this morning with a high mass of requiem in St. Mary's church at nine o'clock. Rev. H. C. Belec officiated. Special singing was rendered by the choir with Mrs. Joseph F. Gaudreau at the organ. The bearers were Dieudonne Riquier, William Fiche and Arthur Bertrand, representing the St. Jean Baptiste society, and Alphonse Gelinas, Sr., John F. Hally and William Shea, of San Jose council, No. 14, Knights of Columbus. Burial was in the family plot at St. Joseph's cemetery where a committal service was conducted by Rev. Father Belec. Arrangements were in charge of the Hurteau-Bosse corporation.

Charles Brown, owner of the Eaton farm in Mansfield is telling his friends of a thrilling and chilling experience which he had a few days ago. He was standing on top of a runway of one of the ice houses at Eaton pond and was occupied adjusting a section of the chain that propels cakes of ice into the sheds. Suddenly he lost his balance and sliding down the runway, a distance of 40 feet, he landed into the water. The ice had been broken open at this point and Brown was fortunate in escaping an ice trap. Two men working about the sheds saw Brown's slide into the pond and hurried to the rescue. Brown was pulled out and rushed into his home for a change of clothing. He suffers no ill effects from his cold plunge.

WESTERLY

MANAGER UNITED THEATRE FAILS TO APPEAR IN COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Jan. 6.—When Judge Oliver H. Williams held the Friday session of the third district court four criminal cases were heard, one for possession of intoxicating liquors and three violations of automobile laws, two on state laws and one town ordinance. The session was interrupted by Judge Williams hearing in chambers a school superintendent, on a violation of school laws complaint. A civil case took the noon hour.

John Finlay, manager of the United theatre, who was given a summons shortly after midnight last Saturday at the Sunday morning New Year's performance by Westerly Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown for his appearance on Friday morning in Third district court, did not appear in court. It is apparent that no warrant has been issued to follow up the summons for alleged violation of the state law in running entertainments and theatres on Sundays without a license.

William Sorensen, of North Stonington, was charged with the reckless operation of an automobile Nov. 11th on Oak street when 7 year old John Dirico was struck and injured to the extent that he required hospital treatment. The Dirico boy was in court but excused from the witness stand when Judge Williams decided that he was too young to be heard. The defendant took the stand and claimed that the boy was running down the middle of the street with his head down and as he veered off the road the boy came into the auto which was proceeding up the hill at the time.

Other witnesses for the defendants were occupants of the auto, Otis Chapman of the Westerly- Norwich road, who stated that the auto was not proceeding rapidly for he, an occupant of the back seat of the Tudor Essex had many times traveled much faster, Jack Charles Sylvia, also a North Stonington resident, was on the front seat and told of the boy coming down Oak street hill. Judge Williams declared that all the pleas disagreed, the judge saying "I don't agree with the state and can't with the defense. The evidence shows that the auto gathered speed at the foot of the hill and that the cause of so many auto accidents was shown in this case where the driver failed to put on brake". Sorenson was fined $100. Notice of appeal was given.

Trial of the civil case, Granite St. Garage vs. Joseph Lupinazzo, to collect a bill for $194.91 for automobile repairs and supplies concluded the session. Judge Williams stated that he would hold the matter for consideration.

Other court business was disposed of as follows:

Criminal docket, State, Thomas E. Brown, chief of police of Westerly vs. William Darlington. Darlington, 24, appeared in court for a violation of town ordinance in failure to turn his auto to the right of a traffic beacon, at the intersection of High and Oak streets, Dec. 3d. Judge Williams fined him $2 and costs.

State vs. Natale Gabrielle, a complaint of keeping for sale or having in his possession at his store on Pierce street, intoxicating liquors with more than one-half of one per cent. alcoholic contents ot be used for beverage purposes. Gabrielle said he had 10 gallons of wine in his cellar for his own use. Later he pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $100 and costs.

State, Corp. James E. Norman, department of R. I. State police vs. Clary V. Palmer, member of Green Hill coast guard station, was an alleged violation of state auto laws. Defendant was charged with having an unlicensed auto belonging to him operated without registration.

Judge Williams declared that the accused had an excellent record at the station where he had visited and was disposed to give no sentence and no fine and would continue the case for three months.

State, Thomas E. Brown vs. William Sorensen. Ready.

Civil Docket, Cornelius H. Conway vs. Thomas Fuell. Judge Williams gave judgment for the plaintiff to recover $179.33 and costs of suit. John Murano vs. Clifford Brown. Continued one week. Lulippold Mineral Water Co. vs. Beppo Boumenot. Counsel agreed to two weeks' continuance. Gavitt Furniture company vs. Agnes C. Fraser and Arthur E. Fraser. Continued two weeks. Leroy Sherman vs. A. H. Shepard. Proof of claim in two weeks. Clifton H. Hall vs. John H. McCarthy. Ready. The Keller-Kohn Co. vs. Katherine P. Scott. Continued two weeks. John T. Edmonds Co. vs. Orrin L. Underwood. Defaulted and passed for proof of claim.

At a special meeting of Westerly town council held Thursday it was voted to grant a building license for the property of Abraham Leibovitz with assurance to be given by Contractor Charles Sherman to Building Inspector Thomas Willis that the safety of the structure will be given ample consideration.

Patsy Gabriel, 25, died Thursday at his home on Granite avenue after a short illness. He was born here, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gabriel. About two years ago, he was united in marriage with Miss Virginia Capalbo. He had been employed as a truck driver by the Smith Granite Co. Besides his wife, he is survived by his father John Fabriel, and four sisters, Misses Mollie, Julia, Rose and Jennie Gabriel, all of Westerly.

Mrs. Madeline Craddock Joyce, wife of Lewis Joyce, died Thursday at her home in Bronxville, N. Y. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah D. Craddock, and lived here with her parents for a number of years on Liberty street. She left Westerly about 20 years ago to make her home with her parents in Bridgeport, Conn. Since her marriage, she has resided in New York.

Thompson's Corners Community club held its January business meeting Thursday evening. The various committees for the past year gave their reports. The officers for the new year are: President, Ernest Saunders; vice president, William Clarke; secretary, Mrs. Israel Chapman; treasurer, Leon York; publicity committee, Mrs. Martin Stapleton; floral committee, Mrs. Edmund York; executive committee, Hampton Carr.

Westerly Historical society, Everett E. Whipple, president, held its January meeting Thursday evening in the high school auditorium and witnessed two historical motion picture films, "Jamestown" and "Peter Stuyvesant." A preliminary talk on the historical background of the two photoplays was given by Miss Elizabeth Ring, teacher of American history in the high school. Mrs. Edward B. Coy played the piano accompaniment for the pictures.

Westerly Central Labor union held semi-annual meeting Thursday night in Granite Cutters' hall. The officers elected are president, William Mudge (re-elected); vice president, Michael Connors; secretary, Joseph A. Sisco, (re-elected); treasurer, John Ahern, (re-elected); legislative committee, William Mudge, Joseph A. Sisco and Joseph Gervasini. The election was followed by a smoker and lunch.

The annual installation of Little Rhody council, No. 30, Sons and Daughters of Liberty was held the past week in Caledonian hall. Deputy State Councilor Ella Doe and suite installed the officers as follows: Councilor, Ethel I. Laing; associate councilor, Gladys Maine; vice councilor, Doris Ornberg; associate vice councilor, Beatrice Cocni; recording secretary, Clayton Tate; associate recording secretary, Ethel Tate; financial secretary, Lillian Brayman; treasurer, George Brayman; junior ex-councilor, Raymond Brayman; junior ex-associate councilor, Edna Tate; guide, Gladys Lawton; inside guard, Kennedy McShane; musician, Thomas Fiddler; press correspondent, Gladys Lawton; trustee, Thomas Fiddler. The following committees were appointed: Social, Ethel Tate, Clayton Tate, Marian Brayman, Raymond Brayman; relief, Edna Tate; hall, George Brayman; cupboard, Lillian Brayman.

The following transfer has been recorded in the office of the Westerly town clerk: Jan. 4. Henry B. Nevins of Westchester, N. Y., et al to Frederick O. Lanphear and George B. Langworthy, land on the east side of Main street, north of Property of Orville George Barber.

Philip W. Cottrell, son of Arthur M. Cottrell, returned Friday to resume his studies at Fessender school, West Newton, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dilks and daughter, Elaine, after visiting for a week with Mrs. Dilks' father, Rev. Clayton A. Burdick, motored back Friday to their home in Swedesboro, N. J.

SKIPPER OF SCHOONER "BABY" MAKES PRIZE PACKAGE CATCH

Boat Baby, with Capt. R. Brocky at the wheel and Mate A. Brocky holding the lines and running the engine, went over to Block Island early Thursday morning after flatfish. They had good luck and in the net got a large mollet. That night the boat tied up at packing house dock to ship ten barrels of fish to Fulton market. Capt. R. Brocky got the queer fish out to clean it for his supper and on opening it up, he found a black duck. That happens only once in a great while. So he got a duck and a fish for his supper.

Robert Anderson has returned to New Haven Law school, after two weeks' vacation.

Capt. John Jensen of New York spent a day in the village this week.

The Silver Links society held its meeting at the home of Mrs. Charles Butson recently, a large number of members attending. An hour was spent in sewing. Plans were made to give a playlet, "The Church Choir," were talked over. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Mrs. Roscoe Bacciocchi who is ill at her home on Church street, is under the care of a nurse.

Miss Nellie Crawford of Buffalo, N. Y., is visiting for a week with relatives in the village.

Noank Crescents basketball team will play the fast Leather Pushers team from New London on their first visit to the village this week, where the battle will take place. The fighting Crescents have not hit their stride yet, but will give a good account of themselves. Coach Billie Crane put his team through some hard practice Thursday night. A black-board talk was given. Capt. Lefty Patterson said a new player will be seen in the next game a fast guard, hailing from Vermont, claiming he can hold down any forward to two baskets.

The American Legion post held its meeting Thursday evening when 10 members attended. They had their new legion caps of blue with gold. Adjutant Neil Morrison read the minutes of their last meeting, then Commander E. Francke read a short message to open the meeting. Commander M. Peck, of Lyme post was the honor guest. He gave a talk about the good of the legion and wants to enroll more members, so a membership drive is on to make the membership over 150. Chairman L. L. Smith, of the basketball game for the benefit of the post announced in two weeks the game with Battery E, team of Westerly and then dancing, so it will mean a big night for Legionnaires in the fishing village. Committee reports were read and then the meeting closed as Chaplain Dobson read the prayer. Ex-Army Cook Wilfred Lamphere gave his buddies pressed ham sandwiches with Camp Devens coffee also cream puffs. A play was put on "Waiting for a Morning Train at Centerville Railroad Station." It was in two acts. The Flying Chief express is two hours late with Major Miles Jackson (Stretch Dobson) on the train. The station master, Jake Allen (M. Peck) called fatty by his friends; engineer, George Tyler, (Arthur Berry); fireman, Dave Lambert (Ted Anderson); Miss Nina Saunders (Miss Hannah Dowd) from St. Louis, cousin of Arthur Berry. Edward Steward (Eddie Morgan), calling the trains at the station. In the second act it is train time on Saturday afternoon, with everybody going over to Cheverdale to see the annual football game between Centerville and that town. The station is crowded. One little fellow asked ticket agent what time the train comes and what track was it on and got the station master mad and he turned the hose on them so they called "Fire!" This got the fire company out. But Mayor Jackson did not miss.

Farmer Kenneth Steele on his farm, Bright Eyes, Thursday afternoon went into the pen and picked out the largest hog there. Rollin Rathbun who knows how to use a knife, found it a hard animal to put to dreamland, but with the aid of the farm help seen the hog was no more. After Expert Rathbun got it all shaved and bucketed the hog weighed 497 pounds. This is the largest one butchered in the village this season.

The Baptist church is being rewired. The work is about finished by a local contractor and force of men.

DANIELSON

ARTICLE IN TEXTILE BOOK AROUSES LOCAL INTEREST

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Jan. 6—There has been passed on for consideration in this column an article entitled "Disillusioned?" that appears in the current issue of a textile periodical. The gist of it should serve to encourage those who see New England's textile business wholly eradicated by southern competition.

It says in part: "New England manufacturers who got the impression that the industrial elysium was located in the south and therefore established textile plants there, not only to escape northern rigors, but to enjoy uninterrupted production on a dividend-paying basis are not confessing disillusionment.However, what would seem to be more to the point is that they are experiencing it."

That is a statement that will come as a surprise to thousands of workers in New England mills who have accepted with great faith the belief that every mill in the south is running full tilt and making worth-while dividends. It just isn't so.

Supporting this statement, one quotes further from the article mentioned:

"We do not know how the impression came to be created that, no matter how slack might be the demand for the output of the mills in the north, there could be no interruption of profitable manufacturing in North Carolina or elsewhere in the south. Such a condition would not be paradoxical or improbable exactly, since wage schedules and working conditions in that section resemble closely those in Europe from the evil fruits of which we are protected by the tariff. Climate, intelligence and skill are protective factors in part on this continent."

"To justify the belief that while our northern communities suffer from business stagnation, the water that feeds southern engines is gold-laden, calls for evidence more convincing than is at hand. The dispensations of providence are not extended indiscriminately to the field of long hours, wages that do not allow of the northern standard of living and low taxation appeared from a statement printed the other day and reading as follows: 'Southern mills are also curtailing, it is said. All print cloth mills below the Mason and Dixon line, and 30 per cent of the narrow sheeting mills of the south have curtailed 20 per cent.'

"It was but a short time earlier that it was stated that machinery was running day and night. The credulity that would accept such a report could be brought to believe anything."

Thus one finds that the south is having its textile troubles as well as the north. There is not much nourishment in that for anyone, but it does point to a state of affairs wholly different from the opinion a great many mill operatives in New England have gained.

A death yesterday at the home in Moosup was that of Raymond Norbert Savole, 73, a native of Canada. Mr. Savole had been a resident of Moosup for years. He leaves two sons, Joseph and Oliver, and two daughters, Mrs. John LaRose and Mrs. Henry Desmarais, all of Moosup.

Announcement has been made of the marriage, at the home of the groom in Sandwich, Mass., on Friday of last week, of Miss Delia Pease, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Pease of Moosup, and Carl Leroy Sears of Sandwich, Mass., Mr. Sears being principal of the school at Goodyear.

At a session of the town court this afternoon Judge W. Fenned Woodward fined Edgar Reynolds, a resident in the Horse Hill district of the town, 1.00 and actual costs, a total of $8.27, on a breach of the peace charge preferred against Reynolds by one of his neighbors, Martin Rzezniklewicz. It appears that the difficulty between the men arose over the adequacy of a conveyance Reynolds uses in conveying children from the district to a school they attend.

No information having been received here or at Brooklyn up to late this afternoon pertaining to any plans to bring the body of Dr. Flavel S. Luther from Pasadena to be buried beside the bodies of his parents in Old Trinity cemetery, the presumption was growing that burial of the president emeritus of Trinity college would be in California.

Further search today of woodland country in which he disappeared last Saturday revealed no trace of Phineas G. Aldrich of North Main street. The theory that his having met with an accident was responsible for his not returning home has been largely abandoned in favor of one that he has made his way out of the territory, for some unknown reason.

Industrially, Killingly is getting away to a flying start in 1928. With a number of mills running on full time, there are also additional plants that are running both day and night, a matter that is very encouraging not only to the large number of workers personally interested, but also to those who are in trade.

Poultrymen in this and surrounding towns are shaping thing sup to beat all previous records of hatching in the weeks that are just ahead. It is stated by men in the business that it is not unlikely that at least 250,000 chicks will be brought up in Windham county the coming spring and summer. Thousands of these will be hatched in the county, while many thousands of others will be bought and ordered shipped in here. Last year upwards of 187,000 chicks were registered with the Farmers' association, but that record, it is said, will be far surpassed this year.

A wail arises from dealers that have rubber footwear to sell. It has been to late one of the worst fall and winter seasons in memory in these lines. With a record of less than 4 inches of snow to date, the late fall and winter season has dealt a hard blow to efforts to sell waterproof footwear. Likewise, lack of snow has hurt the sale of sleds, skis and other such things associated with the activities of a period when there usually is plenty of snow.

A Raw, Sore Throat

eases quickly when you apply a little Musterole. It penetrates to the sore spot with a gentle tingle, loosens the congestion and draws out the soreness and pain and won't blister like the old-fashioned mustard plaster.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment made with oil of mustard. Brings quick relief from sore throat, bronchitis, tonsilitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet colds on the chest.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

PUTNAM

CITIZENS' COMMITTEE URGE BUILDING OF LARGER TANK

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Jan. 6.—The communication presented to the new city council by the citizen's committee recommending a 3,000,000 gallon concrete water reservoir on Richmond Hill instead of the originally planned 2,000,000 reservoir, is causing a great deal of discussion. The communication to the council reads as follows:

The Citizens' committee have carefully considered the several plans submitted by the three firms of engineers for improving the water system of the city of Putnam, and our conclusions are as follows:

That a cement reservoir large enough to hold three million gallons of water be constructed on Richmond Hill, with pipes laid large enough to give the needed fire protection throughout the city. We believe a reservoir of this capacity can be constructed as cheap as a $1,500,000 gallon reservoir on Richmond Hill with a tank of 500,000 gallons capacity on Bates Hill, with a total storage capacity of two million gallons for the following reasons: The city owns the land on Richmond Hill, which has a land elevation of 340 feet, which will give the needed water pressure for fire protection; the same size pipes and controls will be used for a three million gallon reservoir as a smaller one, and the difference in cost between a 1,500,000 and a 3,000,000 gallon reservoir will, we believe, more than be used in buying land, rights of way, excavating and laying pipe, pipe controls and tank on Bates Hill. The land elevation on Bates Hill is but 295 feet, 45 feet lower than Richmond Hill, and if a tank was built seventy feet high there would be only 25 feet of the tank above the land level on Richmond Hill. In order to have the required water pressure for fire protection to property on high land it is necessary for the city to use the high elevation, which happens to be Richmond Hill.

The present tank on Oak Hill can be kept filled with water and used in case of an emergency.

Two million gallons storage capacity is the minimum amount recommended for a city of this size, and we fell that a reservoir should be built large enough to allow for a reasonable increase in population. We therefore recommend and urge that the first work done be to construct a three million gallon capacity cement reservoir on Richmond Hill with pipes of sufficient size to give the needed fire protection, and suggest that the citizens' petition be taken from the table and favorable action taken thereon.

Respectfully submitted, S. Nikoloff, Byron D. Hughes, William Piche, Irving H. Miron, Ray C. Bosworth, executive committee.

The Windham county Y. M. C. A. skating carnival to be held Saturday at Putnam, Perry's pond of Meadow lore as though it will be successful from the stand-point of having ice to skate on. The time of entering has been advanced to Friday, January 6, 1928. All entry blanks should be sent in at once to L. Edwin Hill, County Y. M. C. A. secretary, 205 South Main street, Putnam, Conn. Further information will be gladly given at the above address.

The final date for the P. T. A. D. A. R., Y. M. C. A. minstrels, which is to be held at Putnam, has been set for February 13, 1928. The minstrel will be held at the Bradley theatre the same as last year. The executive committee consists of Ralph Jenkins, chairman, Mrs. William Wheaton, Mrs. J. Dyer Potter, William Wheaton, John Dean and Mr. L. Edwin Hill.

Applications for Camp Woodstock are coming in. As Windham county can only accept a limited number of boys, it is obvious that those who get their application in first will be given preference as to a place in the camp this coming season. Mrs. Beatrice Wilbur will again have charge of the girls' camp and L. Edwin Hill will be director for the entire camping season.

Word has been received here of the recent death of James J. Egan at his home at Dover, N. H. He was 59 years of age and was born in Thompson, the son of Joseph and Mary McGuire Egan. His father was for many years the boss finisher at the old Mechanicsville mill. Me Egan left Putnam a number of years ago. He was an artesian well driller and during the war served at the Portsmouth navy yard. He is survived by his wife, a brother, William Egan, of Wauregan, and several neices and nephews. The late Miss Nellie Egan, who conducted a millinery shop on Main street for many years, was a sister.

The January meeting of the Putnam Parent-Teachers' association will be held at the auditorium of the Putnam High school on Tuesday, January 10th. There is to be a musical program in charge of Kenneth Sharpe.

Mrs. Mary B. Bishop is in Hartford today attending the State D. A. R. chapter regents and chapter treasurers' meeting which is being held at the Center Parish house today. The meeting was called to order at 11 o'clock in the morning with a recess for luncheon and the session resumed in the afternoon. Mrs. Bishop is State Registrar of the D. A. R.

Fred Briere, ex-service man, who was badly injured here several months ago when an automobile tire which he was mounting exploded and caused a compound fracture of the leg, has returned from a hospital in Hartford. He has sufficiently recovered as to be able to walk with the help of a cane.

Walter Dadnaiz and Mike Olejoon, both residents of Putnam, and employed at the Grosvenordale Mills, were before the Thompson court yesterday, charged with the theft of some cotton from the company's mills. Dadnaiz was found guilty and was sentenced to pay a fine of $10 and costs and to serve ten days in Brooklyn jail. Olejoon was found not guilty. Thomas Jovina, of Thompson, was also before Judge Tourtelotte, charged with violation of the liquor laws in selling and keeping with intent to sell. He entered a plea of guilty on one count, but was found guilty on both counts and was fined $250 and costs of $28.54.

The monthly meeting of the surgical and medical staff of the Day Kimball hospital was held this week in the dining room of the hospital with twelve doctors in attendance, three of whom were from Willimantic as guests. The visitors were Doctors Kenny, O'Neil and Oppenheimer Dr Kenney gave a very interesting talk on X-ray work and showed many interesting pictures. Miss Bloxham provided a supper for them.

An unknown man was seen in the Israel Putnam school building Wednesday night. An alarm was given but the man escaped without being recognized. Nearly every room in the building was invited and many things were found in disorder but little was missing, except some food.

PLAINFIELD

Funeral services for Samuel Baldwin, N. J., well known in textile manufacturing circles for forty years were held at the First Congregational church, Plainfield Wednesday at 2.30 o'clock. Pastor William C. Prentice of the church conducted the services. Burial was in Evergreen cemetery in Central Village. The bearers were Thomas Webster, William Baldwin, Lorenza Krauss, Bernard Krauss, Lee Hess and Adam Schmidt.

The funeral was very largely attended and beautiful flowers gave evidence of the sympathy of a host of friends.

A holiday party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Piche, Young people attending from Norwich, Taftville, Danielson, Jewett City, Moosup, Central Village, Wauregan, and Plainfield. Mr. Bouley entertained with the accordion and Mr. LaCourse from Woonsocket gave banjo selections. Lionel Cauchon sang several songs. BRIAND'S PLAN

Communications have been exchanged between this country and France, concerning an agreement that would outlaw war by establishing a perpetual friendship between the nations. The idea was advanced by Foreign Minister Briand of France creating considerable comment at the time and apparently more study of the situation since. This resulted in bringing attention to the fact that there already exists between the countries treaties which are intended to accomplish almost the same thing by the arbitration of disputes. But it was nevertheless agreeable to this country to consider the possibilities of the plan and in so doing it recognized the desirability of making it more inclusive and broadening its effect by having other nations participate.

This was proposed to France. The idea of having the principal powers adhere to such a declaration that would outlaw war was put forth in the belief that any such move should not be restricted solely to two countries.

The first reaction of France to this was somewhat of a surprise for it revealed that there was a disposition to abandon the idea for it was pointed out by the French foreign office that inasmuch as there exists the present treaties between the two countries the ground covered by the Briand proposal had already been protected. Furthermore reference has been made to the fear of overlapping on the league of nations.

The upshot of all this was to create uneasiness in France. France stood to the proposal but it hoped to accomplish why it should not be all summed up with other countries for the benefit of all nations in such an arrangement. The discussion had been carried on in France but not taken kindly to the fact that this country belonged and improvement could be made upon the proposed suggestion. The action discovers to France that the necessary groundwork for continued peace between the two countries already exists, more one wonders why any other more was needed. The situation is relieved somewhat by Briand's statement that the French government looks with great favor on the American proposition. See for next note.

OUR BOOMERANG

It is always easy to go ahead and do something without thinking of the consequences, but it is not so easy to undo it when the undesirability of what was done, or the results it produced, is recognized and its eradication sought.

Some time ago the idea was conceived of placing a fee of $10 on the act of giving approval to the passports of aliens. Congress made it a law. It of course served as an invitation to other nations to go and do likewise, and it can be assured that the other countries were not slow or backward in following the example. The idea of it for us couldn't be complained of. They were doing only what we had done. It was a plan which we suggested.

However good the idea may have seemed, it did not work out so well in practice. It proved to be a decidedly one sided proposition in its effects. Coming to this country the fee of $10 permitted the person to travel over a very large part of the North American continent. Not so, however, when Americans went to Europe. Each of the European countries adopting a similar law in retaliation collected $10 when visitors crossed borders. A tour through Europe might mean from $100 to $150 or more just for approving passports in the different countries.

Americans were going to Europe in large numbers and they were paying to European countries much more than Europeans were paying here whether as immigrants or visitors.

Efforts have been made by this country to bring about an abolition of those fees, or to have them reduced to a minimum. Some success has followed. A dozen in Europe have stopped such fees, but others including Great Britain, France and Italy have not. The handicap here seems to be in the fact that this country is willing to abandon the fees for tourists but not for immigrants and the big countries of Europe, except Germany, will make no agreement until immigrants are included. Had it been confined to immigrants in the first place the present situation and the burden on American tourists would not have arisen. The consequences of the legislation were not carefully thought out in advance.

EAUMES LAW RESULTS

More than one year will be required in order to fully test out the benefits or the bad features of the Baumes law. This law was put on the statute books of that state for the purpose of giving greater protection to the public through the elimination of those who make a business of crime, and who by their records indicate that they have no intention of profiting by their punishment.

The law which requires a life sentence on conviction of a fourth felony has been in effect a year and according to the district attorney of New York the criminal calendar is in better condition than it has been for 30 years. There are but 333 major indictments for major crimes pending at the end of 1927, where there were 2500 at the end of 1926. It is a marked improvement whatever the cause. If it is attributed to greater activity on the part of the authorities that is gratifying but the fact that it happened during the year the Baumes law was in effect makes it necessary to give proper credit to its influence until something develops to prove otherwise.

Life sentence is not a pleasant thing to contemplate. It is not what every criminal is ready to face for the sake of continuing the game. So long as he can work the courts for light sentences, kick up enough doubt to get probation, get efforts started in his behalf for parole or pardon and then go back to his old game, he was willing to take the chance. Some are ready to defy the law in the expectation of getting enough soft hearted individuals to obtain a modification of it for them so that they can continue to prey upon the public, but the number has apparently been greatly reduced. Whether they have gone out of the state or refrained from crime is another question.

New York has reason to feel pleased at the way the law has worked, for in other than New York county are there evidences of a reduction in the number of cases of serious crime. The abandonment of leniency and the application of stricter laws is having its effect—the effect that was anticipated. But let it be more thoroughly tested out, however, over a longer period of time even if the beginning has been good.

CUTTING DEBT AND INTEREST

Looking over the figures given out by the treasury department, it is inevitable that some attention should be attracted by the statement that the national debt was reduced during 1927 by $1,063,312,886. This doesn't establish a record but it brings the indebtedness down to nearly $18,000,000,000 and a pleasing approach to that time when the debt can be wired out.

It not only means the elimination of a large slice of obligations but when that is made it likewise means that there is eliminated something like $40,000,000 in interest each year. It had to be paid in the year before, but it is ended now and every reduction contributes more of such valuable relief.

Several valuable contributions have been made toward this debt and interest reduction. We have had an administration which has stressed economy. We have benefited from it. We have had a master hand at the head of the treasury department who has most ably guided our finances. We have benefited from it. We have received payments from debtors on war loans which have added to the question. We have likewise been favored by payment of millions which could be ill the devotion of a large amount to debt reduction.

We note the mentioning of these items lest we must be aware of the need of a continuance of such policies. The benefits of debt reduction speak for themselves. It helps the taxpayer, even though it has been accompanied by the enactment of tax reductions. The economies which have set forth are an endorsement of the policies that have been followed and put in the strongest adherents to the cause.

A FINE ACCOMPLISHMENT

In various ways and for the sake of this purpose of a survey of the progress made in the fight against tuberculosis. Literally it can be shown that good results are better obtained, and those results cannot help but encourage the endeavors for more attainments.

One insurance company [illegible] has a total of [illegible] policyholders reports that during 1927 [illegible] the health record [illegible] there was a marked decline in tuberculosis. It shows that in 1911 when it inaugurated its system of keeping records of the causes of deaths that there were 2314 deaths per 100,000 from tuberculosis. The 1927 figures have not as yet been completed, but it is possible for the company to state that the death rate from tuberculosis will not be over 90 per 100,000. This great decrease amounting to more than 60 per cent within a score of years is most gratifying.

These figures not only show how assiduously the fight is being carried on but they also indicate the magnificent response that is being made by those who are afflicted or threatened with the disease. Instead of disregarding necessary treatment they are accepting it, and a much greater number are interested in the quite important preventive measures. Tuberculosis is yielding. Treatment that is needed is being provided. People are more and more becoming aware of the part they must play in fighting and in preventing the disease. Records like that which are presented by the insurance company, which is itself aiding in the fight, do much to extend encouragement and enlist the necessary, continued, organized support in putting down the white plague.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man on the corner says: Only 51 more weeks in 1928.

The prince of Wales is now much interested in ice skating. Well he'll not have so far to fall as when riding a horse.

It will not be long now before the good resolutions begin to encounter harsh treatment. The other kind doesn't count.

The idea of getting all nations to outlaw the submarine is all right, but what is more important is to get them to do it.

With Vermont looking forward to a year of progress other states should face the struggle with courage and confidence.

A Minneapolis butcher shot and killed a prohibition agent because he was mad at him. That was, of course, a good and sufficient excuse.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

As we are now fairly launched on this new era of time, is there anything we need more than perfect calmness? This condition of being comes only from our faith in a safe spiritual anchorage. It is not the excitable man or woman who gets there, simply because they are not in full control of their faculties. It may be that the calm person may not establish a great reputation for brilliancy, but other things being equal, he is the one who is going to get there. This is emphatically the age of rush and nervous excitement and the effect of it is seen in the many things so imperfectly done. We need the admonition of the hymn that was once quite extensively sung: "Take time to be holy, Speak oft with thy Lord." Or perhaps the more familiar lines of John Greenleaf Whittier:

"Let sense be dumb, let flesh retire,
Speak through the earthquake, wind and fire,
O still small voice of calm!"

We are now fairly launched not only on one of life's extended highways, but more or less upon an uncertain sea. Yes, uncertain, that is just the right word to use because the most experienced sailor does not know for sure what sort of antics this titful Atlantic of human life is going to kick up in the next 24 hours. Of course predictions more or less weighty can be made—but they are nothing but forecasts. Now if our little craft is seaworthy; if we have implicit faith in the captain; if we have made adequate preparation for that voyage; if we have firmly resolved to meet the storms when they come with manly courage and if our ship is now sailing along on even keel—why should we worry and spend sleepless nights over any coming storms? Our present state of mind is not going to change, by one iota, the coming event be it of pleasure or pain." Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof."

Entering upon the new year does not find a correct parallel in a voyage to London or Southampton. When one leaves his beloved country for the first time, he is perfectly justified if his inward emotions find outward expression in silent tears as he watches the wonderful skyline of New York slowly disappear and before him is the black expanse of 3,000 miles of treacherous sea. It is not emotions of this character that steal over us at dawn of a new year. Did you ever know anyone to sit down and cry because December 31 had come? Neither does one feel like jumping over the moon because January the first has arrived. Now leaving the old year and entering the new is more like taking a motor trip, let us say, from New Haven northward through our picturesque New England. New Haven and vicinity had been enjoyed. This city has attractions all its own, and the motorist has enjoyed his visit.

Now that the tourist leaves the "City of Elms," is he going to stop his car in North Haven and weep because New Haven has been left and is now only a sweet memory? He certainly is not—not out of any lack of due appreciation of New Haven, but because he knows that around him and before him are scenes as beautiful, though different, as those that he has so recently left. In one hour (provided his old flivver doesn't bust) he will be in Hartford, certainly a city of rare charm, and of incomparable beauty all its own, and when he reaches the Windsor line he is not going to cry because Hartford for the most part has faded from view, and all that remains to be seen of the beautiful city is the lofty Traveler's Tower and even this growing hazy. Why? because he will soon be in Springfield—a city that has no flies on it (in winter). And thus it will be the end of the journey. He is going to rejoice just in proportion to his capacity to see beauty.

Reader, are you spending any sleepless nights over the conflicting opinions in regard to the business outlook for the year of 1928? It is well to keep in mind that we have a big country as to physical area, and that, of course, means a very great variety of climate. Now there is a vital relationship between climate and production. Business for the most part depends on what we get out of the soil. The more varied the soil the greater is the variety of production. There is no question about the way we ended the old year businesswise. There will be the same soil, very likely about the same production. There will be the same vast population to feed, clothe, and to furnish automobiles for. The American people are used to luxuries and all these things will call for enormous labor. Our people are willing to work, and as they will have the opportunity we find the foundation of prosperity.

It is reported that a young minister presuming somewhat on a limited acquaintance with Thomas Carlyle, the "Sage of Chelsea" ventured to call on him one new year's day. He had recently been appointed vicar to a small parish in the suburbs of London. He wanted a fitting motto to hang on the wall of his study that would inspire him every day. And who could give one so well as the great Carlyle! With this in mind he called upon his hero and made known his request, and this is what he got: "Believe in yourself and your work and then act it like h—ll!" Now it was rest naughty for the "old Grizzly" to talk like this to a dapper young minister, but we must admit that there was a certain force in what he said. If the young man hung this motto up in his study probably it was in modified form. Without faith in one's self and one's work there will be no real enthusiasm.

We are told that no Mohammedan would dare to die without making in his lifetime at least one journey to Mecca. No matter how remote his residence was from the Arabian city, that journey must be made at least once in his lifetime. No matter if he is a cripple or in dire poverty, an eternity in heaven is dependent on one journey to Mecca. We of the Christian faith put less emphasis on the absolute necessity of linking up our eternal salvation with any material things however holy their associations. Still there is something underlying this Mohammedan practice that is admirable, and that is to have constantly before us some supreme object to attain as the ultimate goal of our effort. That object may not be the same in all cases, but in all cases ought to be something that shall be the highest expression of the human personality. That object ought to be the worthiness of God's approbation. No matter what road we take to reach this Christian Mecca.

Speaking of paramount issues—and every real life must have one—there are many fields in which they may find adequate expression. I have nothing but admiration for that lusty lad, not so many years ago who yearned to be a great baseball player. Why not? he had the true sporting instinct; the physical equipment; quick intelligence; and best of all the willingness and patience to submit to the most exacting drill. Today his name is familiar all over the world. We need more men to do things supremely well! Take the noble Lincoln, for illustration. He had not been in the white house long before political and moral issues began to shape themselves so clearly in his mind that he saw the supreme thing to be done was to abolish slavery. January 1, 1863 will never be forgotten as the day on which the Emancipation Proclamation was given to the world. The martyr did one thing supremely well.

THE 26 STATES OF MEXICO

Colonel Lindbergh's flight to Mexico lends interest to the states of our sister republic, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.

Had Lindbergh followed a bee line course, as he planned, he would have flown over the mountain ribbed state of Hidalgo. Instead he veered to the west after leaving Tampico, and traversed sectors of the states of Vera Cruz, San Luis Potosi, Queretaro, Michoacan and Mexico before arriving at the federal district which contains Mexico City.

Many State Names Unfamiliar

Mexico has 28 states. The average American, familiar with Canadian provinces, would be hard put to tell whether Chiapas is on the Pacific or Atlantic; where Nayarit is; if Campeche is east or west; or even to pronounce Aguascalientes.

In Mexico also are two territories. One is Lower California, dry, arid, mountainous and thinly populated. Fifteen hundred miles away from Lower California lies Mexico's other territory, Quintana Roo, farthest south and farthest east.

It is common to think of Mexico as a great horn sprouting south from southwest United States. The position of the two Mexican territories punctures this geographic myth. Mexico is not a thin nation. It is just as wide as it is long. While its westernmost city is Tiajuana, over the international line from San Diego, California, the outermost point of the Yucatan peninsula lies as far east as Indianapolis.

The United States has one smaller state than Mexico's smallest. Rhode Island is 300 square miles smaller than Tlaxcala, which lies 50 miles east of Mexico City. Colima, a state on the Pacific coast of Mexico directly west of the capital, measures less than Delaware. But the largest state of Mexico, Chihuahua, across the border from New Mexico, is much smaller than the American giant, Texas. It approximates Oregon or Illinois and Indiana taken together.

Toluca the Annapolis of Mexico

It was by a sign on the railway station at Toluca that Lindbergh finally found his position, and then flew directly into Mexico City. The relations between Toluca and Mexico City might be compared roughly to those between Annapolis and Washington. Toluca is the nearest state capitol to the federal city, and its state encloses the federal district just as Maryland encloses the District of Columbia. Physically, however, the comparisons are not so close. Both Mexico City and Toluca lie on a high plateau and are surrounded by mountains. Situated 40 miles from Mexico City, Toluca is visited by residents of the capital as a pleasure resort. It lies in one of the most beautiful "valleys" of the republic—the valley of Toluca. From this upland plain come the spirited bulls for the bull rings of Mexico City. Cortez founded the city 12 years after the Conquest. It lies on part of the original grant made to the Conqueror by the king of Spain.

The state of Mexico, of which Toluca is the capital, embraces both upland plains and mountains. In addition to the "Valley of Toluca" it includes the famous "Valley of Mexico" the heart of the republic, with its show hacendas and beautiful scenery. The famed lakes near Mexico City also lie in the state of Mexico. In the western part of the state are rich mines. The republic's most important river, the Lerma, rises in the state of Mexico and flows westward to a final outlet in the Pacific.

Queretaro, the Delaware of Mexico, makes up for its limited area by the richness of its mountains and valleys. The former contain minerals and the latter, deep layers of fertile, well-watered soil which grow pineapples, dates, bananas, pomegranates, figs and lemons. Queretaro sweet potatoes have a reputation in Mexico like Idaho potatoes have in the United States. The situation of Queretaro City, capital of the state, 2,000 feet higher above sea level than Denver, gives further clue to the surrounding geography. Mexico classes Queretaro as one of the Estadosdel Centros, occupying the elevated valley of Mexico. Through Queretaro run the trade routes from the north converging on Mexico City. And by the trade routes come the famous Mexican opals mined in Queretaro Mountains.

Indian Tribal Boundaries Used.

The states of Mexico were originally laid out to coincide roughly with the areas occupied by the Indian tribes which the Spaniards conquered. Then the conquerors apportioned the districts among themselves. Thus Hernando Cortez was "Marques del Valle" of Oaxaca. As "Marques" he laid waste the Zapotec Indians' chief town, built a new city on the same site and named it Antequera, after a town of Spain near Malaga. When Mexico won its independence from Spain, the city resumed its old Zapotec name, Huaxiacac (modified in Spanish to Oaxaca) and the state took the same title. This is a story repeated with variations many times in Mexico. Practically all the states have resumed their Indian names. There are exceptions such as the states of Vera Cruz, San Luis Potosi, Guanajuato and Nuevo Leon.

Low, High and Higher.

Although the ancient Aztecs, Zapotecs and Mayas are responsible for the boundaries of modern states of Mexico the borders often outline definite geographic units. There is a classification handy for Mexican states which our republic cannot use to advantage. In Mexico there are low states, high states and higher states. The low states are the eastern seaboard units from north to south, Tamaulipas, Nuevo Leon, Vera Cruz and Tabasco. The Yucatan Peninsula group of Campeche, Yucatan and Quintana Roo also hugs sea level. Pacific coastal states are, for the most part, low states too, but not so low as east coast states: Sonora, Sinaloa, Nayarit, Colima, Michoacan, Guerrero, Oaxaca and Chiapas. Then come the high states, that is, those which are 3,000 feet above sea level, Chihuahua, Coahuila and Durango, all of which lie in the Rio Grande basin between the wide open arms of the mountain ranges that border the famous valley of Mexico.

South of Durango are the higher states, and, it may be added, the smaller, and the most populous and the richest states of Mexico. The average elevation of 11 states and the federal district is more than a mile above sea level. Orizaba peak, 125 miles southeast of Mexico City, is the key pin of a gigantic pair of dividers opened to a sixty degree angle. Each arm of the dividers is a mountain range, the left arm connecting with the Rocky Mountains and the right losing itself at Monterey.

Has Its "Federal District."

Between the arms spreads the fertile mile-high or higher region of blue lakes and fruitful valleys, elevated enough to have an equable climate. Just as the mountain ranges converge on Orizaba, so the trade routes converge on Mexico City. Like Washington, the Mexican capital has been isolated within a small "Distrito Federal," administered by the National congress. But there is this difference. Mexico City is the New York as well as the Washington of Mexico. Its population of 906,000 nearly equals that of the most populous of the nation's provinces.

Just as the United States has, in the state of Washington, a commonwealth named for the hero of its revolution, so Mexico has honored the father of its freedom from Spain. Padre Hidalgo was a parish priest in Dolores, in the state of Guanajuato, until he led the revolution in 1810. Dolores has now become Dolores Hidalgo. Hidalgo state is one of the most mountainous in Mexico. Six ranges cross the relatively small area creating a maze of peaks and ridges. In this tangle of mountains are some of the heaviest mineral deposits in the republic.

A near-by area of 8,600 square miles of the valley of Mexico has been carved out to make the state of Hidalgo. South of Mexico City another relatively small state, Morelos, honors another hero of Mexico's war of independence.

Michoacan Beckons Tourists.

Straddling the Sierra Madre range running down the west coast of Mexico, Michoacan state fudiciously places one foot in the fertile valley of Mexico and the other on the Pacific coast. But its valley across, with sparkling lakes surrounded by farms, support the major part of its population. To Michoacan many other traveled Americans go annually in the late fall for the blue lakes beckon flocks of "American" wild ducks and geese wintering in the southland. Because of the variety of its products Michoacan earns high rank among Mexican states. It is the greatest cereal growing state of the republic, and, in addition, produces coffee, sugar, fruits, vanilla, wine and tobacco.

San Luis Potosi is one of Mexico's inland states, consisting of a high and dry temperature plateau intersected by a few deep tropical valleys. Where there is sufficient rainfall there are large upland plantations of corn and cotton and in the warm valleys coffee and sugar are grown. Cattle raising is a chief industry on the drier plains and the mountainous districts are rich in gold and silver mines. The state is in a very old settled region, figuring largely in the Spanish colonization scenes of the sixteenth century. An important railway connects the capital of the state, a city of the same name, situated in the cool highlands, with the port of Tampico on the gulf of Mexico. The city of San Luis Potosi contains a fine old cathedral and many quaint houses of Spanish colonial architecture.

Vera Cruz is the richest of Mexico's gulf coast states. It is densely forested, low-lying and tropical along the coastal plain, but splendid mountain ranges rise along the western border. From the forests come some of the world's costliest cabinet woods and plantations of the lowlands are rich in cotton, sugar, coffee, cacao and vanilla. This state was once the seat of an ancient Indian civilization and magnificent ruins dating from this period are scattered throughout the country. Rainfall is heavy and countless rivers traverse the state from mountains to the sea. Four railway lines converge at the port city of Vera Cruz.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Dr. Henry Fairfield Osborn, who has been honored with the presidency of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, which is the largest body of scientists in the world, is himself a celebrated scientist who for the past twenty years has been the executive head of the American Museum of Natural History, in New York city. Dr. Osborn is particularly famed as an authority on evolution and the antiquity of mind. He is a native of Connecticut and a graduate of Princeton. In 1906 he was chosen to succeed the late Prof. Samuel P. Langley as secretary of the Smithsonian Institution. He is the author of half a dozen books and several hundred scientific and educational papers on zoology, comparative anatomy and psychology. Dozens of scientific and learned societies in America and Europe have honored Dr. Osborn with memberships.

Sunday Morning Talk

THE CLOSED BOOK

The year that has passed is now a closed book, its joys, its sorrows are as we might say a thing of the past. As far as we can let us try to remember only the brightest and best of the year that is gone, and as Paul says, let us "press forward," striving each day to do the things which we shall wish we had done when we came to the end of the way. Whether the days shall be few or many, sometime we shall pass onward and upward, and if we should keep this thought in view and first do from day to day, one day at a time, the things which we know Jesus would have us, not in pleasing ourselves, but in love preferring one another. You cannot forget yourself unless you have the presence of Him who pleased not Himself but went about doing good to all men. Let us try to walk in the ways of the master bringing joy and gladness to other hearts and into our own hearts shall come a joy which the world cannot give or take away. In our copy books each book we would strive to make a little more like the copy and at the end of the book perhaps we could see quite an improvement. So it should be with the copy of our life, each closed book should be an improvement on the last.

Let us look to the Father from day to day to give us the help we need in the sorrows and joys of the coming year and never to forget whence our help cometh. I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills, from whence cometh my help. My help cometh from the Lord, which made heaven and earth, Psalm 121, 1:2.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

A Barn Full of Squeaks

Those who have but little wit
Let terror run away with it.
—Shadow the Weasel.

Farmer Brown's Boy had gone out to the henyard to see that the hens had some fresh water. When he went over to the barn, after having taken care of the hens, he heard a sharp squeak just as he opened the barn door.

"That hinge squeaks like a—at," said Farmer Brown's Boy. "I shall have to see that it is properly oiled." He closed the door and turned away from it.

Meanwhile Shadow the Weasel was having a wonderful hunt.

There was the same sharp squeak again. It was quite evident that it was not the hinges of that door. "It must be some other door," said Farmer Brown's Boy. "I guess the door of the cow stable has been left open and is swinging in the wind." But when he went to look he found that that door also was closed.

Still the squeaking continued. Then Farmer Brown's Boy noticed that there were different kinds of squeaks. There were loud squeaks and soft squeaks and sharp squeaks and shrill squeaks and harsh squeaks. The barn was just full of squeaks. There were squeaks from below and squeaks from above. Never had he heard so many squeaks. Then he heard a rustling. It was made by the sound of little feet running.

"Rats!" exclaimed Farmer Brown's Boy. "That's what it is, rats! I should think all the rats in the world were here in this barn. Now what can be the matter with them? Those are squeaks of fear. Rats don't run about and squeak like that unless they are badly frightened. I should think that somebody had turned a ferret loose in here."

Thinking of the ferret, which you know is a member of the Weasel family, reminded Farmer Brown's Boy of Shadow the Weasel. "I wonder," said he, "if that little scamp can be over here. It is a long, long time since I've seen Shadow the Weasel. There can't be a ferret, because no ferrets are kept anywhere in this section of the country. I'll have to find out. If that little rascal is on the job here I'll have to watch out for my chickens. It won't do to have him get into the henhouse."

Meanwhile Robber the Rat and all his relations were having a terrible fright. Not even Robber himself, the oldest, biggest and fiercest of the tribe, dared face Shadow the Weasel. The word was simply passed to young and old to run and hide.

"But why should we hide?" cried one frightened young rat.

No one stopped to answer the question. You see, all the old and experienced rats knew that it was impossible to hide from Shadow the Weasel. They knew that he could get into any place they could get into and they knew that his nose could follow them. Robber himself passed the word among the rats nearest him to scatter in different directions. "If we all go in the same direction," said Robber, "that fellow will kill all of us. If we scatter in different directions he can follow only one at a time."

Now this was the very best of good advice. Robber the Rat has a wise head and is quick of wit. You may be sure that he saw to it that no one went with him excepting Mrs. Robber. When other rats started to follow he just turned and showed his teeth and they promptly fled in other directions. Meanwhile Shadow the Weasel was having a wonderful hunt. He was enjoying it. He liked to hear the squeaking of the frightened rats, for you know he is by nature very fierce. For his size he is the fiercest of all the people, big or little, of the Green Forest or the Green Meadows.

When at last he grew tired he decided to curl up for a nap there in the barn. Then abruptly he changed his mind. He would go back to the Green Forest. And back to the Green Forest he went. Then peace once more reigned in Farmer Brown's barn.

POETRY

What the Chimney Sang

Over the chimney the night-wind sang
And chanted a melody no one knew;
And the Woman stopped, as her hake she toomed,
And thought of the one she had long since lost,
And said, as her teardrops back she forced:
"I hate the wind in the chimney."

Over the chimney the night-wind sang
And chanted a melody no one knew;
And the Children said, as they closer drew:
"'Tis some witch that is clawing the black night through,
'Tis a fairy trumpet that just then blew,
And we fear the wind in the chimney."

Over the chimney the night-wind sang
And chanted a melody no one knew;
And the Man, as he sat on his hearth below,
Said to himself: "It will surely snow,
And the fuel is dear and wages low,
And I'll stop the leak in the chimney."

Over the chimney the night-wind sang
And chanted a melody no one knew;
But the Poet listened and smiled, for he Was Man and Woman and Child, all three,
And said: "It is God's own harmony,
This wind we hear in the chimney."
—Bret Harte.

Wellspring

Shelley is gone, and Byron gone, and Burns,
And with them all the lovelliness they sang
Poignantly while love swayed them, while they rang
All of love's glad, sad, baffling shifts and turns;
The heart of Poe is dust; poor Sterling earns
Respite at last from life's most bitter pang;
These and fair forms on whom all dreamers hang Fond hopes now sleep under the curves of ferns.

They that have hugged illusion, mostly, seem
Less men than fountains playing in a dream,
Fountains stirred to rapt song by beauty's face
Mirrored in shallows time must soon replace,
Love, no deeper than life, lasts * * * almost never;
But songs that sound its depths live, move, forever.
—Richard Butler Glaenzer.

An infinite number of toads, mixed with a migratory impulse, hopped their way across the Dalles-California highway along the east shore of Upper Klamath lake in Oregon recently. Travelers said that for nearly ten miles they saw at least one toad for each square foot of road, and in places they were so thick the road seemed to be moving. The migration was from the low hatching ground to the higher levels.

At Glendale boulevard, Los Angeles, where the pavement ends, a familiar Columbus embarked on a voyage of discovery in her automobile. Ahead loomed the Pacific Electric tunnel, built for the exclusive use of Pacific Electric trains. She entered and laboriously traversed the whole length of a mile. Her car could not surmount the stairs at the Hill street terminus. The explorer, consequently, gave one surprised look at her surroundings and promptly proceeded to back her machine around. Then she drove out again.

OBITUARY.

Charles E. Chandler.

Charles Edward Chandler, 74, civil engineer and president of the Chelsea Savings bank, passed away suddenly about 4.30 o'clock Friday afternoon at his home, No. 154 McKinley avenue, with an attack of heart weakness. He had not been at his office since the day before Christmas, but had been around the house.

Mr. Chandler was born in Killingly, March 8, 1852. His parents, Albert C. Chandler and Marissa P. Davis, moved the same year to Pomfret. He lived on the Chandler farm from 1855 to 1867, attending the public schools, and later a private school in Putnam. In 1868 he moved to Woodstock where he was a pupil at Woodstock academy until 1872, when he became engaged in civil engineering in Putnam as assistant to Edgar Clark. He came to this city in 1873 as assistant to Gen. William C. Stanton, engineer on city and general civil engineering. On the death of General Stanton in 1877, Mr. Chandler took over the business and has been engaged in engineering work since then, associating Shepard B. Palmer with him in 1897 under the firm name of Chandler & Palmer, with offices now in the Thayer building.

Mr. Chandler had done the engineering work for the city for many years, as well as giving engineering service for many towns, corporations and individuals in this and adjoining states. He specialized in the flow of streams and was interested recently in collecting data on the Vermont flood. He was called in consultation on many engineering problems and had been connected as an engineer in some way with many of the engineering works and suits at law requiring expert testimony in eastern Connecticut for many years past.

He had been president of the Chelsea Savings bank since 1919, being elected a corporator in 1892, a director in 1894, and vice president in 1910. He had also been a director of the Norwich Water Power Co. for many years and a member of the State Board of Civil Engineers having supervision over dams for many years. He was a member of the Connecticut Society of Civil Engineers, the Boston Society of Civil Engineers, the New England Water Works association, and Connecticut Society of Sons of the American Revolution.

He has taken an interest and active part in community affairs, serving as president of the Norwich Board of Trade in 1904, his administration being marked with signal success. He was an attendant at Christ Episcopal church.

Mr. Chandler had high ideals of life, his ethical standards of business were above the ordinary, and he was a citizen whose precept and example made him a force for strength in the community.

Mr. Chandler was twice married, his first wife being Frances Eugenie Brown of Griswold, who died in 1910. Two years later he married Agnes Loxeter of this city who died in March, 1924. He is survived by a son, Albert R. Chandler, professor at Ohio State university, Columbus, Ohio, and one grandson.

To Celebrate Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hotchkiss of Lewis street, New London, are to celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary on Sunday. Both Mr. and Mrs. Hotchkiss were born in Norwich and lived here for many years before moving to New London. There are six children living, one having died a number of years ago.

It is expected that quite a number of relatives and friends will call to wish them many more pleasant anniversaries.

Struck by Automobile

A machine driven by John T. Harrington of No. 50 Franklin street, knocked down and slightly injured a man by the name of Melville Manning on Main street near Franklin square Friday afternoon. The accident was reported by Mr. Harrington at police headquarters.

FUNERAL.

John T. Almy.

After a short illness, John T. Almy, 64, one of the city's best known and most highly respected citizens, died early Friday morning at his home, No. 32 Lincoln avenue. Mr. Almy was a life-long resident of the city and was born in Norwich, February 1, 1863, the son of William T. and Sarah W. Almy.

Early in life he became connected with the old book firm of Charles H. Burnham and in 1886 entered the offices of the Attawaugan and Totokett Manufacturing companies. In 1909 he was elected secretary and treasurer of both companies. At the time of his death he was a director of the Norwich Savings society and of the Merchants National bank.

Mr. Almy was united in marriage in 1890 with Nettie Florence Rich, in this city. He was one of the early members of the Arcanum club and was a member of Park Congregational church. He is survived by his widow, one son, William Humphrey Almy, two brothers, William H. Almy and Charles N. Almy, both of Buffalo and a sister, Miss Mary T. Almy.

Mr. Almy was one of the city's most public spirited citizens and was always interested in the welfare of the community. His many friends deeply mourn his passing and extend their sympathy to the family.

MERCHANTS AND CREDIT BUREAUS' MERGER PLANS

Merchants of the city received an important announcement Friday from Abner Schwartz, president of the Retail Merchants bureau and Ernest L. Latimer, president of the Retail Credit bureau, presenting the formal statement of the budgetary merger of the two organizations.

For some time the officers have been considering the advisability of expanding the program of the Merchants bureau, along the lines of more systematic efforts to secure retail trade, in line with modern business practice. This effort, they have felt, should be preceded by a careful survey which would conserve the resources of the bureau and with the least expenditure, led directly to increased retail business. The facilities of the Merchants bureau are therefore to be expanded. At the same time, the full list of activities which have so profitably occupied the attention of the bureau in the past, will be continued. The announcement sent out by the two presidents is as follows:

"Dear Fellow Merchant:

Two important announcements will interest you as a merchant—the expansion of the program of the Merchants bureau and the extension of the use of the Credit bureau to all members of the Merchants bureau on the regular cooperative basis, with no charge other than the dues in the Merchants bureau.

You have seen the value of the Merchants bureau in the special sales days that have filled our city with customers. You and all other merchants will profit from the plan of the bureau to conduct a trade survey and systematically to advertise for more trade. A merchants institute is planned for the education of salespeople and increased efficiency in management. These features will be in addition to the present program of dollar days, spring and fall opening days, and many other activities. Joined with the wider use of the Credit bureau, membership in the Retail Merchants bureau takes on a greater and more definite business value.

Concise plans for putting this program under way will be presented to you in more detail within the next few days. Norwich wants an increasingly prosperous retail community in 1928 and will support the active organization which will secure it. We believe you are the kind of business man who will back such a merchants bureau."

Yours very truly,

ABNER SCHWARTZ,
President Retail Merchants Bureau
ERNEST L. LATIMER
President Retail Credit Bureau

ESTIMATE NORWICH POPULATION AT 30,762 BY MIDDLE OF YEAR

By the first of July this year Norwich is to have a population of 30,762, and the state a population of 1,613,674, according to the estimate made by the state board of health. This is an increase from the 1920 census figure of 29,685 for Norwich and the state figure of 1,380,631 of the 1920 census.

The date of July 1 is selected for the reason that it is the mid-year population and is a fairer population to use than a population estimated at any other date.

All death, marriage and birth rates will be calculated, using the populations as contained on these sheets, not only for publication throughout the ensuing year but also in the registration report for 1928 when it will appear.

The method of calculation is quite simple. The net change between the census of 1920 and 1910 is found. This may be an increase or a decrease. As the interval between censuses was, roughly, 10 years, the annual change is found by dividing the actual or t al difference between censuses by 10. Strictly speaking, the difference is divided by 233-24 years. Having now found the annual change, it is a simple matter to add this amount from year to year, thus continuing the population estimate beyond 1920 by a process called extrapolation.

By this method the population of New London county is estimated to have increased since the 1920 census from 104,611 to 116,306, Windham county from 52,815 to 56,717 and Tolland county from 27,216 to 27,878.

The population estimate compared with the 1920 census figures for the towns of this part of the state shows as follows:

	Estimate July 1, 1928	Census of 1920

STATE PRISON SENTENCE FOR AUTOMOBILE THEFT

John Foley, 29, who frankly admits that Foley is not his name but says that he was born in this city, was found guilty in the superior court here Friday of theft of a Buick touring car on May 5 last from the garage of Clifford Eccleston at Trading Cove, and was sentenced to state prison for from one to two years by Judge Arthur F. Ells.

He was tried before Judge Ells and a jury and was defended by Attorney Max Boyer of New London who moved to have the verdict set aside and for stay of execution, both of which motions were overruled by Judge Ells upon objection by State Attorney Arthur M. Brown who prosecuted the case.

Foley has been in jail since he was arrested in Coventry, R. I., eight months ago when he and another man named Charles W. Feeley were found in the stolen car which was parked.

Foley in his defense in court claimed that they had been hopping freights, and had landed in Coventry, R. I., about 4 a. m., when they ran across a man fixing a tire on this stolen car. They volunteered to help him, which they did, and the alleged owner of the car stated to Foley and Feeley that he was going to buy a tube for the punctured tire, leaving them there. While this man was gone, Foley and his companion were arrested.

The jury in the case was Harry Hill, George W. Armstrong, Patrick T. Connell, Norwich; Frank A. Krug, Preston; Frederick H. Gilbert, William Lapoint, James T. Shea, Griswold; Charles E. Goodrich, Lebanon; Roderick A. Jodoin, Curtis L. Hazen, Sprague; Richard A. Day, Sr., and George H. Palmer, Salem.

BULLETIN CALENDAR INTERESTS E. H. MILLER

A former Norwich resident who finds special interest in the 1928 calendar of The Bulletin is Edward Harland Miller, of New York. Mr. Miller distinctly recalls the later owners of the property which was originally the Louis Barral stocking mill—the Lowry family and their daughter.

After the parents died, the daughter, Marinette, lived in the house for many years. She was somewhat eccentric and Mr. Miller remembers the way the children used to watch her as she came into Christ church on Sunday. He knew the old property well, as his boyhood home was the second house above it—the house 343 Washington street which Charles H. Kimball recently sold. The Miller family lived there during the Civil war, Mr. Miller's father having bought the property from the Thomas Lathrop estate.

Mr. Miller was a member of the Sunday school class at Christ church with the late Col. A. C. Tyler and other boys of that era, their teacher being Miss Tyler, daughter of Col. Dan Tyler, of Washington street, afterwards the mother of Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt.

SUSTAINS $8,500 VERDICT FOR MISS LOUISE MENZIE

By a supreme court decision handed down Friday the verdict for Miss Louise Menzie, 15, of New London to recover $8,500 from Samuel Kalmonowitz, a Colchester peddler, was sustained. Judge Maltbie wrote the decision.

Miss Menzie sued for $20,000 damages for injuries she received when struck by the Kalmonowitz motor truck just after she had alighted from a trolley car on Broad street in New London, on July 25, 1926 and upon trial of the suit a jury in the superior court gave her a verdict for $10,000, but Judge Allyn L. Brown ordered that a remittitur of $1,500 be filed.

Given Judgment For $1,471.05.

At the short calendar session of the superior court in this city Friday morning, Judge C. L. Avery granted a judgment for $1,471.05 to the M. A. Gammino Construction Co., against Harry Sason, of New York. An automobile owned and operated by the defendant on June 18, 1927, while being driven to Norwich, crashed into a large leveling machine owned by the plaintiff company. The machine was being used in the construction of the Norwich-New London highway at Uncasville. The damage suit resulted.

Scarlet Fever in County Towns.

The weekly morbidity report issued by the state department of health shows the following cases of communicable diseases reported from towns in eastern Connecticut:

Diphtheria—Putnam 1.

Scarlet fever—Bozrah, 2; New London, 3; Stonington, 2; Waterford, 2; Ashford, 2; Plainfield, 5; Willimantic, 8.

Measles—New London, 1; Stonington, 1.

Whooping cough—Griswold, 1; Groton, 1; New London, 11; Norwich, 4.

DIVORCES GRANTED TO TWO WOMEN PETITIONERS

Two women were granted divorces at the short calendar session of the superior court in this city Friday morning by Judge Christopher L. Avery. Mrs. Isabel N. D. Blood, of this city, was granted a divorce and change of name in her suit against Edwin DeLong Blood, now of parts unknown. The divorce was granted on grounds of desertion. The couple married September 3, 1920, and desertion was alleged since August 1, 1923.

Hannah Matilda Stromberg, of Hanover, was granted a divorce and a change of name in her suit against Yolnay Frizof Stromberg, now of parts unknown, on grounds of desertion. They were married February 6, 1915, and desertion was alleged from August 1, 1921.

Judge Avery reserved decision in the divorce action brought by Clara Denison Brooks, of New London, against Charles R. Brooks, also of New London. Plaintiff claims that her husband had a mania for throwing household articles at her before they separated two years ago. The couple married January 26, 1908 and there are five children. Two years ago the New London probate court gave custody of her children to his sister.

In 1922 he was committed to the Norwich State hospital for a period of three months. The plaintiff related several instances of her husband's temper. She said that on one occasion he threw a coffee pot at her and injured her shoulder. Another time he threw a flat iron at her and chased her with a broom stick. Once he choked her until she became unconscious. He is living in New London at the present time and the plaintiff is in constant fear of him. Because of this she has had a telephone installed in her house. Judge Avery reserved decision pending investigation of the circumstances.

FORD'S NEW CAR IS GIVEN TESTS IN CITY

Newspaper men were given opportunity Friday to take a test ride in the first of the new Ford cars to be brought to Norwich for demonstration purposes, a Tudor Ford sedan which was demonstrated by a salesman of the O. C. Wolfe Co., Inc.

After proving its pickup, speed and ability to stop, the salesman put the new Ford through some hill climbing tests from which it emerged with an A-1 rating. Motorists will realize what this means when it is stated that up Slater avenue and Cedar street to the top of jail hill was negotiated in high for a starter and this was followed by an even harder test on the steep up-grade of Fountain street. The first time up it was necessary to shift into second when about three-quarters up the hill, but on another attempt the machine reached the top on high without shifting and with "pep" to spare.

Those engaging in the test were prepared to say that the car is all that it is advertised to be and the local representative of the Wolf Co. stated that already 93 cars have been sold by the firm and deposits have been made to insure delivery.

HUSBAND SEEKS DIVORCE, WIFE WANTS CHILDREN

The divorce of Constantine Angelopoulos of this city for divorce from Athena Angelopoulos and custody of their two children was on trial here Friday afternoon before Judge Arthur F. Ells of the superior court with Mrs. Angelopoulos making a fight to retain custody of the two children, a girl of six and a boy of three.

The suit is brought on the ground of conviction of Mrs. Angelopoulos in the superior court Thursday on the charge of adultery with Peter Gagnis, who is now serving a jail sentence of six months. Attorney E. W. Higgins represents the petitioner and Attorneys T. M. Shields and V. P. A. Quinn the respondent.

Testimony introduced was designed to show the court what the best disposition to make in regard to the children, whom the father has had charge of since the night of November 14 when he locked his wife out of the house, according to the testimony. He has had them with his brother's family and Mrs. Angelopoulos has been with her father and mother in New York.

After hearing the testimony produced Friday, Judge Ells said he wanted to see the husband's brother and wife who have had charge of the children and it was arranged that they are to be brought before him in New London next Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

Besides the petitioning husband, witnesses who were called on to testify for him were Peter Sellas, Angelo Mologrides, Diamantes Angelopoulos, and Anna Pantaroulos.

Mr. Sellas acted as Greek interpreter when Mrs. Angelopoulos was on the stand. She declared that she loved her children and wanted to have them so that she could take them to New York where they would be taken care of at the home of her parents.

Witnesses called in her behalf were her sister, Miss Mary Christos of New York city, Deputy Sheriff George H. Stanton, and Mrs. Lucille Kiess of this city.

FOUR MEN DROWNED IN WRECK OF MOTOR SCHOONER

VICTORIA, B. C., Jan. 6—(AP)—Four were drowned when the motor schooner Noble of Vancouver, was wrecked on Escalante reef on the west coast of Vancouver island, said radio messages reaching here late today.

The drowned were: Capt. J. Kerry, H Williams, chief engineer, B. Wall, chief officer and S. V. Herby, cook.

Cliff Deschamps, wireless operator, and F. Bell, second engineer, were taken off the island by the Tofino lifeboat and transferred to the fisheries patrol steamer Givenchy, on which they have been brought to Victoria.

The vessel Noble formerly was engaged in the liquor trade and recently was under seizure here for an infraction of the customs regulations.

SLUMP IN PRODUCTION OF BOTH GOLD AND SILVER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Production of both gold and silver in the United States slumped during 1927.

Gold production, R. J. Grant, director of the mint, said today, amounted to $45,027,300 or $3,242,300 less than in 1926. Silver production amounted to $33,252,653, a decrease of 4,072,124 ounces from 1926.

California led the states in amount of gold produced with $11,738,600 while Utah topped the list in quantity of silver with $10,579,424.

The largest quantity of gold and silver produced in this country was in 1915 when gold amounted to $101,035,700 and silver to 74,961,075 ounces.

NORWICH DOINGS 75 YEARS AGO

Banking returns in Connecticut, 75 years ago showed that Norwich was maintaining a high place among the cities of the state with regards to bank deposits. Norwich ranked second and was one of two cities to deposit over a million dollars. The death of the only son of President-elect Pierce was chronicled in the files of the Norwich Evening Courier during the first week of 1853. Extracts from the files follow:

Tuesday, Jan. 4, 1853—The latest returns for the Conn. Register show that Norwich savings banks rank second in the state as to the amount of deposits, Hartford leading Norwich by slightly over $800,000. The rate of dividend is six per cent. Norwich deposits totaled $1,115,169 and those of Hartford $1,958,675, the only cities to pass the million dollar mark.

On Saturday morning, January 1, George Hill, Esq., died in this city Mr. Hill was, at the time of his death, the senior member of the New London County bar, and as well known, probably throughout the county as any member of the profession.

William Miller of New London was appointed inspector of hulls of steamboats for the New London district and Nicol Fosdick was appointed collector for the Port of New London at a meeting of the Board for the designation of Inspectors of Steamboats held in Hartford recently.

"A HAPPY NEW YEAR"

Gentle reader, it is what we sincerely wish to thee. And wishing this, what need of wishing more? What more could we wish?, for in that one word is not everything worth wishing for included? If we wished for thee wealth or power, or fame, either or all, you are by no means certain of the thing for which so many seek and sigh in vain. So then, we will e'en wish thee that which, being found, shall render thee independent of outward forms of good, and enable thee to smile at losses and crosses, and let the world wag as it may, shall keep thee serene and peaceful ever.—Norwich Evening Courier.

Thursday, Jan. 6, 1853—The lecture by Mr. Headley last evening drew a full house and was heard with attention. His theme was Human Liberty, as a principle, its origin, its gradual development, its influence on individuals and nations, and its final destiny. The next lecture will be by Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes of Boston.

Gen. Pierce, president-elect, received some days ago a box from the west and thinking it might be an infernal machine had it placed in a barn some distance from his house. As nothing happened for almost a week it was opened and found to contain a brace of ducks and a haunch of venison, and a very disagreeable odor.

The Female Academy, with its furniture and library, in Brooklyn, a large four story building, was totally destroyed by fire on Saturday morning last. The loss was about $33,000 and the building was insured for $24,000.

Saturday, Jan. 8, 1853—Darius Garner of Allen street has a Brahma Pootra chicken which is scarcely eight months old but weighs 10 pounds. We have never seen a bird of such tender age weigh so much. Samuel O. Hatch of Franklin has some of the same breed which weigh in the neighborhood of nine pounds and he recently sold a pair for $50.

A most deplorable accident occurred on the Boston and Maine railroad yesterday about 1 o'clock in which Master Benjamin Pierce, only son of President-elect Pierce was instantly killed. The coach in which Gen. and Mrs. Pierce with their son were riding became detached from the engine and because of a broken flange plunged over an embankment.—Master Pierce was about 11 years old, and being as only remaining child was of course an object of great endearment to his parents. He was of a slender fram, but a youth of much promise.

LOUGHRAN GETS DECISION OVER LOMSKI IN SLASHING CONTEST

By Edward J. Neil,
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Lashed to the floor for two counts of nine in the very first round of his second title defense within a month, Tommy Loughran, coolheaded champion of the light heavyweights, came back tonight to smother the challenge of Leo Lomski, blonde assassin of Aberdeen, Wash., in a furious fifteen round melee before 15,000 howling spectators.

Loughran won—critics at the ring side gave him an edge in at least ten of the rounds—but only after the most vicious battle of his career, and the crowd that jammed the hall gave the lion-hearted youth from the coast fully as heart-tingling a reception at the close as they did a champion who could come back from the edge of defeat to decisive conquest.

After the first session, when Lomski's driving attack and deadening right hand swept Tommy from his feet, the Philadelphia adonis weathered several trying storms but none as serious as when Leo twice smashed him on the chin with belt that crackled all through the silent and astounded house. Only ring generalship of the coolest kind, a stabbing left hand, and gripping defensive tactics saved Tommy his title in that round.

From then on, Loughran speared the challenger with straight lefts as Lomski bore tirelessly upon him, hooked a solid left continually to the challenger's body and whipped a steady flow of rights to Lomski's head. One solid smash in the eighth round cut Lomski's left eye badly and from that point on Leo contended with a flow of blood that hampered his vision.

The challenger rarely halted his aggressive tactics, but in the closing rounds he tired and Loughran easily tied him up in clinches when right hand punches dug under the champion's heart in menacing fashion. Lomski's spurts were punctured with a wildness that cost him many points, as Loughran pulled up an increasing lead with hisb usy left hand.

The knockdowns Lomski scored were the first Loughran has suffered since Gene Tunney put him on the floor for the first time in a bout at Philadelphia five years ago. Less than a month ago, and in the same arena, Loughran defended the title he acquitted in victory over Mike McTigue in a 15-round conquest of Jimmy Slattery, of Buffalo, N. Y.

Loughran had a slight advantage in the weights, scaling 174 1-2 to 171 for Lomski.

The Preliminaries

Phil Kaplan, New York middle weight, won a brawling eight round bout from Babe McCorgary, of Oklahoma, in the semi-final. McCorgary weighed 158, Kaplan 159 1-2.

In two eight round bouts, Jake Warren, Negro heavyweight from Chicago, won the decision over Jimmy Byrne, Louisville southpaw, and Hames J. Braddock of Jersey City, outslugged Paul S. Widerski, of Syracuse, N. Y., in the first match Warren weighed 184 1-2 Byrne 193 1-2. Braddock scaled 174 Swiderski 152.

KRAENZLEIN, NOTED ATHLETE, DIES AT WILKESBARRE

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Alvin C. Kraenzlien regarded as the greatest amateur athlete of his time, died today in a hospital at Wilkesbarre, Pa. He was 51, and death was due to endocaritis or inflammation of the lining membrane of the heart.

Holder of world's and intercollegiate records, Kraenzlien, as a member of the University of Pennsylvania, was the star of many contests and the more important the athletic meet the more brilliantly did his star shine.

Kraenzlein, born in Milwaukee and an athletic product of its schools, astounded the college world by winning three first and a second in an eastern intercollegiate championship meet and surprised the followers of the Olympic sports by taking four firsts in the games held in Paris in 1900.

A look through the books shows that Kraenzlien held the following world records:

120 yard high hurdles, 15 1-5 seconds.

220 yards low hurdles, 23 3-5 seconds.

300 yards low hurdles (indoor) 36 1-5 seconds.

50 yards high hurdles (indoors) 6 seconds.

120 yards high hurdles, turf, 15 3-5 seconds.

Running broad jump, 24 feet, 4 1-2 inches.

Time was wiped out all these records, but one of them, the 220 hurdles, stood for 25 years.

After he was graduated in 1901 as a dentist, Kraenzlien did not pursue that profession but took up track coaching and training and met with considerable success.

In 1913 Kraenzlein was engaged to coach German track athletes for the next Olympiad, but the World war upset his plans.

TORONTO GRADS BEAT UNIVERSITY CLUB FIVE

BOSTON, Jan. 6 —(AP)—Toronto varsity grads, Canada's hockey team in the 1928 Olympics defeated the University Club of Boston 2 to 1 in the first game of a two match series tonight. The Tams will clash again tomorrow night, the series to be decided by total goals.

All the scoring in tonight's game came in less than three minutes during the second period. B. Plaxton, a substitute wing, scored the first goal on a rebound. Harding evened the count for the University Club, and then Porter made the tally that gave the visitors the victory.

The University Club made a desperate effort to tie the score in the final period, but Sullivan, the Toronto goalie contributed several spectacular saves.

Atlas Beats Meriden Endees

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 6.—(AP)—The New Haven Atlas team of the state basketball league defeated the Meriden Endees, 31 to 19 here tonight in a fast but exceptionally clean game. Cohen and Chadys each rang up four baskets from the floor for the Atlas and Carroll looped three in for Meriden. Linger was the defensive star of the game.

GREENS DISCUSSED AT ANNUAL GOLF MEETING

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—(AP)—A concerted attack on the time-worn alibis of duffer was made today at the annual meeting of the green section of the United States Golf association. The green keepers, chairmen of the green committees and others who are usually blamed for missed putts gathered to discuss the elimination of weeds and grubs and other technical matters of their craft.

Findlay S. Douglas, vice president of the U. S. G. A., opened the meeting with a talk on the advances made in the care of greens. "Today if we were to play on some of the greens they had 20 years ago," he said, "we'd pack up our bags and go home."

Talks on the usefulness of the green section to golf clubs and of the clubs to the green section followed. These were later illustrated by papers read by various members telling of the latest of treating turf and keeping up courses.

Following the green section meetings, the regular business session of the U. S. G. A. will be held tomorrow afternoon. Melvin A. Traylor, of Chicago, is slated to be elected to the presidency of the association, held for the last two years by William C. Fownes, Jr., of Pittsburgh. The 1928 competitive schedule will also be put before the meeting.

In the opinion of the delegates who have already gathered the principal development in the coming year will be in closer working relations with the British golf authorities. They expect that British officials who will accompany the invading Walker cup team next summer will confer with American authorities.

One of the most likely possibilities of such a conference is that they will reach some agreement concerning a change in the size of the ball. This subject has been discussed at length in both countries, especially in view of the 285 stroke mark made by Bobby Jones in winning the British open last year.

JONES' AMATEUR STANDING NOT AFFECTED BY GIFT

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Acceptance of a $50,000 residence by Bobby Jones from his home town admirers in Atlanta in no way violated his amateur golf status, the United States Golf association announced here today. At the same time, Jones gave out a statement that he would decline the proposed gift.

The statement of the Golf association made by William C. Fownes, Jr., president, said:

"The executive committee has considered the proposed gift of a home to Robert T. Jones, Jr., by his friends in Atlanta and has fully investigated the facts. The executive committee has decided that the acceptance of the gift by him is not in violation of the association's rule governing amateur status."

Co-incident with the golf body's decision, Jones issued the following statement:

"The action of the United States Golf Association approving the gift to me of a home by my friends in Atlanta, has been brought to my attention. This action confirms my understanding of the amateur rule.

"At the time the gift was tendered and accepted, I had no thought that it was not entirely proper. I have since had opportunity to consider the matter more carefully and have reached the conclusion that the interests of our great game will be best served if I do not retain the home.

"I am taking this action with due appreciation and gratitude to my friends for their generous expression."

Several weeks ago, business men and friends of the British open and National golf champion tendered Jones a banuet at Atlanta at which time he received a note informing him of a $50,000 residence which would be erected for him as a testimonial.

The house was to be constructed by a committee of Atlantans who had the prospect in hand. Jones acknowledged the gift and shortly afterwards, his action drew comments from England and some section of the United States.

NO PROTEST EXPECTED FROM HERMAN PERLSBERG

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—(AP)—The amateur athletic union received no protest today and expects none from Herman Periberg, Cleveland speed skater, who was left at the dock when the United States Olympic representative sailed yesterday to compete in the international games at St. Moritz, Switzerland.

The recent dispute between the amateur skating union and the international skating union involving control of the sport resulted in two sets of selections for the Olympic team, A. A. U. officials explained. In the team of four representatives only three men—James O'Neil Farrell and Eddie Murphy, both of Chicago, and Valentine Bialis, of Utica, N. Y., were unanimous choices.

The mixup resulted in a get-together meeting of both factions, the A. A. U. explained, in which Irving Jaffe, of New York, was chosen as the fourth member of the team. Perlberg, chosen as substitute, was ruled off the squad by the Olympic committee, headed by Major General Douglas MacArthur, shortly before sailing time when it was decided that none but active contestants could make the trip.

The situation was further complicated when Perlberg, named by both factions as a substitute, appeared at the boat without a passport.

SHARKEY EXPECTS TO BE DOWN TO 193 FOR HEENEY

BOSTON, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Jack Sharkey, Boston heavyweight contender, will wind up his training on Tuesday and will leave for New York on Wednesday next week for his bout with Tom Heeney, of Australia, Johnny Buckley, the Boston boxer's manager said today.

Buckley said that he had not received any order from the New York state athletic commission for Sharkey to appear before it on next Tuesday for an examination of the injured hand which caused a postponement of the bout last year, but added that Sharkey would submit to the examination on his arrival in New York next Wednesday afternoon.

Sharkey today added Tom Kirby and Elzear Rioux to his squad of sparring partners. He weighed 195 pounds today, one pound under his weight against Dempsey, and hopes to be able to enter the ring at 193.

American Team Behind

LEIPSIG, Germany, Jan. 6—(AP)—The American team in the six day bicycle race, Harry Kaiser, of New York and Frank Keenan, of Boston, are far behind the leaders in the contest, which began last night.

The Italian team, Girandemo-Nigrini, are in the lead, being six laps in front of the Americans.

GEHRIG SIGNS CONTRACT FOR THREE YEARS

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Lou Gehrig, home run twin of Babe Ruth, has signed a three year contract with the New York Yankees, Colonel Jacob Ruppert, owner of the club, made known today. The salary arrangement for the New York first baseman was not revealed.

Last season it was understood that Gehrig received a salary of about $8,000. For the greater part of the campaign and in fact up to the final month, he battled on about equal terms with Ruth for home run honors. Ruth signed a three year contract with the Yankees at $70,000 per season, before the 1927 drive.

"We never disclose what salary arrangements are made" Col. Ruppert declared. "We have signed Gehrig for three years and that's about all that can be said."

Reports were current that Gehrig had turned down a five-year contract and that after lengthy dickerings, had compromised for a three year contract after satisfactory adjustment of the salary uestion was made.

During his first full year with the Yankees in 1925, Gehrig connected for 21 home runs. In the following season, he accounted for 16 four-baggers but enjoyed his best campaign last year when he turned out 47 circuit smashes, which was 13 short of Ruth's record crop.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

In playing 18 holes the average golfer is said to walk about five miles.

To pull on the left glove before the right is, in the opinion of all superstitious boxers, "asking for trouble."

The progress of the French in rugby was evidenced recently when a French team beat a team of English players for the first time in the history.

Benny Leonard, former world's lightweight champion, is one of the very few titleholders who have retired unbeaten, and never returned to the ring to lose.

Charles Gorman, the fleet skater of St. John, N. B., holds both the international outdoor and the international Indian championships, in addition to several world's records.

Johnny Somers, the former welterweight champion of Great Britain, is now engaged as chief companion and boxing instructor to a small son of Miss Gladys Cooper, celebrated English actress.

Although deeply religious and a deacon in a negro church of Atlanta, the late "Tiger" Flowers never prayed for victory in the ring lest he ed for victory in the ring lest he should be beaten and tempted to lose faith. If he won, he gave thanks.

During the year just ended Yale athletes, besides achieving a wonderful football record, won the intercollegiate title in indoor and outdoor polo, swimming and water polo, tied with Lehigh for the wrestling championship finished second in inter collegiate golf and in fencing, and were third in track athletics.

Basketball, once not even a recognized sport in Southern colleges and only lately granted a place among the major sports, is taking a strong hold in Southern Conference circles and better teams are being molded yearly.

The "grey" in greyhound is not meant to represent the color of the animal. "Grey" is a Scandinavian word for hound, this particular species of animal from that country having the name. So that when we use the word "greyhound" we are really saying "hound-hound."

Harry Stone, who had quit a standing as a pugilist awhile back, possessed as a mascot a towel which he boasted had never been washed. Upon it was the blood of scores of opponents besides his own, and when he fought it always hung over the lower rope in his corner.

ACADEMY BASKETBALL TEAM OPENS SEASON AGAINST PLAINFIELD TONIGHT

The Academy's second season of basketball opens this evening at the "Y" gym with Plainfield high as the opponent. The prospect is for a large crowd to welcome the Red and White in their first appearance on the chalked court since a game, hard fighting quintet laid the foundation for this sport at the school in 1926-27.

The outlook seems bright for the local school boys this year for they are entering the campaign with four veterans and a wealth of promising candidates for the fifth position. The squad has now been out for nearly a month although only a little over two weeks actual work has been given the squad. The first call for candidates was issued the second week of December and after a week and a half of drilling sessions were suspended for the holidays. They were resumed Thursday when uniforms were also handed out.

The first brace of workouts was devoted mainly to the fundamentals of the game while these last two days the players were instructed in signals and scrimmages have been held between A and B teams. Of course, the local school-boys are probably not now at the stage of development of other scholastic teams of this section but tonight's game should go a long way toward getting the team in good shape, especially toward getting them ready for Chapman Tech next Friday.

The starting N. F. A. lineup has not been announced by Coach Courtland Whitney and it is pretty certain that it will not be known until game time. However, it is almost certain that the four players from last year's team will start, namely, Capt. Jim Kelly and Buck LaCroix at the guards with Les Pingree at center and Joe Viau at forward. The other forward will probably be held down by Red Fagan, a newcomer to Academy sports although Dave Tigar is giving him a tough race for honors. If any reserve material be needed in the backcourt then Swatzburg seems to have first call. Others to figure in the Academy scheme of things will be Stevens, a guard and Lynch, a forward or center.

Plainfield comes here with an edge for this season's work, experience. She has played two games, winning one from Putnam Trade school and losing to the Alumni. Both games were played at Plainfield before the holidays, tonight's game being her first of the new year.

Even less can be surmised of the Plainfield starting lineup but one thing is certain, that the up-staters will trot out her strongest team for this game is regarded as one of the stiffest on her schedule and it ought to be an interesting encounter.

C. F. C. Vs. Buddies

A strong supporting cast has been lined up for the scholastic tilt with two preliminary games. A Senior Church league game will start at 7 and the Plainfield Buddies and Norwich C. F. C. clash at 8 o'clock.

These two teams have been the bitterest sort of rivals for many years, always furnishing torrid contests when they get together. This is their second game of the season, the locals having inflicted a one point defeat at Plainfield a week or so ago. This was the Buddies' only defeat on their home floor and that they will strive extra hard to avenge it this evening can be taken for granted. The Buddies, no doubt will be greatly encouraged by their win over the "Y" Outlaws last Wednesday night.

Both teams will have their strongest lineups which will run something like this: C. F. C.—Capt. Lambert and Brown, forwards with Neil and Moberg and Davis at guards. Buddies—Peterson and Mercer, forwards with Eaton at center and Arsenault and Bromley at guards.

The first preliminary game starts at 7 o'clock with the First Bantist and Central Baptist teams in action in a Senior Church league encounter. This should furnish real action for the early-comers.

The bleachers will be erected in anticipation of a banner turnout.

KALAMAZOO $25,000 DERBY TOPS GRAND CIRCUIT PROGRAM

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Jan. 6.—The $25,000 H. O. Reno Great American Pacing Derby, richest sidewheeling classic in the world, again will head the Grand Circuit racing program here this year, W. P. Engleman, secretary of the local plant, announced.

This will be the fifth edition of the fixture. As in the past, only pacers eligible to the 2:08 class under the winrace and time allowance rules of the American Trotting association will be permitted to compete.

The derby annually has provided light harness racing fans with keen contests. Singularly, the winners of the previous four battles hailed from different states. In the inaugural in 1924, Margaret Spangler, as game a race mare as ever stepped out of Massachusetts was returned victorious. In 1925, Tarzen Grattan, owned by Walter T. Candler of Atlanta, Ga., led the procession. The 1926 winner turned up in the Minnesota stallion, Hollyrood Walter. Last season, Prue Grattan captured the honors for Ohio.

In addition to the Derby, the $10,000 Exchange Club trot will be on the Kasoo program, Engelman announces. This too is an old fixture.

This year's big time meeting will be the 21st here and the plant ranks as the oldest member of America's premier light harness racing circuit.

BOSTON BRAVES TO PLAY 24-GAME EXHIBITION SLATE

BOSTON, Jan. 6. —(AP)—A 24-game exhibition schedule, which includes a trip up the Florida east coast and a two game series with the Toledo American association champions at Toledo, Ohio, was announced today by the Boston Braves. Pitchers and catchers will report for their first practice at St. Petersburg, Fla., on February 20 and the rest of the squad is scheduled to arrive a week later.

Jack Slattery, the new manager of the Tribe, gave first indication of a shift in player personnel today with the announcement that he will attempt to convert big Ed Brown from an outfielder to a first baseman. Brown, accordingly will be sent south several weeks ahead of the battery men and is due at St. Petersburg on February 1.

The shift was prompted by an effort to minimize Brown's weak throwing arm and the fact that he turned in a stellar performance at first base last year in one game when he was called on in an emergency after injuries to both Dick Burrus and Jacques Fournier.

"Brownie is too valuable a man in other departments to lose him for want of a good throwing arm," Slattery explained, "and of course if he should fail to make the grade on the training trip there is the possibility of returning him to the outfield due to the shortened playing zone we'll have next year with the erection of new bleachers at Braves field."

The exhibition schedule, with all "home" games at St. Petersburg follows:

March 9, Red Sox at Bradenton; 10, Washington at Tampa; 12, Yankees; 13, Washington; 14, St. Louis Cardinals; 15, Yankees; 17, Yankees; 19, Red Sox; 20, 21, 22, Yankees; 23, 24, Philadelphia Athletics; 26, 27, Athletics at Fort Myers; 28, 29, Brooklyn at Miami; 30, 31, Brooklyn at West Palm Beach; April 4, Chattanooga at Chattanooga; 5, 6, Nashville at Nashville; 7, 8, Toledo at Toledo; 11 opening day New York Giants at the Polo Grounds.

PLAINFIELD BUDDIES HAND BALTIC BAD TRIMMING

The fast traveling Plainfield Buddies added another victim to their list Friday night at the Baltic gym by downing the Baltic Independents in convincing fashion. The score was 49 to 16.

The Plainfield boys had a big lead almost from the opening tapoff, holding their opponents scoreless during the entire first half which ended 26 to 0. Joe Eaton led the scorers with 18 points while Bromley and Mercer were next with 10 points apiece.

In the preliminary Baltic lost again the Maroons dropping a 29 to 28 decision to the Taftville Whirlwinds in a fast game. Durr led the winners in scoring with 13 points while Blanchette was high scorer for the Baltic boys. The summaries:

JOE FABER SET NEW RECORD IN PENNSY LEAGUE

The publishing of the season's records of the New York-Pennsylvania league brings to notice that Joe Faber, local boy was some pumpkins down in that loop. Of course the local people always know that Joseph had the makings of a sweet little apple-chaser and his season's record justifies their claim that he is one of the best boys to ever be graduated from the local sandlots. Here's what Joe did last season: He set a new league record for consecutive games played, finishing the 1927 season without missing a game. He has not been out of a contest in the three seasons he has been a member of the league, having participated in 394 consecutive games. He hit for an average of .329 in 139 games. He placed second in the number of hits registered, three behind the leader. He was second in the number of home runs hit, Glenn Killinger leading the league with 11. He was third in total bases. Infielding he was second with an average of .592 among the shortstops. He handled the most chances for a shortstop, 848, with 294 putouts, 513 assists and 41 errors.

A record like this should attract the attention of some of the managers in the big show.

HARRINGTON CANNOT PLAY WITH PROVIDENCE TEAM

BOSTON, Jan. 6. —(AP)— Leland "Hago" Harrington can not play this year with the Providence club of the Canadian-American league to whom he was sold yesterday by the Boston Bruins after President Frank C. Calder of the National league ruled that he was the property of the Bruins and not of the New Haven-Canadian-American club.

President Charles C. Clapp of the Canadian American circuit today defined Harrington's status under a rule adopted a week ago by which no Canadian-American player who has been recalled to a National league team can return to the Canadian-American loop in the same season. The edict was designed to prevent too much swapping and general shuffling of players.

Harrington can rejoin the Providence club next year but he must be sold or farmed out to another league for the rest of this season, President Clapp said. Harrington was recalled from New Haven by the Bruins several weeks ago but declined to obey the order and an argument over his possession culminated in President Calder's decision and the player's sale.

THREE TIE IN LOS ANGELES OPEN

WILSHIRE COUNTRY CLUB, Los Angeles, Jan. 6.—(AP)—The rolling fairways of Wilshire, flanked and threaded by treacherous barrancas, proved a severe test today for the "big guns" of the golfing world—only three out of a huge field of 128 were even able to equal its par of 71 in the first round of the $10,000 Los Angeles open.

Those holding the coveted station at the end of the first 18 of the 72-hole event were Dallas Jeffers, youthful Riverside professional, Tommy Armour, Washington, D. C., and "Wild Bill" Mehlhorn of the Wilkinsburg Country club, Pittsburgh.

They finished in the order named. Armour, National open champion and veteran of many big campaigns, played steady golf throughout to club his way into a tie with Jeffers after the latter had given some three thousand spectators a thrill with his stunning 71 earlier in the day. Mehlhorn, one of the last to start, had his clubs functioning perfectly to pound his way into a triple tie with the leaders.

Jeffers, 25 years old and virtually unknown so far as golfing prowess goes, was unhampered by a gallery. And those who failed to follow him missed some of the finest putting of the day. For that department of the game carried the youthful pro into a deadlock with a pair of noted performers whose names are known wherever golf is played.

A snappy three, one under par, gave Jeffers his start on the third hole. Again on the eleventh and seventeenth he dropped twelve-foot putts for threes. Both are par four holes.

Armour and Mehlhorn turned in their usual smashing games with the former's drives considerably longer than he is noted for.

A fifteen-foot putt that traveled true into the eighteenth cup propelled Armour into a tie.

The low scorers included:

MacDonald Smith, Long Island, N. Y., 38-36—74.
Lewis Scott, Los Angeles, 39-35—74.
Bobby Cruickshank, New York, 38-36—74.
Clark Hamilton, Denver, 34-40—74.
Jack Tarrant, Los Angeles, 36-38—74.
Billie Bathie, Omaha, 39-36—75.

"Always More For Less"

3-7 Water St., Cor. Washington Sq. Norwich, Conn.

BASKETBALL BRIEFS

Tonight's the night! At last the Academy gets started on its second season of basketball.

The locals ought to win. They have looked pretty good in practice sessions.

However, there is always that archenemy overconfidence around and Plainfield also may have a surprise.

With three games this evening there ought to be a large crowd on hand early. The first one starts at 7 and the Academy's tilt should go on about 9 p. m.

The Plainfield Pros are experiencing little let-up in tackling the tough ones. Next Wednesday the Fitton A. C. of Boston furnishes the opposition at the Community house.

The Y Emps would like games with junior teams of this section.

The uestion for today—Who's going to cover Billy Schofield in the Danielson-Taftville game next Tuesday at Parish hall?

Soccer Game at Jewett City

The Jewett City Soccer team plays the A. F. C. of Westerly, Sunday afternoon, at Ashland park. This will be the third game to be played between these teams this season and so far all have been good.

The Jewett City club is made up of practically all new men and is making an attempt to renew the interest of the townspeople in a game that twenty years ago Jewett City held a premier place.

HURST HELD BY SYRACUSE AT $100,000

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Jan. 6—(AP)—Don Hurst, firstbaseman of the Syracuse Stars, is valued at more than $100,000 by the Syracuse club. Questioned today regarding reports that the Philadelphia National league club had made an offer for Hurst, President Giles said that neither the Phillies nor any other club with the exception of the St. Louis Cardinals who control the Syracuse franchise, could buy Hurst even for $100,000.

AN OUTBURST OF BUYING OF STOCKS CAUSED ADVANCE IN PRICE MOVEMENT

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Speculators for the advance regained control of the price movement in today's stock market through a series of spectacular bullish demonstrations in special stocks. U. S. Steel common, General Motors and other popular industrials retrieved only part of the losses sustained in yesterday's sweeping decline, but more than a dozen specialties were marked up 5 to nearly 19 points in a wild outburst of buying which brought the day's total sales just under the 3,000,000 shares.

Although the increase of $341,000,000 in stock exchange member loans last month, which was announced after the close Wednesday, was generally held responsible for Thursday's sharp reaction, practically no attention was paid to the increase of nearly $92,500,000 in the weekly federal reserve report of loans issued after the close of the market last night. With call money renewing at 4 per cent. and a plentiful supply available at that figure, Wall street apparently took the attitude that for the present at least fears of a credit stringency were unfounded. Gold shipments totaling $8,500,000 for South America were partially offset by the importation of $1,500,000 from Canada, making a net loss of $7,000,000 on the day to this country.

The weekly mercantile reviews published today report a generally cheerful tone in trade circles although the usual year-end readjustments made for some irregularity during the week. Merger rumors were again widely circulated, the latest involving a consolidation of the Texas corporation and California Petroleum and a union of Certainteed Products, Glidden Co. and Beaverboard. President Holmes of the Texas corporation was reported to be in California looking over oil properties. No confirmation of the Certainteed merger was available.

U. S. Steel common, which lost 2 points net yesterday, recovered 1 5-8 but General Motors recovered only a fraction of its decline of more than 3 points.

Radio corporation was one of the outstanding individual features, soaring 8 5-8 points to 99 on a turn over of nearly 200,000 shares. Midland Steel Products preferred, which broke 28 points yesterday and rebounded nearly 14, moved up 19 1-4 points today. Christie Brown soared 13 3-8 to a new peak at 100 7-8. American International, Butterick, Coty, General Asphalt preferred, International Match preferred, International Nickel, Mullins Body, Standard Milling and Victor Talking Machine convertible preferred all sold 5 or more points above yesterday's final quotations, and closed near the top.

Greene Cananea dropped 4 1-4 points and weakness also developed in International Silver, National Surety and United Fruit.

Rails also developed rallying tendencies, Canadian Pacific standing out with a gain of 4 points.

Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged. Foreign exchanges moved within rather narrow and irregular limits. Sterling cables yielding slightly to $4.87 13-16.

Cotton rallied about $1 a bale on reports of a better spot demand in foreign markets. Wheat advanced a fraction of a cent a bushel in colorless trading. Coffee and sugar quotations were slightly easier.

THE SOCIAL CORNER

WORRY IS THE ONLY INTEREST PAID BY THOSE WHO BORROW TROUBLE

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY
WHY I TAKE MORE PAINS WITH MY PENMANSHIP.

Ah! here it is! I'm famous now,
And author and a poet!
It really is in print! Ye Gods!
How proud I'll be to show it!
And gentle Anna! what a thrill
Will animate her breast,
To read these ardent lines and know
To whom they are addressed!

Why, bless my soul!—here's something strange!
What can the paper mean
By talking of the "graceful brooks
That gander o'er the green"?
And here's a "t" instead of "r",
Which makes it "tippling rut";
"We'll seek the shad," instead of shade,
And "hell" instead of hill.

"They look so"—what! I recollect
'Twas "sweet," and then 'twas "kind";
And now to think the stupid fool
For "bland" was printed "blind."
Was ever such provoking work!
This curious, by-the-by—
How anything is rendered blind
By giving it an "i"!

"Hast thou no tears?" the "i" left out,
"Hast thou no ears?" instead;
"I hope that thou are dear" is put
"I hope that thou are dead."
Who ever saw in such a state
So many blunders crammed?
"Those gentle eyes bedimmed" is spelt,
"Those gentle eyes be damned."

"Thou are the same" is rendered "lame."
It really is too bad;
And here, because and "I" is out,
My "lovely maid" is "mad";
They drove her blind by poking in
An "i"—a process new—
And now they've gouged it out again,
And made her crazy, too.

"Where are the Muses fled that thou Should'st live so long unsung?"
Thus ran my version—here it is—
"Should'st live so long unhung."
And "h" commences fate;
How small a circumstance will turn
A woman's love to hate!

I'll read no more! What shall I do?
I'll never dare to send it;
The paper's scattered far and wide,
'Tis now too late to mend it.
Oh, Fame! Thou cheat of human bliss!
Why did I ever write?
I wish my poem had been burned
Before it saw the light!

Let's stop and recapitulate;
I've damned her eyes—that's plain;
I've told her she's a lunatic,
And blind, and deaf and lame;
Was ever such a horrid hash
In poetry or prose?
I've said she was a fiend, and praised
The color of her nose.

I wish I had that editor
About a half a minute.
I'd bang him to his heart's content,
And with an "h" begin it;
I'd jam his body, eyes and bones,
And spell it with a "d,"
And send him to that "hill" of his—
He spells it with an "e."

LOOKING FORWARD

Cheer up! Cheer up! Don't be so sad!
Don't look so glum and blue!
How can you have the least idea
Of what's in store for you?
Today the outlook may be dark,
But when tomorrow's here
The sun may shine, the clouds be gone,
The skies be bright and clear.

Don't be cast down when things aren't right,
But keep your courage strong.
A good stiff upper lip will help
At lot when things go wrong.
Just do your best and leave the rest
To Fate—work hard and pray,
Believe that things will be all right;
Or trust so, anyway!

"IF"

If trouble were a feather
A breath might blow away,
And only sunny weather
Came to us day by day,
We'd laugh away the wrinkles
That tell of life's decay,
If trouble were a feather
A breath might blow away.

If age were always mellow
And brought no carking care
And Time a jolly fellow,
Would touch us unaware;
Then down life's gentle gradient
We'd glide as light as air;
If age were always mellow
And brought no carking care.

If maids would set the fashion
Never to answer "nay,"
When love, the tender passion,
Spoke in its pleading way;
Then thro' life's leafy by-ways
In lovers' mood we'd stray,
If maids would set the fashion
To never answer "nay."

If only kindly sinners
Could run this world's affairs,
We'd sit at better dinners
And spend less time at prayers;
And at life's sparkling banquet
We'd drown corroding cares,
If only kindly sinners
Could run this world's affairs.

If fame were worth the striving,
And all were in the race,
And each of us were driving
A horse well backed for place;
Then round life's race course speeding,
We'd set the devil's pace,
If fame were worth the striving,
And all were in the race.

WHY PEOPLE GO TO CHURCH

Some go to church just for a walk,
Some to stare and laugh and talk,
Some go there to meet a friend,
Some their idle time to spend,
Some for general observation,
Some for private speculation,
Some to seek or find a lover,
Some a courtship to discover,
Some go there to use their eyes,
And newest fashions criticize,
Some to show their own smart dress,
Some their neighbors to assess;
Some to scan a robe or bonnet,
Some to price the trimming on it,
Some to learn the latest news,
That friends at home they may amuse.
Some to gossip false and true,
Safe within the sheltering pew,
Some go there to please the squire,
Some his daughter to admire,
Some the parson go to fawn,
Some to lounge and some to yawn,
Some to claim the parish doles,
Some for bread and some for coals,
Some because it's thought genteel,
Some to vaunt their pious zeal,
Some to show how sweet they sing,
Some how loud their voices ring,
Some the preacher go to hear,
His style of voice to praise or jeer,
Some their sins to vanish o'er,
Some to sit and doze and nod,
But few to kneel and worship God.

SOCIAL CORNER EVENTS

Jan. 11—Club No. 1 meets in chamber of commerce hall, Willimantic.

ANSWERS AND INQUIRIES

JUST JILL: Your name has been added to the Social Corner list.

Hope Cobweb and B. Z. B.: Many thanks. Season's best wishes.

CLUB NO. 5's DECEMBER MEETING.

Dear Social Corner Editor and Members: A Happy New Year to one and all. It does not seem that it is 12 long months ago that we began writing 1927 and now it is a thing of the past. And we must write 1928.

It is rather late to give a report of Club No. 5's December meeting but I have been so busy I have neglected to do so before. Although the day was very stormy we had nearly 60 in attendance. Just-a-Nut and Truda had the hall very prettily decorated with yellow streamers decorated with halves of English walnut shells which made very pretty decorations. At each plate was a green napkin with a jolly looking Santa Claus on it in a holder also made of paper and shells. There was an abundance of good things to eat. After dinner there was a short entertainment and a very interesting talk was given by Miss Sarah Thompson. Palmer spoke about her trip abroad which was much enjoyed. Miss Palmer is planning to start soon on another which may take her to Africa and on her return we hope she will visit us again and tell us about it. That it was voted to give $10 to Mrs. Dagman Smith of the People's Mission for her own personal use.

Calla Lily: Your card received; will answer your request as soon as I can. By the way, there is a lot of truth in what you and Joan say. The new broom sweeps clean but it takes the old one to get in the corners, as we all know but we are thankful we have help in plenty so far.

Lady Lou is to be our hostess on the 17th. I wish I could have attended the December meetings of the sister clubs but it was impossible.

Twice Twenty: I too can testify as to how good the "scraps" and johnny cakes tasted. I usually have some every year but this year we have no pig to butcher unless we buy one all fatted.

Cosmos: Tried to call on you the 27th but as usual you were out.

—E. L. H.

A THOUGHT FOR THE NEW YEAR.

Dear Social Corner Friends and Editor: Here is a bit of good advice entitled "Let's Travel Slower," to start the New Year with:

"Backward, turn backward, O Time in your flight; Let's travel slower, awhile, for tonight. We are so weary of automobiles, tooting and skidding and grazing our heels. Give us a horse and buggy once more, such as we used in those dear days of yore. Let's amble onward with never a fear that there may be something to get out of gear! No punctured tires or spark plugs to watch, never a throttle to let out a notch; not any danger of our patient steed breaking the limit as to the speed. We needn't listen for fear of a smash; we needn't worry there may come a crash. Give us a horse and buggy, I say—such as we used in our granddaddy's day. We are too fond of this bustle and rush; we are too prone to get caught in a crush. Let's travel slower—we can't live but once. What is the use of these fool auto stunts? Too many joyriders are now raising hob, anxious to give the grave digger a job! Backward, turn backward—let's travel more slow—for why in Sam Hill are we hurrying so?"

Here is a use for grape fruit seeds: For a growing center piece on the table, or a dainty bit of window gardening, take a fern dish or flat bowl, fill with good soil and stick into from time to time the grape fruit seed as they are, left upon the breakfast table, these seeds will spring up quickly with satiny, green leaves, thrifty and beautiful. An invalid would find the bowl a perpetual delight, as new seeds may be poked in each morning.

—ANN TENNA.

A Few Words About Fort Ned.

Dear Cornerites: A happy and prosperous New Year t oeditor and Social Corner Members. Through the kindness of a friend, I was able to attend a Socia Corner meeting on Nov. 16 at Lebanon. It was a fine day and I enjoyed the ride. Also meeting with friends that I knew. I had planned many times to write and tell of my enjoyable vacation the first of the summer at the White mountains. Accidents, sickness and death in family followed too closely. As the Corner was well filled it mattered not.

In answer to a question asked some time ago as to who knew anything about Ford Ned I will give a few facts. I was well acquainted with the spot as I taught school nearby there in a small schoolhouse called Brunswick school. I will not say how many years ago for that might give my age away. At that time the place was called Appaquag, an Indian name. Near the pond was a small mill where paper was made. I don't know how many were employed there. I had quite a number of scholars coming from there. There were four or five two-tenement houses and a store. At noon time we sometimes took a walk down there to watch the process of paper making. I do not remember the name of the first owner now. It changed hands and a fine house was built on the hill which some called the mansion. Soon after, the mill was destroyed by fire, the house, and after that everything went to decay. I have not been there for many years. I can see in my mind's eye as it was then. I judge from the writer, who has lately been there that nature holds its sway there and the beauty has not all passed away.

GREETINGS FROM INDIA

Dear Editor Social Corner Members: I wish you all a Happy New Year. Hope every one will have a good time when you have your meetings this year. I have heard what nice times you have and wish I could have met you all. I read all your letters in the Corner and have for years.

FLAT BOUQUETS IN JERSEY FROCKS.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I thought I would start the new year rigth and send in a letter to the Corner. Didn't the old year go out with a wail—rain and wind. Let's hope that grim old winter will not show up with snow and sleet too soon.

Christmas day was lovely, more like an autumn day than the beginning of winter. New Year's day, though was windy and as I have a long walk to church, I felt its stinging power very much.

I'm sending directions on how to make those little flat bouquets for winter Jersey frocks that will not form an uncomfortable lump under a coat. Just copy a French bouquet made of circles of gay colored wool and silk floss crocheted in a chain stitch. It takes 12 flowers for a nicely shaped bouquet, and the more colors you use, the prettier it will be. For the flowers make 12 strips of chain stitch eight inches long each, and composed of about six inches wool chain stitch and two inches contrasting silk floss. Roll each little strip edgewise so that the bit of silk floss forms the center of the flower, catch with a few stitches underneath, and press flat.

The flower heads should be almost the size of a five-cent piece. Attach the heads to stems of green raffia or heavy green wool of different lengths, and flatten out so that each flower shows separately, but also lies perfectly flat.

Joan: Many thanks for the Christmas card you sent me. Hope you and H. will have a very happy New Year. Are you interested in Lindbergh? Mother and I can't hardly wait evening till WPG comes on the air over our radio so we can hear the news and find out where he is.

Cady: By the time this letter is in print I shall see you but I'm going to say "Hello," just the same, though the Corner page.

Here's my wish for the New Year to you all,

"May you take the hills of life in high, on friendship's sunny trail and coast from pleasure's dizzy height with brakes that cannot fail."

EGLANTINE.

WAYS TO MAKE VEAL LOAF.

Dear Members of the Social Corner: One of the members has requested a recipe for making veal-loaf. I am sending some of mine.

Veal Loaf: Take a piece of butter the size of an egg. Three pounds of raw veal, one heaping teaspoon salt, one of pepper (level) and two raw eggs. (Chop veal through food chopper), mix all together, and put in about two tablespoons of water. Mold this into a loaf, then roll it in 3 tablespoons of cracker crumbs, and pour over this 3 tablespoons of melted butter; place in a pan, bake 2 hours. To be sliced off when cold. This is a real veal loaf.

Another Veal Loaf: Three pounds of uncooked veal; 1-4 pound of pork; chop fine; add 2 eggs, 1 cup pounded crackers, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 of pepper, sage and summer savory to suite the taste; press hard in a pudding dish; bake 1 1-2 hours. Cut in thin slices when cold.

Veal Loaf with Lamb: This is original. Take 2 pounds of lamb, cut in small pieces (1 1-2 pounds of veal or 1-2 pound salt pork) 4 large onions salt and pepper, celery salt. Pour in hot water to nearly each top of meat, but not cover. Cover dish and bake in moderate oven about 3 hours. (Left-over string beans or bits of mushrooms may be added). Thicken gravy with flour and serve. Serve very hot over warmed-up noodles.

Veal Loaf with Tomato Sauce; Pass 2 pounds of lean beef through the food chopper and add 1 cup of cornbread crumbs moistened with one cup of stewed tomatoes, 1 beaten egg, 3 tablespoons of chopped pimentos, 1-3 cup of veal stock (or water), 1 teaspoon of salt and 3 level tablespoons of melted butter. Shape in a loaf; place in a greased pan and bake in a hot oven, basting frequently with the stock. Serve with tomato sauce to which chopped pimentos are added.

Veal Loaf with Gelatine: Take 2 cups of any left-over stock, bring to the boiling point and add one envelop of gelatine softened in a 1-2 cup of cold water. When the mixture begins to stiffen add 3 cups of cold veal, chopped. Turn into a square mold which has been dipped in cold water and chill. Remove from mould cut in slices for serving. I have several other veal loaf recipes, but I consider these the best.

There is a recipe I wished you would try. It contains all the things a full well balanced meal should have. It is also cheap and delicious.

One package of spaghetti, 1 can of tomatoes, 1 stalk of celery, 3 onions, one green pepper, 1-2 pound of round steak, grated cheese (cooked beans miscellaneous left-overs, meats and vegetables). Flour the meat. Fry on hot greased pan. Cook spaghetti separately, as per package directions. Put one table spoon of butter in, add tomato, onions, chopped raw celery and pepper. Let cook slowly for about five minutes. Turn into the meat, cook until vegetables are tender. Serve with grated cheese on each portion.

A WISH FOR THE NEW YEAR.

Dear Social Corner Friends: The year of 1927 has gone. While it was a year of pleasure and profit to some, it was a sad year to hundreds whose relatives or friends lost their lives by floods, cyclones, fires, automobiles and submarines. It was also a sad year for the western farmers who feed the world, as it was a cold wet spring making planting late and crops did not mature before the early frost came and many lost their entire crops in the great farming states in the west. December went out with a January thaw making many country roads impassable owing to frost coming out and deep mud in some places. The ruts were deep and the body of autos would drag on the ground making traveling much like in the month of April.

Let us hope the year 1928 will be much better for all on land or sea and bring more comfort to every one who has passed through the year of no summer and sunshine like 1927. Wishing the editor and the large family of Social Corner members a happy New Year with sunshine and prosperity for the entire year of 1928, I remain very sincerely yours.

JOINS THE CORNER

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Yes, and brothers, too! I'd like to enter in your ranks. And just say how-de-do, I often read your letters o'er, and use the hints you send; you give me many good ideas that help me in the end. You write such jolly letters that it makes me feel at home. Whenever I read your paper, no matter where I roam, I hope you'll print my little line, I really hope you will. Next time I'll write a letter to you. I'll be

JUST JILL.

OYSTER RECIPES.

Dear Sisters: These oyster recipes are seasonal:

Scalloped Oyster Macaroni: Boil macaroni in a cloth to keep it straight. Butter your baking dish and then put a layer in a dish seasoned with salt, pepper and butter, then a layer of oysters until the dish is full. Mix some grated bread with a beaten egg, spread over the top, and bake.

I never have but two layers of oysters. I think they bake better.

Oyster Stew: 1 pint oysters washed carefully put on to cook with 1-2 cup of water. Watch carefully and when the edges curl, remove from stove and drain—(that cleans the oysters of every particle of shell, etc.) Strain the broth through a finer strainer, add the milk, about one pint—have it hot but not boiling—2 teaspons salt, 1-4 teaspoon of pepper. Thicken with an even tablespoon of flour and butter 2 tablespoons blended. Add oysters about one pint, let boil up and serve. The thickening may be omitted if preferred, but I think the creamy consistency is most delicious. If a thinner stew is desired twice the quantity of milk may be used.

Fried Oysters: Select the largest oysters and prepare them carefully by washing your hands and passing each oyster through the fingers, using extreme care to remove all bits of shell. Then place the oysters in a strainer and pour cold water over them. Dry with a cheese cloth, then dip them in flour which has been salted a little. Now have the yolks of two eggs with 2 tablespoons of top milk (the flour helps to make the egg adhere to the oysters) then dip them in rolled cracker crumbs or corn meal. Fry in basket or deep fat.

For concordia scalloped oysters use the oysters in the same manner as above recipe but after drying them with a cloth, place a layer of the crumbs about 1 cup of cracker or bread crumbs, in a shallow buttered baking-dish, then a layer of oyster and then a layer of celery, using one cup. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and dot with bits of butter; then add a layer of white sauce, which has been seasoned with half of the salt and pepper and the mace—(just the least bit of the mace; if there is a sign of getting too much in, don't put in any). Repeat, having the "crumbs" dotted with the butter as the top layer. Bake in hot oven 30 minutes until the crumbs are a rich brown.

Corn Meal Oyster Fritters: I use 1 cup corn meal, 1 cup bread flour, 3-4 cup milk, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, one dozen medium oysters.

Mix together thoroughly all the dry ingredients, sift 3 times, add the eggs well beaten with the milk. Fold the oysters in the batter, drop by tablespoon into hot, deep fat. Have one oyster in each fritter. Cook on both sides until well done. Drain on paper, serve at once.

PRESIDENT'S FRUIT CAKE

Dear Social Corner Editor, Sisters and readers: I thought that the "way I make cake" would be a great help to the brides and new cake makers. I understand that there are wonderful cake makers that belong to the Corner.

President's Fruit Cake: One pound each of butter, sugar, one pound of flower, browned and sifted, twelve eggs, yokes and whites beaten separately, five pounds of seeded raisins, one and one-half pounds of shredded citron peel, one glass of grape jelly, two teaspoons melted chocolate, one pound crystalized cherries diced, one pound of crystallized diced pineapples, one pound of blanched almonds cut fine and browned, one pound of shelled pecan nuts cut fine, one tablespoon powdered cinnamon, one scant tablespoon of powdered nutmeg, one half tablespoon of all-spice, one scant teaspoon of powdered cloves, one glassful of grape juice, two tablespoons of rose water and one quarter pound of orange paste; soak the almonds in the rose water over night; soak fruit in the grape juice the same length of time. Cream butter and sugar thoroughly. Add the well beaten yolks of eggs; then spices, grape jelly and chocolate in order named. Next add the stiffly beaten whites of eggs, then the flour, reserving a small quantity. Mix the fruit in this and stir in very small quantities at a time into the batter; the nuts are added last of all. The time required for baking depends largely upon the size; a five pound cake takes 2 1-2 hours and a 25 pound cake takes 4 hours.

You can make one-quarter the recipe if you desire.

SISTER READY'S BUSY DAY

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: Just a few lines to wish you all a happy New Year. Trust all the sick are improving. We have had a very snappy spell of winter weather. I spent New Year's day with a very dear friend at my old home. We had a very pleasant time together. We are always wondering what will happen in the new year. All that has happened here so far is that part of the kitchen ceiling fell. No one was hurt and this morning upon arising both fires were out and the front of the kitchen stove fell off. The man of the house fixed the stove. I built up the fires, baked cake, cupcakes and a tin of ginger bread, made a kettle of clam chowder and cleaned up the mess and was already to read the paper by 1 p. m. If anything else of interest happens this month I will let you know.

Many thanks to a Social Corner Member for my pretty calendar.

Best wishes to all.

SISTER READY.

JOAN'S VEAL LOAF

Dear Social Corner Friends: Hope all had a pleasant Christmas. Many thanks to the sisters for sending the poem—one can get about everything they ask for in the Corner. Am sending my recipe for veal loaf and hope "Cherry Blossom" will have good luck.

Veal Loaf: Three pounds of raw veal cutlet, two slices of salt pork, two slices of bread—chop all these fine—two eggs, three teaspoons of salt, one of black pepper, one half cup of sweet milk or cream, season with sage or any herbs you like. Mix well and make into a loaf, dredge with flour and bake three hours, basting while baking with butter and water.

HOUSEHOLD ACCOUNTS

Dear Social Corner, Editor and Members: Promptly with January first, the beginning of a new year, did you make a really honest to goodness resolve to keep your 1928 household accounts in trim shape? It is so much worth while to know where one is going financially—and so bad for the character to drift aimlessly and without plan or even record of expenditure.

Mrs. Frederick gives us quite good advice. She says: Even if you have failed it before; even if you have become cynical or despaired of keeping up your accounts, this time say you will stick to it. The difficulty is always at the start in developing the habit, in getting started into practice and making it routine. You have no idea what an increase in self respect and a sense of surer grip on yourself it means at the end of the year, if you carry your account record through to December. Husbands increase their respect for you; even children increase their respect, when you show the proof of responsible record-keeping and, surprisingly, too, you will notice you have more to spend on what you want because you develop a better spending proportion when you know from your own records just where you stand.

Yes, turn over a new leaf, but let it be the leaf of a household account book.

Some one wished a receipt for

Veal Loaf: Boil three pounds of veal until tender and season. Hard cook eight eggs. Dissolve one package gelatin in one pint of the hot liquor from the meat. Pack one half of the cooked meat in a mould. On this put a layer of crumbled egg yolks, then on this the whites, cut in rings. Then a layer of meat. Pour gelatin over all and allow to congeal. Serve in slices.

ETHELYN.

USING LEFT-OVER VEAL.

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: Christmas as well as New Year's is on the wane and we are still cooking and eating.

I will tell how I use my left-over veal. Take two cups of cold roast veal, put through food chopper, add 1 cup sausage meat, 4 tablespoons of bread crumbs, 1-2 cup gravy, 1 egg, salt and pepper. Form into a loaf and brush with some of the egg (the rest is put in loaf) and more bread crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven one hour, basting occasionally with some shortening or a slice of salt pork laid on top.

Mrs. R: Here is a cabbage soup for Harry. Four quarts of water, 1 large head of cabbage cut in small pieces, sprinkle with flour, add to water with one quarter pound of butter, let simmer 5 hours or until cabbage is soft, add about 4 whole peppers. When nearly done, take a piece of butter the size of egg, in spider. When brown add one tablespoon sugar; brown well, but be careful not to burn; then take some of cabbage and add to butter (be careful as it spatters) then add to pot of soup. Awfully good; it's original.

Dear H. L. J.: Don't let possessions possess you. I will tell you a story that Sophie Loeb told.

Once upon a time there was a young man and a young woman. They had married young and had a very little to start with, but they both loved each other.

They were always regarded as the ideal couple. Their tastes were alike and they enjoyed the same things, therefore they got along very well together and worked to each other's interests.

They had no children, so they had to be all in all to each other, which they were. When he was earning a small salary, they chose the simplest of pleasures and got much fun out of every thing. They would discuss a movie they had seen for several days afterward.

They had inexpensive vacations, taken in the summer together and they were a source of reflection during all the winter months. In a word their growing process, when they had very little and necessarily had to be drawn together, showed them the happiest couple in the whole world.

Now, it came to pass, that the young man was given an opportunity as the junior member of the firm, a chance for which he long had hoped. And as he had ambition and was happy, things came his way and he succeeded. They had more of material things and they both enjoyed their growing together.

As time went on the husband continued to progress in business until he became an equal partner and now he had to come in contact with new people, people in the same status of affluence as himself. And quite naturally his wife mingled with the wives of these men and naturally she followed the old adage; When in Rome, do as the Romans do.

She joined the little club and that little organization; this philanthropic movement, and that subscription party, until she found herself very busy indeed. At the same time he was very busy with his very big business.

She had her own automobile and her husband had his. And there were servants and workers and more things to look after. So it happened, in the common course, of such lives, the couple saw very little of each other except at dinner in the evening.

And then it occurred that even for the evening meal he would telephone he would remain at the club—"to go over some matters with Jones;" or she would telephone him, "Did he mind if she dined at the home of one of the women in her set?"

Of course he didn't mind. It was in the air and part of his success habit. Separate visits to separate friends became frequent. He learned to play certain games of which she knew nothing about, she continued to join the activities which were not particularly to his interest.

Then it also occurred that occasionally they disagreed on some activities, which each one was interested in, and a quarrel ensued. One quarrel brought on another until half the time they were not on speaking terms. Then came the parting of the ways. They awoke one morning to find they had grown very much apart, and the well known "You go your way and I'll go mine" proposition resulted.

Now the sorry thing about this whole matter was that these two people loved each other, but too many material things with all the cases that they entail, had really separated them.

After they had been apart some time and they had time to get a good perspective on themselves, they saw the truth of their trouble.

I do not know if they ever came together again, but I know each taught this moral to young people who come their way—Don't let possessions possess you.

LOST MAIL

Dear Editor and Social Corner Folks: What bright snappy weather we are having.

I suppose every one is doing like me, shoveling coal to keep the home fire burning, and still it is not any too warm.

What a nice day Club No. 5 had for their meeting. Hope we will have as nice a day for Club No. 3's meeting, but I do hope it won't be quite so cold.

I suppose Santa was good to all of us. I know he was to me.

I wonder how many of the sisters have had mail lost just going from one part of Norwich to another.

I have had two letters lost that were sent to me, one mailed right in Norwich and the other from an R. F. D. and had one disappear for over two weeks and then I finally got it. It does seem funny to me.

Wasn't it nice of that lady from Providence to tell the editor that she likes to read the Social Corner page and it is kind of her to pass her papers to the shut ins.

Ukelele Lady: I was in a great hurry or would have stopped to speak to you the other day.

I am sending the recipe for date cake as I promised.

Will have to ring off as my paper has given out so I wish all a very happy and prosperous New Year.

Date Cake: Cut 2-3 package of dates in pieces after stoning. Pour over them 1 cup boiling water in which 1 teaspoon soda has been dissolved. Let stand until cool. Cream 2 tablespoons of fat, 1 cup sugar and 1 egg together. Add 1 3-4 cups of flour, little salt, 1-2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-2 cup broken nut meats, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla dates and water. Bake about 40 minutes in moderate oven.

BLACK EYED SUSIE.

GREETINGS FROM NONESOPRETTY

Dear Editor and Friends: Well the old year did more than shake out her ruffles I should say and the new year I think is trying to beat her for she has started in fine. It is blowing I should say about 90 miles here today. Hope it don't last long at this rate. Well, I should not complain. It is God's will and we must bear it patiently. The new year is like a little child. As a child advances in years it gains knowledge. So as the year advances we know more of what is going on. There is a whole lot going on these days.

M. G.: I was more than surprised to get your letter and card. Many thanks for both. Will answer it soon.

Kansas Lily: Hello, wish you a happy New Year. Have you seen Mr. C. since I came away. Wasn't he fine?

1492: I was by your house the other day but I did not see you anywhere. Not frozen up I hope.

Nely Grey: Hear you get a gentle zephyr over your way today.

Harry E.: How are you and the little miss this cold weather?

Kochie: Now look out for yourself, you know this is leap year. You know the rest.

Peggy Alder: I hope you are feeling better. I hope Mr. Peggy hasn't frozen up yet. It sure is some cold, but I have not felt it much as yet.

Ann Tenna: How are you? Have you had any of the concerts yet? I haven't heard one so far this winter.

Rural Delivery: Hope you are well this winter and will be able to meet with us in the spring.

I hope all the shut-ins are in good health. Every day brings us nearer to the sweet warm, springtime.

Wishing you all the best of luck and good weather.

NONESOPRETTY.

BEGINNING THE NEW YEAR.

Social Corner Friends: Let me wish each and every member of the Social Corner a happy New Year, and may we, through the kindness of the editor, have the same privilege of exchanging greetings, recepes and advice. Such lessons as we have learned from Kitty Lou! I would just love to meet her. But she would be so disappointed at the thought of talent wasted on poor little me. Just the same a cat may look at a king and I just would enjoy a nice chat with her.

I was just about to make a New Year's resolution but I am so comfortable I have decided to revolve in the same sphere.

Of course, every one has their own ideals and this morning I am thinking of a dear friend of mine. She has one of those dear little cottages—little white house with little green blinds—and there she lives content; a dear old-fashioned neighbor to all. She keeps poultry which she has raised herself and has a name for each one. They come promptly at her call. And as for killing one of them—no indeed! And such a pleasure to visit her and see all the dear plants and shrubs. Well, I know all the readers would just love this minute to come with me and take their sewing outfit and enjoy a New Year's afternoon chat and a nice cup of tea with her. And you would all be welcome.

And we would make fudge like this:

Fudge: One pint milk; stir till it hardens; add one pound nuts; piece butter. Vanilla. Stir well. Try this and remember.

THE BANSHEE.

THE BEST OF EVERYTHING

Dear Editor and Corner Members—Happy New Year all. Seems as if all my good luck has come together. I received 36 greetings cards also, three handkerchiefs and two aprons for Christmas. Want to thank you every one for remembrances. Then last Saturday I noticed I had won a prize. Thank you, editor. I like the following, by C. E. Allen.

The best law—the Golden Rule.

The best education—self-knowledge.

The best war—to war against one's weakness.

The best medicine—cheerfulness and temperance.

The best music—the laughter of an innocent child.

The best science—extracting sunshine from a cloudy day.

The best art—painting a smile upon the brow of childhood.

The best journalism—printing the true and beautiful on memory's tablet.

The best telegraphing—flashing a ray of sunshine into a gloomy heart.

The best biography—that life which writes charity in the largest letters.

The best mathematics—that which doubles the most joys and divides the most sorrows.

The best navigation—steering clear of the lacerating rocks of personal contention.

The best diplomacy—enacting a treaty of peace with one's own conscience.

The best engineering—building a bridge of Faith over the River of Death.

My sympathy to all sick, suffering, sorrowful. May they all find a speedy relief is the wish of

WHERE ARE THE FUN LOVERS?

Dear Cornerites: When I went out to the mail box Jan. 4th, I found in the mail, a beautiful potted plant calendar, each month a different plant and color. I must thank the corner member at once. Shall put it where it may be seen, it is so cheerful.

It has been a long time since I've met with you, still I read the letters. Miss many names I used to see among them. Where are all the fun loving ones that made the corner so lively?

Wishing all a happy New Year.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

DAUGHTERS OF VETERANS

Clara Barton Tent No. 7, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil war held its regular meeting and installation of officers Tuesday evening in Buckingham Memorial. Department President Mrs. Augusta Ranney of Hartford, Dept. Senior Vice President Mrs. Jennie S. Newbury and Dept. Third Color Bearer Miss Marie L. Atterbury, both of Norwich, were guests of honor. The regular business was transacted. Invitations were read and accepted from Mary Todd Lincoln Tent, No. 15, of Willimantic to attend a supper and installation Monday, Jan. 8th at 6 o'clock and Ann Rogers Lynn Tent No. 1, New London to attend their installation Friday, Jan. 20th at 7:30 o'clock. The officers reports were read and showed a year of hard work with wonderful financial results, and baskets of fruit sent to all veterans and shut-ins at Christmas time.

Department President Mrs. Ranney as installing officer with Past Department President Mrs. D. Louise Atterbury as installing guide, ably installed the following officers for the year 1928: President, Mrs. Lillian B. Newbury; senior vice president, Miss Florence Hoffman; junior vice president, Mrs. Elizabeth Bogue; chaplain, Mrs. Lillian M. Whiting; treasurer, Mrs. Lillian E. Brewster; council member, No. 1, Mrs. Annie R. Turner; council member No. 2, Mrs. Alice C. Brinkmann; council member No. 3, Mrs. D. Louise Atterbury; patriotic instructor, Mrs. Helena T. Church; secretary, Miss Gladys B. Newbury; guide, Miss Lucy Gray MacDougall; press correspondent, Mrs. Jennie S. Newbury; guard, Miss Lola Belle Roath; assistant guard, Mrs. Hattie Parsons; musicians, Miss Elna M. Doty; color bearer, No. 1, Miss Marie L. Atterbury; color bearer No. 2, Miss Dorothy Brinkmann; color bearer, No. 3, Miss Helen Curran; color bearer No. 4, Miss Florence Tilley.

A handsome white gold wrist watch was presented the retiring president, Mrs. Annie B. Turner, also a past tent president's gold badge. Gold pieces were presented to the retiring secretary, Mrs. Atterbury, the treasurer, Mrs. Lillian E. Brewster, and the musician, Miss Elna M. Doty. The president, Mrs. Lillian B. Newbury, presented Department President Mrs. Ranney, with a personal gift, as did also the retiring President Mrs. Turner to her retiring secretary, Mrs. Atterbury.

Refreshments of sandwiches, doughnuts and coffee were served at the close of the meeting by the supper committee.

DAUGHTERS OF AMERICA

The regular meeting of Daughters of America was held at the Buckingham Memorial Thursday evening. Forty members sat down to a splendid supper prepared by Anna Bradford, Minnie Fulton, Jessie Faulkner, Mrs. Johnson, Edith Palmer, Minnie Rogers and Rose Carter. Following the supper, the regular business meeting was presided over by Councillor Carrie Howard. The secretary's report showed the activities of the society to be in a good condition and the treasurer's report gave evidence that the finances were being looked after in a fine manner. Deputy Anna Bailey of New London installed the officers for the next six months: Councillor, Anna Bradford; vice councillor, Ethel Whitmarsh; assistant vice councillor, Alpha Whitney; junior councillor, Carrie Howard; junior past councillor, Mable Wheeler; warden, Minnie Rogers; conductor, Bertha Lessman; sentinel, John O. Peckham. These committees were chosen by the new councillor: Supper, Mrs Johnson; publicity, Rose Carter; entertainment, Phillys Irvine; captain of degree team, Ivy Peckham; officer of the day, Ora Spencer; sewing circle, Rose Carter. Two members were reported sick. Deputy Anna Bailey gave an invitation to Lady Buckingham Councillor, to attend Nancy Hemstead, turkey supper and installation Monday evening, Jan. 9, after which a past councillor's badge was presented to the retiring councillor, Carrie Howard. At the close of the meeting a New Year's tree was enjoyed by all, presents being exchanged. The committee in charge was Ethel Whitmarsh, Stella Stott and Jessie Faulkner.

MOOSEHEART LEGION

Women of Mooseheart Legion, New London chapter 347, held a very interesting meeting Tuesday evening with Senior Regent Mary Geer presiding, and the following officers were installed for the year with Past Regent Teresa Watters of Norwich, as installing officer, assisted by Mrs. Marie LaValle as grand guide: Past regent, Mrs. Mary Geer; senior regent, Mrs. Barbara Sparks; junior regent, Mrs. Gertrude Finnegan; chaplain, Mrs. Elizabeth Nicholas; recorder, Mrs. Bertha Mahaffey; treasurer, Mrs. Jeanette Keenan; guide, Mrs. Nellie Beyer; assistant guard, Mrs. Gladys Chojnacke; sentinel, Mrs. Leno Argus, Miss Virginia Sherman; organist, Mrs. Alvina Lavole.

The installation was open and about 50 guests were present. The installing officer presented Past Regent Geer with a past regent's pin, with an appropriate speech, congratulating her on the wonderful work she has done for chapter 347 during the past year. Past Regent Geer accepted with thanks in an interesting speech. The installing officer also presented the retiring Past Regent Dreer a bouquet of carnations from the chapter.

The newly installed senior regent presented Past Regent Geer with a Mooseheart ring and the installing officers with gold pieces, which both accepted with appropriate speeches.

Refreshments were served and dancing was enjoyed. About 25 of the members plan to attend the installation of Norwich chapter Thursday evening.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

A banquet commemorating the forty-sixth anniversary of the founding of the Knights of Columbus is to be held in the Hotel Garde, New Haven, Monday, February 6th, under the sponsorship of San Salvador council, No. 1, of New Haven. There are four still living of the eleven who met on the site of the Powell building, New Haven, now marked with a tablet, to start the order, and they will be guests of honor. They are ex-Mayor Cornelius T. Driscoll, of New Haven, a Norwich boy, Norwich Free Academy '65, Yale '69, William M. Geary, Patrick J. Carrigan and William Sellwood. State officers and delegations from other councils in the state and city will be present and at least one national officer, John S. Conway, of San Salvador council, who is assistant supreme secretary. There are between 750,000 and 800,000 members in the order now, while the membership of San Salvador council, New Haven, numbers 1,350.

ODD LADIES, M. U.

The regular meeting of Victory lodge, No. 4, I. O. O. F., M. U., was held in Steiner hall Thursday evening with Noble Grand Elisabeth Houston Jr., presiding. The officers elected for the ensuing term were installed by Deputy Nellie Adams as follows: Noble grand, Clara Hayden; vice grand, Emma Lamphere; elective secretary, Elizabeth Houston, Sr.; warden, Grace Mayor; guardian, Margaret Hunt; chaplain, Elsie Mathers; R. S. to noble grand, Betsy Hartley; L. S. to noble grand, Dorothy McNeely; R. S. to vice grand, Elizabeth Laird; L. S. to vice grand, Mary Greenhalgh.

Past Noble Grand Elsie Mathers was presented with her jewel and responded with a speech.

After the business routine, refreshments were served.

EAGLES

Norwich Aerie, No. 867, held its regular meeting Monday night at Eagles' home. The meeting was well attended. Three applications for membership were acted on. Plans were made for a three months' drive for an increase in membership, known as the Worthy Presidents' Drive and class initiations will be held every month. The first will be Monday, Jan. 16. The chairman of the entertainment committee announced that another series of public pinochle and whist evenings will be held.

CHAPLIN

The annual business meeting and roll call of the Congregational church Wednesday was called at 11 o'clock. Rev. John H. Knott was chairman for the day. The minutes of the last meeting were read by the clerk, Deacon Andrew M. Grant, and approved. W. B. Gallup gave the report for the prudential committee. Deacon Grant reported his clerk and treasurer. The reports of the prudential committee and the clerk and treasurer were accepted as read. Officers of the church are: Clifford M. Burdick elected member of the prudential committee for three years; Deacon Andrew M. Grant was re-elected clerk and treasurer; assistant treasurer, Bernard Church; auditor, Miss Florence I. Hunt. Following the business meeting all enjoyed a fine dinner and social hour. The roll call was held at 2 p. m. Bernard Church, assistant treasurer, calling the roll, 31 responded in person or by letter.

Interesting reports were given by the Christian Endeavor society, Sunday school and Ladies' Aid society, all showing a prosperous year and money in the treasury. Rev. Mr. Knott gave an interesting address and a review of the work of the church the past year. The present membership is 87. The church committee in the pastor, deacons and Mrs. Mary B. Gallup, Mrs. Maria Perry, Florence I. Hunt, Sunday school committee, Clifford M. Burdick, Ada Langhear, Florence I. Hunt and W. B. Gallup. The beautiful day drew out about 65.

The church starts the new year with all bills paid and a balance in the treasury.

Mrs. Katherine Clark of Hartford, a visitor with Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Vall several days, attended the roll call service of the church Wednesday and returned to her home in the evening.

Mrs. Annie Reed of Willimantic visited among friends in town this week and attended the roll call meeting.

The officers of Natchaug grange were installed Friday evening at the church vestry by L. S. Barstow, master of Pomona grange.

Mr. Loos, owner of Riverside farm, has built a new ice-house that will be of much help in the dairy business.

There appeared in the January issue of the American Magazine two articles, one entitled, Why I Do Not Go to Church, by a noted editor of a paper, the other Why I Do Go to Church, by Edgar A. Guest, that popular writer of poems that we often see in the papers. Last Sunday Rev. John H. Knott reviewed in his sermon the article Why I Do Not Go to Church and next Sunday will take for his theme, Why I Do Go to Church, by Edgar A. Guest.

HANOVER

With the numbers of extra gatherings during the past couple of weeks, New Year's calls, and the like, many unexpected gifts have found their way into local homes, thus prolonging the Christmas and Golden Rule spirit.

At the Y. P. S. C. E. meeting Sunday evening a unique service was carried out through the aid of the blackboard conducted by Sterre Lee of Middlebury college. This was followed by a business meeting of the executive committee.

Hanover Cemetery association held its annual meeting in the parish house Tuesday evening, with the president, Mrs. Ella Bennett, in the chair. The reports showed aggressive and successful work done during the year, resulting in quite a substantial addition to

JAIL FOR NEW LONDON WOMEN CAUGHT IN EARLY MORNING RAID

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 6—Another resort of the black and tan type, but which place is outside of the famous belt, John, Douglass and Potter streets, was raided early this morning. The building, 25 Tilley street, owned by Abraham Bronstein and occupied on the third floor by William Holloway and wife, Mamie, received an unceremonious visit from a squad of police. What the officers saw there caused them to arrest Mamie Holloway, Negress well known to the police charged with conducting a house of ill fame, together with Minnie Kerson, another Negress with a police record principally on counts of lewdness, who was charged with frequenting. Three white sailors, members of the crew of U. S. S. Camden, Steve Zeleznik, Charles Zelden and Bruno Martinelli, who were found there were charged with frequenting. When the five were presented in the police court today the Holloway woman was sentenced to 60 days in jail and the Kerson woman received a sentence of 10 days in jail. The sailors were discharged.

Patrolman Frank Philopena was patrolling his beat on Bank street about 2 o'clock when he was approached by a local man and informed that there was every indication that there was "something doing" in the famous brick block on Tilley street. He said the entire upper floor was illuminated and judging from the noise, a free and easy time was being enjoyed by the occupants. The officer went to the house and it was evident that a "good" time was being enjoyed by those inside. Officer Philopena returned to Bank street where he met two other officers, Edward Riordan and Michael Dorsey and together the bluecoats went to the house. Officer Riordan stationed himself at the front entrance and Officers Philopena and Dorsey went to the rear, where they ascended the stairs and proceeded stealthily to the top landing where they were able to obtain a view of what was going on. Seated about the room were the two women and the sailors. They were in conversation, but within a short time one of the sailors was observed to accompany the Holloway woman to another room. The officers waited a few minutes and then sounded an alarm at the door, which was answered by the Kerson woman, who did not protest against the entrance of the officers. Officers Philopena and Dorsey at once went to the room the Holloway woman and the sailor had entered and found the couple in bed. They were ordered to dress and the entire gang was marched to police headquarters. In court today the Kerson woman and the sailors all admitted what had taken place at the house, but the Holloway woman denied that the place was one where immorality was countenanced. She even denied being in bed with the sailor although the latter acknowledged as true that the officers found him in bed with the woman. Holloway, husband of Mamie, occupied another room in the house while the raid was in progress, being in bed, but he was not prosecuted jointly with his wife on the charge of conducting the house. The Holloway house has long been a place resorted to by blacks and whites, but, it is now believed that such conduct as has been promoted there will be ended.

The funeral of Thomas F. Tiernan, father of a former curate in New London, at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, was held Saturday morning from the family residence, 56 Pendleton street, New Haven. Solemn requiem mass was celebrated by Rev. Thomas H. Tiernan of Unionville, a son of the deceased; Rev. Ernest Wilson was deacon, Rev. Charles Kane was sub-deacon, and Rev. William F. O'Brien, master of ceremonies. Assisting in the sanctuary were Rev. James A. Smith of Collinsville, Rev. C. D. Hogue, Baltimore, Md., Rev. John H. Carroll, Wallingford, Rev. J. H. Fitzmaurice, Rev. Dr. J. J. McLaughlin, Rev. M. F. Brady, Rev. Francis A. May, Mt. Carmel, Rev. William F. Casey, Rev. Edward J. Demenske, Wallingford, Rev. Robert H. Falls, Rev. H. J. Coleman, Rev. James Keating and Rev. Francis J. Finn. The service was attended by many friends. Mr. Tiernan was an old and respected resident of New Haven. He is survived by four daughters, Sister M. Elinita of the Mercy Order, Mrs. Maurice W. Meaney, Miss Rose H. Tiernan and Mrs. William Devine, and by one son, Rev. Father Tiernan. The committal service was read by Father Tiernan. Burial was in the family plot in St. Bernard cemetery, New Haven.

Charles E. Spaulding, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church. The body was forwarded to Central Village for burial in Evergreen cemetery.

The funeral of F. Gordon Ferrell, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at his residence, 8 Summer street and was attended by many mourners. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth. Members of New London lodge of Elks, acted as bearers. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

ADAM MARX, IN HARD LUCK, TAKEN TO NORWICH HOSP.

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 6—Adam Marx, former well known citizen through his vocation as a piano tuner, but who has encountered adversity several years, was removed from Hillside home to Norwich state hospital, Brewster's Neck, this evening. Mr. Marx, who has not been employed much of recent years because of the radio, and player piano and who devoted the greater part of his life to distributing socialist propaganda, was taken to the hospital by Patrolman George Cockell and Acting Lieutenant James Gaffney. He was at the home this evening and was in a raving and violent mood, delivering a discourse on politics, in which he scored the platforms of both republican and democratic parties. When his actions became such that the home attendants could stand it no longer, they requested the police to remove the man. City Physician G. P. Cheney, who was summoned, after an examination had been made of Marx to determine his mental condition he was ordered transferred to the hospital. Marx has been under treatment at the hospital before, having been returned to the home several weeks ago. Since then, however, his condition has not improved.

HOLY CROSS PROFESSOR TO ADDRESS CATHOLIC MEN

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 6—From the reports of the committee engaged in promoting the observance of Holy Name Sunday, it is expected that over 600 men will take part when Rev. Michael Earls, S. J., vice president of Holy Cross college, will be the guest of the men of St. Mary's parish at their annual observance of the Feast of the Holy Name, Sunday. Father Earls, a priest of the Society of Jesus, is professor of classical literature and the author of several novels.

On Sunday the men of St. Mary's parish will receive holy communion in a body at the 8 o'clock mass. Immediately after mass the procession will move to the Mohican hotel for breakfast. After breakfast Father Earls will deliver the address. William T. May, president of the Holy Name society, will preside. At the speakers' table will be seated Rev. Timothy M. Crowley, LL. D., pastor of St. Mary's church; Mayor James A. May, the presiding officers of Rev. George Deshon assembly, Fourth Degree, K. of C.; Seaside council, K. of C., and Father Joynt division, A. O. H., and the officers of the Holy Name society. Edward F. Hands, organist of St. Mary's church, will direct the congregational singing during the mass.

Two passengers on an express train of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad became intoxicated this afternoon while the train was en route from New Haven to New London and got so boisterous that when the train arrived at the union station the conductor requested that the men be taken in charge by Lieutenant David Marks and Officer Jorgerson, special railroad agents. The men were taken from the train, were arrested, and taken to police headquarters where they were locked up. They will be in the police court tomorrow.

An automobile driven by Max Squire of 642 Bank street, struck Frank Nelson, a youth residing at 16 Division street this afternoon on Bank street, the boy was knocked down and sustained lacerations which were dressed at the office of a physician, after which the boy went to his home.

William Crandall, 8 Summer street employed by the Robert Gair company, Montville, has resumed his duties, after having been confined to his home several weeks because of illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Comstock of Quaker Hill, Waterford and Mrs. Eva Latham of Groton, left today for St. Andrews, Fla., where they will remain for the balance of the winter. The trip is being made by automobile.

Work on razing the Abraham Bronstein building, Pearl street, a two and one-half story wooden structure, condemned by the city several months ago and ordered removed, work on which order was started this week, has been halted. The work stopped when the first floor was reached, but it is expected, that the task of completion will be resumed within a day or two.

As was anticipated there will be no hearing of charges again Patrolman Henry Sylvia, as a result of complaints having been preferred against the officer by Joseph Connelly, who alleged that the officer had been guilty of conduct unbecoming an officer. City Manager William A. Holt this afternoon made it known that he did not intend to order a hearing, but on the other hand had exonerated Sylvia of any violation of the police rules and regulations. Whether Connelly will seek to press the charges is not known but it is not believed that such a course be taken.

The funeral of Miss Amelia Baker was held this afternoon at 1 o'clock at the residence of her brother-in-law, Courtland Daniels in Montville, the services being conducted by Rev. C. H. Howe, pastor of the First Baptist church. Relatives acted as bearers. Burial was in Union cemetery, Waterford.

The Miller building, Bank street, owned by G. H. Miller, has been selected by City Manager William A. Holt and Superintendent of Schools Warren B. Hanson as a temporary night school to replace the Jennings school, which was destroyed by fire a week ago. As soon as the building can be equipped to provide for the adult students sessions will be started there and that will be next week, it is believed.

Several New London members of the Spanish war veterans were in Norwich this evening attending a meeting of the organization.

While cities in general are warring on billboards, New London has just sanctioned one on the principal business streets, Bank street near the customs house.

While one of Abraham Bronstein's buildings is in course of demolition on Pearl street as a fire menace, another on Tilley street was cleared of its tenants Thursday night because the police raided it as a disreputable place.

The police declare that auto traffic was lighter tonight than it has been during any evening in many months.

It is stated that rarely has there been a winter when there was so little frost in the ground than there is now. In several places work is going on in the streets and laborers have little trouble in digging trenches and excavating for other work. The sewer and water departments of the city have usually ceased to open the streets for work by the first of December, but these departments are engaged in activities this year on the 6th of January.

TODAY'S EVENTS

Bread Theatre.

"7th Heaven" has been brought to the screen and will be shown for the first time in Norwich at the Breed theatre, commencing tomorrow evening.

This picture, based on the play by Austin Strong, is said by all critics to be one of the finest productions of any type ever screened. Taken from every angle it is perfection, and more than that it has lost none of the appeal or beauty of the original play.

The atmosphere of the Paris Montmartre, where the plot of the story is laid, is accurately carried out in the settings and the photographic effects. The story follows the play itself, but bringing into actual view those things that could only be talked about in the play, thereby heightening the interest and adding greatly to the entertaining value of the picture.

The characterization of the players are said to be inspired, particularly that of Janet Gaynor, who appears as the winsome, frightened and finally glorified "Diane," and Charles Farrell, who is the handsome, egotistical, generous and thoroughly lovable "Chico."

"7th Heaven" is the story of two of the lowest types of Parisians, a worker in the sewers of Paris and a waif of the streets of Paris. But because of the glorious doctrine of courage which it preaches and the marvelous things it does to both of their characters it has been called one of the greatest and one of the most beautiful love stories ever written. The play created a sensation when produced for a record run on Broadway, and the picture is surpassing the reputation established by the play.

"7th Heaven" will be shown twice tomorrow evening at 6:45 and 8:45, and twice daily thereafter, at 2:30 and 8:15.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Fifty years ago this week the West End club celebrated its third anniversary at Connor's hall, West Side. Several weddings took place in this city during the week. Interesting extracts taken from the files of The Norwich Bulletin of January 1878, are as follows:

Monday, Jan. 2, 1888—At a stated communication of Fairmount chapter, No. 18, E. O. S. held Friday evening, the following officers were installed for the year ensuing: Mrs. R. L. Winters, W. M.; Mr. J. P. Miner, W. P.; Mrs. J. C. McKee, A. M.; Mrs. H. L. Tourtellotte, treasurer; Mrs. R. E. Comstock, secretary; Mrs. H. D. Rogers, warder; Mrs. G. A. Rogers, sentinel.

People who have occasion to pass along the Norwich Town road have noticed a very peculiar squirrel that has its haunts near the Rockwell place. It is of grey and mottled color with white tail and about the size of the red squirrel. If there had been any cold weather it might be supposed to be frost bitten. Besides, somebody says there are a whole nest of the same kind.

While several young people were skating on Rockwell pond, Friday afternoon, the ice gave way and some of them went down. The water is not deep, however, and all were rescued, after they had sufficiently enjoyed the cool bath.

Twelve tramps were at work on the streets Saturday.

It is said that engagements are announced in the churches at Stonington.

The yacht Admiral is lying at Osgood's wharf with a cargo of fresh fish.

A very appropriate and valuable New Year's gift to your brother, sister or friend, would be an annual ticket to the Otis library.

Tuesday, Jan. 3, 1888—At St. Patrick's church, Monday morning, a nuptial high mass was celebrated by the Rev. P. P. Shahan, the contracting parties being Mr. P. H. Welch and Miss Annie L. Morris, both of this city. Miss Kittie Ahearn acted as maid of honor, while Mr. A. P. Morris, brother of the bride, was best man. Following the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, on Thames street, a wedding breakfast was served. The bridal party left for New York on a short wedding tour.

Last evening Gus W. Tilley was married to Miss Carrie Belle Andrew, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William N. Andrew, at her home, 322 East Main street. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Thomas Emms, of the East Main street Methodist Episcopal church.

The First Congregational church society of Norwich Town met on Saturday and voted to increase the salary of Rev. M. Northrop $200 per annum.

Wednesday, Jan. 4, 1888—At a stated communication of St. James lodge, F. and A. M., the following officers were duly installed: by P. M. George A. Kies: James L. Coffee, W. M.; Irving M. Gifford, S. W.; Charles B. Chapman, J. W.; Ross D. Jones, treas.; Dwight M. Hough, secretary; Fred Tyler, S. D.; Chas. T. Gardner, J. D.; Hugh King, S. S.; Geo. W. Kimball, J. S.; A. J. Sullivan, chaplain; A. D. Smith, marshal; J. H. George, organist; H. Clay Allyn, tyler.

There were no cases prosecuted in the city court Tuesday morning.

The schools of the Central School district will resume their sessions this morning.

The rainfall on Sunday was 2 and 8-10 inches. There is still a heavy freshet in the Thames river and its tributaries.

Look sharp and obtain tickets for the grand ball of Company C, and Tubb's band, which is to be given on Thursday evening.

Thursday, Jan. 5, 1888—A quiet social event was the marriage of Miss Jennie Arnold, daughter of James H. Arnold, of the firm of Arnold & Hitchcock of this city, to Mr. C. E. Smith, of Putnam, at the bride's house on Boswell avenue, last evening. The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. H. Taylor of the Central Baptist church.

John E. Fanning has bought the house at 48 Cliff street of William G. Champlin.

The game law went into effect on January 1st and no game birds can be killed or sold in Connecticut for the present.

Friday, Jan. 6, 1888—Owing to sudden illness, Mrs. Biddle will not be able to address the meeting appointed at Broadway church for this afternoon.

It is expected that the trial of Frederic A. S. Perry, of New London, charged with murder in the first degree, will begin on Tuesday next in this city.

J. P. Miller will pay particular attention to all the latest dances, including the German, during the term which commences at Steiner's hall, this evening. Class formed at 8 o'clock.

Saturday, Jan. 7, 1888—Friday's sleet made good coasting and the boys were on the hills in large numbers with their sleds in the evening.

Next Tuesday evening the next lecture of the Free Academy course will be delivered by Mr. Donald G. Mitchell, of New Haven. As a lecturer, Mr. Mitchell has an envious reputation and his writings have been and still remain popular. It is hoped that a full house will greet our former townsman.

The West End club celebrated their third anniversary with a social and banquet at their parlors in Connor's building, on the West Side last evening.

The Niagara Hose company officers entertained their members and lady friends at their parlors Friday evening. The programme consisted of a spread and social of eighteen numbers.

Uncas Assembly, No. 7524, K. of L., is to give a social at Breed hall next Wednesday evening. The committee in charge have arranged for an excellent time.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

An absorbing story of a poor girl whose quest of riches and excitement led her only to dispair before she discovered that happiness might also be hers from the simple things of life has been the featured attraction at the Broadway Theatre, where it closes this evening. Henry B. Walthall heads the cast, with Patricia Avery, Cornelius Keefe, Erine La Bissner, Henry Sedley and Tom O'Grady giving more than able support. Trem Carr produced it for Rayart release.

Bob Custer has played his trump card when it comes to spectacular riding, in his newest F. B. O. production, "The Dude Cowboy," which has been showing as the co-feature. Bob, one of the daring riders on the screen, has some new stunts which are not different, but which may be classed as the peers of breath-taking feats. The picture not only has thrills and comedy, and achieves a smashing note of speed in the first reel which keeps up consistently and smoothly.

The first episode of "Melting Millions," Pathe's greatest and latest mystery serial will be shown today.

A special attraction for the children as the matinee will be the giving out of the membership buttons to the Palace Theatre Kiddies Matinee Club.

Two Unusual Events at Y. M. C. A.

On the coming Sunday afternoon and Monday evening, the public of Norwich and vicinity will have the privilege of enjoying two quite unusual events in the large gymnasium of the Norwich Y. M. C. A.

On Sunday at 4 o'clock, the first of two parts of a wonderful moving picture feature will be shown; no less an attraction than Channing Pollick's production, "The Fool." Little needs to be said about this unusual masterpiece which has captivated hundreds of thousands of people all over America. Last Sunday evening it was shown at the large Wesley Methodist Episcopal church at Worcester. The author has endeavored to portray applied Christianity, answering the question, can one actually live the "Sermon on the Mount" and do what Jesus taught? This feature is without doubt one of the distinctly uplifting motion pictures on the screen, and doubtless a large audience will take advantage of seeing it on this occasion. The public, fourteen and over, are invited. A free will offering will be taken.

On Monday evening, January 9th, at 7:45, the famous Lotus Male Quartet of Boston will render a fine program of sacred music, and Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth will deliver a brief message. ANNOUNCEMENTS

— Broadway Theatre.

Continuous performances are the rule at the Broadway theatre today, for the final appearances of Adolphe Menjou's latest masterpiece, "Serenade," and the five acts of better vaudeville being shown in conjunction with the picture.

To those enjoying a picture that has all the harmony and appeal of an Irish love song, "The Rose of Kildaire," which has been booked for a one-day showing at the Broadway theatre on Sunday evening, should not be missed. It is the story of an Irish nightingale whose marvelous voice carries her far from her native shore and the lad whom she loves. The story has a locale that includes Ireland, South Africa and the United States and the time covered in the chronicle extends over a period of two generations.

For Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, a great vaudeville bill of headliners has been booked including the Bradley Sisters and company in "Frivolities," which is announced as being a European dance sensation. Hank Brown and company offers a new act in which he takes the role of chief fun-maker. Mr. Brown's manner of getting mixed up in words and his tongue getting in his way is one of the funniest things in vaudeville today. Arthur Jarrett and players offer a clever comedy satire called, "Cupids Close-Ups," and if this new skit is anything like Arthur Jarret's other starring vehicles, there is no fear of the act being anything but good. Victor Gross, although comparatively a newcomer on the stage is rapidly making a name for himself, the reason being evident after seeing him perform. "Steppin' and See," concludes the vaudeville program with a snappy routine for comedy juggling.

The picture selected for these three days is the newest starring picture of Esther Ralston's, "Love and Learn." It is wonderful picture entertainment and should be enjoyed by everyone.

Palace Theatre.

Amazing in its portrayal of what goes on behind the scenes in the newspaper world, "Man, Woman and Sin," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's ultra-modern romance starring John Gilbert, is a picture that astounds and grips with its fascinating disclosures. The greatest story of the Fourth Estate that has yet come to the screen. It will be shown at the Palace theatre on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

The scenes are laid in the nation's capital against a background of intrigue and politics. Figures of national and international import take part in it. Its feature is the Embassy Ball, the most important social event that takes place on U. S. soil.

Jeanne Eagels, famous star of the phenomenal stage success, "Rain," appears as a fascinating lady of mystery and charm, society editor of a great daily, mistress of its powerful owner and beloved of a young reporter, Gilbert, as the reporter who goes through a soul-bearing experience, has one of the most tensely appealing roles of his career. Monta Bell, himself a newspaperman, wrote and directed the film, laying its scenes in the local room in which he familiarized himself with the newspaper world. Included in the cast are Gladys Brockwell, Marc McDermott, Cosmo Kyrle Bellew, Hayden Stevenson and Charles K. French.

Second Concert of the Slater Hall Series.

Coming as the second concert in the Slater Hall series is the one to be given Wednesday evening, Jan. 11th, by the Boston Symphony Orchestra Trio.

By the lovers of instrumental music this concert is the one that has been anticipated with the greatest pleasure—not only because of the artists, but of the very fine program which they have announced to be played.

Those comprising the trio are all outstanding members of the great Boston Symphony orchestra, including Felix Fox, pianist; Richard Burgin, first violinist and concert master, and Jean Bedetti, solo cellist.

See advertisement in another column for details.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Strand Theatre.

"The Ace of Clubs" is a tale of a young man who is left the last of his race through the sudden and mysterious death of first his father, then his brother. In both cases the men have been brought in suddenly, a card bearing "The Ace of Clubs" pinned to their shirts. The thread of the narrative leads to the discovery of the man responsible for the murders. How the hero unearths the identity of this black-hearted scoundrel and what he does to him, after he realizes who he really is, makes for a story of real dramatic values. Al Hoxie is the star, Peggy Montgomery plays the leading feminine role and the rest of the cast are exceptionally brilliant.

D. W. Griffith presents another of his wonderful pictures in "Sally of the Sawdust." This is taken from a play by Dorothy Donnelly and has for its leading characters the lovely Carol Dempster and W. C. Fields. The story is full of life's glamor and human emotions, with a tiny touch of pathos, and is a stirring comedy drama that you will enjoy seeing and will remember for a long time, as a tremendous theme, finely filmed.

AMERICAN WOOLEN CO. PRESENTS MORE LAND AT YANTIC SCHOOL

An additional piece of land at the school property at Yantic, which has been presented to the town of Norwich by the American Woolen company, is now in use for school purposes, part of it providing space upon which an addition to the school building has been erected, but the larger part being utilized as a playground.

The American Woolen company has made an absolute gift of the land to the town, without any restrictions upon the use to which it is to be put and merely requiring that it shall be fenced. The school board and town officials have expressed their gratitude to the officials of the American Woolen company for their generosity in giving this land which was needed to provide some desired accommodations at the school property in Yantic.

The plot given is of irregular shape, extending along the rear and one side of the school property, and measures approximately 41x128 feet.

The school building has been enlarged, the extra space providing for the installation of modern toilet conveniences, which have been made possible because the school building can be furnished with water from the pipe line of the new Deep River reservoir. New boilers have been placed in the building, drinking fountains installed and the interior of the building remodelled.

At the present time the offset wall on the property is being rebuilt and a cyclone fence is being erected to enclose those sides of the property, leaving the front all open.

WE MODERNS MET FOR AFTERNOON OF PINOCHLE

The We Moderns meet with Mrs. Retkovske of Boswell avenue Thursday afternoon. First prize was awarded Mrs. Prodell on a cut as Mrs. Hallisey and Mrs. Prodell were tied. The consolation went to Mrs. Jensen. The scores for the afternoon were as follows: Mrs. Prodell 7820, Mrs. Hallisey 7820, Mrs. Manchester 6720, Mrs. Retkovske 6500, Mrs. Moran 5990, Mrs. Hastedt 5760, Mrs. Busch 5380, Mrs. Jensen 5250. After cards lunch was served by the hostess. Next week the club will meet with Mrs. Moran of Fourth street.

Pastors and Choirs to Exchange

At the Central Baptist church on Sunday morning there will be observed the ordinance of baptism. The pastor will take as his theme "The Call of Repentance."

In the evening the pastor and choir will exchange with Rev. C. H. Howe and the choir of the First Baptist church, New London, each repeating the Christmas services. Organist Bush will render the following numbers in the Central Baptist church at the evening service: Prelude "March Magi Kings" by Dubois; Prelude by Shubert; Offertory "Pastorale" by Yon; "Postlude in C" by Dubois. The choir will sing "Adore and Be Still" by Gounod with violin obligato by Mary Rondomanski. "Sing Allelulia Forth" by Buck, and as a response "Father Hear Us." Mrs. Maxson will sing "God Shall Wipe Away All Tears" by Harker. The benedictory response will be "Peace I Leave With You." "There were Shepherds" will be the topic of the message by Mr. Howe.

O. G. Club Met.

The O. G. club met at the home of Miss Florence Morrill on Fountain street, Thursday evening. After the sewing hour, music, singing and dancing were enjoyed. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

The next meeting will be at the home of Miss Ellen Roylance on Washington square.

LEFFINGWELL IMPROVEMENT LEAGUE HAD PROGRAMME

The January meeting of the Leffingwell Improvement league was held at the schoolhouse there Friday evening at 7.30 with an attendance of 40. The president, Stanley C. Spicer, presided at a short business session, which opened with singing of America by all and prayer by Rev. George W. Borden. The secretary and treasurer's reports were read and approved. Singing, Marching Through Georgia, was given by all. The entertainment committee presented the following program: Piano duet, Dance of the Fairies by Mrs. Whiting and Mildred Leffingwell; a Fishion Show conducted by Miss Beebe provided much merriment.

Officers of the New London County Agricultural society were the speakers of the evening. The president, F. S. Armstrong spoke of the possibilities of New London county. Secretary, L. M. Crandall outlined some of the plans for the fair this coming fall. Brief remarks were made by the treasurer, A. H. Beebe. A duet LaGrey waltz closed a most enjoyable meeting. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Forrest Leffingwell and Miss Mildred Leffingwell.

COMFORT CIRCLE RAISED TOTAL OF $128 DURING 1927

At the annual meeting of Comfort circle of the King's Daughters, held Wednesday with the leader, Mrs. A. T. Utley, the secretary, Mrs. Myra A. Cole read the following report for the year:

Comfort circle held 18 meetings during 1927 with an average attendance of 12. We have 24 active members and 3 honorary members. The officers for the past year, remained the same as in the previous year.

Our work last winter consister chiefly of making layettes for the United Workers and some patchwork; later on aprons were made. Feb. 17 we celebrated our 29th birthday by having an all-day meeting at Mrs. Geer's home. At 1.30 we sat down to a delicious luncheon prepared by the social committee. The tables were very attractive with valentine decorations. After lunch a short business meeting was held and we voted our usual gifts of $5 to the Travelers' Aid society, $5 to Margaret Bottome Mem. home and $5 to the Boy Scouts. Our sick members were sent remembrances from the party. Each member had brought a 10c article for the grab bag, which was very attractive with paper flowers, and these were sold later. This added $4.50 to our funds and we had all brought our age in coins and this amounted to $10.79.

As usual in April we gave our April dollars. About this time our leader received a letter from Mrs. De Baum, urging the circles to take up bible study. Onr circle voted to take it up later. We also voted the sum of $5 to two worthy women.

A cafeteria lunch in April held at Mrs. Lewis' home brought us $12.43. At this time we voted $10 to the Mississippi flood sufferers and $1 to the city union expenses.

In May, a May basket was sent a sick member and one member who was going abroad was presented a gold piece.

In June, fruit was sent to a sick member.

In July we held an all-day picnic at Mohegan park and despite the intense heat, it was a most enjoyable day.

In September after talking the matter over, we sold our Liberty bond as its value was then a little more and we are getting a higher rate of interest on the money than on the bond.

In October each member gave 10c toward buying a gift for Miss Shelly, state secretary, who retired from that office and each member contributed 25c toward a sunshine basket for our sick member. A successful food sale was held in the Boston store, October 21 and this brought us $20.41.

In November one delegate was sent to the convention at Danbury and a most interesting report of the convention was given us by our delegate, Mrs. Geer. $10 was given the United Workers for Thanksgiving.

December 18th a musical program was furnished at Backus hospital and at Christmas 18 aprons were sent to the ladies at the Sheltering Arms and handkerchiefs were sent to the men. A basket of fruit was sent our sick member, $5 to the Near East, $5 to the flood sufferers, $5 to the Salvation Army and $5 to the tuberculosis sanatorium.

A surprise luncheon was served to us at our last meeting of 1927 by the social committee and Mrs. Green, it was greatly enjoyed by the large number present.

The total receipts for the year are $128.87 and the disbursements $119.67.

JAIL AND FINE FOR LIQUOR LAW VIOLATION

Harvey W. Smith, 21, of Dallas, Tex., was found guilty of violation of the liquor law and sent to jail for 30 days, in addition to receiving a fine of $200 and costs, in the city court Friday morning. He was arrested with Frank Ritacco, 21, of Westerly, by the local police at No. 121 Franklin street Thursday night, after the police had secured evidence that the liquor law was being violated in the store.

Sergt. Matthew Delaney with other officers went to the place in plain clothes and Sergt. Delaney asked one of the two men in the place if he had anything to drink. Smith produced a bottle and called to Ritacco, "Curly, give this guy a drink?" "On, yes," said Curley, who recognized the sergeant, but the sergeant had taken possession of the bottle. There was some question as to who owned the bottle, both men having entered pleas of not guilty. Ritacco said he was the proprietor of the place and that he intended to open up a restaurant there.

Smith stated that the bottle was his but that he did not intend to sell the officer a drink, as he was going to give him one.

RAMBLERS CLUB MEET WITH NORWICH TOWN MEMBER

Thursday evening the Girls' Ramblers club met at the home of their president, Miss Sara Fox, of 65 West Town street. Dues were collected by Helen Butkiewitcz and all fell to discussing their programme of winter sports.

A new member, Helen Jones, entered the club Thursday evening.

The Ramblers have given a Hallowe'en party and they have a secret object in mind. Their vice president, Marion Gullos, tuned in the radio and all had a merry time. Refreshments were served. Their next meeting will be at the home of Helen Butkiewitcz.

WINSTED WHITE LEGHORNS HOLD LEADING PLACE

The advent of the year 1928 was fittingly observed by the Storrs contest flock with another 2-point boost in production, bringing the mark for the ninth week to exactly 46 per cent. The management is perfectly willing that the birds continue their celebration if further increases in production are to result!

In laying 4,506 eggs for the week, the 1,400 contest pullets increased their production over the previous seven-day period by 216 eggs. This is a gain of 379 eggs when compared with the lay for the corresponding week a year ago. Up to last Monday night, the contest flock had produced 38,598 eggs, or 4,417 eggs more than the total score for the same period of time in last year's competition. Each of the 140 competing pens has averaged to lay 275 eggs in nine weeks, which gives an average individual score of 27 eggs in the same time.

It's becoming an old story to say that a pen of White Leghorns entered by Broadview farm of Winsted, Conn., has headed the honor roll again, but now for the sixth time in a row that statement must be made. This time the Broadview pullets laid 60 eggs, which was 2 better than the second-best score for the week. The seventeenth Storrs contest has been running nine weeks and in that time the Winsted Leghorns have headed the honor roll exactly seven times, and in the other two weeks they placed second! No wonder, then, that these birds are setting the pace for the other 139 pens in this competition, and their score of 547 eggs to the end of the ninth week is high enough to indicate that they will set the pace for some time to come. Their average weekly score has been better than 60 eggs, which at this time of year is likely to be championship performance in any league.

Rhode Island Reds entered by Massachusetts Agricultural college placed second for the week with a score of 58 eggs, and White Leghorns owned by George Lowry of West Willington, Conn., were third with a lay of 53 eggs. Three pens were tied for fourth position, each with a score of 52 eggs. They include White Rocks entered by E. A. Hirt from South Weymouth, Mass., and two pens of White Leghorns owned by Redfield Farms from New Hamburgh, N. Y., and Bournedale Farms from Millerton, N. Y.

ANDEVICH CASE IS CONTINUED TO MONDAY

When the liquor law violation case against Boris Andevich, of No. 12 Third street, was called in the city court Friday morning, Judge Arthur F. Libby continued the case until Monday, January 9th, at the request of the accused's counsel. Attorney Thomas M. Shields. Andevich is charged with being the proprietor of the large moonshine still and the owner of the 90 gallons of liquor found in his house on Third street Thursday night by the local police.

TO FILE BRIEFS IN AUTO INSURANCE SUIT

Judge Chrstopher L. Avery has given the lawyers in the $750 suit brought by James L. Sullivan of Ocean avenue against the Interstate Fire Insurance Co., of Detroit, until one week from Friday to file briefs in the case, the evidence having been all placed in Thursday afternoon in the superior court.

Sullivan sued for damage to his new automobile, which he claims was wrecked last June when someone stole his car from his garage and drove it until the same evening it collided with another car and was later discovered smashed against a tree in front of the residence of Tracy Sheffield.

Francis Redden, Bank street, nephew of Mr. Sullivan, testified that he was in the back seat of the car when the crash occurred and that Sullivan was driving it, but Judge Avery, after listening to Attorney Morris Lubchansky, who, with Attorney Russell H. Corcoran, represented Sullivan, said that in his opinion Redden, and Redden alone, was in the car and in all probability took the car from the garage that night without the consent or knowledge of Sullivan.

Judge Avery said further that in his opinion the question in the matter was whether or not Sullivan had established the fact that Redden's alleged act constituted larceny. Judge Avery said that although his mind was still open, he did not believe that Redden, a nephew of the plaintiff, who had spent the evening there, and who went back to Sullivan's house after the crash and remained all night, had intended to steal the car by appropriating it to his own use, as would be the case in larceny.

Judge Avery said that insurance companies insured against theft but not against other things such as a relative taking a car out for a short ride.

Attorney Lubchansky ventured the suggestion that supposing Redden had not been a friend or relative of Sullivan, what then would be the construction of such an act? Judge Avery said, "Then you would have a good case."

Attorney Thomas E. Troland placed Policeman Augusta Ray, Sergt. Nelson Smith and Redden on the stand Thursday afternoon. The defense attorney was not obliged to argue his case but will file briefs.

Judge Avery said that in the briefs he did not care to have the question of evidence come into the matter, for he assured the attorneys that he should consider the matter of Redden being in the car and Sullivan being at home as facts. The judge stated that he simply wished the attorney's opinion on the legal question of whether or not Redden's alleged act constituted larceny of the car.

School Children Need Vitamins

A child who is signally bright and efficient in class-room achievement, usually is well-nourished, heavier in weight, and has greater resistance to infection, than a child who is held back by vitamin-starvation or undernourishment.

Keep your boy or girl adequately vitamin-nourished at all times. Supplement the daily diet with easily assimilated emulsified cod-liver oil as in Scott's Emulsion — to assure an abundance of health-building vitamins.

To be at their best and have the ability to do their best, children should be kept well-nourished. Children relish and like

SANDINO IS REGARDED AS AN EXTREMELY CRUEL MAN

Seal of the Nicaraguan Guerrilla General Bears the Design of a Rebel Soldier Beheading an American Marine—A Rabid Prohibitionist Himself, He Has Been Forced by His Soldiers to Discontinue the Death Penalty For Any Man Who Sold Liquor to His Soldiers.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 8—(AP)—A rebel soldier beheading an American marine is the design on the seal of General Augustino Sandino's "Republic of Nicaragua" in the Nicaraguan department of Nuevo Segovia.

The seal, found on "official documents" issued by Sandino shows a Sandino soldier leaning over a fallen marine, grasping an upraised machetti in his right hand and the marine's hair in his left. The seal bears the words "republic of Nicaragua," and "country and liberty."

Sandino himself, a thirty-three year old clerk who became general, either of patriots or bandits, depending upon the point of view, is described in some quarters as an extremely cruel man. He was employed as a clerk in the American-owned San Albino gold mine which he later captured and destroyed. Charles Butters, owner of the mine, says he was a fairly good clerk, and that he had a cruel and forceful character.

Sandino worked for Mr. Butters for about eight months, leaving to join the rebel revolution against his conservative government. He declined to lay down his arms last July under the agreement negotiated by Henry L. Stimson, personal representative of President Coolidge. He withdrew to the mountains, picking up men along the way, and organized a sort of republic which at first he called "the mountain people," he called himself "the wild beast of the mountain".

The rebel leader became a picturesque figure, always riding a white mule and using decorated saddle. He started the coinage of gold and lead currency, the coins bearing designs of Indians and of Sandino. He captured the San Albino mine, worked it for a while, paying the laborers with his own coins, and eventually destroyed the mine when he could no longer work it.

Among laws promulgated by Sandino was one providing the death penalty for any man who sold liquor to his soldiers or the burning of her property for any woman guilty of this crime. His prohibition law, however, was discontinued upon the demands of his soldiers for liquor and American marine officers claim that his men are usually under the influence of liquor when fighting. Sandino has also issued decrees confiscating all property of foreigners and cancelling all concessions.

General Jose Moncada, leader of the liberal party, who first made Sandino a general, and Sandino's own father made a trip to the mountains to ask him to lay dow his arms, but he refused to listen ad even threatened the emissaries. He looks upon the liberals who signed the Stimson agreement as traitors to Nicaragua. General Moncada described Sandino as very cruel, always killing his prisoners, but a general who always gave a good account of himself in battle.

The guerrilla leader is now reported to be at a mine about three miles from El Chipote, where he withdrew after the capture of his headquarters at Quilali a week ago Friday by marines. He is said to have a bodyguard of fifty picked men and four boys who have been specially trained to shoot at his request. They are expected to attempt to escape through Honduras or down the Coco river if hard pressed by marines.

MRS. SNYDER SMUGGLED WRITINGS OUT OF JAIL

OSSINING, N. Y., Jan. 8—(AP)—Mrs. Ruth Snyder, who is scheduled to die in the electric chair Thursday night for the murder of her husband was forbidden to have visitors outside the regular visiting hours today after Warden Lawes discovered the means whereby the condemned woman has smuggled written matter out of the prison with the aid of her mother.

While preparations were going forward in the death house for the double execution which will mark the final act of the tragedy that began with the slaying of Albert Snyder, art editor, in his Queens Village home last March, attorneys for Mrs. Snyder and her former lover, Henry Judd Gray, were waiting opening of courts tomorrow to make an eleventh hour effort to stave off the impending fate of their respective clients. Mrs. Snyder's counsel was said to be preparing to go before the United States supreme court in Washington to ask for a writ of error.

A few days ago the "true story" of Mrs. Snyder appeared in one of the tabloids and prison officials were at a loss as to how the document, obviously written by the condemned woman, left Sing Sing. The woman's counsel was barred from the prison on suspicion. Today, however, the ban was lifted when authorities learned that Mrs. Snyder secreted the papers in the matron's lavoratory while walking in the exercise yard and that her mother Mrs. Josephine Brown later, procured them.

MISS NICHOLS A STRONG PROMOTER OF AVIATION

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Woman's greatest opportunity for aiding in the advancement of aviation is to confine herself to "safe and san" flights, so as to build up public confidence in flying, Miss Ruth Nichols, pilot of the first New York-to-Miami nonstop flight, said today.

Miss Nichols, a comely society miss frm Rye, N. S., made it clear that he has no definite plans for her flying future and that she had nontention to commercialize her recent exploit through moving pictures or vaudeville. As for a transoceanic hop—"That is in the far future," she said, although she could see no reason why a woman should not make such a flight "if she had a ship that was practical and safe." Under suc conditions, she thought, a transoceanic hop by a woman pilot would help to encourage other women to take up flying, and would demonstrate its safety.

REQUESTED TO RETURN LISTS TO CHICAGO CITY HALL

CHICAGO, Jan. 8—(AP)—Charged with having removed from the city hall valuable mailing lists—property of the city—Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, former commisioner of health, was today formally requested to return the property. The charge, embodied in a letter written by Dr. Arnold H. Kegel, Dr. Bundesen's successor, was presented to the former commissioner at his home by private detectives.

The mailing list, Dr. Kegel said, included the birth registrations for the period between Aug. 20, 1925 and Nov. 12, 1927 together with the names and addresses of the parents. It is said to have included 200,000 names and according to Dr. Kegel its commercial value is high. As much as 50 cents a name has been offered by persons seeking the list, said the health commissioner.

POLICEMAN AND CULPRIT KILLED IN PISTOL DUEL

JOHNSTON CITY, Tenn., Jan. 8—(AP)—Tom S. Church, 47, assistant chief of police, and Raymond Stroup, 38, were both killed in a pistol duel when Church sought to arrest Stroup here today.

Church with a fellow officer, answered a call to Stroup's home, where a disturbance had been reported, and when he arrived, Stroup was said to have fired on him, and then shot him through the abdomen. Although mortally wounded, Church drew his pistol and killed Stroup.

Stroup was said by officers to have been released recently from the Virginia state penitentiary where he served a term for murder.

FIFTEEN RUSSIANS WERE FOUND GUILTY OF ESPIONAGE

LENINGRAD, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Fifteen Russian inhabitants of the territory adjacent to the Russo-Finnish frontier were convicted of espionage today by the revolutionary tribunal, and three of them sentenced to death.

The defendants were charged with crossing the frontier and returning after they had communicated secret military information to counter revolutionaries abroad and acted as messengers of the counter revolutionaries in Riding in Russia.

Peter and Stephen Paoukou and Michael Wilky were sentenced to death, while the remainder received prison sentences ranging from five to 15 years. The tribunal heeded the request of the All-Russian central executive committee and ruled that Peter Paoukou was not eligible for amnesty as he had been convicted and sentenced to death for a similar offense in 1927 and then pardoned. The other two receiving the death sentence, however, are eligible for amnesty.

ENGLISH GOVERNMENT NOT MOLESTING THE FREE STATE

DUBLIN, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Strong testimony of the non-interference by the British government into Free State affairs was given by retiring Governor General Healy at a banquet in his honor Saturday night at which President Cosgrave presided.

"The English government, in my few years in office, has never interfered—I pledge my faith and honor to this—to the extent of a little or a scintilla in any Irish matter," said the governor general.

"The British government has left the ministry absolutely free; left them, in fact, uncoached and unadvised, and that tribute should not be left unpaid. I have heard much talk about 'our foreign king,' but there is one thing about 'this foreign king,' he is a gentleman and we know his pedigree. I wish we knew as much about those who talk about his 'interference' in Irish affairs."

MOVEMENT TO GUARD AGAINST "WET" CANDIDATES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—(AP)—In line with a policy of seeking to defeat any candidate who is "wet by utterance, act, or record, or any candidate running upon a platform which is evasive to this issue," a number of temperance organizations have called a conference in Washington for Jan. 26 to petition political parties for dry platform declarations.

Those sponsoring the call say that it is concurred in by every temperance organization of consequence in the United States and that it means that the temperance forces are united in the determination to prove that prohibition, instead of being a theory, is a fact.

Officials of the Anti-Saloon league, the Methodist Board of Temperance and others, are behind the move for the conference.

COL. LINDBERGH TO HOP OFF FOR PANAMA TODAY

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Jan. 8—(AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh plans to leave for Panama this morning, but he didn't know tonight just where he would land.

A landing field has been in course of preparation at Panama City, but the flyer told correspondents he was not sure that it was usable. An alternative fiel dis handy on American soil in the canal zone. The trip to Panama will take between three and four hours.

The flyer has decided not to go to Colombia and Venezuela on this trip.

25 CASES OF SMALLPOX IN MIDDLESEX COUNTY

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Jan. 8—(AP)—Twenty five cases of smallpox had been reported in four towns in Middlesex county today. Two new cases in Cromwell, the town hardest hit by the epidemic, brought its total to 16 cases. In East Hampton, eight cases had been reported during the last 24 hours. This city and Chester had one case each.

Every case has been described as mild in form. In many instances, victims had been thought to have been ill with chickenpox.

Families Anxious to Adopt Foundlings

Applications For Babies in New York Nearly Tripled Around the Holiday Season.

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Many New York families are only now receiving the foster children they had hoped to adopt for Christmas, while hundreds of others are still waiting hopefully for their turns.

Application for babies for adoption nearly trebled at the New York department of public welfare around the holiday season. Some were received too late to permit, before Christmas, the thorough investigation required before one of the city's god-children can be placed in a private home. But throughout the year four or five homes were offered for every baby available for adoption.

Last year more than 125 babies had be given names, religions and parents in New York, while probably nearly a thousand more were brought to the department of public welfare or to social agencies for care and placing in foster homes. More than 6,000 applications for children to adopt were received by all agencies during the year, a department official estimated.

Most of the foundlings are discovered in railroad and subway stations, in parks, at the doors of residences and institutions, and even in ash cans. Traveling bags, almost invariably black, are favorite repositories for the little unfortunates, while many are wrapped in old cloth, or even in newspapers.

TWO PRISONERS KILLED IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

LONDON, Ohio, Jan. 8—(AP)—An alleged attempt to escape from an officer who was taking three men to jail here today led to the death of two of the prisoners, the probable fatal injury of the officer. The third prisoner is being held and will be charged with manslaughter if the officer's injuries prove fatal.

The dead: Earl O'Brien 55, London, William Baker 32, London.

Marshal Sherman Beathard is suffering from a fractured skull and severe body injuries.

Beathard arrested O'Brien, Baker and William Seeley, on a charge of intoxication and was taking them to jail. Witnesses said the officer was driving the trio in his automobile when Seeley struck him over the head with an iron bar. The machine crashed into a Pennsylvania passenger train killing two of the men and seriously injuring Beathard.

SIX PERSONS BURNRED TO DEATH IN A RANCH HOUSE

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Six persons were burned to death early this morning in a fire which destroyed a ranch house near Sacramento, the Sacramento county sheriff said this afternoon.

The dead were Mr. and Mrs. K. Iwaoka and their four children, two boys and two girls all under seven years of age.

The family occupied a home on a farm where the parents were employed. The fire is believed to have started in the kitchen while the family slept.

LAZIEST MAN IN THE WORLD DIED SATURDAY IN IRELAND

BELFAST, Ireland, Jan., 7.—(AP)—George Thompson, who long had the reputation of being the laziest man in the world, died at Lurgan, County Armagh, yesterday.

George took to bed in early manhood and declined to leave it for thirty years until, indeed, his mother, who supported him, was forced to enter the workhouse, when he accompanied her. The authorities said that he couldn't loaf there, but he stayed with them anyway until his death.

DEMOCRATS PREPARING FOR JACKSON DAY DINNER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8—(AP)—The national capital this week will take on a democratic atmosphere, regardless of the fact that the party is out of power.

It will entertain more than a thousand of the leaders of the party, representing all factions and all parts of the country. The occasion will be the Jackson day dinner on Thursday night, arranged by the national committee, which hopes to obviate any such fight as that which occurred at Madison Square Garden in 1924.

SPECIAL POLICEMAN WAS ACCIDENTALLY SHOT DEAD

NEW YORK, Jan. 18—(AP)—A joking invitation to a friend to "blow my brains out" had hardly left his lips when a special policeman was accidentally shot and killed today.

Rubin Weingrove, a special officer employed by the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, was said to have offered his pistol as part of the jest, when he slipped and fell discharging the weapon. Frank Donnellan, the friend, was held on a technical charge of homicide.

WRECKED LANDING GEAR OF PLANE IN MIDDLETOWN

MIDDLETOWN, Jan. 8—(AP)—Lieut. Ralph Barrows, Hartford pilot, in a monoplane carrying four passengers, wrecked the landing gear of the plane making a landing here today on the grounds adjacent to the Connecticut state hospital for the insane. His passengers, theatrical people scheduled in a performance here tomorrow night, were unhurt. Barrows had flown from Hartford.

TWO ROBBERS AMBUSHED AND KILLED IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Acting on a "tip" from the state's attorney's office, Sergeant Andrew Barry, commander of a detective bureau squad, tonight ambushed two men as they were robbing a theatre manager on the West Side, killing them almost instantly with a voley of shots fired from a hand machine gun.

NIGHT SESSION OF THE CITY COURT IN MIDDLETOWN

MIDDLETOWN, Jan. 8—(AP)—Justice George K. Payne was called out of bed this morning at 3 o'clock to hold court in the city court room here. Fifteen frequenters of a dice game raided in Portland were fined $1 each and William McGetrick, at whose store the game was in progress was fined $25.

Dry Unit in Collusion With Bootleggers

Charge is Made By Representative Laguardia in a Letter to Secretary Mellon.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—(AP)—A charge of collusion between members of the New York prohibition unit and bootleggers was made today by Representative La Guardia, republican, New York, in a letter asking Secretary Mellon if he was in a position to reveal what action had been taken against the "high-grade liquor" syndicate which the representative recently attacked on the house floor. The business of the syndicate was said to be smuggling in "choice vintages" with cancelled custom stamps.

The New York member reviewed results of a personnal investigation made during the Christmas holidays in New York city, and said that he felt it unsafe to deliver evidence at his disposal to prohibition authorities there because he had "ascertained that contacts had been established with the prohibition bureau."

"I conferred with the collector of customs and the deputy collector and found them most anxious and willing to go into the matter with a well worked out plan of running down the heads of this syndicate," he continued. "Permit me to tell you that the original argument set out by some of the custom officials that it is impossible for a custom stamp to be used twice, as it would show double cancellation, was promptly met by my exhibiting custom stamps bearing double cancellation."

La Guardia advocated re-enforcements and higher salaries for the New York custom office.

THE TEN BODIES RECOVERED FROM SUB. S-4 IDENTIFIED

BOSTON, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Identification of the ten men whose bodies were recovered from the submarine S-4 at Provincetown yesterday, was announced today at the Chelsea Naval hospital, to which the bodies were brought last night.

The names were:

Charis A. Ford, Washington, D. C., civilian employe, naval board of inspection and survey.

John Joseph Fennell, Lowell, Mass., machinists' mate.

Alfred Eugene Seaton, Norfolk, Va., quartermaster.

Clarence Ferdinand Bthke, Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., engineman.

Charles Beresford Calcott, Melrose Park, Ill., machinests' mate.

Peder Haaland, Ada, Ill., machinists' mate.

Arthur Frederick Hodges, New London, Conn., machinests' mate.

Mariano Topo Tedar, Occidentalnegras, P. I., mess attendant.

J. H. Long, Gainsville, Texas, fireman.

Charles Frederick Burrell, Tamaqua, Pa., seaman.

The identification was established shortly after the bodies were brought to the naval hospital late last night and then were forwarded to the navy department in Washington and to the families of the men.

Preparations were made today to send the bodies to their homes or to the military cemetery at Arlington, where some will be buried.

"DEFENDANT" BEFORE THE NAVAL COURT OF INQUIRY

BOSTON, Jan. 8—(AP)—Lieut. Commander John S. Bayliss, commanding officer of the Coast Guard destroyer Paulding when it rammed and sank the submarine S-4 off Provincetown on December 17, will resume the witness stand tomorrow as a "defendant" before the naval court of inquiry investigating the disaster.

Commander Bayliss was formally named as a defendant by the court yesterday when, during his testimony, he referred to the collision between his ship and the submersible. The court's action was taken under an admiralty rule which makes the commander of a vessel in collision with another a defendant in the subsequent inquiry.

MRS. ALFRED E. SMITH IN COMFORTABLE CONDITION

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.(AP)—Mrs. Alfred E. Smith, wife of the governor, who is recovering from an operation for acute appendicitis, passed a comfortable night and her progress today was "onsistent," a bulletin, issued by her physicians said.

The governor's wife was stricken Friday night. Her condition became acute Saturday afternoon and she was removed to St. Vincent's hospital, where an operation was performed immediately.

FAITHLESS SWEETHEART WAS CAUSE OF SUICIDE

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Jan. 8—(AP)—While an American motion picture film featuring the shooting of a faithless wife by the play's hero was being shown here tonight, a youth named Garbornoke shot himself mortally, throwing the audience into a panic.

When the lights were turned on the dying youth explained "I have a faithless sweetheart but I haven't the courage to shoot her so I shot myself."

SMITH REFUSES TO SUBMIT TO THE SENATE COMMITTEE

Senator Reed Will Report the Senator-Elect's Refusal to the Senate—It is Expected That the Matter Will Be Disposed of This Week, With the Senate Finally Declaring the Seat Vacant—The Senate This Week Also Will Receive the Committee Report of Its Inquiry Into the Authenticity of the Hearst Mexican Documents

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8—(AP)—The congressional machine, which so far this session has been pulled along by the power of the house, is about to receive impetus from both sides, for the senate is getting more legislative fuel on which to travel.

The house this week will pass on to the senate the annual appropriation bill for the state, justice, commerce and labor department and also that for the interior department. These will be given the right of way in the senate as leaders there plan to clean up the appropriation bills as rapidly as possible.

Meantime, however, the senate will receive reports from two of its special committees, those inquring into the authenticity of the Hearst Mexican documents and the case of Senator-elect Frank L. Smith, of Illinois, who has been denied the oath of office by the senate because of expenditures in his primary election campaign.

The Mexican committee will report that the documents published in the Hearst newspapers are forgeries and that there is no evidence to substantiate charges that four United States senators received any funds whatsoever from the Mexican government.

The special campaign funds committee, of which Senator Reed, of Missouri, is chairman, will recite the refusal of Smith to submit himself to the jurisdiction of that committee until he has been given the oath of office. It is expected that this matter will be disposed of before the end of the week with the senate finally declaring the seat vacant.

The only immediate matter on the senate calendar is the resolution of Senator McMaster, republican, South Dakota, to put the senate on record in favor of a general downward revision of the tariff rates. While administration leaders will oppose it, the necessary votes for its adoption are in sight through a combination of democrats and republican irregulars.

Having adopted and sent to the senate the joint resolution authorising the president to appoint a special commission to investigate the S-4 disaster, the house tomorrow will turn its attention again to the four departmental appropriation bill with a view to a vote late in the day.

On Wednesday the appropriations committee is expected to report the interior department supply bill and that will be taken up Thursday with leaders hoping for a final vote before the end of the week, Tuesday will be given over to the private consent calendar.

House committees during the week will continue hearings on the Boulder Canyon Dam, flood control, and the case of Rear Admiral Magruder. The military committee expects to take up Muscle Shoals Tuesday and an elections committee will consider the case of James M. Beck, of Pennsylvania, whose right to a house seat is challenged on the ground that he was not a legal resident of that state at the time of his election.

The senate interstate commerce committee will again take up railroad consolidation legislation tomorrow and on Tuesday the irrigation committee will open hearings on the Columbia river

DIVERS MAKING RAPID PROGRESS ON SUNKEN SUB

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., Jan. 8—(AP)—Divers assigned to the S-4 salvage fleet, aided by nearly ideal weather conditions, today succeeded in making what was regarded as extraordinary rapid progress in preparing the sunken submersible for raising. Although 12 divers worked in the engine and control compartments, no additional bodies were found, the total number recovered thus far remaining at 17.

The greater part of the day was utilized in adjusting the valves in the motor and control compartments, closing some and opening others, preparatory to attaching air hoses for the purpose of making the compartments buoyant.

The diving crew today had its first case of "bends" since the beginning of operations when Diver William Carr was stricken.

When he was hauled to the surface after his hour below, he was sent immediately to the decompression chamber, as is customary, but when he emerged into normal air pressure again, he immediately acquired a violent rash and was sent back to the decompression room for several additional hours.

Some difficulty was experienced with the air lines, the air condensing into snow because of the excess moisture in the atmosphere. As a result the divers' air supply was somewhat irregular but no serious consequences were experienced.

GOSPEL TEMPERANCE HALL WAS DYNAMITED

LOCK HAVEN, Pa., Jan. 8—(AP)—The explosion of a dynamite cap at Hammersley's Forks, abut 30 miles from here today, completely demolished the west wall of the Gospel Temperance tabernacle while twenty women and children were attending Sunday school.

The explosion occurred when the janitor started to light a fire in the stove and was caused by dynamite evidently placed in the chimney flue. Bricks were thrown a distance of 200 feet but no one was injured.

FOUR PERSONS RUN DOWN BY BY MOTORIST IN TORRINGTON

TORRINGTON, Jan. 8—(AP)—Four people were run down by a passing motorist here tnight as they were waiting to board a trolley car. They were taken to the Charlotte Hungerford hospital suffering from minor injuries. Alfred Shair, Winsted, driver of the machine was located at his home in a hysterical condition. Police ordered him to remain there until his condition improves when they will prefer charges.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE IS TO STOP AT MIAMI

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8—(AP)—President Coolidge has decided to stop at Miami on his way to Havana, for the Pan-American conference and at Jacksonville on his return trip, instead of the reverse, as originally planned. The change was made, it was said, to meet train schedules.

The president will arrive in Miami late in the afternoon of January 14 and in Jacksonville on January 18 or 19.

KILLED HER HUSBAND AND HER TWO DAUGHTERS

MONROVIA, Cal., Jan. 8—(AP)—Mrs. Mayuse Hirano, 27 year old wife of a Japanese truck gardener, today shot and killed her husband while he slept and then turned the gun upon her two daughters, aged 8 and 9, killing both of them.

Later an attempt at suicide by the woman was frustrated by neighbors and she was taken into custody by deputy sheriffs from Los Angeles to whom she admitted the crime.

R.-W. LIGHTING CO. TO BUY QUIDNICK-WINDHAM PLANT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Jan. 8.—The prospects of general growth and prosperity for Willimantic during the coming year were greatly enhanced Saturday when information was made public that the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting company had made arrangements for the purchase of the entire Quidnick-Windham Manufacturing company plant with the avowed intention of securing new and important industries for the city and carrying out an extensive development program. It was made known that the transaction, which has unlimited values to the city, was made possible through the public-spirited and altruistic efforts of Aime J. Martineau and John F. Ahern, two of the leading business men of the city. The mills were sold at auction two months ago and the danger of the plant falling into outside hands with little if any prospect of being of advantage to the city was checked by the far-sighted purchase of the plant by four local men, Aime J. Martineau, Samuel Chesbro, First Selectman Ernest P. Chesbro and William E. Clark. The plant, including two large mills, equipment and valuable water power rights on the Willimantic river, and at Bolton Lake, has now come into the hands of affiliations of the local public utilities company. This transaction is practical assurance of the success of the plant. The treasurer of the light company, M. J. Warner, has made notable achievements through various extensive businesses with which he is connected and his acquiring of manufacturing interests here bids fair to result most advantageously to Willimantic.

Along with the announcement made above there came additional information from the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting company today which placed John F. Ahern in line for added congratulations, it being made known that he had been promoted to the position of general manager of the lighting company, succeeding Mr. Warner who will remain as treasurer and retain an active interest in the management, and continue to take the interests of the community at heart. General Manager Ahern, who is considered as highly meritorious of the promotion, has been connected with the Warner interests for 24 years. He has been manager of the Willimantic office for nearly 19 years and assistant treasurer of the company. Manager Ahern has been a prime mover for the progress and welfare of the city and as a representative of the company has played an important part in civic upbuilding. He is a past president of the Rotary club and a director of the Chamber of Commerce. Manager Ahern stated that three efficient and faithful employes of the company would remain in their respective positions. They are David Loree, general superintendent of all operations; Curtin H. Reinhardt, assistant superintendent, and John F. Doonan, head of the engineering department.

Aime J. Martineau, who went on local records today with Mr. Ahern as having effected one of the most important steps ever made for the city's welfare in holding local control of the former cotton plant, has been an untiring and efficient worker for the city's best interests. He entered in business here 15 years ago and today the Martineau-Bacon company, Inc., which he heads as president and general manager, is one of the most progressive concerns of its kind in eastern Connecticut. Mr. Martineau completed a two-year term as alderman-at-large last November. He is an officer in the Rotary club and a director of the Chamber of Commerce.

COTTAGES AT COVENTRY HAVE BEEN RANSACKED

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Jan. 8.—A wave of vandalism in no less than nine cottages and three barns at the north end of Lake Wangumbaug, South Coventry, was discovered today and immediate steps were taken by the state police to check the wholesale ransacking. Thefts were committed in a number of places and much damage, showing a mania for destruction, was done. Among the cottages broken into was that of Alexander Turkington. A barn owned by Julian Beville was entered and burned matches were found scattered on the floor near a pile of hay. The more recent breaks are the second group of a series which started some time ago when cottages owned by R. O. Cheney and other residents of South Manchester were ransacked. A man giving his name as John Murphy, of Buffalo, N. Y., who, in company with another young man said to be John Conway, of New London, were found occupying the Cheney cottage a few weeks ago, by property owners. Conway escaped from the men and is still at large. Murphy was bound over to the Tolland county superior court and he is now in the county jail in default of bonds of $2,000.

Bradford, of Putnam, has informed attorneys that he would meet members of the bar for consultation in regard to criminal business coming up at the next term of superior court, in the office of Attorney Harry S. Gaucher here next Tuesday at 11:30 a. m. There are but three cases from Windham listed on the docket.

Funeral services for Miss Adela Wawer were held at her home, 23 Yellow Row, this morning with a requiem high mass in St. Joseph's church at nine o'clock. Mrs. E. R. Fortelance was at the organ and Miss L. Monica McKeon was soloist. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery where a committal service was conducted by Rev. John Balco, who was also celebrant of the funeral mass. Killourey Brothers had charge of the arrangements.

The annual report of St. Joseph's parish was read at the masses Sunday by the pastor, Rev. Henry E. Quinn. The report was a most gratifying one showing a substantial amount paid on the church debt despite extraordinary expenditures for improvements and repairs and the purchase of considerable property adjoining St. Joseph's convent. With the possible exception of the rectory, all of the parish buildings are in excellent condition. The church has been entirely redecorated and the basement completed and furnished for a chapel and parish hall. It was stated that the honor system of collections is proving very satisfactory and has been in a measure responsible for the financial progress of the church during the year.

Members of Clara Barton Tent, No. 7, of Norwich, Frederick Ontley, past department commander of Rhode Island, and members of Francis S. Long Post, G. A. R., will be among the guests at the installation of officers of Mary Todd Lincoln Tent, No. 15, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil war, which will be held in G. A. R. hall Monday evening.

MYSTIC

Mrs. Eliza G. Scott, regent of Fanny Ledyard chapter, D. A. R., attended the meeting Friday in Hartford of the state regents and treasurers, held in the Center church parish house. Forty-six out of the fifty-two chapters were represented. The quota for the Connecticut college scholarship is being met by each chapter paying a small per capita tax. Mrs. Ann Rogers Minor, of the New London chapter, and former state regents, Mrs. J. L. Buell and Mrs. C. H. Bissell, were among the speakers. The reports show the organization in a prosperous condition. The state had 6,670 members, Oct. 10, 1927. Mrs. Scott has attended all the business meetings called by the state and presents an excellent report at the next chapter meeting here. The publicity given by this chapter was reported as one of the best in the state.

Miss Anna C. Pattern died suddenly from heart trouble at her home in Old Mystic Thursday evening. She had visited Norwich and New London during the day and had just reached home from going to the post office when she fell and expired before medical aid arrived. She was a native of Colchester and came from Middletown to live in Old Mystic a few years ago. She leaves a brother with whom she lived. The funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at 2:30, conducted by Rev. Lowry P. MacLennen, pastor of the Old Mystic Methodist church. The body was placed in the crypt of the chapel in Elm Grove cemetery. The bearers were C. W. Beckwith, J. F. Myers, Ori Panciera and C. A. Gager, of Norwich.

A basketball game was played in Columbus hall Friday evening between the local Shamrocks and Mercury Five of New London. The Monday club is to meet this (Monday) afternoon with Miss Harriet Fish. Mrs. G. Albert Thompson will read the paper.

NOANK

Allie Crowell and Dr. A. Williams have had the final match at checkers, to see who is champion of Noank and Mystic. Each one had made the series 1 to 1. So the pride of Elm street went to the up river village with a cheering section of 40 and in a large red building on Water street. Never Fail Williams was ready to do his stuff on the checker board, with a cheering squad of 50, all iron workers. The room was dolled up with the flags of all nations, also black and red crepe paper. A coin was tossed to see which would have the first move and it was Never Give Up Crowell. He made a corner move, working the check star for a 3-man jump, but he knew that the mason of the fishing village had a new trick up his sleeve, working hard for the first match so Walker Allie did not get a king. His cheering section let the balloon go off and give the pride of Bank street a forward pass for 4 checkers. Dr. Williams was trying to block Allie's moves; but with a quick think the cod-chaser from the Indian town took away four men from his rival. Then what a noise came from the 50 voices! It was a double-move lose, 3 men and took 4 from the doctor. It worked and the match went to Crowell by only two more moves. Both men were in good shape and gave over 100 fans many thrills, by their clever moves. The final game found Mystic's singing squad telling Pride of Bank street to fight and don't let Noank take home the bacon. Never Fail Crowell was working to win the championship, while his rival never gives up until he sees the last man gone on the board. The doctor was playing a careful game while Crowell was watching him like a cat would a mouse. With victory in sight for Mystic's star player he made a mistake. Crowell got the jump and won the championship for Noank and Mystic. The cheering squad carried the new champ all over Water street for it was a hard match to lose. Then a Dinty Moore special was served with circus lemonade, pumpkin pie and doughnuts, by Cook Billie Fitzgerald.

Aubrey Clark was dismissed from a New London hospital Friday after a minor operation.

A meeting was held of the Aunt Sarah Peabody club, formed in the village recently in which no member has smoked since New Year's. Flash McDonald, the president hit the mallat and called for the committee to report and tell us good or bad news, "Did you three men, Stretch Moran, John Bracci or William Franklin, see any member smoking?" "Yes—only one, but he had a good excuse! His best friend got married and gave him a 25 cent wedding cigar; so he had to smoke it!" He also asked for another chance and it was given him, "But keep away from cigars!" One new member was taken in; he smoked his last Christmas cigar the last day in December. After the meeting a social hour was spent when egg and ham sandwiches hit the spot, with cake and Down East tea. Steward Elliott Bennett was the man who passed the eats. It was a real meeting and a good time for all the no-tobacco users.

Buela Clark has returned from a visit in Norwich.

Miss Thema Steele is in Voluntown for a day with friends.

Miss Helen J. Clark spent Friday at Deep River.

Paula Banning is ill at her home.

WESTERLY

THINK FLOATING TOY HORSE WAS TAKEN FOR GIRL'S BODY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Jan. 8—Eel fishermen on the lower reaches of the Pawcatuck river make a possible solution of the body reported seen a week ago Thursday afternoon by A. F. Lawton, from the Stillmanville bridge as passing over the Pawcatuck river dam just below the structure. The fishermen describe a wooden hobby horse with flowing mane, outstretched fore feet and loose burlap padding on the back, where some youngster had worn through the saddle, as left by the falling tide upon the river bank. The wooden horse has been seen by more than one fisherman whose ceiling has been cut short by the fast melting ice caused by the warm weather of the past few days.

SISTERS BECOME BRIDES AT A DOUBLE WEDDING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Jan. 8—Saturday morning a double wedding was solemnized at 9 o'clock at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, when Miss Margaret A. Piscitello became the bride of Salvatore Faulisi, and her sister, Miss Frances M. Piscitello, was united in marriage with Giuseppe Dimarco. The brides live in Westerly and both grooms are residents of Pawcatuck. Both couples will reside in a two-family house at 2 Cottage street. The ceremonies were performed by Rev. Henry Bruno, S. M., and the nuptial mass which followed was celebrated by Rev. J. P. Cassagne, S. M. The wedding marches were played by the orchanist, Mrs. Frank G. Ahern, and solos were sung by Martin H. Spellman. The first couple to be married were Miss Margaret A. Piscitello and Calvatore Faulisi. Miss Beatrice A Montalto was maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Misses Theresa DeBartolo, Marietta Grasso and Bridget Grasso. Paul Loverde was best man and the ushers were Peter Grilli, Joseph Lazzardo and Joseph Congelosi.

The bride wore white satin. Her veil was caught with orange blossoms and she carried white roses. The maid of honor was dressed in silver and blue taffeta, with picture hat, and carried pink roses. Miss DeBartolo wore pink georgette. Miss Marietta Grasso, maize georgette, and Miss Bridget Grasso, orchid georgette. All wore hats to match and carried pink roses. Then followed the wedding of Miss Frances M. Piscitello and Giuseppe Dimarco. The maid of honor was Miss Concettina T. Marino and the bridesmaids wehe Misses Margaret Morrone, Rose Tassone and Ida Longo. Samuel F. Siciliano was best man and the ushers were Paul Miceli, Antonio Quattromani and Joseph Ballato.

The bride was gowned like her sister in ivory satin, a veil caught with orange blossoms and bouquet of white roses. The maid of honor was dressed in orchid beaded georgette, with picture hat, and carried pink roses. Miss Morrone wore Nile green satin, with hat to match, and carried pink carnations. Miss Tassone wore pink georgette and carried pink carnations, and Miss Longo wore peach satin and carried yellow and white carnations.

A large number of relatives and friends attending the wedding, including guests from Norwich, New London, Hartford, Willimantic, Peace Dale and New York. Later a breakfast was served at the brides' home, 75 Pleasant street. In the afternoon and evening over 100 guests attended the joint reception at Vets' hall on West Broad street. Music for dancing was by Greeley's orchestra.

At 11.50 a. m. Saturday the whistle fire alarm of the Pawcatuck Fire district was sounded from Box No. 64, Garden and Downer streets, for a grass fire on property of Daniel M. Cogan, 4 Downer street. The truck of the P. S. Barber company responded but the fire was extinguished without the use of hose. Engineer Francis McMahon investigated the fire which was reported as started by children.

A peculiar accident befell the eastbound Bay State express leaving the Westerly waiting station of the New Haven road Friday at 1.25 p. m. As the train was proceeding up-grade towards Frazier's bridge on the old South road, a red-hot coal from the locomotive stack became lodged in the vestibule end of a coach. The heavy rubber coated fabric become ignited and the smoke from burning rubber filled the cars on either side. A stop was made near Burden's pond and a bucket of water put out the fire. Car windows were opened to permit the smoke to escape before the train pdoceeded.

The following transfers have been recorded in the office of the Westerly town clerk:

Feel Stiff and Achy?

To Be Well the Kidneys Must Thoroughly Eliminate Waste Poisons from the Blood.

DOES every day find you lame, stiff and achy? Do you feel tired and drowsy—suffer nagging backache, headache and dizzy spells? Are the kidney secretions scanty and burning in passage?

Sluggish kidneys allow poisons to remain in the blood and upset the whole system.

Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, increase the secretion of the kidneys and thus aid in the elimination of waste impurities. Doan's have established a nation-wide reputation. Ask your neighbor!

WATCH OUR ADS

January is the Clearance Month at this Store—a time of extraordinary values. Watch for our daily advertisements in the Norwich Bulletin—every day will carry some important store news for those who would buy with economy.

ANOTHER WEEK OF

The January Clearance Sale

This January Clearance Sale is a Porteous & Mitchell Company institution, established more than 50 years ago and continued throughout our business career because it is a Sale that renders a genuine service to the public—and to the store.

Clearance Prices in All Departments

Through the medium of our January Clearance Sale the Store is enabled to close out, prior to our annual inventory which takes place February 1st, all surplus stocks of staple goods and all seasonal goods that would otherwise be carried over to another season. Our customers benefit because of the many opportunities for savings—the January Clearance Sale being the greatest buying opportunity of the entire year.

18 Departments Are Included

There are 18 distinct departments, each one a store in itself, all offering splendid stocks of staple and seasonable merchandise at drastic reductions for quick clearance. Also, included are special purchases from manufacturers and jobbers, desiring to close out surplus stocks, and glad to make price concessions because we pay cash.

Early Buyers Get Best Selection

Make it a point to attend this Sale without delay—come today if possible and get an early selection. Of course, Tuesday and following days will be lucky days, too. We can't close out everything in one day—or even in one week. So if you can't come today come any day this week. You'll be amply repaid with hundreds of saving opportunities throughout the store.

DANIELSON

LOCAL SONS OF VETERANS BANQUET AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Jan. 8—Eight members of Colonel Edward Anderson camp, Sons of Union Veterans, were at New London Saturday evening to attend a district meeting of the organization. About 90 were in attendance representing several camps in the eastern part of the state and also camps in Hartford and Meriden.

Following a banquet the business session of the evening was held and was featured by the presentation of a silk banner, the gift of Perkins post, G. A. R., of New London, to Jared R. Avcery camp, Sons of Union Veterans. Eight members of Perkins post were in attendance.

Presentation of the banner for Perkins post, G. A. R., was by Past Commander Havens, and the acceptance for Jared R. Avery camp was by his son Morgan Havens. The banner was escorted in by two members of the G. A. R. and by two Sons of Veterans.

Those attending from Danielson were E. C. Babson, DeForest Wells, DeForest Wells, Jr., J. E. Potter, Herbert Lyman, George W. Miller, J. Elmer Kean and Kenneth Warren. The next district meeting is to be held in February with Sedgwick camp, No. 4, of Norwich.

Throughout the Quinebaug mill a new system for humidifying is being installed. Previously the weaving department has bene equipped with humidifiers, but now they are to be installed throughout the big plant, in all departments. The new system will be electrically controlled and will work automatically. A Westerly electrical concern is engaged with the installation of the necessary motors and wiring.

It is understood that Danielson business men are to do only an extremely limited amount of special advertising during 1928, which would indicate that persons selling program advertising and such are going to find it difficult to get business here. The agreement between the business men on this point is very general. They are regularly solicited for all sorts of advertising, much of it of no value whatever to them. The cost of this—amounting really to a donation—runs into a very considerable amount of money in the course of a year. Business men here are this year to use their regular advertising mediums, which includes matter they send out through the mails.

FIND GLOVE BELONGING TO MISSING P. G. ALDRICH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Jan. 8—The only trace found of Phimeas G. Aldrich over the week end was one of the gloves he had when he disappeared—a week ago last Saturday. This glove was picked up on the railroad embankment not distant from the Putnam County club, from which he was not far distant when he made off into the woods and fog. Week end searching for him covered all the territory along the bank of the Quinebaug river from the Country club southward. Boy Scouts have participated in the searching.

Friends here have been notified of the death at Saranac Lake on Jan. 1, of Mrs. Frances Wall Bennett, wife of Harry Bates Bennett. Mr. Bennett was for years a resident of Danielson, but is now of New Rochelle. Mrs. Bennett, who had been ill for months, was a daughter of Thomas Wall of New York, where she was born. Funeral services were held at St. Catherine's church at West 153d street, and burial was in St. Raymond's cemetery. Mrs. Bennett leaves her husband, a son, Thomas, a step-son, Harry B. Bennett, three sisters and a brother.

Mrs. Clara P. Masse, 70, died during Friday night at her home in Ballouville, where she had been a resident for many years. She was the wife of Peter Masse. Born in Canada, the greater part of her life had been spent in this country. She leaves her husband, a son Delor, who is in Ballouville, and two daughters, Mrs. A. Page of New Bedford and Mrs. Paul Mondor of Ballouville.

On Saturday the funeral of Raymond Norbert Savoie was held from the home in Moosup, with services at All Hallows' church, Rev. Oscar Norman being celebrant of the high mass of requiem. There were many relatives and friends at the service. The body was entombed at the Sacred Heart cemetery in Wauregan. The bearers were Edmond Savoie, Edward Larose, Albert Deschamps, Oliver Larose, Raymond Savoie and Louis Deschamps, all relatives of the deceased. Martin T. Burns was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

How uncertain one's memory may be is once again illustrated by the impression that the recent December was the mildest in many years. It was a wonderful month, but only as recently as 1923, there was an even milder December. This fact is shown by the day to day weather records kept by Judge James N. Tucker of East Killingly, who has kept a weather diary for a great many years.

Mention of the weather brings to mind also that January turned out a day last Saturday that would have fitted nicely into mid-April. In the early afternoon the temperature reached 65 degrees. Such a mild day and such a sunny day during the first week in January was a rare treat, and many were the happy comments about the fact.

Skaters were out on the Assawaga river Saturday afternoon, and found the ice wonderful, though some sections of the stream were not regarded as really safe. Rain and thawing weather today made venturing onto the river a hazardous thing, and this condition will continue to prevail until there is more cold weather.

MISS SULLIVAN BREAKS WRIST IN FALL AT HER HOME

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Jan. 8—This afternoon Miss Margaret Sullivan of Academy street was taken to the Day Kimball hospital at Putnam for the reduction of a bad fracture of her left wrist, an injury she received when she fell in the yard at her home just after the dinner hour.

Eva Poirier, 26, wife of Ernest Poirier daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cusson of Wauregan, died at the Backus hospital in Norwich today. The body was brought to Wauregan in charge of Undertaker L. E. Kennedy.

Monday of this week the first sessions of the standard leadership craining courses under the auspices of the Danielson federation of churches are to be held at the Westfield Congregational church.

Joseph J. Brennan, remained critically ill with pneumonia today at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam.

A large gathering of parish members is anticipated when the annual meeting of St. Alban's corporation is held Tuesday evening.

A dance at the state armory Saturday evening under the joint auspices of the Service battery and the Danielson Girls' club attracted a large attendance.

At the Westfield Congregational church today Rev. Harding W. Gaylord, the pastor, preached the first of a series of sermons he has scheduled for Sundays in January. Today's subject was Legislating People into Goodness—a sermon about a legal theory.

Members of the W. C. T. U. have a monthly meeting scheduled for Tuesday.

The Danielson Town basketball team has set itself a task for this week in meeting the Hartford National Guard team, one of the strongest in the central part of the state.

Irving W. Davis and Ernest F. Michaelson are the Killingly jurors for the January term of the Windham county superior court, which is to open Friday of this week, when persons who are to answer to criminal charges are to be put to plea.

A Labrador Doctor was the title of an illustrated lecture at the evening service at the Westfield Congregational church this evening, the lecture having to do with the work of Dr. Wr. Wilfred T. Grenfell.

Today's high temperature and light rain did not improve the ice crop prospects in any degree. Another prolonged period of real cold weather is required before ice cutting may start hereabouts.

Mrs. Minnie Allen is the newly elected president of the Help One Another class of the Baptist church.

George A. Haverman of Providence was a visitor with friends in Danielson today.

PUTNAM

TWO-DAY SKATING CARNIVAL PROVES VERY ENTERTAINING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Jan. 8—The Putnam skating carnival under the auspices of the Putnam branch of the Windham county Y. M. C. A. was held Friday afternoon and all day on Saturday. On Friday the ice was in excellent condition but the warm weather on Saturday made the pond very wet and when any of the participants were unfortunate enough to fall, it meant a trip home for dry clothes. The events of Friday afternoon were for the younger people and they had an audience of more than one hundred, and the judges were L. Edwin Hill, secretary of the Windham county Y. M. C. A. and Nelson King, Donald Maclean, Floyd Green and Walter Cody. On Saturday there were at least one hundred people witnessing the events and the judges for events for that day were the following with Mr. Hill: Ralph Jenkins, Edmond Damond, Lauriston Noyes, Ralph Bowen and Ray Medbury. Credit for the excellent condition of the ice was due to the efforts of Messrs Medbury and Trowbridge who did all possible to make the events an enjoyable one.

The results of the events of Friday were as follows:

Midget class—Fifty yard dash: First, Christopher Kempf, Jr.; second, Leonard Spellman; third, David Wicks. One hundred and fifty yard dash: First, Christopher Kempf, Jr.; second, Leonard Spellman; third, Davis Wicks. 220 yard dash: First, Christopher Kempf, Jr.; second, Wm. Johnson.

Junior events—150 yard dash: First, Herbert Johnson; second, Orrin Morse; third, Page Jenkins. 220 yard dash: First, Herbert Johnson; second, Orrin Morse; third, Walter Yates. 440 yard relay: Winning team, Stuart Frahklin, Donald Bradley, Leslie Woodis, Orrin Morse.

Intermediate events: Boys, 220 yard dash: First, Herbert Johnson; second, Frederick Franklin; third, James Tatem. 440 yard dash: First, Frederick Franklin; second, Herbert Johnson; third, Richard Morris. 440 yard relay: Winning team, James Tatem, Frederick Franklin, Stuart Franklin, Herbert Johnson.

The first of the year R. E. Elli resigned his position as superintendent of the Waterman Worsted company of this city. He came to Putnam about twenty-one years ago from Rockville where he had been employed as a designer in a mill there. He first worked at the French River Textile mill at Mechanicsville but came to the Waterman Worsted mill at the time it was started by the late Fred and Percy Waterman and has been the superintendent there since the death of Percy Waterman. Mr. Ill is succeeded by Howard H. Shirreffs, who has been the designer with the company for the past four years. Mr. Shirreffs came to Putnam from a mill in Woonsocket but formerly lived at Fitchburg, Mass. He is a veteran of the World war and served for a time as lieutenant in the Connecticut National guard with the headquarters company 43rd division of this city.

Dr. W. L. Beard, for more than thirty years president of Foochow college, Foochow, China, made an address at the Second Congregational church this afternoon. Putnam people have been particularly interested in the work of Dr. Beard. Mrs. Beard was the former Miss Ellen Kinney of this city and is the sister of Miss Emma Kinney and Elbert E. Kinney of Center street. Mrs. Beard lived here with her children for several years and their children received a great part of their early education in the Putnam schools.

Great anxiety was felt for the safety of Dr. Beard and his family during the uprising in China, but they left China several months ago. They were in the danger zone. His address was most interested for he was very active and much interested in work in the Orient. Dr. and Mrs. Beard are the guests of Miss Kinney and her brother at their home on Center street.

The "Friendly Evening" service at the Second Congregational church on Sunday evening included the motion picture, "The Gorilla Hunt" and showed much of life in the heart of the Belgian Congo. The pictures were taken in connection with an expedition under a noted hunter and naturalist sent out by the Smithsonian Institute to secure specimens of rare gorillas. The life of the pygmy people in the untraveled parts of Africa and the scenes of the unexplored jungle made the picture unusually interesting. The pastor took for the subject of his talk "Our Commonplace Advantages." These Sunday evening services are most interesting and there is always a large congregation.

Judge Henry N. Benoit who was elected town clerk at the fall election to succeed David Flagg has been sworn in and taken over the duties of the office. At the same election he was made probate judge to succeed Judge Flagg and is now performing the duties of the joint office. Prior to being sworn in as town clerk, Judge Benoit has been occupying a part of the selectmen's room in the second story of the municipal building, but he has now removed his papers and files to the town clerk's office on the first floor of the same building.

Bernard Jewel of Webster has been the recent guest of friends in the city.

Leon Peloquin of Main street has returned from a visit with friends in Canada.

Ovila Gosselin was the guest last week of friends in Worcester.

Miss Josie Grosvenor of Norwich spent the week end with her sister, Mrs. Omer J. Milot on Fremont street.

Master Robert Fine of New York city is visiting his grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. E. L. Simpson of Fremont street.

Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Litchfield of Park street have been entertaining friends from Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. James Barnes of Bridge street have been entertaining friends from New Bedford, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene LaParle and son Raymond of Lee street have returned from a visit with relatives in Fall River.

Adolphus Gauthier of Glendale, R. I., a former resident of Putnam, has been spending a week with his sister, Mrs. Gauch[illegible].

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Demar have returned from a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Coty at Woonsocket, R. I.

Mrs. Armand Bibeault of Church street has returned from a visit with relatives in Montreal and other points in Canada.

Irving Lewis of Jewett City has been the guest of Weston Wallen of Mechanic street.

UNION

A meeting of the Home Economics club was held at the town hall recently. Mrs. Dakin, nutrition specialist, gave an interesting program in the morning on cooking and preparing winter vegetables. After the dinner, instruction was given in caring for and using meats which are produced on the farm. Also, the relative value and effect of acid fruits, vegetables, meats and cereals in connection with weight reduction received consideration. The next meeting of the club is to be held Tuesday, Jan. 10 at 10:30 with Miss Lisbeth McDonald, home nursing specialist, for leader.

The school opened Tuesday, Jan. 3.

Last week the mercury has been reported around zero and one or two degrees below.

Mrs. John Kriska recently returned from a trip to Florida. Florida seems to have had a cold wave also.

The pupils from Union who are attending Stafford high school are all staying in Stafford during the week.

Charles N. Gage of West Hartford has been spending a few days with his aunt, Mrs. Carl Tinker. Was also a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hathaway.

Helen and Wesley Bradway celebrated their birthdays last week. Helen is nine and Wesley is five years old, but both were born on Jan. 2. They had four little guests Monday afternoon to help them take care of the birthday cakes and other good things.

John Sedlak, his son, John, Jr., and Edward Roberts are employed at Leroy Allen's steam saw-mill near Webster, Mass.

Miss Helen F. Millard was the guest of Mrs. Wilse Hubbell in Sturbridge, Mass., during the Christmas vacation and called on former pupils and friends in Union. She is taking a course in the New Haven Normal school this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Horton and daughter, Evangeline were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Oliver in Thompsonville on a recent afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Oliver and daughter Elizabeth of Thompsonville were week-end guests of Samuel Heck and his sister, Miss Delia Heck.

The busses which have been running through Union in their trips from Hartford to Providence and return, have had to postpone their schedule for a few days, because of the bad strip of road from the Massachusetts-Connecticut line to Southbridge. During the rains, the mud was almost impassable, and now the frozen ground is extremely rough.

EAST HADDAM

Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Stair and their niece, Miss Alma Thompson, of Hadlyme, have gone to St. Petersburg, Fla., to spend the winter.

Joe Balrin caught a 21-pound wildcat in one of his fox traps recently.

The officers of Columbia lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M., were installed at the regular meeting last week.

Mrs. Frederick H. Tracy has returned from a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Myers, in Woodstock.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Peck and daughter, Ruth were recent guests of New Britain friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gilbert of North Branford were recent visitors at the home of Rev. F. Countryman.

Mrs. Margaret Hopkins visited friends in New York over New Year's.

BODY OF MRS. M. E. NORTH ARRIVES FMOR WASHINGTON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

JEWETT CITY, Jan. 8.—The body of Sigrid O. Gustafson, 41, widow of Rev. M. E. North, was brought from Washington, D. C., Sunday and was conveyed from New London by Undertaker E. E. Gilbert to the home of Ransom G. Young in Griswold. Mrs. Young has been caring for her sister for six weeks in Washington. Mrs. North was born in Ossining, N. Y., May 1, 1887, the daughter of Peter and Alberter Gustafson. She was a member of the Methodist church in Auburn, N. Y., where her husband was pastor until his death, seven years ago. She is survived by her father and three sisters, Mrs. Ransom Young and Mrs. Stanley Winworth of Griswold and Mrs. Benjamin Young of Northhampton, Mass. An aunt, Mrs. Ida Turnquist, and a cousin, Mrs. Oliver Young of New Haven survive her also.

Very important business at regular K. of C. meeting tonight.—adv.

The engagement of Miss Bessie Hock to Floyd Ray has been announced. Miss Hock is teacher in the Baldwin school in Waterbury, her home being in Bethel, near Danbury. Mr. Ray is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. I. Ray of Jewett City.

COLCHESTER

CRAGIN LIBRARY OPENED AFTER COMPLETE RENOVATION

The Cragin Memorial library, which was closed the greater part of the summer for repairs, has again opened its doors to the public resplendent in new paint and completly redecorated, one of the finest in the state. Samuel P. Willard, president of the board of trustees, gave his personal attention to the work. In 1805, Dr. E. B. Cragin, of New York, built the library on the site of his paternal homestead, as a memorial to his father. The library has long been an active influence in the life of the town. The basement was especially designed to the house, the Boys' club, which at that time was a growing organization, but which since has ceased out of existence. The active work of the library is under the supervision of the librarian, Mrs. Charles F. Beebe. As finished, the building presents a very fine appearance with the outside woodwork painted white, the interior walls done in a deep cream tint, the floors treated and varnished, a new copper roof and a new lighting system. Colchester is proud of her library, with its 10,000 volumes and housing facilities that are beautiful as well as adequate.

Charles L. Strong was in Hartford Friday.

The December church supper and entertainment was held in the Congregational chapel Friday evening.

Wooster Lodge, No. 10, F. & A. M., held its communication in Masonic hall Friday evening.

At the recent meeting of Wooster chapter, Eastern Star, held in Masonic hall the officers were installed: Worthy matron, Mrs. John M. Riley; worthy patron, Edward W. Jones; associate matron, Mrs. Eunice Jones; conductress, Virginia Hilding; treasurer, Mrs. Fred Q. Brown; secretary, Mrs. William E. Adams; chaplain, Mrs. Susan Brown; marshal, Miss Ruth Brown; Adah, Miss Eunice Seyms; Ruth, Mrs. Sweet; Esther, Mrs. Merritt J. Cornwall; Martha, Mrs. Calvin McCall; Electra, Miss Allison Bailey; warden, Mrs. Harold Clark; sentinel, E. W. Jones. A musical program was given by Mrs. Arthur L. Stebbins, Mrs. Cyrus E. Pendleton, Miss Clarice Brown and Edward Agranovitch. Interspersed with the musical numbers were short talks by A. T. Van Cleve, Thomas William Curry and Charles Kramer.

Max Cohen was in Hartford Friday.

SOUTH WILLINGTON

Alfred Lewis of Taunton, Mass., was a recent guest of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Service.

Mrs. Edwin Larson of New London is the guest of her son, Rev. Edwin E. Sundt.

Mrs. Daniel O'Connell of Portchester, N. Y., who had been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Moriarty, has returned home.

Officers for 1928 of the Willing Workers' class are: President, Sarah Mathews; vice president, Sarah Wolstenholm; secretary, May E. Birdsall; treasurer, Marjorie Pierpont.

The Willington church school made gifts at Christmas time to the Johnson Memorial hospital at Stafford Springs, consisting of box of tys from the boys' class, greeting cards from the beginners' class, from Miss Rosa C. Hall's class, money for books to furnish a cabinet in the maternity ward given last year by Ever Ready class.

The junior Y. P. S. C. E. held a holiday social, each member receiving a gift. The arrangements were in charge of the superintendent Mrs. Sarah Wolstenholm.

At a regular communication of Uriel lodge, A. F. & A. M., at Masonic hall Merrow, Saturday evening there was work in the E. A. degree.

Misses Charlotte and Ruth Korper of Hartford were recent guests of their grandmother, Mrs. Mary Korper, and aunt, Mrs. Lena Beach.

Mrs. Ida Mathews has been elected president of Oliver J. Carey auxiliary, U. S. W. V., of Stafford.

PLAINFIELD

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Morin and family and Miss Anna Lajleuase of Baltic, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Allard.

Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Hebert, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hebert, Roy Hebert, Lorands and Rosalie Hebert were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Vincent and Miss Sida Hebert in New Britain.

Loyal Primrose order of Odd Ladies held installation Thursday evening. After the meeting a social followed. The committee in charge held a meeting at the home of Mrs. Alfred Baldwin the other day. The committee included Mrs. Brindle, chairman, Mrs. Watson, Mrs. Currier, Mrs. Pye, Miss Clara Gibson, Mrs. Poitias, Mrs. St. Pierie, Mrs. Alfred Baldwin.

Miss Marion Phillips has returned to New Bedford after spending a month's vacation with her grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Marsland.

Installation exercises for the Eastern Star were held in Masonic hall, Moosup Friday evening recently in charge of Mrs. Mildred Daggett, retiring worthy matron. In recognition of her services to the order Mrs. Daggett was presented a past matron's jewel. Several members were initiated that evening. Refreshments were served by a committee in charge of Mrs. Symington.

Thomas Saunders and family who have lived on Gallup street have moved to Providence.

The last meeting of Plainfield grange was held on Tuesday evening, the night being given over to installation of officers, conducted by J. P. Hollowell, state deputy, of Preston City. He was assisted by Mrs. Ida Richardson, of Norwich. The regalia bearers were Mrs. Merle Woodmansee and Miss Arlene Bennett, of Preston. After the installation there was a supper of Oyster stew, cake and coffee, served by the home economics committees, Mrs. Beecher Brown and Mrs. Suzie Dodge.

The Ladies' Aid society is to hold the first meeting of the new year Wednesday afternoon at 2:30, with the president, Mrs. Lotta Dodge.

ASPIRIN

The whole world knows Aspirin as an effective antidote for pain. But it's just as important to know that there is only one genuine Bayer Aspirin. The name Bayer is on every tablet, and on the box. If it says Bayer, it's genuine; and if it doesn't, it is not! Headaches are dispelled by Bayer Aspirin. So are colds, and the pain that goes with them; even neuralgia, neuritis, and rheumatism promptly relieved. Get Bayer—at any drugstore—with proven directions.

Physicians prescribe Bayer Aspirin; it does NOT affect the heart

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

THE NEED OF SIGNS

Signs are more and more in demand. There is need for the direction signs and there is need for the street signs.

The fact that Christopher Allen has donated new and attractive signs for the junction of the important streets in Stafford Springs prompts the Rockville Journal to say that "the idea is not patented and any public citizen living in Rockville who desires to make a similar contribution here can well do so. * * * When we travel away from home we find the signs along the highway mighty useful. Why not extend the courtesy to those visiting here?"

The thought is one that should concern every community, whether it be a hamlet or a city. Well marked streets grow in advantage as the size of communities increases. Those in small places can easily learn the name of the street, but every place, large or small, is getting a larger number of visitors these days due to the auto traffic and it is only right that street instructions should be placed where they can be seen.

It is well that there should be signboards directing the visitors to the locality, that there should be signs to aid them in getting through cities and that those looking for friends should have the assistance of street signs. But it has gotten to the point where it is not only the streets in a community that should be marked but those in the country as well.

The visitor may or may not know how to get about. He may be looking for a turn to the left or right and be thrown into serious doubt whether he should pay any attention to an abandoned road or a laneway in following verbal instructions. A signboard would save much confusion and furnish the aid needed. It would attract attention and indicate a hidden road. It would mean an extension of courtesy on the part of the respective towns to their visitors, that the residents of those towns anticipate when they set out on a tour into unknown localities. Let there be signs, and more signs, and let them be clear and conspicuously placed. Let every town, every community do its part.

JONES' DECISION

There is always a sharp line drawn between an amateur and a professional in any line of sports. The generally accepted difference is that the professional plays for money, a compensation for his services, but the amateur does not. He plays for the love of the game but is of course entitled to accept prizes offered.

Much attention has been given to the case of Bobby Jones who has been recently given a $50,000 home by admiring friends in Atlanta. It was a case of desiring to give expression to the young man who has brought so much fame to that city, quite the same as many another community has done in the case of champions returning home. When Jones was presented the home he accepted it, as most persons would be inclined to do. He had not played for any such gift and had not expected it. There was some question raised as to the effect upon his amateur standing and the United States Golf association, as we believe, decided that there was no violation of the amateur standing in accepting the gift. Still others questioned it including certain Britishers until it indicated it was certain to become a sore point. The upshot of it all is that Jones has decided he cannot retain the gift.

It is apparently the golfer's firm intention to remain an amateur. He has no desire to establish a precedent or through the gift made to him open the way to the breaking down of the amateur rules. It doesn't appear that any exception has been made in his case but he is unwilling that any such inference should be created. His decision will therefore do much to more firmly draw the line between the amateur and the professional. It means a sacrifice that would not always be made, and yet in view of the ruling of the golf association it doesn't appear that others must follow in his footsteps under similar circumstances. Jones has, however, so decided that he cannot be pointed to as violating the amateur rules, even technically. It is therefore an important contribution to straightforward sport and a guide others.

NEWBURYPORT'S CHANGE

According to developments in the city of Newburyport, the people of that city must have been very much in sympathy with the applicant for a gasolene station permit who was denied it. The merits of that particular matter are not known but it must have been a much talked about and serious matter for it got into politics, and deeply so.

The applicant who was turned down vowed vengeance. He threatened to bring about a shake-up and he has made good. He put himself forward as a candidate for the mayoralty and, though his line of talk since doesn't indicate that he is eminently qualified for the position, he was successful. All but one of the wards of the city voted for him. He must therefore, be regarded as the popular choice of Newburyport. Whether that is going to be a credit to the city remains to be seen.

Installed in office the new mayor, popularly known as "Bossy" Gillis, a term which might or might not indicate his fitness for the place, proceeds to make a clean sweep. Everyone who did not help in his campaign has been fired from office. Others would have been except for the existence of civil service regulations. Even that checkmate bothered him. "Ain't that a mess for a fella like me? I call it a rotten trick. But believe me, boys, those birds (police) are gonna earn their pay. And I don't mean maybe."

The indications stand forth very clearly that Newburyport faces some very interesting developments. The old order of things is uprooted. There is to be obedience to regulations only because it is impossible to avoid them. It is another one of those instances where a city has apparently given too little consideration to its elections. Evidently there was a willingness to let the few decide the election. It wasn't felt that the successful candidate could get there. Nevertheless he won, Newburyport has got what it voted for and now it is a question of how long it is going to be satisfied and amused at the results. If it was a case where a change was needed, it will have to be admitted that there has been a thorough housecleaning of its kind.

PERIODICAL ENFORCEMENT

At the present time the police of Detroit are engaged in making many arrests for technical violations of traffic regulations. It is apparently one of those situations which periodically develops in most every community. It works hardships upon those who are caught in a bad practice, but hundreds of others who have done the same thing didn't even get a warning.

Such campaigns are often the result of a bad lapse on the part of the authorities. New regulations usually get much attention. When they are put into operation there is often an allowance made in order that everyone may become acquainted with them and then for a while there is enforcement. Before it is realized it is forgotten. Someone disregards them. Others make note of it, take a chance and soon they are engaged in disobeying the requirements. When this gets so that about everyone is disregarding the rules there is a sudden descent on the part of the authorities and those who happen to have done as others did yesterday and the day before, and the day before that are taken into court and fined for something which had generally been disregarded even by the police.

Because of the encouragement which has been given to violations through lax enforcement it is an imposition on those arrested. The fairer way is to have public warning given that the regulations are going to be enforced once more, but the most satisfactory method of all is to enforce them within reason at all times. Then there will be fewer violations and a greater respect for all regulations.

Detroit is doing only what other cities repeatedly do, but in every such instance it is the product of negligence in enforcement.

RAILS OR BUSSES

Changing conditions in transportation and their effects continue to manifest themselves. Many a railroad has gone through the same experience that two operating out of Philadelphia to resorts in the state of New Jersey are encountering and others probably anticipate it.

These rail lines have provided service for those going between the city and the resorts. They have made large expenditures and maintain a first class service and they are anxious that their business should not be taken away by new and competing lines.

It has long been felt that there should not be competing parallel lines unless lack of accommodation prompted it, or additional service was required which existing lines would not furnish. It isn't a new railroad which seeks the right to render service between those points but a bus line. That is where much railway and railroad competition is being experienced these days, and the two railroads operating from Philadelphia oppose the application.

What the utility commission will do with the application will depend upon the facts brought out at the hearing. Where similar conditions have existed it has been the practice of some railroads to forestall them by seeking the right to establish such lines themselves so that they can give accommodations to those who want to go by the steam line or by bus. Where the latter has been established it has invariably meant a disappearance of the railroad service, but if that is the kind of service that is wanted these days the railroads cannot fail to read the handwriting and act accordingly.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Detour signs are already up for some of the 1928 resolutions.

Inasmuch as Jackson was a fighter it is interesting to note that the democrats have scheduled a harmony meeting for Jackson day.

With only a week of January gone it is too early to oil up the lawn mower, but there's no harm in thinking about the exercise ahead.

You have heard the old saying that when the days begin to lengthen the cold begins to strengthen, but the lengthening and strengthening processes do not keep pace with each other.

Possibly Swan Island, Me., has solved the country doctor problem by raising $2,000 for a physician in addition to the regular fees when called. At any rate it has succeeded in getting a doctor.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Raspberry preserve and chopped almonds make a delicious filling for cakes and tarts.

Mint sauce, parsnips, asparagus and browned potatoes are good served with roast lamb.

A small bag of horseradish and mustard should be kept in the mouth of the pickle jar.

Green is a good color scheme for the kitchen. Linoleum in tiled effect is attractive in this color.

The bread for canapes should be toasted on one side only and this side is placed next to the plate.

To make a rod slide through the hem of a curtain easily, place a thimble over the end of the rod.

Period types have invaded the kitchen and cabinets now come in Colonial, Spanish and other styles.

An antique chest in the hall will be a convenient place to keep golf clubs, tennis racquets and so forth.

Corn fritters, cabbage salad, buttered carrots and baked apples constitute an ideal warm weather meal.

A plain colored rug is best where the wallpaper of the room has an obvious figure.

Never serve a meat with a sauce and a vegetable with a sauce in the same course.

A sink stopper of rubber will convert the sink basin into a most convenient dishpan.

Baking powder biscuits are good with stewed chicken and gravy poured over them.

If you will grease the cork of a mucilage bottle thoroughly it will never stick to the bottle.

Leave cake or gingerbread covered with a cloth to steam for three or four minutes before removing it from the pan. It will be more easily removed.

A delicacy for starting a meal is casaba melon cut in tiny balls with a French vegetable cutter, and served icy, with powdered sugar and ginger.

If food is too salty, place a wet cloth over the top of the vessel which is cooking. The steam will draw the salt into the cloth.

CLEANING PIPES

Sometimes dirt in the furnace pipe is also "felted" together so that quite a strip can be pulled out at a time. All of this needs to be cleaned out; and if it has gone so far as to require the taking down of the pipes you may need a furnace cleaner for the job. However if you have a vacuum cleaner here is a good use for it. The small nozzle attachment, without the brush, used at the end of the hose can reach a considerable distance and will take up a large amount of dirt. Pull the hose out now and then in order to be sure that it is not choked.

EASILY HANDLED

When having a number of guests to serve ice cream and cake, bake the cake in flat pans in one layer. Cut into squares, oblongs and diamonds and ice in different-colored frostings. It will be much easier to serve—and to eat—than sliced layer cake.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

Children should have some fruit every day.

Massage is the basic principle of hair wealth. Make it a daily habit if you wish to bring out all the beauty of your "crowning glory," if you want to forestall the thinning grayness or loss of sheen that come with advancing age.

If the hair is inclined to be dry a special salve may be rubbed into the scalp before the massage. Here is a good recipe to use; One and one-half teaspoonfuls flower of sulphur; two ounces carbonated vaseline; ten grains quinine; one ounce olive oil; one ounce witchhazel. The ingredients should be blended very thoroughly.

Gelatin is a protein, but it lacks certain amino acids found in other proteins, particularly those essential to normal growth and development. It is therefore called an incomplete protein and does not take the place of meat. It is, however, a useful article of food in a diet including other proteins from well diversified sources and is especially useful as a supplement to milk.

SCRAPBOOK

The making of a scrapbook would make interesting work for the children. At this time of the year almost every magazine and paper has a picture of Santa Claus. Why not make a Santa Claus book? Use an old composition book or buy a new one. Have the children hunt for and cut out all the different pictures of Santa they can find and paste them in the scrapbook. One will be surprised at the number and variety of these pictures. The scrapbook can be saved from year to year and added to. The children will enjoy it just as much next year as this.

CHARMING CRIB QUILTS

Gay little quilts for baby's crib are made of strips of plain white and either pink or blue cotton stamped with a little design of storks. The entire quilt is quilted by hand and is guaranteed to stand many washings.

BRASS CLEANING

Do not use a powder to clean rough or chased brass. Wash the article in soap and water and then dry. Then rub over the surface with a freshly cut lemon. Rinse and rub dry with a chamois.

SELECTING CURTAINS

In selecting figured curtain materials choose conventional designs that will stand the test of being looked at day after day. Sprawling designs tend to make the window look shorter and broader. Stripes increase the apparent height.

CARE OF UMBRELLAS

A wet umbrella should be closed and stood with the handle down. This prevents rust of the paint where the ribs join, and also prevents stretching.

OLD FURNITURE

To restore the luster to old furniture, rub hard with a flannel soaked in turpentine, dry, and polish with linseed oil, vinegar and methylated spirits.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Rather than being a sign of poverty, frayed edges on sports clothes are a mark of smart distinction.

The very newest thing in the way of material is printed satin. This lovely material is used for afternoon frocks.

Such sheer fabrics as chiffon and tulle have formally been thought of as evening fabrics exclusively, but they are now making afternoon frocks.

Exquisite pins that may be used to hold hip or shoulder draperies in place are of a long carved green stone that resembles jade set all around with tiny brilliants.

A very smart imported hat is a tight skull-cap of knitted chenille slanting off the forehead, ornamented by a jewel and worn with a fine short veil.

If you are wondering whether to keep your little girl in tub frocks to keep her spic and span or in wool frocks to keep her warm why not accomplish both ends by deciding on dresses of washable flannel.

To the question, can gray and tan be worn together, the ultra smart woman says yes. And to prove it she may wear tan pumps with her gray tweed coat or pin a tortoise shell brooch on her gray jersey frock.

A garment that serves two purposes but is lovely enough for any occasion is a chemise of peach colored silk trimmed with string colored lace. Under the chemise is attached, from the waist down, a little step-in of the same material.

It will not be difficult to relax if one is clad in a pajama suit of white brocaded velvet trimmed with white marabou, which is clipped close. The coat is cut rather short and snug, and the whole effect is extremely feminine and graceful.

PARTY FROCKS FOR GIRLS

Charming little frocks for young girls are made of georgette in all the pastel shades. These dresses are very simply trimmed, sometimes with small triangular pieces of the georgette piped in a contrasting color, or in a deeper shade of the frock. Their simplicity is their greatest charm.

VELVET TEA GOWNS

Whether tea is tea or another beverage, tea gowns are tea gowns, and nothing is more charming than one of the new velvet afternoon costumes when a woman receives her friends. The skirts of these frocks have an uneven hem line and are sleeveless, with a moderate boat-shaped neckline. The charm of the costume depends on the material rather than on its trimming.

NECK LINES

The unevenness one sees on skirts of the more formal dresses now is being reflected on the neck lines. The decollettes are uneven also, higher on one side than on the other, or deeper in back than in front. In fact, some of the dresses are almost high necked in front.

SEWING HINTS

Use silk thread for basting when sewing on velvet. It will leave no marks.

Cut the basting threads every few inches before pulling them out and there will be no danger of leaving holes in the material.

A smooth safety pin for thin or lacy materials makes an excellent bodkin. The pin holds the material securely.

One housewife buys extra material when making gingham dresses and makes an apron to match her frock. Then when the dress requires patching, the apron (which has had about the same amount of washing and in consequence matches the dress) is used for the required patches and gives service in a new direction.

In making curtains from material that has a decided pattern, be sure to match the design on each half of the curtain. To do this, measure the necessary number of lengths on the goods in the bolt before cutting. Some waste, however, will be almost unavoidable.

GLASS SWANS

As airy and elusive as bubbles are swans made of palely tinted glass that are meant for the dining table. It seems too piebian to think of their holding salted nuts or candies, but that appaers to be their destiny.

SENSIBLE PAJAMAS

Very sensible indeed for the cold winter nights are pajamas designed for little girls. These are made of flannel, with the top part having a collar cut on the surplice order, and are finished with a cord around the waist.

TOASTED MERINGUE

This housewife's discovery may help you. "Having a pie crust already baked, I found a very quick and efficient method to brown the meringue, when one does not wish to light the oven, is to hold the electric toaster over the top of the pie in such a manner that it browns evenly and just as nicely as when browned in the oven."

BEAUTIFUL LUNCH CLOTH

A really beautiful lunch cloth is made of handkerchief linen, with a square garland in the center made of small pieces of rose, green, yellow and violet linen beautifully appliqued in a patch-work design.

FOR THE BRIDGE TABLE

An original gift for the bridge lover is a small brush with the top covered with tooled leather, in the shape of a heart, spade, diamond or club.

FOR PAINTED WALLS

A splendid cleanser for painted walls is made of two ounces of borax in two quarts of water and one teaspoon ammonia. About half this quantity should be used to each pail of water. No soap will be required.

CONCERNING WOMEN

More than one-sixth of all the working women in the United States live in the state of New York.

Quebec women may vote in federal elections, but are denied the right to vote in provincial elections.

So many business woman are now insuring themselves that many companies have provided special facilities.

A constitutional amendment to regulate "bossy" mothers-in-law is suggested by a probate judge in Springfield, Mass.

In Seoul, capital of Korea, a large bell is tolled at about 8 a. m. and 8 p. m. daily, only between these hours are women allowed on the street.

USE OF PASTRY FLOUR

Your cakes will be much lighter if you use pastry flour. If you must use bread flour in making a cake that calls for pastry flour use a little less of the bread flour.

FASTEN SNAPPERS

Fasten the snaps of a garment together before putting the article into the wringer. This will prevent the crushing and breaking of the little knobs.

RECIPES

Pineapple Souffle Sauce—Beat two egg whites until stiff, and gradually add one-half cup of sugar, beating constantly. When stiff as for meringue, fold in one cup of crushed Hawaiian pineapple. Season with salt and a little lemon rind and serve. A hot sauce can be prepared by heating the pineapple to the boiling point before combining it with the merigue mixture.

Peanut Fudge — 3 cups of sugar; 1-3 cup of light syrup; 1 cup of cream; pinch of salt. Boil the ingredients until the mixture makes a firm, soft ball when dropped into cold water. When partly cool, add a tablespoonful of peanut butter and a cupful of chopped walnuts. Beat until creamy and pour into a buttered pan. When it has set, cut it in squares and again into smaller ones. Improper blowing of the nose perhaps brings about as much needless suffering as is occasioned by any simple thing we do.

Leading off from the airways of the nose are small openings that connect with the sinuses. These sinuses are hollow cavities in the bones of the cranium; and they are lined by delicate mucous membrane much like that in the nose. The pressure in these cavities is kept equal with the outside air pressure through the small openings into the nose.

Anything that interferes with proper breathing through the nose favors the occurrence of sinus infection. So does influenza, where the individual fails to remain in bed long enough to insure complete recovery from the disease. These factors are important, but it is quite likely that blowing of the nose is responsible for very many more cases of sinus disease than both of them combined.

An individual has no inclination to blow his nose unless there is material that he desires to expel from the airways. This secretion only occurs as the result of irritation, which usually means infection. In order to eject the offending mucus, a person naturally feels that he must send a current of air through the nostril, under pressure. Consequently he closes one side entirely, or both sides partially, and suddenly blows a powerful blast of air into the nose from behind. With the nostrils closed or made much smaller, the force of the air blast greatly increases the pressure within the airways of the nose. A circumstance is created in which the air pressure greatly exceeds that in the sinuses.

Under such conditions—that is, where infection or irritation is present—there are practically always small particles of mucus hanging about the regions of the sinus openings, and these invariably carry millions of bacteria. The greater pressure in the nose causes a sudden inrush of air through the small apertures into the sinuses. Naturally this current carries with it, into the cavities, some of the particles of secretion. Once arrived in the sinuses, the minute bacteria find darkness, warmth, moisture, and food, all of the conditions necessary to their greatest growth and activity. Infection results. The consequent inflammation causes swelling that closes entirely the small gateways to the nose; pus forms, and as there is no place for drainage of the pus away, it develops under increasing tension which gives the excruciating pain often suffered in this condition.

So long as we do not get bacteria into the sinuses, we have no trouble with them, but when infection occurs there we pay dearly, in pain and poor health, for our carelessness by which we may have promoted the trouble. If one believes that blowing of the nose is absolutely necessary to the maintenance of bodily comfort, one should at least learn to blow it with both nostrils widely open. It is then not nearly so likely that harm will result. The closing of one nostril is no less dangerous than the partial closure of both.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Ralph O. Brewster, who has announced his candidacy for the United States senate against Senator Frederick Hale, is the present governor of Maine and the youngest man who ever held the office of chief executive in that state. He was educated in the public schools of Dexter, in which town he was born, and graduated from Bowdoin college and Harvard Law school. After being admitted to the bar he began the practice of his profession in Portland. He was a member of the state legislature in 1917-18 as representative from Portland, was renominated but resigned from the ticket to enter the military service, and was re-elected to the legislature in 1920. He helped to organize the Third Infantry Maine National Guard for service in the World war and later entered the artillery officers' training school at Camp Zachary Taylor.

Whitefoot Has a Fright

Some folks out of pure spite
Delight in giving others fright.
—Whitefoot the Wood Mouse.

Whitefoot the Wood Mouse had almost forgotten that he had ever lived in the Green Forest. His home in the little wren house in an apple tree on the edge of the Old Orchard was as comfortable a home as he had ever had. He liked it. Moreover, he didn't have to worry about the food. Farmer Brown's Boy took care of that. There never was a time when Whitefoot couldn't find plenty to eat. He had even stored away some of the good things he couldn't eat. So he was quite satisfied to spend the winter in the Old Orchard.

What he especially liked about that little house of his was that the doorway was just big enough for him to comfortably slip through and not big enough for any of his enemies, unless it should happen that Shadow the Weasel should find him there.

"I'm not worrying about him, though," thought Whitefoot. "Shadow isn't going to bother to climb a tree to look into a bird house at this time of year, anyhow. He wouldn't expect to find any one in it. Besides, he isn't likely to come over here. I did worry about him when I was in the Green Forest, but I don't have to worry about him here."

At that very minute Shadow the Weasel was hunting along the old stone wall right below Whitefoot's house. But one of the truest sayings in the world is that what we don't know doesn't hurt us, and Whitefoot didn't know anything about it. I suspect that had he poked his head out and seen Shadow he would have wanted to move right away. So it is just as well he didn't poke his head out.

Whitefoot had lived in that little house some time without being bothered by anybody. Tommy Tit the Chickadee knew he was living there and was glad of it. He came over to the tree occasionally, but he never bothered Whitefoot in the least. Yank Yank the Nuthatch knew he was there. But Yank Yank had another house in which he spent his nights, so he didn't care anything about that house where Whitefoot was.

So Whitefoot had lived peacefully and for a longer period than ever before in his life he had been without a single real fright. Now little people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows have so many frights that when one is over it is speedily forgotten, and when there is a long period between frights these little people are likely to forget that there can be such a thing as sudden fright. It was so with Whitefoot the Wood Mouse. Over in the Green Forest he was always expecting a sudden fright. Over here in this new home in the Old Orchard, where he had had no frights, he had reached a stage of forgetting that there could be a fright.

"I'm not worrying about him, though," thought Whitefoot.

So it was that one day as Whitefoot was taking a morning nap, having been out a good part of the night, he was awakened by the sound of claws on his house. This gave him a start, but it was nothing to the fright he got when something long and sharp was thrust in at the door and poked around in his bed. Some one was trying to get into his house! Who it could be he hadn't the slightest idea. But that sharp bill poking around there gave him a terrible fright. Every second he expected to see a head follow the bill in.

But nothing of the kind happened. It didn't happen for the very good reason that the head was too big to get in the doorway. You see, the owner of that bill was Speckles the Starling. Speckles hadn't been around that way for a long time, so he hadn't seen that little house. When he did discover it he promptly investigated, as is his way. Until Whitefoot squeaked in fright and moved Speckles hadn't discovered that there was any one in there. Then, having discovered that he had frightened Whitefoot, he continued to frighten him just out of pure meanness. Some folks are like that, you know.

Former Norwich Leaders

The Rev. M. McG. Dana, Founder of Park Church.

(From Norwich Bulletin, July 26, 1897).

The Rev. Malcolm McG. Dana died Sunday at his home, 47 South Oxford street, Brooklyn, N. Y., after a long and severe illness.

Malcolm McGregor Dana was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., June 4, 1838. He was graduated from Amherst college in 1859, and from the Union theological seminary in 1863 and began his ministerial career in Winsted, Conn.

In December, 1864, he was ordained pastor of the Second Congregational church of this city, succeeding the Rev. Alvan Bond, D. D. His pastorate was a very successful one, and he enjoyed the esteem of his parishioners.

In April, 1874, owing to differences with the members of the society regarding a new church edifice, he resigned and withdrawing with 105 members, established Park Congregational church. This society was organized April 28, 1874, and the church was dedicated on November 17. Dr. Dana remained as pastor of this church for four years, retiring in February, 1878, his wife's health being poor.

In May, 1878, he accepted the pastorship of Plymouth Congregational church, St. Paul, Minn., and remained there until June, 1888. He became pastor of the Kirk Congregational church, Lowell, Mass., resigning in May, 1894. Since this time he has resided in Brooklyn, having no regular pastorate.

During the summer of 1896 he preached at union services at the Second Presbyterian church and also was assistant to the Rev. Dr. R. S. Storrs at the Church of Pilgrims. Much of his life was spent in temperance work and sociological studies.

He was twice chaplain of the Minnesota state legislature, for seven years chaplain of the Minnesota Congregational board of missions, and one of the founders and presidents of the Congregational club of Minnesota, and at one time editor of The Advance. He was also a corporate member of the American board. In 1887 he was sent as vice president of the Minnesota state board of charities and corrections to England to inspect the British prison system and report on their standing.

Dr. Dana was a man of broad culture and ripe scholarship and was eminent as a preacher and as a writer. During his residence in Norwich he commanded the respect and confidence of the entire community and filled a number of public offices. He was for many years a member of the board of education of the Central school district, and also served on the board of trustees of the Otis library. In recognition of his ability the degree of D. D. was conferred upon him by Middlebury, Vt., college in 1874.

In his historical address, delivered at the centennial of the Second Congregational church, the present pastor, the Rev. C. W. Morrow, said:

"Of Dr. Dana's sermons, while he was pastor of our church, it is appreciatively remembered by many of his hearers that they were carefully prepared. His vocabulary was copious, and he was skilled in making word pictures. Sentence followed sentence with pleasing effect, due to rhythm. His sermons have been described as athletic. They were much admired by his people and others."

Mr. Dana wrote considerably for the press and periodical literature, and many of his sermons have been published. He wrote a "Sketch of General William Williams" which appeared in the Congregational Quarterly. He is the author of a "History of Carleton College, Northfield, Minn." Perhaps the most notable of his published writings is the "Norwich Memorial, the Annals of Norwich, New London County, Connecticut, in the Great Rebellion of 1861-65," which had a large sale at the time of its publication.

He leaves a wife, a son, Malcolm, who is studying for the ministry, another son, F. V. N. Dana, a resident of Brooklyn, and a daughter, Mary, who lives at home.

Now the plant has an effective head of 708 meters, produces 100,000 horse power and can generate 800,000, and the annual rampages of the rivers, which once resulted in flooding ten square miles of valuable land within the city, have been squelched.

HOW MRS. WEAVER WAS HELPED

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

As Mrs. Weaver herself says, "I was never very strong." This is a mild statement describing her condition, for, according to her letters, she was subjected to no small amount of ill health. Fortunately, her sister was familiar with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and begged Mrs. Weaver to try it. "After three or four weeks," writes Mrs. Weaver, "I felt a great difference in myself. I would go to bed and sleep sound, and although I could not do very much work, I seemed stronger. I kept on taking it and now I am well and strong, do my work and take care of three children. I sure do tell my friends about your wonderful medicine, and I will answer any letters from women asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Lawrence Weaver, East Smithfield St., Mt. Pleasant, Pa.

If you knew that thousands of women suffering from troubles similar to those you are enduring had improved their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, wouldn't you think it was worth a trial?

GAS EXPLOSION BLOWS MANHOLE COVER OFF

About 11 o'clock Saturday morning a cast iron manhole, 26 inches square, was blown 20 feet into the air at the Shannon corner by an explosion caused by gas leakage under the pavement. City department men were at work near the traffic beacon, at the time, endeavoring to locate the leak.

The method employed to locate the leak was to bore a hole through the vitrified brick pavement with the compressed air drill and light a match at the hole when a jet of flame would shoot up from the gas and gradually die down again. After the explosion the gas continued to burn for a short period under the pavement near the beacon until that section was ripped up.

The explosion took place in the telephone manhole about 30 feet away, near the sidewalk in front of the Woolworth store. The manhole cover was blown to pieces and one of the pieces struck a Jordan automobile driven by William F. Bailey. Fortunately no one was hurt.

The street was dug up at the corner during the day, the leak discovered and repaired and late Saturday night the street was in condition again.

OBITUARY

Marvin Courtland Pierce

Marvin Courtland Pierce was found dead in a chair at his home at Oxoboxo, Montville, Friday morning. He was apparently in good health Thursday night when last seen alive. Death was due to a cerebral hemorrhage. Mr. Pierce was born in Bozrah, July 18, 1857, and was the son of Courtland and Hannah Ferguson Pierce. He was educated in Bozrah and later moved to Montville where for 30 years he was engaged in farming. Surviving him are two brothers, Winslow Pierce of Montville, and Alonzo Pierce of Bozrah; a sister, Mrs. Charles Winchester of Salem, and several nephews and nieces.

Mrs. B. Adelbert Alexander

Ada Belle Taylor, 70, widow of B. Adelbert Alexander, died Saturday afternoon at her home, No. 944 Worthington street, Springfield, Mass., following an illness of several months. She was born in Buffalo, N. Y., the daughter of Zebra and Mary Paine Taylor and for many years her home was in Norwich. She has lived in Springfield for the past 27 years. Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Rose Clapp and Mrs. Louis G. Barhydt and one granddaughter, Kathleen Barhydt, all of Springfield. Burial is to be in Norwich.

Charles Frederick Burgess.

Charles Frederick Burgess, owner and editor of the Plainfield and Moosup Journals, died Thursday evening at his home in Moosup. He was taken sick at Block Island July 17, 1922 and had been in ill health since. His condition became worse in October, 1926, and again on December 31, 1927. He had nearly recovered from his last illness but on the fourth of this month was again stricken and died about 8 o'clock the following evening.

Mr. Burgess was born May 16, 1855, at Middleboro, Mass., and was the son of Frederick Otis and Lizzie Foster (Goss) Burgess. He attended schools in Middleboro and at Phillips-Exeter and Pierce academies, the latter academy being at Middleboro. He learned the printer's trade at the plant of the Middleboro Gazette and was employed for a few years with Pratt Bros., in Marlboro.

In 1885 he established himself in business at Plainfield and tramped many miles on foot for subscriptions to his paper. He married Ella M. Holden of Marlboro, Mass., October 18, 1886. In the spring of 1894 he moved his business to Moosup. The business office had been moved there previously.

Mr. Burgess was a familiar figure among the business men of eastern Connecticut for nearly a half century. He had three children, Foster Lewis, Rachael, who died at the age of six months, and Harold F. Burgess. The two sons and his wife survive him.

As a young man Mr. Burgess united with the Congregational church at Middleboro and when he removed to Moosup he joined the Baptist church there. He was always an active member in all lines of church work. Mr. Burgess was a charter member of the Y. P. S. C. E., at Plainfield Congregational church and was also superintendent of the Sunday school there and in Moosup. He had a class of boys in the Sunday school and was a regular attendant at the prayer meetings.

His two sons, Floyd L. Burgess of Central Village and Harold F. Burgess, at home, now conduct the newspaper.

Miss Harriet A. Williams.

Following a short illness with pneumonia, Miss Harriet A. Williams, 81, died Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of her niece, Mrs. James A. Stoddard, Long Cove, Ledyard. Miss Williams was born at Sharon, this state, and was the daughter of the late Chauncey and Betsy Williams. She attended the Methodist church. For 10 years Miss Williams had made her home with her niece in Ledyard. She is survived by one brother, Oliver Williams, Ledyard, two nieces, Mrs. James A. Stoddard, of Ledyard, and Mrs. Raymond Jackson, of Canaan, and two nephews, Chauncey Williams, of Manchester, N. H., and Horace Williams, of Sharon.

Hourigan Bros. had charge bridal 118v class6 do w(N(SE HTA of the funeral arrangements. The burial took place in Maplewood cemetery.

MAKING PLANS TO FORM RIFLE LEAGUE IN CITY

The possibility of forming a city rifle league was discussed at the meeting of the Norwich Rifle club last week and C. M. Brend was appointed to head a committee to make the arrangements for the formation of such a league. It was considered that prospective members might be :Battery B, Combat Train, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Ponemah Wheel club, Gas and Electric department, Eastern Connecticut Power company, Junior Order of United American Mechanics, Nemrod Grotto Rifle club, Baltic Rifle club.

N. C. Pierce was instructed to make arrangements for a city pistol match and Charles Palmer is to communicate with the Middlefield and Storrs college rifle teams in reference to arranging matches.

The rifle club elected the following officers: President, E. D. Morrill; vice president, C. M. Brend; secretary, V. Welsh; treasurer, C. L. Lucia; range officer, A. M. White; publicity agent, J. A. French.

It was voted during the meeting to send letters to the congressmen of Connecticut calling their attention to the fact that the 1928 budget of the war department does not provide funds for the staging of the national matches in 1928.

At Anti-Saloon League Meeting

Rev. Myron E. Genter of Williams street was in Washington on Thursday and Friday to attend a meeting of the national executive committee of the Anti-Saloon league of America

PASTOR REVIEWS WORK OF YEAR AT FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

"A picture of the Year's Work" was the theme of Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey's interesting sermon at the Sunday morning service at the First Congregational church, Norwich Town. He spoke from the text, If any man's work abide which he hath built, thereupon he shall receive a reward.

He spoke in part as follows:

We have been building a house for the human family to make life healthier, more worth-while, more enlightened, more religious. The basis of all our work as church people, is Jesus Christ. Every effort we put forth in the line of church activity, whether work with hands, money from the pocket, teaching, preaching, feeding the hungry, whatever it is, has its basis in religion. It is the spirit of Christ which animates us, if it is upon a religious basis we rest all our work.

The modern house as we know it has its porch of entrance, its hall of welcome, its living room for fellowship and acquaintance, its dining room and kitchen where bodily strength is renewed, its pantry in which to lay up for the future; its chambers for rest, its bath room for cleanliness, its sewing nook for repairs, its nursery in which to grow child life, its library for instruction, and fellowship with the master souls of all ages.

As I look over the 14 reports which have come to me, it is not difficult to see how every department of the church has been adding its part to the construction of this home for the human family. We shall not be concerned as to where the members of the human family live. Some are here in Norwich Town, some are in other countries of the world. Wherever one of God's children live, there you will find a member of the family.

Having the foundation of the house laid in religion, Jesus Christ, our chief cornerstone, let us see what has been done on the porch, what has been done to make an easy and pleasant approach to our house beautiful:

The board of ushers has wrought helpfully here, in being on hand at the hour of public worship and earlier, to give the glad hand and show the spirit of welcome to those who have come to the temple to worship God. Every effort to make work attractive, or worship a delight, is building a porch for the home. It is one thing to just work, or worship, or sing, or teach. It is another thing to do any one or all of them in an interesting way. When for instance the Christian Endeavor society instead of just holding 52 meetings in 1927, chose rather to divide the membership into groups, and ask these various groups to put on a program once a month, that was porch building. Bringing in outside speakers, like Charles L. Stewart, the public defender, Philip A. Johnson of the Norwich Rural association, Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, a neighboring minister, that also was porch building to make the approach more easy. The report of the Lathrop Memorial Foreign Missionary society displays the work on the living room and library for acquaintance and instruction. The Home Missionary society portrays the sewing room, etc. This society believes in this department. One hundred and ninety-five dollars worth sent in clothing and bed covering, while for the kitchen it has realized much from food sales. For the windows, there has been observation on the larger field and a broader outlook. During October, Miss Alice Coggswell of Park church told of the benevolent work carried on in that parish; and the society heard a talk by Miss McElroy at the United church. These two societies are to be merged in the League of Service. Their services must be continued with increased vigor under the new name.

The 19 members of the Ever Ready circle of King's Daughters have evidently concentrated their efforts upon the fire place and a touch upon the culinary equipment of the home. In addition to entertaining 150 delegates of the county conference of King's Daughters in May, good cheer in the shape of greeting cards, May baskets, food, fruit, bed quilts, candy, etc., has been extended to both old and young. Their own story will tell it better.

The Sunday school has been busy 51 Sundays of the year, adding to the construction of library and putting windows in the house for the human family. A graded course of lessons are used by the primary and main portion of the school. The younger class used Bible Stories for Sunday School and Home, which covers three years. Children remain in the primary department until 10 or 11 years of age and then pass to the main room, forming a new class for the church school. The school is not only self supporting, raising some $135 for its expenses; but it has disbursed in charity during the year about $255, widely and evenly distributed. The school is fortunate in having an invested permanent fund (the Billings fund of $1000) for books in the library. The school numbers in all 199. Of these 14 are in the home department, 84 is the average attendance.

Several of the classes in the Sunday school have organized with secret names, officers and committees, and undertake more or less of outside work, in addition to the regular Sunday school session. Social gatherings of the members for mutual acquaintance and I suspect for deeper study into the the mystery of their secret titles, form an essential feature of the organized life.

Two of these classes, one of young women and the other of young men, with the secret code of C. I. S. and W. I. T.'s, respectively, set out early in the year to raise money with which to decorate the large room and side wings of the chapel. They prepared themselves to present a play for the amusement of the public. Overcoming hazards and retriving all setbacks, they presented their entertainment in two neighboring towns, after at first trying themselves out on the home people, netting their fund $125.

The young women's class pursued the matter still farther and have added about $48 more. This enterprise on the part of these two classes to improve the church property is highly commendable, and merits the appreciation of all. The young men's class revived the old custom of public debate, and challenged a young class of boys to meet them on the question of the Benefit of Labor Unions. The challenge was accepted and a few others were allowed to head the debat. It was a creditable performance. Another organized class in the school with no secret symbols, is the One Aim class. This class has the distinction of being one of the smallest classes of its size in the Sunday school. As you look upon this class about 40 Sundays in the year, you will observe about a half dozen young women. Easter Sunday and other seasons, you may find twice that number. There are 20 on the roll. One in New York city, one near the Canadian borders, one in Alabama, two in Hartford, one in Lakeville, one in India, others are near and yet quite so far; but all 20 belong to this class. Nothing taken them away, nothing cuts them off the roll, they may be absent several years, they are still members and a chair is always ready, whenever one returns. It is the opinion that these anchor lines out from this class are valuable both to the old church, as to the ships at the other end of the cables. The steady 6 have been studying "The Life of Christ," and are now taking up the History of the New Testament Times. Contributions from this class have gone to the Sunday school, to the flood relief work, local cradle roll and to Near East orphans.

Another organized class is that of the Drop-in members, and the class is just what its name implies. The class, nearly 30 in all, has increased its membership during 1927 about seven percent. These 27 women are earnestly and seriously looking for a leader, to guide them in their studies of the Sunday noon hour. These 27 women have been more or less active in special lines of helpfulness, providing dinners for the Congregational clergy of the county, also serving two public suppers, which netted $145. Helpful remembrances of the sick and shut-ins and of the cradle roll, also the fitting-out of needy families at Christmas time, with other acts of kindness, indicates the spirit of these sisters.

The Men's forum meets Sunday noons in the church auditorium. The characteristic feature of this group is that it never hurries through its text book. Some little time was spent in studying The Truth About the Bible, and at present, Rall's Life of Jesus. These text books suggest questions of current interest, which creates modern applications of the ancient text. During the year $33 has been collected, $30 being used for charity and the teacher training class held in Norwich.

The Church Improvement society reports a substantial bond with interest accumulated, making a fine showing.

The young people of the church are important factors in building our house for the humane family, by the side of the highway, where travel the pilgrims of hope. Rev. Mr. Bailey at this point commended the Y. P. S. E. for carrying the Sunday evening period of worship and service of this church. Building the house depends quite as much upon self activity of youth, as work done for them. It is not a question whether or not a Christian Endeavor meeting presents a body of religious truth in their most logical way, as in the most finished form. The serious question is how much of that truth gets inside of the youthful mind, to be retained and worked over by him. The Christian Endeavor society thrown largely on its our resources has found truth for themselves, by trying to impart it to others. Its members have been out on helpful errands to the alms house, meeting jointly with other societies that visiting speakers like Mr. Banning of India, might cover a larger field in one evening, or on another occasion attending in a body a meeting addressed by Miss Margaret Slattery. Social times have been enjoyed both as hosts and guests of neighboring young groups. Committees have functioned well in their respective fields, providing flowers for the pulpit, music for Sunday evening service and on other occasions. Keeping the young people informed on many important events and providing missionary education in a very interesting and instructive manner through simple pageants and dramatic readings, under the continued leadership of President Reginald Avery and his associates, this organization begins 1928 with courage and pleasant anticipations.

A junior society was formed in October by Miss Jessie E. Hyde who, with efficient helpers from the older C. E. society, is meeting about two dozen boys and girls of junior age. The object for these children is to form the habit of prayer through early practice, to give expressions of some of some of the things they learn in the primary department and elsewhere. It might be called an Expressional society. In early ages to break from self-repression into self-expression, and gain a fine start for active service.

NORWICH MAN CHOSEN FOR VICE PRESIDENT

HARTFORD, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Stanley Kacpinski, of New Britain, was reelected president of the State Polish-American organization at the annual meeting here this afternoon, to which 54 delegates came from all parts of the state. Two new members, Joseph Kuczkowski, of New Britain, and Stanley Palaski, of New Haven, were added to the press committee. All other officers and members of committees were re-elected.

The officers are as follows: Vice presidents, Chester Kenna, of Terryville, and Joseph Romanski, of Norwich; financial secretary, Stanley Tracski, of New Britain; recording secretary, Henry Shlembob, of Hartford; treasurer, Joseph Zlenkewicz, of Terryville.

The next meeting, the date of which will be set later, will be held in Rockville.

I. O. B. A. LODGE ELECTS AND HAS INSTALLATION

Independent Norwich lodge, No. 209, I. O. B. A, had its officers elected and installed at its regular meeting Sunday afternoon. District Deputy Jacob Grabiefski, with the assistance of Meyer Blumenthal, installed the following officers:

President, Israel Hankin; vice president, Sam Samuelson; secretary for one year, Barnet Cohen; outside guard for one year, Wolff Blinderman; board of trustees, H. Ragovin, first trustee, Moses Jennes and Michael Goldberg.

THIEF GETS AUTOMOBILE FROM BAILEY'S GARAGE

An ingenious thief got away with a gray Chrysler roadster from the garage of William F. Bailey at 12 Bath street Sunday night.

The man drove into the garage with another machine and in some way he managed to change the number plates from that onto the Chrysler belonging to Mr. Bailey and drove away with this car.

The theft was discovered about 11 o'clock and reported to the police. It is not known what numbers the man had on his car.

Suit Was Settled.

The common pleas court suit of Abraham Podberesky, of Lebanon, against Alpha Dairy, of Warehouse Point, has been settled out of court. Podberesky received a judgment in a justice court at Lebanon for $28 and costs of $17.38, against the dairy, "for services rendered in carting milk for the plaintiff."

Meeting of S. S. Club

The S. S. club met last week with Mrs. Margaret Rogers of Main street. A pleasant evening was enjoyed. The hostess served refreshments. The club is to be entertained by Mrs. Nellie Door of Main street at its next meeting.

STORRS CHURCH PASTOR FLAYS AMERICAN SENTIMENTALITY

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Jan. 9.—It would seem that America loves killing and killers to such an extent that we have allowed a situation to grow up and endure which human life is cheaper here than it is any other civilized country declared the Rev. Morris E. Alling before his congregation in the Storrs church at Connecticut Agricultural college this morning.

These remarks came during the course of a forceful and plain-spoken sermon on the subject—"Are we overstraining the quality of mercy?" in which the Storrs pastor presented a strong affirmative argument.

In part, he spoke as follows:

"We Americans think of ourselves as a practical people, yet in the eyes of the world we consent to be looked upon as wishy-washy, shilly-shally, sentimentalists. We have allowed a situation to grow up and endure under which human life is cheaper than it is in any other civilized country. Now, I am no lawyer, yet I believe I can put my finger upon some of the reasons for this condition. I believe it goes deeper than the reason that is often put forward by our jurists and legal lights. They say it is the inadequacy of our criminal law—the slowness—the loop-holed-ness of our judicial procedure—the method. Methods can be changed; procedure can be reformed if the people—the courts of last resort—want them changed; if they care enough about them to see to it that they are changed. It would seem that this country loves killings and killers.

"Next in order in the catalogue of our national shortcomings is our sentimentality," continued Mr. Alling. "Isn't it strange that women whose children may be the next victims will go into the courtroom and look upon a murderer as a hero; often assisting to pervert justice by creating atmosphere which will impress the jury stronger than the pleas of all the lawyers. We had such a case in the staid old land of steady habits not many years ago. A negro killed a white man, or were there two? The white men were pestering the negro and doubtless threatened him. He had a gun and it was loaded. The immediate dispute was settled in his favor. He went to court; he went free. It is said, though I cannot vouch for this, that upon the rendering of the verdict he was embraced by white men. Yes, this was in Connecticut, where justice is supposed to be even-handed and swift. I tell you again that I do not know anything about the law, but, it is my opinion that there are very few juries than can be trusted to deal out justice to murderers. The latest example of what appears to be the failure of the jury system is the acquittal of Remus, on the grounds of insanity, out in the sober, God-fearing state of Ohio.

"I am saying that bad as our judicial procedure may be, back of that we have the perversion of heroism responsible for killings; secondly, the court room crowds, and I will put love of publicity as perhaps third. I place the power of gold as of lesser importance than the causes I have named. Our California "hero", Hickman admits that he perfected his plans so that they would look best in print. You feel as I do that there is a fair chance of his getting off on the plea of insanity. Who, among you, will wager that he does not get off on this plea? Hickman, after he is "cured," will perhaps, be turned loose to experience another "attack" and perform another insane act. But is it evident that he ego is not suffering under its exposure to the limelight. This is an accursed thing. It effects our whole American life. With the chance ten to one against success, we will risk flying over the ocean in the dead of winter—and living or dead, we shall be in the headlines.

"I am not very proud of the picture presented by our country to the eyes of the world. I like to be optimistic and as a rule, I am, but I think here we have a decidedly dark and unfavorable outlook. I do not believe the aggregate of us are getting worse, though the records do show that domicides are increasing rapidly. Probably more of them are recorded; things that used to happen in the dark with a quick get-a-way are now the interesting reading of our breakfast tables. No, it is not that we are getting worse. Rather we are getting better too fast. We have over-tempered the quality of mercy. The sword of justice is too easily bent and deflected from its purpose. But what are we going to do about it. Can anything be done? I have a direct responsibility, myself. We have overworked our jury and parole system. Hickman is a good case of that. Preachers have stood strong for the idea. Reformers are just as much to blame as the lawyers. We have had a hand in delaying the swifter processes of the law. We have helped to over-strain justice—to overtemper the sword that protects the innocent. The spirit of justice, one of the glories of our civilization, drops like the gentle rain from heaven. Is it too gentle? As a minister of the gospel of Jesus I do not want to harm any person accused of crime, but which is more humane?—to let off all the criminals, thereby encouraging criminality, or to discourage their attacks upon the innocent by making the punishment fit the crime?"

PRESTON CITY BAPTIST C. E. HELD SOCIAL

The Christian Endeavor society of the Preston City Baptist church held an enjoyable social after its regular business meeting Friday evening at the church. The games were under the direction of the social committee, Cynthia Crary and Donald Zabriskie.

Much fun and merriment was found in the playing of "Who?" Letters spelling "Time" had previously been hidden in the room and at a given signal each was to see how much "Time" he could find. Arlene Bennett was the winner, she finding letters for spelling "time" eight times. Another game was "Pinning the Hand on the Face of the Clock." A contest on relationships proved to be interesting and puzzling, "What relation to you is your father's, mother's, brother's wife? The group was then divided into twos and each couple was given a month of the year about which they were to write a poem November's poem was the winner.

After the games, sandwiches and coffee were served.

Every one felt that an enjoyable evening had been spent and is waiting anxiously for the next social which will be held January 27th, when each one is asked to bring a dollar, more or less, and tell how it was earned.

The collection taken at the social held Friday evening, was given to the Near East Relief.

MT. CALVARY CHURCH ELECTS ITS OFFICERS

Mt. Calvary Baptist church elected its officers as follows at the annual meeting held Friday evening:

Church clerk, Mrs. Mary Wheeler; assistant clerk, Worth Howard; treasurer, Augustus Vera; trustee, Deacon S. W. Lacy; organist, Miss Ruth Thompson; chorister, Mrs. Frances Evans; superintendent of Sunday school, Mr. Fred Randall; president of B. Y. P. U., Mrs. Frances Evans; janitor, Roy Lacy.

ACADEMY MAKES IMPRESSIVE SHOWING IN WIN OVER PLAINFIELD

Rallying strongly during the second half after only a mediocre first two periods, the Academy made a runaway out of their game with Plainfield High Saturday night at the Y gym, finally winning 49 to 20. An overflow crowd saw the local schoolboys in their opening contest of the season.

It is only natural for a high school team in its first game in its second season at a sport not to look its best, especially against an opponent, whether large or small, that has any edge at all in experience, and the Academy for most of the first half and the opening half of the third quarter, was no exception. True, they held the lead in all but the first brief moment of this time but at times Plainfield was not outclassed the way local fans thought they should be. In fact, during the opening minutes of the third quarter, the light and youthful up-state five had Academy supporters on edge when they crept to within seven points of a tie with the N. F. A. seconds as the opposition.

However, this was where Coach Whitney inserted his regulars again and where they began to at last find their "land legs" and romp through Plainfield in fine fashion.

Plainfield put up a rugged defense all the way but on the offense she could do nothing. D'Avignon being the only player to score from the floor. He counted four times and the rest of the visiting points were via the foul route, where Plainfield exhibited uncanny ability.

Whitney used his second team, almost an exact duplicate of the speedy little Y. Emps, for nearly half the game. They went in right after the start of the second quarter and stayed there until about halfway through the third period. In their first-half stay they battled with Plainfield's first team on even terms but after intermission they showed signs of weakening and in a few minutes were outscored 7 to 2, giving Plainfield plenty of chance to make up a lot of lost ground. However, the regulars again peeled off their sweatshirts and went in not only to save the game but to make a rout of it. They made such a spree that, when Jim Kelly went out on four personal fouls in the latter part of the last quarter, they were far enough ahead to play the next few minutes with only four men.

Plainfield had the lead only once and then for only a few seconds. Bakanowski tossed in a foul in the first minute of play but almost on the next tapoff Les Pingree sank a field goal for the lead.

For the Academy Les Pingree's all-round play was the feature. He tossed in 16 points. Red Fagan, a newcomer, was next best in scoring with 12 points. He showed real ability at shooting although his floorwork at times was below par. Lynch and Swartsburg were others who showed well for the Academy in their win.

For Plainfield the ability to convert the fouls was the chief means of their staying up in the scoring.

C. F. C. Noses Out Buddies

The preliminary was a much more interesting game with the C. F. C. and Plainfield Buddies having another of their torrid battles. The local boys made it two straight over the Community Housers, winning again by one point, 34 to 33.

It was nip and tuck most of the way. Neither team had a safe lead through the first half, the Buddies leading by one point after the intermission. The C. F. C. took the lead and went into an eight point lead during the early moments of the last quarter only to have the Buddies fight up to within the one point just as the final whistle blew.

Brown, Lambert and Neil did all the scoring for the locals while Mercer, the clever Buddie forward, led his team in point-throwing.

The First Baptist team sprung a surprise in defeating the Central Baptists 27 to 17 in a Senior church league game. Herb Nielson, the lanky forward helped the winners greatly with 15 points. Another game started in the late afternoon found the Y Juniors winning over the Taftville Rovers 14 to 7.

MINOR LEAGUERS TO PATCH UP DRAFT BREAK TODAY

CHICAGO, Jan. 8.—(AP)— Big and little minor league representatives get together here tomorrow to patch up the break over the draft question, caused by the spunky resolution adopted at the Dallas minor league convention last month. In effect, the minor league convention told the big five of their membership that they must hereafter operate under the complete draft plan or not at all, abolishing the modifications which protected the class AA leagues in possession of their own rookies.

These five, the International, Pacific Coast and Three Eye leagues, and the Southern and American associations, carried their case to the major league meeting and received an ultimatum that shook the whole minor league baseball world. The majors demanded settlement of the dispute by January 15, on abrogation of the whole major-minor agreement, under which the minors shared the benevolent dictatorship of Kenesaw Mountain Landis without bearing any of the expense.

Under the modified draft, the big minors permit drafting only of the players which have come down from the major leagues, but at least two concessions have been advanced by them as further modification. The Southern association has proposed a three-year rule, allowing the majors to grab promising minor leaguers after they have seen three years of service. Others have mentioned increasing the draft price from $5,000 to $15,000 for class AA drafted players, allowing the majors at this price to draft any one, rookie or veteran. Mike Sexton, of Rock Island, president of the Minor League association, first called the meeting for West Baden, Ind., but transferred it to Chicago to the delegates could be nearer to the headquarters of Commissioner Landis in case his services are needed as reference in the dispute.

The Coast league delegates arrived with instructions to hold out for the modified draft as it has existed for seven years. President Thomas Hickey of the American association is leader of the peace faction which figures that some amicable way will be found out of the difficulty.

YALE TAKES LEAD IN INTERCOLLEGIATE BASKETBALL

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Yale's basketball team was off to a brisk start today in the Intercollegiate league with a pair of victories tucked away to direct the championship parade for the current campaign.

Only two games have been played in the league so far and Yale was a contestant in each fray. Coming out in front by 24 to 21 against Penn and 26 to 22 against Dartmouth, the defending champion.

Incidentally, Yale has won as many games in the present struggle as it had throughout the entire schedule of the last drive. In 1926-27, Yale won two games and lost eight. Both triumphs were over Cornell. For the past three seasons, the Yale five finished last in the standings.

The end of the week will find all the league members in action. Columbia will inaugurate the initial struggle with Dartmouth tomorrow night while on Saturday, Cornell faces the New Haven contingent and Princeton opposes Columbia.

Lou Nassau, a sophomore and forward on the Yale quintet, stands out as the highest point scorer with 19, which include eight field goals. Heep, Dartmouth center, flashed brilliantly against Yale by registering 13 of the points accumulated by his teammates Schaaf, Penn Guard, has totalled 12 points.

At the Dixon street armory in Westerly on Saturday night the Battery boys were outclassed by the silkmen from South Manchester, the score being 57 to 23 in favor of the visitors. Norris was high scorer with 24 points.

BASKETBALL THIS WEEK

Monday

No games.

Tuesday

Danielson Town Team at Taftville Crescents.

LaSalle Academy (Providence) at Chapman Tech.

Stonington High at Plainfield High.

Wednesday

Fitton A. C. (Boston) at Plainfield Pros.

Thursday

Hartford National Guards at Danielson Town team.

Friday

Chapman Tech at N. F. A.

Bulkeley (Hartford) at Windham High.

South Kingston High at Stonington High.

Saturday

Tourtellotte High at N. F. A.

Plenty of promising games adorn the week's basketball schedule for eastern Connecticut fans. There seems to be a liberal supply of games for all sections with scholastic tilts again at top stride.

The Chapman Tech-Academy game here in the city Friday night probably can be classed as the headliner and will draw the most interest because of the many doings after the game between these teams last season. The Danielson Towners-Taftville Crescents tilt tomorrow evening at Parish hall also will provide plenty of discussion while still another contest, that of the Plainfield Pros and the Fitzson A. C. of Boston will draw a large crowd.

There are games for every night but Monday, now scheduled while Norwich has games on Tuesday, Friday and Saturday.

WINDHAM HAS EASY TIME AGAINST CHAPMAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Jan. 8.—Windham High opened its basketball season with an impressive victory of 41 to 26 over Chapman Tech of New London, in a game played at the state armory here Friday night. The visitors kept Windham down to a one-point lead until the opening of the second half when the local hoopsters got into their stride and virtually routed their opponents in the final quarter. A powerful five-man zone defense gave Windham superior playing and made it difficult for the Tech boys to approach the basket, making the game spectacular with long distance shots. "Bill" Nield, Chapman captain was Windham's principal source of trouble and he played his game fast enough to be high scorer for the visitors. He scored five times from the floor and twice from penalty award line. Johns, right back for Chapman landed two beauties from long range. Morton Tinker, Windham guard playing Nield displayed rare form and caged five baskets from the floor. "Eddie" Saba was high scorer of the evening, crediting himself with seven baskets for a total of 14 points. Lamson, forward for Windham, was another high scorer. The game was played clean and fast by both teams and was among the best witnessed on the high school court. The summary:

DELANEY SIGNS FOR TWO 10-ROUND BOUTS

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Jack Delaney, former light heavyweight champion of the world, has signed for two ten round bouts to take place four days apart of each other, his new manager, Joe Jacobs, announced today.

On Jan. 16, Delaney will oppose Solly Montgomery, former Centre college football star, in the feature attraction at the St. Nicholas arena in this city. Delaney will be pitted against Jack Humbeck, Belgian heavyweight, at Mechanics hall, Boston, on Jan. 20.

Jacobs stated that he had a busy program mapped out for the Bridgeport battler which he expected to lead to a heavyweight championship affair with Gene Tunney.

Delaney has been in training for the past two weeks at Bridgeport. He is expected in New York tomorrow when Jacobs plans to announce him as a heavyweight contender before the weekly boxing show at the St. Nicholas club.

The Paulino Uxcudun-Ed Keeley bout is on again according to an announcement today by Promoter Andy Niederreiter of the Broadway arena in Brooklyn. The Basque heavyweight and Boston boxer will battle in a ten rounder in Brooklyn on Jan. 16.

SARAZEN WINS MIAMI OPEN GOLF TOURNAMENT

MIAMI, Fla., Jan 8.—(AP)—Gene Sarazen, former American open golf champion, today won the Miami open tournament with a card of 289 for the 72 holes of medal play. It marked his second tournament victory within a week. Tuesday he won the Miami Beach open.

In winning today, Sarazen retained the title, as he won it last year also. He has also held the Miami Beach championship two years.

Jock Hutchison, of Chicago, was second with a score of 290.

Hutchison had a 68 for the morning, the best single round of the tournament.

Willie Klein, Miami Beach professional, and Joe Kirkwood, the Albany, Ga., pro, tied for third money with 292 each. Kirkwood shot a 69 for the morning round. Jim Foulis of Chicago was next with a 295 and Johnny Farrell, the St. Augustine and New York professional, required one more stroke which gave him next position. Jack Forrester of New Jersey and Charles Mayo of Jacksonville ran close behind Farrell with 298 each.

Farrell, gallery favorite from the outset, had putter trouble virtually all the way.

BOSTON SOCCER CLUB TITLE IN AMERICAN LEAGUE

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—(AP)—The Boston Soccer club carried off premier honors in the first half of the American league schedule by a 1 goal to 0 victory over Newark at Newark today while the Giants were taking the measure of Bethlehem by 5 to 3 at New York. Boston and Bethlehem had been in a tie for first place.

Boston's goal was registered by Nilson following a hard scrimmage and was protested by Newark. The objection was disallowed by the referee.

As the Giants toppled Bethlehem, Bethlehem was relegated to a second place tie with New Bedford. The deadlock probably will be played off.

The league arrangements call for the first two teams in this half of the schedule to play a round robin with the two leading clubs of the next section of the season for the championship.

In the event that the same teams finish at the top in the last half of the schedule, the league arrangements call for a playoff with the teams with the next highest ratings for the year.

TASKER RESIGNS AS WILLIAM AND MARY COACH

NORFOLK, Va., Jan. 8.—(AP)—J. Wilder Tasker, head coach for William and Mary football, baseball and basketball for the last four years, has resigned effective at the end of the current college year, says an announcement received here from the college. No reason for the resignation was given. Tasker is a former Syracuse player. His successor has not been selected.

BOB FOLWELL, FOOTBALL COACH, DEAD

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Robert C. Folwell, former widely known football coach, died suddenly tonight following an operation on his hip January 3. He was believed to have been on the road to recovery after the operation, but suffered a relapse today and sank rapidly. He was 52.

During his undergraduate days at the University of Pennsylvania, Folwell was considered one of the greatest halfbacks in the east and in his senior year he was captain of the Penn gridiron team. He also was a member of the track team, starring in the weight events, and was a heavy weight wrestler.

After his graduation in 1900 he became head coach of the Lafayette football squad and later was head coach at Johns Hopkins, Washington and Jefferson, Pennsylvania and the Navy.

SHARKEY-HEENEY BOUT IS FISTIC FEATURE FOR THE COMING WEEK

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Jack Sharkey, of Boston, and Tom Heeney, of New Zealand, will battle through 15 rounds in Madison Square Garden Friday night to determine who will be the contender for Gene Tunney's heavyweight championship.

This bout was originally scheduled for last November but was postponed when Sharkey injured a hand in training. However, the Boston heavyweight now is reported to be fully recovered and in the best of condition for the approaching encounter.

Inasmuch as Tunney has intentions to defend his title twice this season, there is a possibility that the victor on Friday will be pitted against the champion without the formality of stacking up against Jack Dempsey, at present recognized as the leading challenger.

Dempsey will not be prepared to re-enter the ring until late in the spring. Tunney hopes to go against an opponent in June and then engage in another contest in the fall.

While Promoter Tex Rickard's present arrangements call for the next heavyweight fight to be held in the Yankee stadium next September, he may consider Tunney's demands and stage an open air fight early in the summer and then pit Dempsey against Tunney for the third time in the fall.

Dempsey is recognized as the biggest drawing card in Rickard's heavyweight deck. Rickard's argument against holding a Dempsey-Tunney battle in the summer is that so many people would be out of the city, there would not be a heavy "gate."

Sharkey has not fought since his struggle with Dempsey last July. While Sharkey will probably enter the ring a favorite, Heeney is acknowledged a worthy opponent. Heeney knocked out Jim Maloney in one round and won a judges' verdict against Johnny Risko in ten rounds. Risko recently conquered Paulino Uzcudun, the Spanish heavyweight.

Joe Sekyra, of Dayton, O., and Yale Okun, of New York, will come together in a ten-round semi-final on the same card. In another ten-round event, Lou Bogash, of Bridgeport, will stack up against Joe Williams, of California.

MONACO STAKES ARE CAPTURED BY PETIT BOB

NICE, France, Jan. 8.—(AP)—The Grand Prix of Monaco stakes, 100,000 franc added, were captured today by Petit Bob, a four-year-old jumper belonging to Jules Felbourg, with Faucon up. The odds were five to one against Petit Bob.

The winner made a great show over a field of ten starters, winning ten lengths on a 3,500 meter distance. Two starters fell.

Harvest Queen, belonging to Octave Homberg, of Argentina, won the second race with odds of six to one.

BASKETBALL BRIEFS

Well, the Academy has started and started successfully.

Considering everything the Red and Whitesters played pretty good.

That was some evening of basketball Saturday and also some crowd. There was over four hours of action and there were also over 400 present, a capacity audience.

It sure looks like success for the local schoolboys this year.

The C. F. C. looked good in beating the Buddies Saturday night.

Naugatuck High sure established itself as a state title possibility by trouncing Torrington Friday night 33 to 16.

The game at Parish hall tomorrow night between the Taftville Crescents and the Danielson Town team ought to pack them in. It is the second of their series, and like many other tilts between these quintets, should be filled with action.

SIX DAY RIDERS OFF IN RACE AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Jan. 8.—(AP) —Chicago's 19th International six day bicycle race began tonight with fifteen teams competing for the $5,000 first prize, 13 American and 12 European riders making up the field.

Always one of the favorites, Reggie McNamara, six day bike champion, is paired with Charley Winter, while Winter's old partner, Freddie Spencer, is teamed with Bobby Walthour, Jr., McNamara has accumulated a record of thirteen victories of six-day races in the years he has been pedalling around the wooden saucer, more than twice as many as any other rider. Twice since he reached the 13 mark he has failed to break the jinx. The Walthour admirers declare that Bobby has been almost invincible in Chicago races as five of the six firsts he has carried off have been won in Chicago.

The race will end Saturday night at 11 o'clock, the riders pedalling constantly until that time except for four hour rests every morning to refresh-en the air in the coliseum.

HUDKINS PREPARING FOR BOUTS IN NEW YORK

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 8. —(AP)— "Wildcat" Ace Hudkins, welterweight fighter, whose most recent engagement was the defeat of Mike Rozgall in five rounds at Omaha last Friday, left today for New York to begin preparations for a series of bouts pointing to a match with Joe Dundee, welter-champion.

Ace is scheduled to box Lew Tendler, Jan. 20. If he wins from him the next opponent will be selected by Tex Rickard. Following the second New York battle the "Wildcat" gets Dundee for an opponent under Rickard's promotion. Art Hudkins, his brother-manager said.

BOSTON TIGERS HANG ON TO LEAD IN HOCKEY

BOSTON, Jan. 8—Boston Tigers maintained their hold on first place in the Canadian-American Hockey league by a margin of one point over the Springfield Indians as a result of last week's games. New Haven is two games behind Springfield in the third place. The standing:

Team	W.	L.	T.	Pts.
Boston	11	6	1	23
Springfield	10	6	2	22
New Haven	8	6	2	18
Providence	5	8	3	13
Philadelphia	5	9	1	11
Quebec	3	8	2	9

x-two points for win and one point for tie.

SMITH WINS $10,000 LOS ANGELES OPEN

By Russel J. Newland
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

WILSHIRE COUNTRY CLUB, Los Angeles, Jan. 8—(AP)—MacDonald Smith, golfdom's stylist, stroked his way to a brilliant victory today in the third annual $10,000 Los Angeles open. With two stunning final rounds of 69, two under par, and 71, the Great Neck, Long Island star, posted a total score of 284 to outdistance the most imposing field ever assembled here for the western classic.

With victory he won first money of $3,500, while second prize of $1,500 went to Harry Cooper, dynamic winner of the 1926 event. His rounds were 73, 69, 75, 70.

Abe Espinosa of Chicago, "big brother" of the golfing Espinosas, clubbed his way through four steady rounds of 72, 73, 72, 73, to finish with 290 for third money of $1,000.

Tommy Armour of Washington, D. C., national open champion, tied at 292 for fourth place with Bill Mehlhorn, Wilkinsburg Country club, Penn., and Al Watrous, Grand Rapids, Mich. They will divide up 1,600 equally, the total of fourth, fifth and sixth places.

Al Espinosa, Chicago, and Billy Burke, New York, tied at 293 and will split up seventh and eighth money totaling $500.

Bobby Cruickshank, New York, last year's victor, posted 294 to haul down ninth money of $200, while John Black, Oakland, and Ed Dudley, Hollywood, completed their four laps in 295 to tie for tenth position. They will divide $200.

George Von Elm of Los Angeles, former amateur champion, finished low among the amateurs with 297.

Lady Luck smiled on Smith in this morning's round and the veteran campaigner, quick to respond, jumped into a lead that was never relinquished.

On the eighteenth hole of the morning stretch, his second shot landed on the green. It was a hard iron shot and the ball raced across the grass to strike a sign on one side and bound back just off the green. Four feet from where it rested yawned a difficult sand bunker, but two putts later the ball rested in the cup and Smith had chalked up a 69.

Returning for the afternoon eighteen, the tall, slim master cruised through in unfaltering style to finish in 71 and take a three stroke lead over Harry Cooper of Los Angeles, whose 287 had established him at the top earlier in the day. Smith's four rounds were 74, 70, 69, 71.

It was a thrilling conquest for "Mac" who basked in the golfing sunlight as far back as 1910, when he tied for the national open. In ill health for years and out of the picture, he returned in decisive fashion last summer.

Billie Burke, youthful New York professional, set a new course record of 69 in a great final round while Neil Christian, Portland, Oregon, gave the crowd a thrill with a stunning 67, four under par, for the first nine of the last eighteen,

SECOND HALF OF STATE LEAGUE STARTS JAN. 16TH

MERIDEN, Jan. 8.—(AP)—The second section of the Connecticut state basketball league race will start the week of January 15, it was voted at a meeting of club owners here today. The New Haven Atlas have clinched the first half title, with two games remaining on the first half schedule. New Haven will play at Bristol on Saturday, with Hartford playing at Waterbury Sunday.

It was voted that teams would not be permitted to sign new players after January 15.

ENCOURAGING REVIVAL OF INDUSTRY DURING FIRST WEEK OF THE NEW YEAR

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—(AP)—A gradual, yet encouraging picking up of basic industries was recorded on the American business chart in the first week of 1928. While inventory taking was conducive to quiet in some lines, the steel, automobile, implement and railway equipment branches displayed reviving activity.

The improvement in the steel industry was largely in reflection of expanding operation in the other groups. Mill operations were somewhat above the rate for December, and prices showed a general resistance to downward pressure. Buying of locomotives was reported good and inquiry for cars and rails was fairly well sustained.

The automotive trade was stimulated by several price-cuts and the introduction of new models. Competition of the keenest order is developing, with a probability that production will be rapid and accompanied by intense advertising and sales campaigns. Sweeping reductions in prices of low-priced cars are expected to make enormous inroads on the used-car market by turning the usual buyers of second-hand automobiles to the dealers in new machines. A year of unprecedented buying of new cars is predicted by some of the leading manufacturers.

The expanding operations of the automotive industry is reflected by an increase of more than 17,000 in the number of employed persons in Detroit, the center of the industry. A slight increase over the first week of 1927 also is reported.

Extreme activity in the stock market was an outstanding development of the week an unprecedented increase in stock exchange member loans having a particular relation to business. With the total of these loans around $ 1-2 billions at the close of the year, or within striking distance of the amount of money in actual circulation in this country, fears of a sharp tightening of money rates were widespread. A surprising expression from President Coolidge, however, that he did not consider the volume of brokers' loans cause for unfavorable comment was regarded as an indirect statement by the treasury department. The fears thus were allayed.

Interest rates, outside the call-money field, showed very little change, and appeared to bear out predictions that the era of cheap money rates which obtained throughout last year would extend well over in 1928. Early gains in business operations while encouraging, have not been such as to create an overwhelming demand for funds, and hence enormous amounts have been left available for investment and speculative purposes.

The outward movement of gold, which continued with measure brskness, no longer arouses apparent apprehension in credit circles. Stocks of the metal on deposit here are so vast that, in the view of leading students of financial and business affairs, as much as $1,000,000,000 could be removed without seriously affecting the monetary situation. The principal movement last week was to the South American markets.

Bank clearings gained more than 50 per cent over the preceding week, and about 15 per cent over the first week of last year.

The decline in freight car loadings during Christmas week from the same week of 1926 was relatively small; electric production stepped up materially and there was some improvement in the textile trade.

RESOLUTION.

At a meeting of the Directors of The Norwich Savings Society, January 7, 1928, the following minute was adopted.

The Directors of The Norwich Savings Society hereby place on record their deep sense of loss in the death of John T. Almy, for many years a beloved associate and friend.

His services as Trustee, Director and member of the Finance Committee have been of the greatest value to this institution.

His sincerity, his personality, his character endeared him to all of us.

We desire to extend to his family our heartfelt sympathy in their bereavement and to express our warm appreciation of the true manhood exemplified in his life.

G. B. DOLBEARE,
Secy.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE United States for the District of Connecticut. In the matter of Paul Zippieri and Fred Wentworth Bakery, bankrupts, in bankruptcy No. 3149. To the creditors of the above named bankrupts, of New London, in the county of New London, District aforesaid, bankrupts.

Notice is hereby given that on the 5th day of Jan. A. D. 1928 the above named were duly adjudicated bankrupts, and that the first meeting of their creditors will be held before the undersigned, at his office, 58 Church St., Norwich, in said District, on the 18th day of Jan. A. D. 1928, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, at which time said creditors may attend, prove their claims, appoint trustee, be heard as to orders of referee for care of property of the estate and disposal thereof, at auction or private sale, examine the bankrupt, and transact such other business as may properly come before said meeting.

THOMAS M. SHIELDS
Referee in Bankruptcy
Norwich, Conn., Jan. 7, 1928.

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Montville, within and for the District of Montville, on the 5th day of January, A. D. 1928.

Present, DAN D. HOME, Judge.

Estate of Charlotte C. Hermanson, late of Montville, in said District, deceased. Hilda Johnson of Norwich, Conn., appeared in Court and filed a petition praying for the reasons therein set forth, that administration be granted upon the estate of said deceased, alleged to be intestate.

Whereupon, it is Ordered, That said petition be heard and determined at the Probate Court Room in Montville, in said District, on the 12th day of January, A. D. 1927, at two o'clock in the afternoon, and that notice of the pendency of said petition, and of said hearing thereon, be given by the publication of this order one time in the Norwich Bulletin, a newspaper having a circulation in said District at least four days prior to the date of said hearing, and that return be made to this Court.

DAN D. HOME, Judge.

The above and foregoing is a true copy of record.
Attest, CARRIE W. CRAIG, Clerk.

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Lebanon, within and for the District of Lebanon, on the fifth day of January, A. D. 1928.

Present, GEORGE E. BRIGGS, Judge.

Estate of Harriet P. Manning late of Lebanon in said District, deceased.

Alyron F. Manning of Lee, Massachusetts, appeared in Court and filed a petition praying for the reasons therein set forth that an instrument in writing purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased, be proved, approved, allowed and admitted to probate. Whereupon it is Ordered, That said petition be heard and determined at a Probate Court to be held at the Probate Office in Lebanon on the fourteenth day of January, A. D. 1928, at five o'clock in the afternoon, and this Court directs that notice of the pendency of said petition and of the time and place of the hearing thereon, be given by publishing this order once in some newspaper having a circulation in this District, at least five (5) days prior to the day assigned for said hearing, and that due return be made to this court.

GEORGE E. BRIGGS
Judge of Probate
District of Lebanon

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Lotus Male Quartet at Y. M. C. A. Tonight.

The public is invited to attend the free sacred concert by the Lotus male quartet this evening at the local Y. M. C. A., at 7.45 o'clock. Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth of New London will deliver a brief address. This quartet has on several occasions delighted large audiences in the "Y" entertainment course, and doubtless a large audience will greet them on this occasion.

Strand Theater.

Vitalized by the superb acting of Evelyn Brent and containing much drama, color and romance, "A Broadway Lady," a stirring chorus girl story is now showing for the first time in this locality, at the Strand theater. It is a trip behind the scenes of a great Broadway musical comedy and a revelation of the lives of those glorified girls who nightly flash across the footlights in winsome grace and beauty. The supporting cast includes Theodore Von Eltz, Joyce Compton, Majorie Bonner and Ernest Hilliard.

"Wrong Querie" is a comedy that is a scream from start to finish.

Slater Hall Concert.

With the approval of the second of the four concerts in the Slater hall series, which is to be given Wednesday evening, Jan. 11th, by the Boston Symphony Orchestra Trio much interest is being felt in the personnel of the trio.

Especially worthy of interest has been the career of Richard Burgin, the orchestra's concert-master and first violinist. Born in Warsaw, Poland, in 1892, at the age of five years beginning to study the violin, he was soon the pupil of the great master, Isid

ROBERT MARION, NEW LONDON, CAUGHT DRIVING STOLEN CAR IN NEW YORK

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 8—Robert Marion, about 18, son of James Marion, was arrested in New York Saturday when found in possession of an automobile which he had stolen in this city earlier in the day. The youth admitted the theft and is being held a prisoner at New York pending the issuing of extradition papers that will bring him back to New London for trial. He has long been suspected of perpetrating numerous burglaries and thefts. Only last Friday he was arrested for the theft of $20 but escaped prosecution because the man from whom the money was stolen did not desire that the boy be presented in the police court, so withdrew the charge. Marion was only recently dishonorably discharged from the United States Coast Guard service. Marion went to the garage at 105 Truman street about 1 o'clock Saturday morning and forced entrance to the building by prying off the lock. He entered a Chrysler sedan, owned by Mrs. Susan Miller, of 118 Blinman street, and drove away, starting for New York and arriving there during the late morning. When Marion was held up by the police and questioned, it was revealed that he did not possess a driving license and then it was shown that the auto had been stolen.

WATERFORD GIRL ROBBED; ALSO STRUCK ON HEAD

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 8.—Cornelia Tinker, a young girl residing on the Niles Hill road, Waterford, made complaint to the state police at Groton barracks, Groton, Saturday evening that she had been held up and robbed when between Ocean avenue and her home. Her purse was forced from her grasp after she had been struck a blow on the head with a blunt instrument. Lieut. Roy Streaman informed the New London police of the holdup and a search of the vicinity where the robbery took place was made, but no suspicious characters were found. The girl could not furnishe the police much of a description of her assailant. The girl said that she boarded a trolley car on State street, about 5:30 o'clock and alighted on Montauk avenue, corner of Thames street. After walking through Thames street, she entered Ocean avenue and proceeded to the Niles Hill road where she was seized by a man, who struck her on the head, seized her purse and ran away.

The police have been requested by the United States Coast Guard authorities to be on the lookout for Pedro Beltran, Filipino, who was being held a prisoner at the academy, awaiting court martial for desertion and who escaped Saturday afternoon. He is described as being 21, about five feet four inches in height and weighs about 128. He has brown eyes, black hair and has a scar on his right cheek. When he escaped, Beltran wore dungarees, overalls and jumper.

Mrs. Emily Brooks, 51, wife of Charles Brooks, golf instructor at the New London Country club, Waterford, died Saturday morning after an illness of about a year, although Mrs. Brooks' death was hastened as a result of a shock suffered about a week ago. Mrs. Brooks was born in England and had resided in New London and vicinity about 15 years. She is survived, besides her husband, by two sons, W. H. Brooks, of this city, and Gerard Brooks, of Willimantic, a daughter, Miss Minnie Brooks, of Hartford, by her father, Joseph Gough and two brothers and a sister, residing in England. Mrs. Brooks was the daughter of Joseph and the late Hannah Gough, and was married 30 years ago in England.

Mrs. Elizabeth Rudic, 86, widow of Andrew Rudic, died Friday night at her home in East Lyme, after a lingering illness caused by infirmities attending her advanced years. She is susvived by a son, John Rudic, of East Lyme.

Mrs. Daniel Moran, Montauk avenue, was committed to the Norwich State hospital Saturday and was taken to the institution by Acting Sergeant William Graham and Patrolman Dennis Murphy. Mrs. Moran's mental condition has been impaired for several months and a short time ago she was taken to the hospital for observation and was discharged. Within a few days the mental complaint again manifested itself to such a degree that her recommitment became necessary.

Five drunks were given a hearing in the police court Saturday and that business was all that claimed the attention of the court. Two of the offenders, who were taken from a New Haven railroad passenger train Friday night, were given suspensions of judgment and allowed to leave the city. Two others, who had employment to go to., were also given suspended judgment and the fifth was fined $5.

Edward E. Day, of Cedar Crest, Quaker Hill, died this morning at Norwich State hospital, where he had undergone hospital treatment. Mr. Day resided with his mother, Mrs. Lida Domler, of Quaker Hill, for the past year. He came to Quaker Hill a year ago from Chicago, where he was a chef in one of the hotels. He was born in Chester, Mass., and was educated in the Hartford Preparatory school for boys. After completing his studies he went to Chicago, where he remained until ill health compelled him to give up work. He is survived by his mother and his wife, who is living in New York.

T. Harold Hunt, son of Captain of Police and Mrs. Charles A. Pinney, pursuing law studies in New York, was in New London today visiting his mother, who is recovering after a serious operation at Lawrence-Memorial hospital.

William Shultz, 25 Shapley street, reported to the police Saturday that his brother, Stephen, was missing from home, the latter having disappeared Friday morning. He is subject to epilepsy.

The traffic blinker, corner of Howard and Shaw streets, is out of order, for it failed to function Saturday night. Repairs will be made Monday.

A force of workmen of the Connecticut company was engaged throughout today installing a 10-foot strip of track that had become defective on State street, corner of Main street. The work was not completed until late this afternoon.

But three arrests were made Saturday night and this morning, two of the offenders being charged with intoxication. The third was charged with train riding, for he was detected riding on a freight train and was arrested by Patrolmen George Cockell and James Daly.

Mrs. Mariano Delmonte, 160 Shaw street, reported to the police Saturday afternoon that while shopping on State street, she lost her pocketbook containing about $9.

Patrolman John Foley is confined to his home on Huntington street by an affection of the throat.

Patrolman Henry Sylvia, against whom charges of conduct unbecoming an officer, were made several days ago by Joseph Connelly, will be exonerated of the charges by City Manager William A. Holt, probably Monday or Tuesday. Patrolman Sylvia was summoned to the office of the city manager Saturday and gave his version of what occurred on Main street.

ARTHUR HODGES' BODY RECOVERED FROM SUBMARINE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 8—The body of Arthur Hodges, son of Mrs. Sophie Kennerson, of Crystal avenue, who was one of the four members of the crew of submarine 4, rammed and sunk by the destroyer Paulding off Provincetown two weeks ago, and which was one of the bodies recovered today by divers, will be brought to New London and will be taken in charge by the young man's mother, with probable burial in Jordan cemetery. Hodges, who was a machinists' mate was a member of Thomas Hose company, Pequot lodge of Odd Fellows and Brainard lodge of Masons. These organizations have made arrangements to send delegations to the funeral which will probably take place Tuesday. Mrs. Kennerson, who has been in a state of collapse since the sinking of the submarine, was in such a condition that she could not be interviewed this evening for she was bordering on hysteria tonight.

I. Merrian, 36 Truman street, reported to the police tonight that his automobile, a Dodge, 1928 model, while parked in front of his residence was stolen. The car carries Connecticut registration, N-5117. The state police at Groton and Centerbrok and the police of Norwich, Westerly, New Haven, Middletown, Hartford and Bridgeport were requested to be on the lookout for the car.

Patrolman Henry Sylvia was unable to report for duty tonight because his wife is confined to her home by illness and tomorrow will undergo an operation at Lawrence-Memorial hospital.

The police tonight received a telephone message from John J. Murphy, 47 School street, that his automobile had been taken from in front of his home where it had been parked and requested that if the car was recovered that whoever was found in possession of it be held. The auto carried Connecticut registration, 652477. A short time after receiving the request the police received information that an automobile had climbed the sidewalk in front of the residence of Dr. Charles Kaufman, Montauk avenue and not only had climbed the walk, but had plowed through the hedge and had demolished that shrubbery and had come to a stop on the lawn. Patrolmen Dennis Murphy and Thomas Cavanaugh were sent to the Kaufman residence where they found the automobile. In charge of it was Dennis McCarthy of Hartford, who was intoxicated. He was arrested charged with driving while under the influence of liquor and was locked up at police headquarters pending the convening of the police court tomorrow morning. The automobile did not appear to be badly damaged. McCarthy, it is understood, is an intimate acquaintance of Murphy and took the automobile for the purpose of visiting another acquaintance.

Several of the streets of the city are in need of immediate repairs, these being North Bank, Douglass, John and Potter streets. A force of city employes has been engaged placing blue stone and tar in depressions on these streets for several days, but the danger element has not been removed. It is probable that within the next two days or 48 hours that traffic will have become normal on these streets.

Several of the ice dealers are contemplating cutting ice during the next few days. It is contended that the necessary thickness has been obtained. The dealers want at least eight, if not nine inches, and when the thickness of eight or nine inches is to be had then cutting will be the result and that will be the thickness desired. There are at least three ponds nearby that will provide this thickness.

Joseph Naples, formerly of New London, spent today with friends in this city. Mr. Naples was formerly proprietor of the Fournier house. He will return to New York tomorrow.

Mrs. James Jackson, 12 Richards street, has returned to this city having spent two weeks in New York with relatives.

The Bronstein building, on Pearl street, has been condemned by the city several months ago. Work was started a week ago razing the two and one-half structure. Now work has been stopped for some reason. The windows have been demolished by youths and the building, that is so much of it that remains, is a complete wreck so that it will not be serviceable for any purpose that it is put to.

The electric lights used for the Christmas celebration on State, Main and Bank streets, were taken down Saturday, and the evergreen festoons were removed during the day. The electric bulbs will be placed in storage and will be used in the demonstration next year and after five years the lights will be the property of the city. The evergreen streamers will be used fro myear to year, but they will never be owned by the city, being the property of those that furnish them.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theater.

The current vaudeville program at the Broadway theater brings to the stage five acts of well known headliners. It is just the beginning of the management's plan to bring to Norwich only the best entertainment possible and this show should prove the fact. The bill consists of the Bradley Sisters and Company in their European dance creation, "frivolities." Victor Glass, the boy who plays anything. Arthur Jarrett and Players in a new comedy playlet. Hank Brown and Partner in an hilarious comedy presentation and Steppin and See, unique juggling maniacs.

The picture feature stars Esther Ralston in a new comedy drama, just released by the Paramount Pictures company. It is to have its premier showing at the Broadway theater and advance reports on the preview state this to be one of the best pictures ever made by Miss Ralston.

The last three days of the week, commencing Thursday, brings to the vaudeville stage the biggest headline attraction in vaudeville today. It is Roses 25 Royal Midgets, presenting an hour's entertainment in which they do everything done by their grown-up brothers. It is to be shown in conjunction with Glenn Tryon's latest farce comedy, "A Hero For a Night."

Palace Theater.

John Gilbert, romanticist of the screen, can also be a very practical young man—when he has to. Witness his portrayal of a reporter in "Man, Woman and Sin," his new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starring vehicle which opened a three days engagement at the Palace theater on Sunday night.

He's a typical American youngster, who starts as a mailing room boy in a newspaper, becomes a reporter—and only loses his practical angle when he falls in love—which after all is the most practical thing about the role. One does just that thing—when one is young and the girl is pretty—and Jeanne Eagles is all of that.

The new story is an ultra-modern romance laid in a newspaper office—in a big Washington daily. The thrill of news gathering in the national capital is embellished with a startling plot and a remarkable romance, in which Gilbert plays a role that shows another side of his extraordinary versatility. Mona Bell, both author and director of the play, was himself once a newspaper man in Washington, hence his production has the echo of the man who knows his subject.

The audience is taken into a newspaper office and shown the whole business of publishing a paper, from gathering the news to printing it, in a series of scenes that are graphic and technically marvelous. A spectacular detail is a reproduction of the great Embassy ball, largest social affair in America, staged on a gorgeous scale.

CHILDLESS MARRIAGES SCORED BY FR. REILLY

The fact that Sunday was Holy Family day and that he had just read the gospel for the Sunday after Epiphany, Luke 2, 42-52, describing the ideal life of the Child Jesus, His mother, Mary, and His foster-father, St. Joseph, in their obscure home in Nazareth, suggested the subject matter for Rev. John J. Reilly's sermon at the 9 o'clock mass in St. Patrick's church. The 2,000 years since that era have brought many changes; the greatest minds have evolved machines and devices; scientists, inventors, thinkers and research workers have accomplished marvels, but nothing has yet gone ahead of the great folding-machine, the Christian home.

The modern era, with its broken hearts, broken homes, broken vows, when the motive of marriage is rated no higher than that of the kennel or the racing stable, was set over against the real basis of civilization, the Christian home. Reference was made to ideal conditions inthose Catholic industrial nations, Ireland, Belgium, France, where the home ideals have been so lofty. Especially did the preacher laud the beauty of home life in Ireland, the purity how humble the environment.

Changes, industrial and others, have tended to rob the modern home of its beauties, resulting in a life for some which means crudely the restaurant by day, the theater by night, home merely a storage-place for radios and ice boxes. The family hotel, the modern apartment, distate for housework, sinful laziness have resulted in an edict against children, as much murder as was the slaughter of the innocents by Herod.

Contrasting modern insubordination of youth through parental carelessness, with the obedience of the Christ-Child to His earthly parents, Father Reilly advocated a return to the remedy of the good right parental arm, with three drastic doses of discipline daily till the patient shows symptoms of recovery. But again and again he laid stress upon the fact that to take away life, to prohibit life, is murder, as he condemned the paganism of race suicide birth control, condemning vigorously those who shirk the responsibilities of marriage, who are guilty of crime against the Giver of life, whose excuse may be, "I can't afford more children," who place their own convenience against God's laws. The preacher urged any such to think of Nazareth and the happiness of home, to accept parental duty, to model their home life after the home of Nazareth, a home sanctified by prayer, hallowed by unselfishness. Graphically he pictured the future which the childless are laying up for themselves—years of misery and disappointment, a lonely old age, and, infinitely worse than all—no hope for them in eternity.

Father Reilly assisted Rev. Myles P. Galvin in giving holy communion to a great number of penitents. A number of the Christmas hymns were repeated by the Junior choir, under the direction of the organist, Henry J. LaFontaine. The altar hangings, vestments and flowers for the day were white, symbolic of the purity of the Holy Family.

The Germans are flying more than 40,000 miles a day.

TAFTVILLE

At the morning service of the Taftville Congregational church on Sunday, the topic of the pastor, Rev. Edwin Gordon Crowdis, was "The Viewpoint." The anthem after the offertory sung by the choir under the direction of Miss Nellie S. Howie, the church organist and choir leader was, "There is An Hour of Hallowed Peace." Victor H. Davis had charge of the regular weekly meeting of the Young People's society of Christian Endeavor held Sunday evening in the church vestry. The topic discussed was "What Prayer Can Do."

The Ocowasin Camp Fire Firls held their annual business meeting at the home of Miss Ruby Houston on South Second avenue Friday evening. New officers were appointed for the year. The committee in charge was Mrs. Edwin Gordon Crowdis and Mrs. John Volkman. The officers are as follows: President, Miss Mildred C. Yerrington; vice president, Miss Edith R. Adams; secretary, Miss Dorothy Hunt; treasurer, Miss Dorothy M. Aberg; vacation fund treasurer, Miss Marjorie McNally; Bulletin scribe, Miss Edith L. Heap; Everygirls' scribe, Miss Ruby Houston; music leader, Miss Jean Copeland; program committee, Miss Edith L. Heap, Miss Edith Adams and Miss Ruby Houston.

Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson and family of Eagleville are moving to the village and have taken a house on Norwich avenue.

Announcement has been made that the annual business meeting of the corporation of the Taftville Congregational church for the election of officers and the transaction of any other business which may leagally come before the meeting, will be held Wednesday evening at the church lecture rooms. This is a departure from the usual custom of holding the annual meeting on a Thursday evening.

Peter Roberts who has been at the Ponemah house for some time has resigned his position with the local mills and has left town.

Miss Nellie Hart Auger of Middlefield and Mrs. Aretas P. Saunders of Fairfield have been recent callers in town.

Miss Dolores Legarre has resigned her position with the No. 1 weaving department of the Ponemah mills.

PIANO PUPILS PLAY IN MERITORIOUS RECITAL

Mrs. A. H. Manes presented a number of her pupils in a piano recital Sunday afternoon at the Hanover-Curland Co. Their numbers were enthusiastically received by a good sized audience who enjoyed the program to the fullest extent. Twenty-four numbers were given in all, the first twelve by the beginners' class and the second part of the program was devoted entirely to the advanced pupils. It was the general opinion of those present that selections were rendered with much expression and musical intelligence.

Made Ten Year's Error.

An error of 10 year, unfortunately, was made in the "fifty years ago" column in Saturday morning's Bulletin. The column reproduced news items of 40 years ago instead of a half century ago. It was a case of poor arithmetic on the part of the "fifty years ago" man who selected the 1888 file of The Bulletin instead of the 1878 file. He writes this explanation himself and announces that he is seriously thinking of signing up for a correspondence course in simple addition and subtraction.

Lights For Skating Pond.

Saturday morning members of the gas and electric department of the city erected three arc lights at the East Great Plain skating pond. The lighting of the skating pond has been possible through the efforts of the city recreation commission. Lights were recently installed at the Mohegan park skating pond.

Attended D. A. R. Meeting.

Mrs. Arad R. Manning of Yantic and Mrs. William P. Clark of Lebanon, regent and treasurer of Gov. Jonathan Trumbull chapter, D. A. R., attended the regents' and treasurers' meeting in Hartford on Friday last.

Began Pinochle Series.

The Odd Fellows and Rebekahs began the second series of pinochle on Friday evening. Miss Elsie Whitmarsh was high with a score of 7740, C. R. Browning, second, with score of 7660, and Miss Alice Brayman, third, with score of 7300.

CAUGHT PAWCATUCK MAN AFTER CHASE IN POLICE AUTOMOBILE

In a chase over Hamilton avenue Sunday afternoon in the motor police patrol Officers Patrick T. Murphy and Michael J. Carroll rounded up a Pawcatuck young man who was wanted by the police there.

Capt. Thomas P. Murphy got the message from the Pawcatuck authorities at 2:55 to look out for William T. L. Barker, 20, who was believed to be headed for this city in a Ford machine. The Pawcatuck authorities wanted the young man because of a complaint made against him by a girl

Capt. Murphy sent out Officer Murphy at the wheel of the police patrol to ride over Main street on the Preston side, directing him to pick up Officer Carroll on the way and keep a watch for the expected arrival of the Pawcatuck man. When part way up Fox hill, at about Mulberry street, the two Norwich officers met the Pawcatuck man's machine approaching them. He apparently sensed that the Norwich police were after him for he shot past the patrol wagon and turned off Main street into Hamilton avenue, speeding away towards Greeneville. As soon as Officer Murphy could turn the patrol wagon around, he went after the other car and overhauled it on Smith avenue, where Barker and Louis Thavenet, 20, who was with him were taken in charge and brought to police headquarters in a little less than an hour from the time the Norwich police got the word to watch for them.

Barker was driving a machine which he said belonged to his sister. It had Connecticut registration 16-836.

Later in the afternoon Deputy Sheriff Thomas O'Connell came here from Pawcatuck and took Barker back there. By his orders Thavenet was released as the police had no charge against him.

DR. GERARD E. JENSEN WRITES OF SLANG OF 1750

To refer a slangy freshman to the New English dictionary for correction and inspiration is probably a futile thing; it may be equally futile, from any point of view, for me to gather together here a few observations on the use of cant terms; but there are three points on which I do wish to comment, writes Prof. Gerard E. Jensen of Connecticut college, formerly of Norwich, in the magazine, American Speech.

In reading through the Dictionary of the Cant Language appended in a late reprint of the Apology of Bampfydie Moore Carew, king of the beggars (which dates from about 1750) I have been unexpectedly diverted. In many of the terms there is a distinct Adean force— a terse and humorous effectiveness. Consider, for example, Eternity Box, a 'coffin;' Amen Curr, 'a parish clerk;' Barrel Fever in the sentence, 'He died of a barrel fever,' specifies death from drinking spirituous contents. And there are many others not fit to print. Such phrases as anodyne necklace, 'a halter'; babes in the wood, 'criminals in the stocks;' and nutcrackers, 'a pillory;' and others less picturesque are indirect but none the less effective. For pure irony bill of sale, 'a widow's weeds,' is the gem of the collection. To be sure, the greater part of the terms are colorless abbreviations or meaningless substitutes, yet there are a few vivid phrases which have some of the sparkle of George Ade's gems. Take for instance, hempen widow, 'one whose husband was hanged;' spiritual flesh-broker, 'a parson.'

It is interesting to note among these expressions many compound form which are built up systematically; for instance, Autumn means 'church' or 'married;' mort is a cant term for 'woman;' and autumn mort is a 'married woman.' bingo (attention, Yale men!) is 'brandy;' bingo mort, 'a female dram drinker.' dimber has the sense of 'distinguished;' dimber mort means 'pretty wench.' Doctor is the name of a composition used by distillers to make spirits seem stronger than they really are; Doctors are loaded dice; both imply crafty tampering, and one seems to be derived from the other.

In modern cant we Yankees use the word doctored with much the same force; we speak of adulterated products as doctored up or simply as doctored. This is only one of several interesting survivors from this period. Take, for example, glim, 'a candle or dark lantern,' which survives among seafarers with the meaning "illumination;' and consider also peaches, 'discovers or informers;' sharper, 'a swindler or cheat;' skinflint, 'a close fellow;' snacks, 'full share;' squeal, 'an informer;' swell cove, 'a fellow with plenty of money;' toggery, 'clothes;' hand-me-downs, 'second-hand clothes;' and cut his stick, 'to run away.' That some of these expressions should have gained a certain current usage is interesting, but not sufficiently engrossing to lead me into a study of their true history. The sourcebook which I have used is probably most untrustworthy, but it is very amusing.

ADELARD MORIN ON VISIT TO FURNITURE MARKETS

Following his usual custom and that of furniture men from everywhere, Adelard Morin, vice president of The Plaut-Cadden Co. of Norwich and New London, left Sunday evening to attend the furniture markets and exhibitions held during this month in several-mid-western cities.

This year's exhibition at Grand Rapids will be the most brilliant ever held, the occasion being the celebration of the 100th Grand Rapids market. The newest creations of the principal furniture manufacturers are on display there and thousands of merchants are in attendance to select for their communities the best in modern furniture design, as well as the exquisite new commemorative productions in wood and color that have been created for this market.

Mr. Morin will spend several days at the Grand Rapids market viewing and purchasing the new furniture, after which he will visit the furniture expositions at Chicago and other cities throughout the middle west and east, where the most important furniture manufacturers are located. He is expected to return about the middle of next week.

MOTORISTS OPPOSE COURT RULE ON GRADE CROSSINGS

Widespread disapproval on the part of the motorists everywhere at the recent decision of the United States supreme court, placing upon the motorist full responsibility in crossing a railroad track, was crystallized in Washington this week when steps were taken to have the law, as laid down by the supreme court, changed.

This was done in a bill introduced in the house by Congressman Frank Murphy, of Ohio, the purpose of which would be to shift a part of the responsibility to the railroads, which the supreme court's decision places upon the motorist. Under the court's decision, rendered by Justice Holmes, a motorist in crossing a railroad track at a blind crossing, must assume full responsibility and must not only stop, look and listen, but under the rule laid down by the court, must, if necessary, get out of his car and go onto the track to make certain that a train is not approaching.

Baltic G. A. C. Meets.

The G. A. C. girls held their last regular meeting with Miss Blanch Fournier at her home on Main street, Baltic. In the course of the business meeting, it was voted to arrange for a leap year party, to be given in the near future.

After the business was completed, the Misses Blanch and Celia Fournier were the club's hostesses for the social part. The next meeting is to be held at Miss Lea LaBelle's home, 121 High street.

TO EXPLAIN CLUB WORK FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

Announcement was made Sunday that on Wednesday evening, January 11th, at 7:30 o'clock, there will be a meeting for boys and girls at the Community hall in Norwich Town. County Club Leader R. W. Whaples has arranged to give a talk on 4-H club work which will be illustrated by lantern slides. There are a number of boys in this community who are interested in 4-H club work and want to learn more about it, Mr. Whaples said Sunday. This talk will be of interest to both boys and girls and any boy or girl interested is expected to be on hand.

The 4 H's stand for head—heart—hand and health and projects are carried on in dairy, poultry, swine, sheep, beef, bees, health, cooking, clothing, canning and any other agricultural or home making enterprise.

Boys and girls 4-H club work is a part of the national agricultural extension system. Through it, rural boys and girls 10 to 20 years of age, in school or out of school, are taught better agricultural and home economics practices and the finer and more significant things of rural life. It builds men and women.

4-H club boys and girls are demonstrators—they learn and teach better ways on the farm, in the home, and in the community.

4-H club boys and girls work, earn money, and acquire property.

4-H club boys and girls do the needful, the wholesome, the helpful thing. They become leaders.

4-H club boys and girls play the game fairly.

4-H club boys and girls meet together, work together, play together, cooperate and achieve.

WORCESTER REAL ESTATE BROKERS IN BANKRUPTCY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WORCESTER, Mass., Jan. 8.—Isador Katz and Eli Leavitt, widely known Worcester county real estate brokers, who recently brought suits totaling $100,000 against a Norwich, Conn., resident, are being petitioned into bankruptcy in action brought through the United States district court.

Suits for $50,000 each were brought by Katz and Leavitt against Abraham Gordon of 75 Sachem street, Norwich, last October. The Worcester realtors charged malicious prosecution by Gordon, who is secretary of the Max Gordon & Son corporation of Norwich and a heavy investor in Massachusetts real estate.

The principal petitioning creditors in the involuntary bankruptcy proceedings set forth debts totaling nearly $5,000. Katz and Leavitt were discharged in the Worcester district court in October on charges of larceny and conspiracy brought by Mr. Gordon in connection with a mortgage loan.

EPISCOPALIANS ARE TO ATTEND HARTFORD MEETING

Much attention is being attracted throughout the state by the annual Church Mission of Help meeting, which is to be held at Christ church cathedral parish house, Hartford, Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Tea will be served at 4 o'clock.

All the members, parish representatives and volunteers throughout the state are eligible to attend and it is expected that every parish in the diocese will be represented by both clergy and laity.

Mrs. McLean Buckingham of Watertown, acting chairman, will preside. Bishop Chauncey B. Brewster and Rev. Howard D. Perkins of New Haven will speak. There will also be brief talks by Miss Frances Cashel of the Hartford Charity Organization society and by Miss Cristine Boylston, national organization secretary of the Church Missions of Help. Miss Mary Grey Barron of Hartford, who is chairman of the Hartford group, will give a report of the work being done there.

Miss Helen H. Sturges, executive secretary of the Church Missions of Help, will give a report of the year's work and tell of the plans for the coming year.

FEDERAL-AID HIGHWAYS SHOW 63,756 TOTAL MILEAGE

A total of 63,756 miles of federal-aid highways have been completed under the federal-aid program, up to December 1, according to figures, as of that date, just announced by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads. The total cost for the construction of this mileage was $1,218,630,014, of which the federal government's share was $538,187,766.

Data, compiled by the American Motorists association, shows that on December 1st, Nebraska was leading all other states in highway construction under the federal-aid program for the forthcoming fiscal year of 1928. On that date, Nebraska had under construction, 1,314 miles of federal-aid road.

In comparison with this, the New England states have fared slimly in federal-aid roads. Their figures are as follows: Massachusetts, 115 miles; Connecticut, 69 miles; Vermont, 45 miles; New Hampshire, 42 miles; Maine, 41 miles.

LEGION ANXILIARY IS MAKING SEASON PLANS

A special meeting of the executive committee of the American Legion auxiliary was held at the home of Mrs. Frank Kimball. Mrs. John B. Oat was elected secretary and Mrs. Ruth Gregson chairman of the welfare committee. Mrs. Herman Bruckner chairman of the social committee has a bridge planned to take place in the near future. Many activities have been planned for the winter, the proceeds from which will be used to care for disabled veterans and their families.

CONGRESSMAN TILSON AGAINST SUBMARINE BASE CHANGE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Congressman McClintic of Oklahoma, democrat, is much upset over certain features of the McGruder hearing, and as a part of that hearing has brought Connecticut into the foreground. He utterly condemns the existence of the submarine base at New London and has introduced a bill to have that station closed and removed to "southern waters." McClintic wants diving to go on all the year round, and tried in vain to get McGruder to make such a statement but failed, the admiral so qualifying his reply that it did not cut much figure. But no one here seems to take the McClintic bill very seriously. Members of the naval committee have openly expressed their opinion that the base will not be moved, taking very much the same stand as does Congressman Tilson, who said to your correspondent:

"I do not believe for a moment such a change will be made. As for myself, you may say that they will have to show me strong and unquestionable reasons why another base is better than the one at New London, before I should consider such a plan, and I do not believe those reasons exist, so in my opinion, Connecticut people need not feel especially concerned or troubled over the McClintic bill."

Congressman Freeman, ranking member on rivers and harbors, is still in Florida on an official trip, with members of that committee, but can of course be safely counted on to protect New London's interests in the matter, as far as possible. Freeman has never yet failed to stand by his state and district, and will have great influence when the matter comes before congress, if it ever gets out of the committee to which it was referred.

SHOWED PICTURE STORY OF "THE FOOL" AT Y. M. C. A.

An unusually large audience attended the service at the Norwich Young Men's Christian association Sunday afternoon, and there were many appreciative words spoken about the service. The opening exercises consisted of two hymns sung from the screen and prayer. Hugh Kinder furnished very appropriate music on the piano.

The first half of the great moving picture feature by Channing Pollock, "The Fool" was shown, and it made its own deep impression; this picture is calculated to demonstrate that one can live out the Sermon on the Mount, and though it means sacrifice to do so, in the long run it brings great satisfaction to the one who chooses to follow the teachings of Jesus. Between the reels Secretary Edwin Hill gave a brief talk, and spoke in part as follows: "The picture teaches its own lesson, so I want to take a little different phase of the thought in the mind of the author. The question is often asked in these days, can one live as Jesus taught; is it practical in this day and time? If we stop to think, we will answer, "No" and also "Yes." If one attempts to so live in his own strength, he is bound to fail; for instance, I have seen men sign the pledge not to drink any more, and they have generally failed to keep their pledge because their will power was not strong enough. Some drunkards have signed a pledge to quit drinking, in their own life blood, and before many days have passed they have been reeling drunk again. So with the habit of smoking cigarettes; many a young man and boy has said, I can smoke or let it alone, but we have sen them try to stop and we have seen them fail. And so with many other bad habits, the will power alone is not sufficient. In answer to the question, can one live according to the teachings of Jesus, we can also answer "yes," but on one condition; we can follow His teachings by the same power that enabled the hero in this picture story; by the power, and only by that power. We have known men bound in the power of evil habit, who by swinging into line with God Almighty, have become changed men. Yes, God through Christ can help us to live right; to solve our problems and to overcome every difficulty. Let us allow the Christ to help us live for Him."

POETRY

The Chimes at Grace.

O Chimes of Grace, your voice is sweet,
Of winsome tones possest,
And hearts that pass on weary feet
Your music oft have blest—
The tired hearts that all the day
On trisiful errands go—
The aching hearts that on their way
No other solace know.

O Chimes of Grace, though nigh you are,
And never, never seen,
And I from Heaven am afar,
You seem a link between:
The seasons flit o'er wave and hill,
But you repeat your message still,
You faithful Bells, your call.

O Chimes of Grace, where'er I hear
Your ring as I go by,
You seem as pleasant to mine ear
As blossoms to mine eye;
Straightway I think of higher things—
As if by mystic art
You fanned away with Angel wings
The evil from my heart.

O Happy Bells, it must be so,
For human voice unlike
Still loveller your chimings flow,
More mellow notes you strike;
And I rejoice that down the years
When I am 'neath the ground,
Far sweeter yet to other ears
Your melodies will sound.

O Gallant Chimes, your haunting music
What does their message say?
It says unto the hurrying throngs:
Come in, come in today;
Come, in come in and find release
From Grief; this is the place,
This is the place—for Joy and Peace
Ride 'neath the Chimes of Grace.
—Samuel Minturn Peck.

A Mile With Me

Oh, who will walk a mile with me
Along life's merry way?
A comrade blithe and full of glee,
Who dares to laugh out loud and free,
And let his frolic fancy play,
Like a happy child, through the flowery way.
That fill the field and fringe the way
When he walks a mile with me.

And who will walk a mile with me
Along life's weary way?
A friend whose heart has eyes to see
The stars shine out o'er the darkening lea,
And the quiet rest at the end o' the day
A friend who knows and dares to say
The brave, sweet words that cheer the way,
Where he walks a mile with me.

With such a comrade, such a friend,
I fain would walk till my journey's end,
Through summer sunshine, winter rain,
And then?—Farewell, we shall meet again!
—Henry van Dyke, in "Poems".

KALEIDOSCOPE

The Egyptians invented a crank drill before 3,000 B. C.

There are valleys in Turkestan 17,000 feet above sea level.

If the people on the earth could stand side by side they would encircle the globe about fifteen times.

George B. Preble, custodian at the Main Street school in Fairfield, Me., walks seven miles a day for his dinner, to a restaurant in Waterville. The eating place is three and a half miles distant, and he asserts that his dinner is worth the walk.

"Here's an example of why some people can't pay their rent," remarked a Meredith (N. H.) landlord. "A young couple leased this place last summer. They couldn't or wouldn't pay their rent. After they left I found thirty-two pairs of silk stockings thrown in a pile, with small holes in them that could have been mended readily."

Missouri has Peculiar in Cass county, Paradise in Clay county, also Napoleon, Wellington and Waterloo nearby in Lafayette county, but Chariton county has really distinctive names for two of its towns. One of the oldest one-store towns in the latter county is Mike. A few years ago another one-store town was established about one mile south, and it was named Pat.

With a pocket knife and a piece of glass, Morwitz Petersen, of Portland, Ore., carved a complete model of the old frigate Constitution from wood. Even its thirty-seven sails are made of wood. Each sail was shaved down from a block of wood three inches thick. The hull was made of red cedar and sails of pine. It took an average of four days to make each sail, while the entire boat required one year.

How to keep postage stamps from sticking where they should not so that they will adhere where they should is a problem before experts at the United States bureau of standards. The bureau of printing and engraving, where the stamps are made, has been advised that it may find a special moisture-proof cellophane, the thin transparent material sometimes used to wrap candy, better than paraffin paper as separating sheets in stamp books.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

"What is a statesman?" asked the schoolinstructor of 5-year-old Freda.

"A man who goes about making speeches," answered the little girl.

"Fair, but not quite correct," said the instructor. "I myself sometimes make speeches, but I am not a statesman."

"I know," returned Freda, smiling brightly; "a statesman is a man who makes good speeches!" Toronto Telegram.

A BRIEF HISTORY OF A GREAT ACHIEVEMENT

IN THE Spring of 1925 Dodge Brothers undertook an important and gigantic task—which is now complete.

Since its inception in 1914 Dodge Brothers had specialized exclusively in a four-cylinder product. During thirteen years more than two million units of that product were sold to America and to the world.

It is unnecessary here to comment on the singular merits of that famous Four.

It was honored on the battlefields of war, and achieved equal distinction on the highways and byways of peace.

Its long life and complete dependability had become an adage.

Meanwhile, however, times were changing and tastes were changing with them.

While still as important as ever, dependability alone was no longer sufficient.

Greater speed and comfort, more style and luxury were the growing prepossessions of the hour.

Two years ago Dodge Brothers appraised its task and embarked upon a program designed to place it and its Dealer Organization in a position on January 1, 1928, second to none in the industry.

The astonishing results of this great achievement are now known to the world.

It is doubtful if industrial annals can cite, over a similar period, an achievement so outstanding.

A smart, swift, low-priced and immensely popular quality Four has replaced its famous predecessor.

The Senior Six, outstanding in performance, quality and luxurious appointment, has been created.

Graham Brothers Trucks and Motor Coaches (formerly exclusively Fours) have been supplemented by sixes. Fifty new types have been added. The capacities are broadened to range from one-half ton to two-ton, all resulting in the most complete and capable line of work cars known, and with prices ranging from $670 to $4290.

Then Thursday came The Victory—a Six for $1045 and up—the most spectacular engineering achievement of the decade.

These accomplishments, one following the other in steady progression, have now provided Dodge Brothers Dealers throughout the world with the most diversified and comprehensive line of passenger and commercial vehicles ever manufactured and sold by a single organization.

For every need and purse there is now a Dodge Brothers vehicle built dependably and in full recognition of the progressive ideals of today and tomorrow.

Adhering rigidly to the sound and honorable standards of a great past, Dodge Brothers have met the challenge of a still more exacting future.

TO TEST THE WIRE-TAPPING RIGHTS OF FED. DRY AGENTS

Supreme Court, Reversing Former Position, Has Decided to Make a Sweeping Inquiry Into the Listening in on Private Telephone Conversations—Contention is Advanced That That Method of Securing Evidence Has Been Unlawfully Used by the Government and Violates the Constitutional Rights of Persons on Trial.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9—(AP)—Reversing its former position, the supreme court announced today that it would make a sweeping inquiry into wire tapping in connection with prohibition enforcement. Previously the court had refused to review cases in which wire tapping was involved.

It explained today that its purpose was to determine whether evidence contained through listening in on private telephone conversations could be used in prohibition prosecutions without violating the constitutional rights of the persons on trial.

Out of the prosecution of ninety persons at Seattle, Wash., for conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws, arose three separate appeals based on the contention that the evidence obtained through wire tapping methods had been unlawfully used by the government. The lower courts had held that private telephone conversations obtained through wire tapping was properly admissible as evidence.

The supreme court refused to review the cases, and substantially refused to reconsider its actions in two of them. In acting today upon the third petition for reconsideration the court decided to go thoroughly into the question.

It was contended by those convicted that the tapping of private telephone lines by federal prohibition agents as a means of procuring evidence had become a common nuisance, and that eventually the highest court would be required to pass judgment on such practices. It also was asserted that the refusal of the supreme court to pass on the subject would encourage prohibition agents to greatly extend their wire tapping operations.

M'MILLAN PLEADED NOT GUILTY OF MURDER

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 9.—(AP)—A plea of not guilty was entered by Dr. Charles McMillan today when he was arraigned on an indictment charging him with the "sack murder" of Mrs. Amelia Appleby, wealthy widow of a Chicago inventor. Superior Judge Carlos Hardy set the trial for Jan. 27.

Several hundred persons crowded the court room to witness the proceedings and get a glimpse of the 57 year old physician, accused of beating his victim, then tying her in a canvas sack and throwing the body in a secluded spot where it was found the day after Christmas.

Attorneys for Dr. McMillan, who is alleged to have forged a will by Mrs. Appleby in hise favor, have previously indicated they would plead insanity for the defendant.

NEW MODEL FORD CARS NOT BARRED FROM HIGHWAYS

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 9.—(AP)—The new model Ford cars will not be barred from the highways of Connecticut by the motor vehicle department because of their system of braking, Commissioner Robbins B. Stoeckel declared tonight. They are being, and will continue to be registered by the department.

Section 60 of the motor vehicle laws, under the public acts of 1921, provide that every motor vehicle, with the exception of motorcycles, "shall be provided with at least two systems of brakes, each system of which shall be independent from the other. * * *"

The new Ford cars, as well as many others, have but a single set of four-wheel brakes, which are operated in two ways, by both foot petal and hand lever. Commissioner Stoeckel said that he has always interpreted the law to mean that there should be two methods of applying the brakes, but not necessarily two independent sets on the wheels.

"WOMAN PONZI" COMMITTED TO CLINTON REFORMATORY

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Admitting the embezzlement of more than $9,000, Mrs. Margaret Mallay, former rooming house proprietress today was committed to the Clinton Reformatory for Women. The commitment is indeterminate.

Mrs. Mallay, who earned for herself the title of "Woman Ponzi," because of her promised high returns to investors who trusted her with their money, pleaded non-vult to the specific charge of embezzling $400 from Burton Leonard of East Orange.

The police charged that Mrs. Mallay's financial operations had extended over a period of seven years, during which time she is said to have promised clients as high as 80 per cent. on their investments.

ROAD BUILDERS ARE IN SESSION IN CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Good roads from Canada to Chile in the greatest highway project ever planned by world engineers will do more to establish friendly relations between nations of the Western Hemisphere than the combined strength of the world's greatest armies, Jose Rivera, secretary of the official Mexican delegation to the American Road Builders's association, said here today.

Believing that co-operation between the more than 3,000 counties in the United States is the most important factor in planning a great system of good roads, the county officials have formed a separate division to consider their peculiar problems. Their meeting today was the first under the new organization.

Charles M. Upham, Washington, managing director of the American Road Builders' association, was reselected secretary and James H. MacDonald, New Haven, Conn., was again named treasurer at today's meeting.

MARINE PLANE BURNS IN SIGHT OF REBELS

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 9.—(AP)—An American marine corps airplane crashed in flames within sight of the rebel General Augustino Sandino's sharpshooters today.

The plane, piloted by Lieutenant Vernon M. Guyman, developed engine trouble over Sapotillal ridge, scene of the most recent battle between marines and rebels, but was brought down by the flyer without injury to himself or his observer.

SCHULTE HOPES TO START 1,000 CHAIN STORES IN U. S.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Organization of a country-wide chain of retail "5s to $1" stores was announced today by David A. Schulte, who will head the new chain. Schulte said he hoped to expand his interests to include 1,000 stores in the United States soon.

EPIDEMIC OF SMALLPOX IN MIDDLESEX COUNTY

MIDDLETOWN, Jan. 9.—(AP)—With an epidemic of smallpox in a mild form in five towns in Middlesex county, authorities here decided today that the 1,100 add school children of this town must be vaccinated by Friday if their parents wished them to continue at their studies. They will be cared for Wednesday and Thursday at a free clinic.

Twenty-seven cases of the disease had been reported by health authorities today. Cromwell led the list with 16 cases. Portland reported its first case and health authorities said that 50 men had been exposed as the victim worked with them in a tobacco warehouse. A new case in East Hampton, where school, churches, and the theater have been ordered closed for a week, brought the town's total to eight. The free clinic there had vaccinated 1,260 persons in the past 48 hours. Middletown and Chester had one case each and in Chester four other cases were expected as all members in the family have been exposed.

Several manufacturers of Middletown met in the Middlesex hospital tonight to decide with health authorities on the question of vaccinating all of their employes.

ADOPTION ANNULLED FOR "GOOD PERSONAL REASONS"

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 9.—(AP)—On the ground of "good personal reasons," Miss Lydie Roberts Marland, adopted twelve years ago by E. W. Marland, multi-millionaire oil operator, whom she is soon to marry, today had the adoption annulled by common pleas court.

The engagement of Miss Marland, now Miss Robert, became known last week. She is 28 years old and was a niece of Mr. Marland's wife, who died in 1926.

In her petition for annulment the young woman set forth that she was adopted by Mr Marland and his wife, Mary Virginia Marland, in 1916, principally because of her love and affection for her aunt and the desire to live with her. As Mrs. Marland is now dead the principal reason for the adoption no longer exists.

MARINE REINFORCEMENTS EMBARK FOR NICARAGUA

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Marine reinforcements numbering more than 1,000 embarked today for Nicaragua to assist their comrades there in running Augustino Sandino and his followers to earth.

With Major General John A. Lejeune, commandant of the marine corps, and Brigadier General Logan Feland at their head, 800 men sail from Charleston, S. C., on board the cruisers Trenton, Raleigh and Milwaukee. At San Diego, 492 officers and men embarked on the naval ammunition carrier, Nitro, and the mine sweeper Ogiala, at Norfolk, Va., took on 450 men bound for the Central American front. Her departure, however, was delayed by fog.

IN WINDHAM COUNTY JAIL FOR THEFT OF CORD WOOD

WILLIMANTIC, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Alvin Todd, 28, in Tolland county jail because he was unable to pay a fine of $100 and costs for theft of cord wood in Mansfield, was taken from jail and brought to Ashford town court today to face charges of breaking and entering and theft in night season. He was charged with having stolen two small pigs from a farm on November 7, 1925, and two coats on November 10, 1925. He pleaded not guilty. Justice of the Peace Charles H. Barlow bound him over for the next term of Windham superior court in $500 bonds.

Unable to furnish the bonds, he was taken to Windham county jail in Brooklyn.

BOY HIT BY AUTOMOBILE SUES FOR $35,000 DAMAGES

NEW BRITAIN, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Irving Supenant, 17, filed a suit for damages amounting to $35,000 today against Peter Salvatore, of Meriden, who struck him with his automobile while he was riding his bicycle on the Berlin turnpike, April 9, last.

The complaint, filed through the youth's parents, alleges that Irving suffered cuncussion of the brain, a fractured collar bone and permanent injuries to his arm. The action was returnable in superior court in Hartford.

ISSUE OF LINDBERGH STAMPS IN PANAMA

PANAMA, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Philatelists had a red letter day here today. A special issue of Lindbergh stamps consisting of 300,000 two-cent stamps and 150,000 five-cent stamps were sold out in five hours after going on sale.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

LONDON, England, Jan. 9.—(AP)—The gift of $1,000,000, made by George Eastman, head of the Eastman Kodak company, of Rochester, N. Y., to the Royal Free hospital here, has been transferred to the hospital trustees.

ODESSA, Ukraine, Jan. 9.—(AP)—One of the members of a gang arrested by the Gaypayou, Russian guard, Vladimar Dobrovolsky, 23 years of age, has confessed to the killing of the Italian vice consul, Signor Cozzio on December 23.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Art treasures in the Tate gallery, the National Museum of Art which was overflowed in the flood last week, fared better against water ravages than was feared for a time. It became known today that most of the priceless collections escaped with surprisingly little apparent injury.

MELTON MOWBRAY, England, Jan. 9.—(AP)—The Prince of Wales, deprived of his favorite pastime because of foot and mouth disease restrictions banning hunting in Leicestershire, today originated a promising substitute for the entertainment of friends. Wales organized a mounted paper chase course of almost four miles over ideal country, mapped with paper signals affixed to hedges. Thirty riders participated in the novelty.

TWO MEN KILLED AT GRADE CROSSING IN MANCHESTER

MANCHESTER, Jan. 9—(AP)—Leo Hannon, 26, and John Horton, 50, both of this city, were instantly killed when the automobile in which they were riding was struck at a grade crossing here tonight by a Hartford bound New York to Boston express of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad. The men's bodies were found jammed above the cowcatcher of the locomotive, and the machine was thrown up on the tender and carried 50 feet before it slid off and down a ten foot embankment.

The train was stopped about 100 feet beyond the crossing and was backed about a mile to Buckland station where Medical Examiner Leverne H. Holmes removed the bodies and found that both men had died from fractured skulls and other injuries.

Hannon, a clerk in his father's grocery store, had been driving Horton home with some purchases the latter had made. Driving in a heavy fog, Hannon passed over the crossing instead of turning off before reaching it. Discovering his mistake a short distance beyond, he turned around and came back to the crossing, where the express struck the machine. The crossing is known as the Callahan crossing and is located in the western section of Manchester.

Horton is survived by a widow and five children. He was in the employ of Hackett brothers, a tobacco firm.

Hannon was single and is survived by his father, stepmother and three sisters, one of whom, Mrs. Clair Cummins, lives in Stafford Springs.

NO FURTHER OVERFLOW OF THAMES RIVER EXPECTED

LONDON, Jan. 9 (AP)—Thousands of persons paraded the banks of the Thames through London this afternoon at high tide and watched the swollen stream as it lapped near the top of the reinforced defenses, then retired without renewing the violent torrent of Saturday, when fourteen persons were drowned.

For many hours gangs of men had been at work piling bags of sand along the threatened district of Grosvenor road, and as a protection for the famous Tate gallery. At three o'clock in the morning the tide reached its flood and receded without damage, and the residents along the Thames side went off to rest, with the knowledge that they would not be menaced by the waters for another 12 hours. And again the danger passed.

The port of London authority announced this evening that no further overflow need be expected, if the rain and wind held off. The river, it is believed, will subside to normal after tomorrow.

STUDENTS MEMBERS OF A "THRILL BANDIT GANG"

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 9—(AP)—Howard Wandrei, 18, and Wendell Whaley, 19, University of Minnesota students and alleged members of a "thrill bandit" gang, pleaded guilty to burglary in district court here today and were sentenced to indeterminate terms in the state reformatory.

Wandrei, who admitted that he was leader of the gang of four boys, was sentenced to a term not to exceed five years, and Whaley to not to exceed 18 months.

Whaley told Judge Hugo O. Hanft that he joined the gang through a desire to develop an interesting personality as Wandrei had told him that one must have a past to be interesting. He said they decided to embark on a crime career "just for the thrill of it."

HAD BEEN MAID TO THREE WIVES OF PRESIDENTS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9—(AP)—Death today ended the white house services of Miss Katherine Wynne, who had been the personal maid to three wives of presidents. She died at the George Washington hospital of pneumonia.

Miss Wynn came to the white house in the latter days of the Wilson administration and served Mrs. Harding and Mrs. Coolidge in addition to Mrs. Wilson.

ANOTHER TEAPOT DOME INQUIRY IS ORDERED

COMMITTED SUICIDE ON HIS MOTHER'S GRAVE

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Jan. 9.—(AP)—With a note in his pocket addressed to his wife saying he was "sick of living," the body of Frank B. Wood, 40, was found on his mother's grave in Oak Grove cemetery this afternoon. He had taken poison.

22 Miners Killed By Gas Explosion

In Mine Near West Frankfort, Ill.—Bodies Burned and Mutilated.

WEST FRANKFORT, Ills., Jan. 9—Twenty-two miners were killed outright in a gas explosion which wrecked a one [illegible] mine No. 18 here today. [illegible] one bodies, burned and mutilated by the force of the blast were found late today and identified by numbers on the safety lamps attached to their clothing.

The bodies were located by mine rescue teams from Herrin, Valier and Benton. The teams working with gas masks, cut their way through fallen walls more than a mile from the shaft. Officials of the mine said tonight that all employes had been accounted for.

The cause of the explosion was undetermined tonight and state mine inspectors under the personal direction of A. D. Lewis, director of the Illinois department of mines and minerals were conducting an investigation. The position and condition of the dead miners indicated that death was caused by the violence of the explosion although gas was present in the mine when rescue workers descended.

The bodies were brought to the surface and preparations made to place them in the morgue here where the relatives who have been barred from mine property will claim them.

Mine officials refused to discuss the disaster tonight and newspapermen and photographers were ordered to leave the mine premises. An airplane bringing reporters and photographers from Chicago landed near the mouth of the mine aroused the ire of several employes of the mine who threatened to demolish the machine. Bert Brown, president of the local miners' union interceded and the newspapermen succeeded in preventing damage to the plane.

Eight miners were brought out of the mine alive and uninjured. They were Bill Reed, Alex Hamlin, Tony Strausz, Charles Peebles, Will Allen, Ruel Parks, Chares Mitchel and James Bean. Reed crawled out of an air shaft while Hamlin and strausz were in another part of the mine and built a protecting wall to prevent the deadly gas from reaching them. W. E. Wade, another rescued miner was suffering from the effects of gas.

The explosion occurred at 7.45 a. m. in a section of the mine 600 feet below the surface and about a mile from the bottom of the shaft.

More than 600 men were at work in the mine of whom about 100 were in the section where the explosion occurred. The cause was not determined.

NEW LONDON FAVORED FOR STEAMSHIP TERMINAL

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Speaker Longworth and the Connecticut congressional delegation were luncheon guests this noon at the capitol of C. L. Bard, former general manager of the New Haven railroad. Barlow wanted an opportunity to explain to them the proposed establishment of an exclusively passenger ocean service with some New England port other than Boston as its starting point. Details are not available. New London was one of the ports favored by Barlow, who believes fast steamers not carrying freight could make the crossing in four days, and would attract passengers who could take trains direct to the wharf, avoiding delay by crossing cities in transfer.

Providence and Portland, Me., have also been mentioned as ports.

It is understood Barlow will ask to bring before congress the proposition that the government assumes 75 per cent of the cost of such steamers, thus giving it a lien on them, although not taking part in the management of the line.

THEFTS FROM EASTERN STEAMSHIP LINES, INC.

BOSTON, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Several secret indictments were reported by the Suffolk grand jury today after an investigation to reported thefts of large sums of money from Eastern Steamship Lines, Inc.

George W. Gordon, former auditor for the concern, his wife and several others, were arrested recently on charges of larceny or receiving stolen goods. Among them is Mrs. Rae Hessell, of Detroit, a sister of Mrs. Gordon, who surrendered in the Michigan city last Saturday after it was found that $60,000 of the funds alleged to have been stolen from the steamship company had been deposited in her name in Detroit banks.

Henry Ford Planning Plane Trip to Brazil

To Inspect a Rubber Plantation Which His Automobile Company Will Develop.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Henry Ford announced today that he is planning an airplane trip to Brazil to inspect a rubber plantation which his automobile company will develop as a private enterpise.

While he did not elaborate on the announcement, or set a date for the flight, his son, Edsel Ford, said the plantation is about 800 miles from Para up the Tarajos river, a branch of the Amazon. The younger Ford said the rubber development would not be conducted as part of a combine but purely as a private undertaking in connection with the Ford industry.

Ford's announcement was made at his motor show at Madison Square Garden during an interview in which he was asked if her were a billionaire. He waved the question aside, saying, "I don't know about that."

During the interview, held amidst exhibits showing his automobiles in their various stages of manufacture from the raw materials, Ford gave his views on business prosperity, automobile production, aviation, the presidential outlook and anything else a squadron of about 20 reporters could get him to talk about.

He expects to show his exhibition tomorrow to his friend, Thomas A. Edison, the inventor, whom he came east to visit, and on Wednesday, he said, would call on the "Wizard of Orange." During his three-day stay, he plans also to visit the annual national automobile show in Grand Central place, where his competitors are displaying their new models.

He said that he is working on the development of a Diesel engine for airplanes, because he realizes the great future of aviation and the importance of the perfection of the Diesel engine for their motive power.

Edsel Ford explained that the Diesel airplane engine is at present planned only on paper, but that a "sample" engine is to be built and tested shortly.

The elder Ford declared himself an aviation enthusiast but said he did not believe the airplane would supplant the automobile.

Asked about automobile production and the price cutting war among producers of the less expensive cars, Mr. Ford said:

"At present we are manufacturing 500 cars aday, but this month we expect to reach production of 1,000 a day. That is the key-production. After that, you can go ahead and make as many as you want.

"In don't know anything about the price war. We set our price and go ahead with that. What the competitors do will have no effect on me. As to how we set our price, we make it as low as possible and then go ahead on that basis.

"I don't see anything wrong with the prospects for 1928. I don't see anything wrong with anything and there is no reason why prosperity should not continue.

"Retire? I retire every night. As to retiring from business, I haven't concentrated on that yet."

Mr. Ford posed with his son at the little lathe which the magnate purchased in 1894 to wheel himself to world fame. The lathe was set up in the foreground of an imitation little red brick building labelled "56 Bagley avenue," the Detroit street address of Ford's old factory.

Among the exhibits is the all metal plane in which Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's mother made her flight to Mexico City last month.

FORD HAS ORDER FOR 727,000 NEW AUTOMOBILES

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Henry Ford has orders for 727,000 of the new automobiles he introduced to the public only five weeks ago.

The figure, said to represent an unprecedented sales performance, were disclosed by Edsel Ford today at the Ford industrial exposition at Madison Square Garden.

Of the 727,000 orders, Edsel said, 537,000 cars are for the earliest possible delivery, with each order secured by a cash deposit of $25 or more. One hundred thousand, he said, were secured by deposits of less than $25, and 90,000 were being bought on the Ford $5 a week installment-savings plan.

Foreign sales have not yet been tabulated, Edsel added.

COL. LINDBERGH GLORIFIED AS HE ENDS GOOD WILL FLIGHT AT PANAMA

PANAMA, Jan. 9—(AP)—Another triumph awaited the United States' good-will ambassador, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, when he landed on the field here today named in his honor Campo Lindbergh. He came sailing through space from the direction of Balboa, and settled down to earth at 1:51 in the afternoon. It had taken him a little more than four hours to span the distance between San Jose, Costa Rica, and the capital of Panama, 310 miles.

The flying field was well thronged with spectators who immediately made a rush for the Spirit of St. Louis, which taxied swiftly to the grandstand, where President Chiari and numerous high officials of the government, Colonel Harry Burgess, acting-governor of the canal zone, and Brigadier General William S. Graves, commandant of the U. S. Army, awaited him.

President Chiari took the youthful aviator cordially by the hand, saying to him: "Colonel Lindbergh, others have secured the liberty of America. You, with your ability of shortening distance, are establishing a basis of fraternity and are bringing together all the American countries on a basis of real understanding."

The president then conferred upon him the national medal.

Through the streets of the city Colonel Lindbergh proceeded atop an automobile. Crowds lined the roads and streets for a distance of seven miles and cheered the aviator as he passed. Normal school girls in white dresses and Panama hats, school children in various picturesque attire, firemen in red shirts and white knickerbockers formed a solid wall against the Avenida Central, Panama's main street.

All the shops were closed, and the city was in holiday dress, with flags flying and bunting adding color to the sceng. At the Cathedral Plaza, where the ancient churches stand half hidden by royal palms, Colonel Lindbergh was presented with the golden key of the city by the Alcalde, Mario Galindo. The national band played the anthems of the two republics from a flower bedecked kiosk.

After the parade, Colonel Lindbergh was escorted to the American legation, which once was the residence of Count de Lesseps, of canal fame, later purchased by the United States. The American charge d'effaires, John F. Martin, will be the flier's host during his stay in Panama.

It is nearly a month—December, to be exact—since Colonel Lindbergh took off from Bolling field, Washington, and he completed his good will circuit to Mexico and the Central American republics without an accident of any kind, his only delay in the 3,800 mile aerial journey was on the long and dangerous flight to Mexico City, when he lost his way for a few hours in the mountain regions beyond Tampico. His air journey has carried him thus far successively to Mexico City, Guetemala City, Belize, San Salvador, Tegucigalpa, Managua, San Jose, and finally to Panama City.

ADMINISTRATION INQUIRY OPPOSED BY DEM. SENATORS

In the Matter of the S-4 Disaster the Democratic Senators Are Fearful of Surrendering the Power of the Senate in Investigating Matters Coming Under Administration of Executive Departments—Senate Naval Committee Has Deferred Further Consideration of the Question Until Thursday.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—(AP)—The administration's plan for an investigation of the S-4 disaster by a special presidential commission, which was approved Saturday by the house, encountered such determined opposition today in the senate naval committee that further consideration of it was deferred until Thursday.

While approving the naming by the president of a commission to study improved methods for the protection of submarines and their crews, leading democrats on the committee objected to what they termed the senate abdicating its own function of investigating matters coming under administration of executive departments.

Senator Swanson, of Virginia, the ranking democratic member, and Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, were particularly outspoken in their criticism of Secretary Wilbur for suggesting to congress that a special commission and not a committee of the house or senate inquire into the sinking of the S-4.

The Virginia senator declared that senate investigations of the lessing of the naval oil reserves and the administration of the department of justice under Harry B. Daugherty had been productive of much good and that there was no reason why a senate committee instead of a commission named by the president should not inquire into the S.4 disaster which cost the lives of forty officers and men.

Chairman Hale and Senator Shortridge, republican, California, let the fight for the adoption of Hale's resolution authorizing the president to appoint the commission and appropriating $20,000 for its expenses.

Senator King, democrat, Utah, who is not a member of the naval committee, has requested to be heard by it Thursday in favor of a senate inquiry, not alone into the sinking of the submarine, but also into other naval disasters and the general condition of the naval establishment.

While the senate naval committee was considering the resolution of inquiry, the bodies of two officers who lost their lives when the coast guard destroyer Paulding rammed and sank the S-4 were buried in Arlington National cemetery with the highest military honors. They were those of Lieut. Commander R. K. Jones, commanding officer, and Lieut. Joseph McGinley.

PRESIDENT'S MARINE PLAN OPPOSED IN THE SENATE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9—(AP)—Challenging the demand of President Coolidge for disposal of the merchant marine into private hands, the senate commerce committee today ordered reported a bill proposing a huge replacement program for it under government control.

The measure, sponsored by Senator Jones, republican, Washington, an administration stalwart and chairman of committee, gained the support of both republican and democrats on the committee. Senator Copeland, democrat, New York, alone announcing he reserved the right to file a minority report.

Coming from the committee early in the session, the bill is certain to get consideration and force a showdown on the controversial shipping question.

The measure reported today would require the unanimous consent of the shipping board for the sale of any vessels hereafter and would authorize an appropriation for an adequate replacement program of government vessels. While no figure was named in the bill, the committee understands the shipping board has drafted a program calling ultimately for expenditure of $200,000,000 for new ships.

ROW IN THE SENATE OVER REVISION OF THE TARIFF

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9—(AP)—Informed that the administration would not sanction a revision of the tariff act for at least two years, the senate nevertheless gave this subject its first real airing in years today and indulged in an old fashioned row of oratory on the resolution of Senator McMaster, republican, South Dakota, declaring for a general reduction of import schedules.

The move of the South Dakota republican stirred the ire of Senator Smoot, republican, Utah, who quoted President Coolidge in defending the high rates of the present act against the attacks from the farm bloc republicans and the incessant jibes of the democrats, who listened with obvious joy to the republicans quarreling over the tariff.

A vote on the McMaster resolution finally went over until tomorrow as Senators Smoot and McMaster became entangled in a lengthy argument developing from an accusation by the South Dakotan that Senator Smoot was interested in high tariff because of his interests in sugar factories.

Senator Smoot replied he did have 400 shares in a South Dakota sugar factory which he offered to sell McMaster for $1.50 a share but the South Dakota senator declined with the remark that the people of his state wanted Mr. Smoot to remain in business there.

Regardless of the vote on the McMaster resolution the senate is powerless to act in actually reducing rates until after the house which has the sole right under the constitution to initiate such legislation does so.

TELLS OF COLLISION THAT SANK THE SUBMARINE S-4

BOSTON, Jan. 9.—(AP)—A picture of the collision that drove the submarine S-4 to the bottom off Provincetown harbor on December 17, was painted today for the naval court of inquiry investigating the disaster by two eye-witnesses. They were Lieut. Commander John S. Bayliss, commander of the coast guard destroyer Paulding, which rammed the submarine, and Ensign G. M. Phannemiller, officer of the deck on the Paulding.

In closing his description of the crash, with its "terrible grinding and ripping of metal," which tore the bottom out of the Paulding back of her stem and wrecked the hapless S-4, Commander Bayliss closed his testimony with an address to the court in which he referred to the irony of his position as a coast guard officer concerned in a disastrous collision.

"I feel deeply concerned over this accident as my whole life has been devoted to saving life and property at sea," he said. "When a thing of this kind happens, the first in my experience, I cannot help but feel it deeply."

ADOLESCENT INSANITY WILL BE HICKMAN DEFENSE

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 9.—(AP)—A plea that William Edward Hickman, confessed kidnaper and slayer of aMrian Parker, in Los Angeles, is a victim of dementia praecox, or adolescent insanity, will be offered in the youth's defense, Jerome K. Walsh, counsel for Hickman, indicated here today.

Walsh said he had been informed by a Los Angeles alienist of wide experience that it was his opinion Hickman was suffering from dementia praecox.

The attorney indicated that Hickman's defense would be conducted along lines himilar to that employed by Clarence Darrow in the Loeb-Leopold case in Chicago. Dementia praecox was the plea offered in behalf of the slayers of Bobby Franks.

An attempt will be made, Walsh said, to produce evidence that the slayer underwent a mental transformation in the last two years. The attorney said Hickman, who has pleaded not guilty by reason of insanity, had told him of being gripped by a desire to dissect a human body.

CAPONE, CHICAGO GANG LEADER NOW IN MIAMI

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 9—(AP)—"Scarface" Al Capone, Chicago gang leader, is in Miami and "if he is here for a good time and behaves himself he can stay as long as he likes," Police Chief H. Leslie Quigg announced today.

Eight friends were said to have been with Capone when he arrived but their local headquarters was somewhat in doubt. One report said the party was registered at a downtown hotel, but the register did not reveal such guests. Another was to the effect that Capone had taken a bungalow in Miami Beach and planned to open negotiations for the purchase of a night club here.

JACKSON DAY DINNER MAY UNITE FACTIONS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—(AP)—The traditional Jackson day dinner, to be held here Thursday night under the auspices of the democratic national committee, is expected by many party leaders to signalize the healing of the 1924 split between the Smith and McAdoo factions.

While Governors Smith, of New York, and Donahey, of Ohio, have declined invitations, a number of the men mentioned as outstanding contenders for the 1928 presidential nomination will address the gathering of 1,200 dmocrats. William G. McAdoo will speak, but not as a candidate.

One of those who predicted today that the dinner would be productive of party harmony was Representative Oldfield, of Arkansas, chairman of the democratic congressional campaign committee. As he sees it "the speakers will not speak for themselves but for the party."

GAS MASK AND JACKET FLOATS FROM SUNKEN SUB

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., Jan. 9—(AP)—An oil-stained gas mask and a heavy jacket worn by submarine men in bad weather, floated to the surface and were recovered today when divers, working upon the sunken submarine S-4, pried open the hatch leading to the motor compartment and entered that section of the ship.

Although the divers believe more bodies of members of the crew may be found in the motor compartment none was recovered today. Diver Thomas Campbell entered the compartment but was able to remain inside only about 10 minutes when he reported difficulty with his air lines caused by the formation of snow from the excessive moisture in the air. Operations then were suspended for the day.

H. H. BRONSON COMMITS SUICIDE BY SHOOTING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Jan. 9—Harvey H. Bronson, 39, proprietor of the Nathan Hale drug store and prominent business man of this city for the past ten years committed suicide by shooting himself in the right temple with a .35 calibre automatic revolver at his home 84 Walnut street shortly before 5 o'clock this afternoon. The only other occupant of the house at the time was his mother, Mrs. Mary Bronson, who was startled by the shot and ran to the side of the wounded man who had been sitting in another room. The steel-jacketed bullet entered the vicinity of the temple and came out on the left side of the head. The jacket of the bullet was found on the floor. Mrs. Beatrice Bronson, wife of the wounded man, was called home and the ambulance summoned to take Bronson to St. Joseph's hospital where he died shortly before midnight.

The police were notified and an investigation was conducted by Officer Arthur Hurley. Notice was also given to Medical Examiner Dr. Louis I. Mason.

As near as could be determined no reason for his act could be advanced by relatives and friends. Mrs. Bronson and others, who were intimate with his financial condition, gave assurance that monetary difficulties could not have been the motive and the general belief is that he was actuated by temperamental despondency. Mr. Bronson came to this city about 11 years ago as manager of the Bay State Co. drug store after that concern had purchased the store formerly conducted by Samuel and Ernest P. Chesbro. He met with notable success in this capacity and carried the well wishes of a host of friends about a year and a half ago when he bought the drug business of the late Charles DeVillers. This venture proved successful and he later removed into the Nathan Hale hotel building where he maintained one of the most modern and best appointed drug stores in this section. Friends claim that within the past 24 hours Mr. Bronson remarked that he was satisfied with business conditions and it is claimed that when he appeared on the street about an hour before the shooting that he was cheerful and apparently in normal health. Besides his wife and mother there are two children in the Bronson family, Fern, aged 15, and John aged 10.

NOANK

The Leather Pushers basketball team from the Whaling city came to the village by automobile Saturday night and played the fighting Crescents before a god sized crowd. It was the first time the Leather Pushers were here this season, in their white and orange suits. The Crescents had blue and red suits. The Crescents picked the west side so the Leather Pushers were at the east side. The first quarter got going at a fast rate, the Crescents getting the jump on the White and Orange boys and putting the ball in the hoop. C. Patterson's left hand was working like a machine gun, his short shots put his team ahead so at the end of the first quarter the score was Crescents 13, Leather Pushers 8. The fans were seeing the best pass work by any team in that hall; it was snappy play, with short passes. The first half ended, Crescents 25, Leather Pushers 14. Coach Billie Crane was happy over their good work, like a child with a Christmas watch. The sound of the timer's whistle called the teams back for the third quarter with a fresh man in for the Crescents, Stretch Morrison. Quick Smith's floor work with the ball and Dash A. Patterson's speed kept the fighting Crescents in front. The third quarter was soon over, Crescents 30, Leather Pushers 20. In the final quarter, the cheering section with their team colors in front of them, gave the team yell, "Hold them Crescents!" and with many thrills during the last few minutes, the fans standing and giving both teams a big hand. Speed Carson made a beautiful shot for the Half Moon boys of the fishing village, while a one-hand shot by the center never touched the net, the best shot since the days of the old Nuggets in 1912. The referee was following the ball every minute and kept the battle going at full speed. Leather Pushers have been beating some of the head ones in that league during the last two weeks, but the fighting Crescents sent them back to New London on the short end of the score, Noank 42, Leather Pushers 26. Referee Fitzpatrick lost two pounds with his fast foot-work and speed with the ball. Capt. Lefty C. Patterson was high scorer for the evening with 10 field goals for 20 points. Dash A. Patterson made 5 field goals, Quick Smith was there with his floor work for the Crescents, Lightning Risch got only 10 points and Red O'Grady with 10 more for the Leather Pushers were the stars. Referee Fitzpatrick, Timer J. Bracci, Scorer Balestracci, attendance 90.

Billie Morris, of Essex, was visiting Noank friends over the week-end.

Frank Eldreigh was playing right wing on All-Stars team of Noank against Mystic Tigers at Bergman Ice pond, in a game of hockey Saturday afternoon. As it was warm for January and the ice was soft, it was some battle. The score was 1 to 1. Eldreigh was going like lightning up near Mystic goal when his skate hit a stone in the ice. He fell on his shoulder and broke his collar bone. His team mates picked him up and had an automobile take him to a doctor in town where the bone was set. He will be laid up from his school books for two or three weeks. The game was called a tie by Referee Frank Pray.

WESTERLY

BIG NEW 97-FT. LOCOMOTIVE MAKES BRIEF STATION STOP

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Jan. 9—A new freight locomotive, "No. 3553," of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, one of ten recently purchased by the New Haven road, running light, made the Westerly waiting station stop east-bound on its first run over this Providence division about 2 p. m. today. This monster iron horse rolled along without as much fuss as some baby carriages make and stopped at the west end of the iron fence dividing the east and west-bound main line tracks. While two railroad men got out of the cab and crawled under the engine with oil cups, a third leaned over the mogul from the top of the iron fence to apply his oil cup. At express train speed the locomotive is capable of hauling 100 loaded freight cars, is 97 feet long and weighs 131 tons. Its huge dimensions were appreciated as it slowly crossed the Pawcatuck river and Canal street bridges west of the Westerly station.

FISH UP ROCKING HORSE THOUGHT TO BE DEAD BODY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Jan. 9—When Capt. S. Eugene Larkin reported to Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown that he had seen the wooden hobby horse on the shore at Thompson's cove, which Pawcatuck river fishermen had described as possibly the "body" of a girl seen by A. F. Lawton washing over the Stillmanville dam, Chief Brown, who is also one of Westerly's harbormasters detailed "sailors" of his department to secure it. Officer Leroy H. Norman on Monday morning visited the cove and returned with the filly which was placed against the door at police headquarters leading to the cell room. It was a sad relic of its former greatness which may even have been magnified as the light struck it through the river waters. Parts of the head and legs were missing and at present it is bald.

A postponed meeting of the S. D. B. society of Pawcatuck Seventh-day Baptist church, Mrs. Helen T. JAMES CRUZE
Director of Feature Photoplays, writes:

"In the direction of any of my big pictures, and especially during the filming of the Covered Wagon, the constant use of my voice demands that I keep it in first-class condition. As a cigarette smoker it was necessary that I find a cigarette which I could smoke without any chance of throat irritation or cough. After trying them all, I decided on Luckies. They are mild and mellow—which both protects the throat and gives real smoke enjoyment."

James Cruze

The Cream of the Tobacco Crop

"The growth of LUCKY STRIKE Cigarettes is a wonderful thing but there is a reason, I know, because I buy the Tobacco for LUCKY STRIKE. I buy 'The Cream of the Crop,' that mellow, sweet smoking Tobacco that the Farmer justly describes as I have described it above. The quality of LUCKY STRIKE Cigarettes is telling. It is natural that the brand should show the tremendous growth that it is showing today."

DANIELSON

DANIELSON HAS 44 FIRES FOR TOTAL LOSS OF $3470

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Jan. 9.—There were 44 alarms for fires in Danielson during 1927, the record of Chief A. P. Woodward of the fire department shows. The vast majority of these were minor fires and called for only still or telephone alarms. Of special interest is that the total fire losses for the year were only $3470, an exceptional fine record of freedom from destructive damage.

The record of fires follows:

OFFICERS OF DONIELSON TRUST CO. ARE RE-ELECTED

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Jan. 9.—This morning the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Danielson Trust company was held at the banking rooms here, with upwards of 80 per cent. of the stock represented. His annual reports were presented by Clifford H. Starkweather, secretary and treasurer of the institution. These reports showed that 1927 was an especially successful year and that a very substantial sum was added to the surplus and profits account.

The following were elected directors: J. Arthur Atwood, Dr. W. W. Adams, Moosup; Sidney W. Bard, Frederick E. Bitgood, W. Irving Bullard, Herman M. Coulter, N. Horne Greig, Dayville; Frederick A. Jacobs, D. E. Jette, Angus Park, Hanover; Frank T. Preston, Alfred L. Reed, Clifford H. Starkweather, Everett T. Tillinghast, F. W. Tillinghast, Central Village; A. Putnam Woodward.

At a subsequent meeting of the directors the following officers were in each instance re-elected for another year: President, J. Arthur Atwood; vice president, Frederick A. Jacobs; secretary-treasurer, Clifford H. Starkweather; assistant secretary-treasurer, Harry E. Magoon.

The directorate is representative of banking, manufacturing and mercantile interests not only in Danielson, but in several nearby communities.

Something unique in the way of a home entertainment was the Twelfth Night party given by Henry Flagg at the home of E. O. Wood, on Reynolds street, where he is resident. Musically inclined persons were the guests. It was a costume party and some really gorgeous effects were obtained. Mr. Flagg appeared as "Henry the XXIII." E. O. Wood appeared as the Archbishop of Cranberry. Miss Ella Nash was crown bearer and Howard Sands and Walter Ainsworth, pages at the coronation ceremony. Others in attendance were dressed to represent operas or musical comedies—King Dodo, Queen of Sheba, Prince of Slavia, Herodia, Princess Pat, Student Prince, Aida, Cleopatra and others. A test for the guests was to guess which each of the others represented. Then there were musical games and a musical art gallery. In tests on these, Dr. William Levin and Miss Lucile Caron won the awards, while consolation remembrances went to Edward Bacon and Miss Marguerite Caron.

One of the fine things of the evening was the playing by the Flagg instrumental quartet—made up of Mr. Flagg, Mrs. Sidney H. Perry, Miss Lucille Caron and Dr. Levin.

In addition to those mentioned, others at the party were J. H. Butler, Miss Thelma Cogan, Sidney H. Perry, Miss Edith Fuller, Mrs. Dorothy Gale, Miss Marjorie I. Gaffney, Mrs. William Levin, Lindner Gallup, Miss Mildred Burton and Merrill Gallup.

Refreshments were served.

Drills of the Service Battery that were to have been resumed Tuesday night have been postponed to Jan. 17th.

At a special transferred meeting for the installation of officers of Danielson Chapter, No. 77, Order of the Eastern Star, the retiring matron, Ethel G. Ingalls, presided. Visitors were present from Moosup and South Woodstock. After the regular business meeting, the following officers were installed by Past Matron Ella B. Chase, with Ethel G. Ingalls acting as marshall and retiring chaplain, Ethel King, acting as chaplain:

Worthy matron, Lillian M. Michie; worthy patron, Kenneth Michie; assistant matron, Beatrice B. Beckett; secretary, Sidney W. Bard; treasurer, Miriam A. Boomhower; conductress, Dorothy M. Wilde; assistant conductress, Winifred Carver; chaplain, Ella B. Chase; organist, Mabel G. Leavens; Ada, Nettie S. Clisbee; Ruth, Marie Taylor; Esther, Florence Marland; Martha, Calista Gardner; Electa, Ellen Stockton; Warder, Ida F. Blanchard; sentinel, F. O. Armington.

The retiring matron, Ethel A. Ingalls, was escorted to the east and presented a past maton's jewel, by the assistant matron, Beatrice Beckett, Mrs. Ingalls thanking the chapter. Later refreshments of oyster stew, crackers, cake and coffee were served by Katherine K. Bard and Lillie Ashworth.

Thomas Jessup, of New York, was a visitor here today. Mr. Jessup formerly was with the Connecticut Mills company in Danielson.

Wednesday evening the Hi-Y and Tri-Y see to hold meetings at the Parish house of the Westfield Congregational church. It is anticipated that Secretary C. E. Hill of the Windham County Y. M. C. A. and also a prospective leader will be in attendance.

The Taunton plant of the Connecticut Mills company, where yarn for the Danielson plant was manufactured, has been closed.

Playing a week-end game at Millville, Mass., the Danielson Town team was defeated, 55 to 33, at basketball.

The Tatapochon Camp Fire Girls held a meeting at the Congregational church this evening.

There are just over 1450 listings in the Danielson division in the telephone directories that came into use on Sunday.

Tenement of six rooms and bath to rent; all improvements. Call 477.—adv.

As giving a line on some of the processes whereby southern towns and cities are able to tell northern manufacturers about their "low tax rates," it will be of interest to Danielson people to know that one man who recently went from here to Alabama is requiered to pay tuition for his two children and buy the books they are using in school. A system like that in Killingly—God forbid—would come close to cutting this town's tax rate in half.

George S. Lormaine, of Central Falls, was a visitor with friends here today.

From Deland, Fla., comes the information that Dr. and Mrs. George M. Burroughs and their daughter, Vivian, are pleasantly located in that city and enjoying their winter's stay in the south.

Miss Marion D. Chollar, Miss Frances W. Danielson and Burdette C. Hopkins have been named a committee to nominate officers of the Westfield Congregational church for this year.

Not by way of hurrying them, or the like, but it is a fact that there are 1200 people in this town who up to today failed to pay their personal taxes, and this would indicate that hundreds of them are going to be called upon to pay an extra assessment.

In perfecting the line of buff wheels they are manufacturing at their plant here, the Williamsville Buff company are having a special line of material woven for them.

L. S. Ingalls said today that an effort is to be made to revive the Danielson Rod and Gun club to real activity during 1928. The club has good shooting quarters on the Dyer place, south of Danielson, and is a medium through which much can be done to help hunting and fishing conditions hereabouts.

Persons who delayed in getting automobile registrations prior to the first of the year are in a considerable number of instances waiting for some they have ordered since that time, an evidence that the rush to get them out is still on at Hartford.

PUTNAM

TOO MUCH PARKING ON HIGH SCHOOL LAWN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Jan. 9—The following announcement has been made concerning the parking on the lawn at the Putnam high school: Hereafter all persons finding it necessary to park their cars at any time near the Putnam high school building are requested to refrain from using the lawn for parking purposes. For the protection of the high school grounds no parking on the lawn can be permitted in the future.

This order has been made necessary because so many cars have used the space for their parking that the lawn was being badly cut.

Members of the Woman's Relief corps are knitting afghans for crippled and gassed World War veterans at the Rutland Heights hospital at Rutland, Mass. Through a misunderstanding it was announced recently that the comfortables were for veterans at the Soldiers' Home at Noroton.

There are many World War veterans at the Rutland Heights institution who are badly crippled and suffering from the effects of being gassed but who are able to sit in wheel chairs while they are convalescing and are in need of just such warm wraps as are being made by the Putnam women.

For this very necessary work, the general public are asked to help furnish the yarn. Old sweaters and any available yarn can be used in the knitting of these squares. All who are willing to furnish yarn are asked to communicate with Mrs. Hattie Miller, Woodstock avenue, telephone 607.

Enumeration for schools shows a decrease in the town of Putnam. In 1926 the roll showed 7,971 and in 1927 there were but 7,805 pupils enrolled. The enumeration in the schools at Pomfret also showed a decrease, 1,387 as against 1,409 of the previous year.

The annual church meeting and supper at the Second Congregational church will be held on Thursday evening of this week at the church dining rooms. This meeting is for members of the church only and supper will be served them.

Palace Theatre

Today will be the last opportunity for those who have not already seen the picture, to witness a showing of Man, Woman and Sin, John Gilbert's latest success, which has been breaking all records for attendance at the Palace theatre this week. Gilbert has the role of a typical American youngster, who starts as a mailing room boy in a newspaper, becomes a reporter—and only loses his practical angle when he falls in love—which after all is the most practical thing about the role. One does just that thing—when one is young and the girl is pretty—and Jeanne Eagels is all of that.

The new story is an ultra-modern romance laid in a newspaper office—in a big Washington daily. The thrill of news gathering in the national capital is embellished with a startling plot and a remarkable romance, in which Gilbert plays a role that shows another side of his extraordinary versatility. Monta Bell, both author and director of the play, was himself once a newspaper man in Washington, hence his production has the echo of the man who knows his subject.

The audience is taken into a newspaper office and shown the whole business of publishing a paper, from gathering the news to printing it, in a series of scenes that are graphic and technically marvelous. A spectacular detail is a reproduction of the great Embassy Ball, largest social affair in America, staged on a gorgeous scale.

Gilbert plays an American youth who by sheer work rises from poverty to the position of a newspaper reporter on a big daily—and, his first love affair is with the pretty society editor, a role played by Jeanne Eagels, famous stage star of "Rain," who makes her screen debut in the picture. Miss Eagel's fame as an actress has long since been established; needless to say she plays her role with extreme artistry.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Strand Theatre

"A Broadway Lady," starring Evelyn Brent is the kind of a picture that will send you home with a smile and give you happy memories for months. The glitter of sparkling costumes, the glamor of radiant girlhood, the romance of the footlights, the beautiful dancing of a perfectly trained chorus, the Tang and Tinsel of New York theatrical life, sweeping scenes and smashing situations that follow one another pell mell in this vivid characterization of life behind the scenes. In the supporting cast are Theodore Von Eltz, Bob Westbrook and Marjorie Bonner.

"Wrong Querie" is a complete and interesting story of our weekly series.

We also show a comedy that is one continuous laugh from start to finish.

The World Almanac

The World Almanac for 1928 has been issued with Richard H. Lyman as editor for the sixth year. It is incomparable and indispensable. It is handy and convenient. It is full of facts and figures, yet concise. In its pages are a million facts. Its flow of readily accessible information is always on tap and inexhaustible. It is necessary for the home, the schoolroom, office, factory and farm, and for the traveling bag.

Election returns of the past, and election issues of the future will be found in its pages. One of them is the enforcement of the national prohibition act.

The record for the great air flights of 1927 — Lindbergh's, Chamberlin's, Byrd's, Brock and Schlee's—are there; also the great floods and a day-by-day jotting down of all other important happenings as well.

The government figures, rosters and articles have been revised by government officials, and the compact information about the states of the Union and about the foreign countries has been brought up to date. As for sports, here are the outstanding records of the year in all branches.

The World Almanac is published by The New York World. Price 60 cents, postpaid.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Bread Theatre

A picture among pictures! One of the year's greatest and a production which reflects glory—the permanent kind—on all those who participated in its making.

We showed these praises upon "7th Heaven," this week's attraction at the Bread, realizing full well how formidable is the roster of big pictures which have preceded it. Without further ado and with even less hesitation do we hasten to tell all who would stop to read that a picture, outstanding in its merit and superb in its entertainment qualities, is on the way.

The most human of love stories courses through "7th Heaven." It is a simple tale of simple folks told with nary a flourish. But how it has been developed! Frank Borzage, by his directorial efforts, projects himself definitely into the ranks of producing geniuses. He has earned it.

For on the screen, you see flashed before you a delicate intermingling of pathos and comedy, relieved by quaint, wholesome and homely philosophies of Chico "that very remarkable fellow" who worked in the sewers but made his home near the stars.

Of "7th Heaven" this will be said:

It brought to the screen firmament a new dramatic star who will long be in the ascendancy. There has been nothing finer done by way of performance than the Diane of Janet Gaynor. This young girl portrays a role of many opportunities in a distinctive fashion which would do credit to one far beyond her in years. And the Chico of Charles Farrell! This young and as yet generally unknown actor must have realized that he had a great chance to implant himself among the luminaries. He has done that. His unusually meritorious efforts in "7th Heaven" assure him a place with great artists.

RESTORING THE C. V.

It is quite natural that Providence should be interested in the situation thrust upon the Central Vermont road by the recent flood in Vermont, for it was through interests connected with that road that the attempt was made to build a line from Palmer to Providence. This venture failed and a large loss was sustained, but an even greater loss resulted from the destruction of bridges and roadbed by the Vermont waters.

Reference is made by the Providence Journal to the financial plans of the Central Vermont, now in the hands of receivers, for the restoration of transportation facilities and it is stated, "the petition of the receivers to negotiate a $5,000,000 loan has been granted by the United States district court in Burlington. The loan, which is to be made on receivers' certificates, is to be payable in quarterly installments for the next two years. An immediate loan of a half million through the same underwriters has also been authorized by the court for construction purposes."

Could that railroad fight, which resulted in the determination to build the extension from Palmer to Providence, have been avoided it would have meant the saving of millions of dollars which went for nothing. The money is distributed in partly finished roadbed work between the two points and the acquisition of land. Had that money not been used for that purpose, only to have the project abandoned, it would not have prevented the Vermont flood, but the road would have been in a much better financial condition.

On the other hand had that sum been employed for the improvement of the existing line between Palmer and New London there would have been an investment from which the road would have benefited. The burden on the Central Vermont was heavy enough with this loss before the flood got in its work. The determination of the receivers to push the restoration of the Central Vermont cannot fail to be hailed with satisfaction by that long stretch of New England territory that depends upon it for service.

THE SMITH CASE

It is a tussle between Senator-elect Smith of Illinois for what he believes is right and the United States senate for what it believes it can do under the Constitution.

Colonel Smith was refused the right to take his seat in the senate and his case was referred to a specially appointed committee. When called before that committee, Colonel Smith refused to participate in the hearing, declared that his state was entitled to representation in the senate and he would have nothing to do with the committee hearing until he had been permitted to take the oath of office. He maintained that this was not because he was afraid to meet the charges which have been preferred, for he is ready and willing, but because he will not be a party to the irregular procedure on the part of the senate.

Colonel Smith doesn't contend that the senate has no right to investigate its members or to exclude them if charges are proved, but he maintains that this course cannot be followed until a senator-elect has been permitted to take his seat.

It is a case where he holds credentials of election from Illinois, backed up by the finding of the supreme court of that state that he is entitled to enter the senate and he also has the vote of the Illinois legislature asking that he be given his seat. There have been moves in this case which have been felt did not help it. Whether this defiance of the senate will accomplish anything is a question but it cannot fail to direct increased attention to what the situation actually is and the fact that a state which is entitled to two representatives in the senate is being deprived of its rights and will continue to be as long as the senate refuses to let Illinois pick its own senators.

This case is similar to that of Senator-elect Vare in Pennsylvania inasmuch as the senate is also keeping him from his seat. Colonel Smith is standing on his constitutional rights to a seat in the United States senate and there's no telling how long it will take to get a final decision.

WHAT MIGHT HAVE BEEN EXPECTED

Put forth some weeks ago for the purpose of creating a sensation, the newspaper printed documents said to show that there was a plot on the part of Mexican officials to get favorable support on the part of prominent Americans in connection with matters concerning Mexico through the payment of large sums of money. It was giving publicity to papers which were intended to show that Mexico was willing to buy support in the United States senate and which were expected to show that American senators were open to such inducements.

In view of the developments that followed there is no surprise that experts have declared that the documents were forgeries and that one person appears to have been responsible for the preparation of most of the papers.

The investigation has brought forth emphatic denials from the senators involved and there has been nothing to prove that there was anything genuine about the documents that were bought and published. From start to finish the brand of falsity has stood out conspicuously. They were in fact so questionable that it is difficult to understand why they were not so regarded by Hearst instead of giving them the benefit of the doubt and attempting to influence the public with them until such a time as they might be found false.

From all accounts handwriting experts could have given quite as much information concerning their genuineness before they were published as they did after the country had been plastered with a lot of charges that were dangerous and faked. It is just such an outcome as this which must as a natural course of events cast suspicion upon all other similar sensations, but the idea of casting such a distrust upon all the senate by the presentation of false charges against the unnamed four members only to result in a complete fizzle can only be regarded as the worst kind of judgment and something which should have been suspected and avoided instead of encouraged.

WAYSIDE STANDS

Roadside stands are of all types and shapes. It might not be correct to say that there are no two alike, but there is a great variety. For the purpose of determining where the most artistic are located a competition was started by Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and the prizes just awarded show Pinkie's pantry in New Jersey to have carried off first honors, while three prizes went to California stands and one in Nova Scotia was considered worthy of an award.

For the most part the roadside stands, whether they sell hot dogs, soft drink or just farm produce, do not go in for elaborate structures. There are those which do. They cater to the tourists and they accomplish what is desired. Many of these probably get far away from the general conception of a roadside stand and may even approach the tea room with all its attractions and temptations.

But while prizes are being given for the most artistic stands it might not be well to overlook the desirability of giving some inducement to the maintenance of roadside stands, especially those which are engaged in the sale of truck garden and other farm products, which will give to the purchaser what he is led to expect. He wants fresh goods, produced in that immediate vicinity and some assurance that he isn't buying goods which have been brought from city markets. The wayside stands have come under legislative regulation in some states, but for the good of their business it ought not to be necessary for any measures of that character. Good business practice should make it unnecessary.

The artistic roadside stand is all well and good but it doesn't meet the public need unless it deals in a fair way with those with whom it expects to do business. The gullible cannot be enticed forever.

WHERE DELAY WILL HELP

In view of the statement which has been made by Senator Smoot predicting the delay of tax legislation until after the middle of March, it is evident that more and more are coming to recognize the wisdom of such a procedure for the purpose of getting further light upon what the revenue will probably be.

At the present time estimates must govern and those who are in complete touch with the situation have advised against going beyond a certain point in tax reduction. They warn against it because of the undesirability of having the treasury face a deficit. While there are those who have not been disposed to heed such advice, and some who are not inclined to now, the soundness of the recommendations is making its appeal. Study is demonstrating the correctness of the position and it is certainly a good suggestion to put off any move for the present and let the early future show what it is prepared to reveal.

It should not be overlooked that, even if the tax reduction should be kept close to the treasury recommendation and the revenue for the year should prove to be larger than had been estimated, the benefit of that surplus would still be obtainable by a cutting down of the federal debt. We have experienced much relief already in debt reduction but there is still a long way to go.

Every time a million or a billion is lopped off that debt it means just that much less for the treasury to pay out for interest and thus so much less that must be raised by taxation. While delay was not suggested in the days before the opening of the present congress, the wisdom of such action is now making a stronger appeal each day.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—The so-called Ware and Swift rivers controversy between the states of Connecticut and Massachusetts is causing New England wide interest, as it may establish a precedent or policy far reaching in its results, regarding the diversion of tributary waters running from one state to another, on their way to the main river.

The Massachusetts representatives appearing before the board of army engineers thought they had the case well bottled up in their favor, until Connecticut had put its case before the United States supreme court asking for the right to bring suit against the Bay state moreover, they thought the army board was in sympathy with Massachusetts or if not in sympathy, would feel their authority did not extend to any point not embracing the navigibility of streams. Now it comes to light that Congressman Tilson, has received assurances from the army board that no decision, shall be rendered until after a hearing at which both sides will have full opportunity to present their case. Informal and private hearings, behind closed doors, have already taken place, but Col. Tilson has the assurance that the Board will not render a decision based on those closed hearings, but will give ample opportunity to Connecticut to make its case plain. Not only Assistant Attorney General Averill and Special Attorney Holden will be again heard, but a special expert engineer, Maurice Knowles, of Pittsburgh, has been engaged to represent the state of Connecticut as its expert engineer. The supreme court is expected to hand down its decision on Connecticut's request to bring suit, Monday noon, and in the meantime, the matter is being thoroughly threshed out, but representatives of both states involved.

Still another matter of specific interest to New England got under way this week, when Floor Leader Tilson and framers of "express highways" throughout the country, were in conference with the chief of the bureau of public roads, regarding the creation of a committee—or commission—to look into the desirability and feasability of such road construction. The proposed plan includes no grade crossings at railroads, and would avoid congested sections of cities in possing across the country. It includes an entirely new system of highways, the first section proposed to start in New York and run through New England to Boston by the way of New Haven, Hartford and Springfield, and probably Worcester. The commission so appointed would not be expected to report on any specific route or system, but on the general idea of an express highway, in order to relieve congestion of existing highways and facilitate quick transportation facilities. In other words it is the wisdom and feasability of such a system, not the detail, on which the commission would be asked to report to congress. Probably a hot fight would follow, with automobiles for and railroads against such a plan. The whole matter is now in embryo, and Col. Tilson and the bureau of public roads made it clear that they are not endorsing the plan, or any specific proposition, but they do believe it should be properly investigated to see whether or not such a plan is advisable and feasable.

(That the "farm block" is 25 years old, came as a surprise bit of information to most of us, who regarded it as a movement that came into being with recent insurgent republican element in the west. Reference to older records, however, show that it was organized in 1902 under the name of the National Equity society. In its "25 years ago today" column the San Francisco Chronicle said, within a week, the exact date being Dec. 27, 1902: "The National Equity society was chartered after a convention in Indianapolis attended by representatives of the farming interests from various parts of the country. The object of the society was to unite all farmers in one national organization, to promote legislation for farm relief and to formulate comprehensive plans for marketing farm products" thus introducing the cooperative marketing plan as well as the farm bloc. The Chronicle adds, "The farmers are still wresting with those problems. No organization has been able to get all the farm interests into one national body." And some on here remarked, when he read that statement, "Why did they pick on the republican party, as the one that should bear their burdens?" For it is a fact that the farm bloc occupies seats on that side of the senate and house, although called by the various names of republicans, insurgents, progressives or farm labor men. So the situation, after all, is not so very different from what it was 25 years ago, only some of the advocates have strengthened their voices by long practice in unlimited senate debate. They are still wrangling over a policy and fail to agree as to a farm bloc candidate for the presidency.

As soon as the Vermont congressional delegation determines what action it will take in asking federal aid in rehabilitation, especially as highways destroyed by the recent flood, Senator Moses will call a conference of the committees authorized by the New England delegations, to consider what steps, if any other New England states will take towards federal aid in highway restoration. The Vermont delegation is now in conference with the chief of the bureau of public roads, and when they come to some decision will so report to the special New England committee, and completed plans will quickly follow.

Vermont will ask a special appropriation, as its damage so far exceeds all other states, that it will unquestionably be treated under a special measure, but whether or not that specific Vermont aid will be asked for in a separate bill or become a part of the Mississippi relief bill, as amendment or otherwise, cannot be stated at this moment, as the course is not yet decided upon. Vermont lost upwards of $7,000,000, while the next highest loss was in New Hampshire estimated at $3,000,000. The other New England states suffered, but the loss was small enough to be cared for by the state aid only.

The general sentiment here seems to be that Vermont should be aided in the same generous way that the United States has come to the relief of other nations in times of great disaster; that New Hampshire should have federal aid in restoration of its federal highways throughout the state. As Senator Moses stated, "when a government owned buildings burns down, the government replaces it, and when a federal aid road is destroyed, I believe the government should do its full part towards restoring it, and that the two are equal obligations on the part of the government." In this opinion, Floor Leader Tilson of Connecticut agrees, although he is opposed to granting other than highway aid to any state but Vermont. Col. Tilson endorsed federal aid for New Hampshire highways, and it is anticipated the majority of the New England committee will do the same. Whether or not New Hampshire will put in a separate bill, or any details will not be known until after the conference to be called by Senator Moses as soon as the Vermont matter is in form. That may be within 24 hours and may not be for several weeks according to how the get together of the Vermont delegation and the bureau of public roads is rushed through or delayed through waiting further details.

Connecticut will ask no federal aid.

WOMEN ARE LIKE THAT

"That isn't it at all, dear. I'm afraid you don't know what we're talking about." Janet Sanford's remark cut in upon the friendly conversation like a chilling blast.

Grace Abbott started a little and seemed undecided whether she should say something quickly or permit matters to remain in Janet's capable hands. Grace's husband, who was about the only one of Bob Sanford's friends whom Janet encouraged, looked across at his chum with a curious expression which seemed to say, "So that's what marriage to a clever woman has done to you! Don't you know what a mistake it is to stand for that sort of thing, old man! You'd better stop it right now."

Bob Sanford, toward whom the rebuke was directed, seemed scarcely to have noticed it—that is until he caught his friend's expression. He was accustomed to his wife's being much, much more clever and knowing and attractive than he, and had come to accept her criticisms almost as a matter of course. It was part of the price of loving her so madly. However much pain and humiliation he might suffer because of her brilliancy and his own shortcomings, he still considered himself the luckiest man in the world that she married him.

But when he saw his friend's expression, and realized what he was thinking, something in him snapped. Bob couldn't explain it, even to himself, but for the first time since he had known Janet he was angry with her. And he was becoming angrier every minute. He just wanted to tell her exactly what he thought of her habit of criticizing him. For he knew—he felt suddenly that he had always known!

The door had scarcely closed on the Abbots when Bob turned to Janet, ready to explode. But so many thoughts rushed to his mind and so many words to his lips that, for the moment, he was inarticulate. Janet took advantage of his hesitancy.

"They're rather boring, Bob," she observed complacently, "don't encourage their coming again very soon. It's really an evening wasted."

"It is, is it?" Bob exploded. "You think everything I want to do is a waste of time and all my friends are bores, and I'm tired of it. They can't bore you any more than some of the fool things you drag me to bore me. I've tried to be clever for your friends who think they are so clever. I've chased around as you wished. I've given in to you on every point, but I'm through."

"Bob!" At any other time her tone would have stopped him in a minute but now he rushed on unheeding.

"If I and my friends were such bores, and the things we like so stupid, why did you marry me? I know why. You wanted both a husband and a job and you knew I was such a fool about you that I'd let you do what you wished. So you married me and proceeded to make me over to fit in with your scheme of life. I loved you and I let you do it but I'm not going to let you do it any more.

"From now on I'm going to express opinions without your hushing me or criticising me. I'm sick of being watched all the time for fear I'll say something which will let people know I was a country boy. What if I was? I'm a man now, even if I haven't asserted myself as one before, and I'm going to——"

He broke off in sudden realization of what he was saying, and sank limply into a chair. Janet would probably leave him forever after all he had said. Fear gripped him. He was willing to retract all he had said as long as he might have the woman he loved.

He looked up at his wife miserably, only to find her staring at him with a new look in her eyes. Amazing as it was, he realized he had aroused a new feeling for himself in her—he had made her feel respect for him!

"Agreed, cave-man," she said finally, in a light tone, but the new look was still in her eyes.—Chicago News.

YOUR HEALTH

The Wisdom of the Annual Examination.

By Arthur O. Hart, M. D., St. Johns, Mich., Member Gorgas Memorial.

(The following is one of a series of articles prepared under the direction of the Gorgas Memorial as part of its Better Health and Longer Life program. President Coolidge is the honorary president of the Memorial, which has been organized and endowed by prominent doctors and laymen throughout the country to perpetuate the work of the late Major General Gorgas in preventing unnecessary illness. Headquarters of the Gorgas Memorial are at 400 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago.)

A friend of mine, a well-preserved man 60 years of age, came to see me one day about two years ago. He said, "I have always regarded myself as a sound healthy man and two years ago I was examined for life insurance and accepted as sound. Last week I applied again for a policy and was rejected because of heart disease. This has worried me somewhat, so I decided to come to you for a thorough examination."

I examined him and, sure enough, he had an acute infection of the lining of his heart with a beginning disability of one of its valves. This would mean, if allowed to progress, a very serious state of affairs in a short time. A searching examination showed him to be sound otherwise except that he had two badly infected teeth. I explained his condition to him and advised that he have the infected teeth removed, although they had never caused him any trouble. As the function of his heart was normal, no drugs were prescribed but he was instructed to rest and avoid active exercise.

Two months later he returned, having had the infected teeth removed and replaced by artificial ones. He reported that he felt fine. Examination showed his heart much improved but there was still some leaking of one of the valves and slight enlargement. He gradually improved so that now, two years later, his heart still leaks a little, but all signs of active disease have disappeared and, with reasonable care, he will probably live and enjoy fairly good health for many years.

This incident illustrates the value of physical examination, even when a person is feeling perfectly well, because it gives the physician an opportunity to find the cause of such conditions as heart disease in the earliest stage before serious damage has resulted. Organic heart disease is, in its later stages, incurable, although much can be done to prolong life. However, if the cause can be found and removed before permanent damage has been done, the more serious aspects of this disease can be prevented.

Year after year heart disease is the cause of a greater number of deaths than any other disease, especially among those past middle life, and periodical physical examination of all those over forty years of age would result in an opportunity to save a great many valuable lives.

Heart disease, Bright's disease, and many others which are incurable in their later stages and which give no symptoms of which the patient is conscious in their earlier stages, are many times due to infection in distant parts of the body. This is the so-called focal infection and often gives no symptoms of its presence but, if found early and removed, will permit normal health.

CHILD TRAINING

"Fun at Home"

Alice Crowell Hoffman

"Mother will be glad to have us all come indoors and finish the game," announced a small boy when a sudden heavy gust of rain, replacing the gentle drizzle, interrupted the fun of the happy group.

Joyfully the host marshalled half a dozen live-wire boys into the kitchen where mother was busily engaged with the ironing. Seeing the crowded condition of the kitchen on eof the boys because of his own experience at home under like circumstances, wished for a moment that he had not come in. His doubts regarding their welcome, however were quickly dispelled by the cheery greeting which Billy's mother had for the group.

"What a fine chance to play up in the attic," said mother enthusiastically. "I'm so glad, Billy, that you had the boys in to enjoy a rainy day in the attic with you."

The little boy who had temporarily misgivings on entering the busy kitchen could hardly believe his ears. "Glad that Billy brought a lot of boys in" on a rainy day when the kitchen was already full and every pair of shoes carried traces of mud. How different from what would have happened at his own home under like circumstance.

And such a wonderful time as those boys had in that attic? First they finished the rollicking game which they had started out of doors. They could play quite as well in the big space up there as in the yard. There was nothing that needed to be taken care of and no chances of getting in anyone's way.

Several times during the afternoon mother found time to slip up and enjoy the fun. Nor did she come empty-handed. Once she brought wonderful animal cookies which went around the group several times; later there was iced lemonade with strawberry juice to make it "nice and pinky".

When the ironing was finished she brought her mending and stayed for a while. Seating herself in an old rocker which stood by the window, she was an interested and sympathetic audience for the "stunts" in which the various members of the group excelled. She did not try to help with the play nor even to direct it.

"What a fine time you boys have given me," she said as she rose to go down to get supper. "You've kept me so interested while I was darning the stockings that I can scarcely believe they are all finished."

"Say, Billy," said the lad who had had doubts regarding their welcome, "ain't it great to be able to have so much fun at home!"

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Marshall H. Savillo, who has been elected president of the American Anthropological association, has been professor of anchaeology at Columbia university for 25 years. He is one of the most renowned pupils of Professor Putnam of the Harvard faculty, a pioneer in the study of the archaeology of the Americans. It was under Professor Putnam's direction that he did his first field work among the remains of the mound builders in southern Ohio; then he turned to Yucatan and Honduras, and was privileged to be among the first to know of the wonders of the Maya civilization. Later he spent three months in Ecuador and Bolivia, where he met with much success in acquiring relics of the pre-Inca civilization. Many of the collections he gathered are to be seen in the buildings of the Hispanic Society of America, in New York city.

Care of Babies

This baby has never had a day's sickness and never a cross or fretful spell that lasted an hour. And what do you suppose is responsible for this healthy, happy condition? Not diet, for he has eaten just about anything and everything a child could eat. Not drugs, for he has not been dosed with opiates; he has never had a drop of paregoric. Nor has his sensible mother ever made him taste castor oil. Yet his nerves are sound and his little bowels are strong, and when he does seem the least restless or wakeful, or out of sorts—or likely to be—his mother has him all serene again in ten or fifteen minutes!

The secret of this complete freedom from the many ills and upsets so common to infants? Plain old-fashioned Castoria. A million and more mothers swear by Castoria, and no wonder! A few drops and an approaching fever, colic, diarrhea or constipation seems to vanish in thin air. Castoria is purely vegetable; that is why physicians tell parents they may use it freely with children of any age—the youngest infant. And how they love the taste!

One word of warning: get the pure real Castoria. Fletcher's Castoria is the original. It is the kind the doctor's specify. And with every bottle comes a book on "Care and Feeding of Babies" that is worth its weight in gold to any mother or prospective mother. So remember: tell your druggist you wish Fletcher's Castoria.

Stories That Recall Others

Hoped It Was

The family was at dinner when a very old gentleman called unexpectedly and was prevailed upon to stay for the meal. Near the close of the dinner the good housewife passed him the pie and urged him to take a helping.

"Take a piece of this pie, uncle," she said. "It's better than it looks."

The old gentleman helped himself to a quarter section.

"Well, I hope so," he remarked dryly.

Eager for Duties of Parent

Robert was greatly excited over a statement that the first baby delivered by the stork in the new year would receive a large number of gifts. In talking over the situation with his mother as to whether it might not be brought to their home and, if not, why couldn't they adopt one, he said:

"Mother, why can't we adopt a baby?"

On being told they could not afford one, he said, "Well, mother, I'll pay the dues."

"Shampoo" Is Hindoo For Massage

The secret of beautiful hair is in the word "Shampoo." In Hindoo it means massage; in English, thorough cleansing of hair and scalp. Frequent cleansing with antiseptic pine tar soap, which banishes germs, tones and stimulates—together with vigorous exercise of the scalp—keeps hair and scalp healthy. Hair specialists usually recommend Packer's, the standard brand of tar soap for 55 years, for the shampoo. At all drug and department stores.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Whitefoot Turns the Tables

Most people like to scheme and plan
To turn the tables when they can.
—Old Mother Nature.

Speckles the Starling has a mean disposition. Yes, sir, he has a mean disposition. He does delight to torment others. He likes to put other people out of their homes. He is quarrelsome and he seems to think that anything in the way of a hole belongs to him.

Now, Speckles wasn't satisfied with having given Whitefoot the Wood Mouse one fright. Every once in a while, when he hadn't anything else to do, he would fly over to the little wren house in which you know Whitefoot the Wood Mouse was living and waken little Whitefoot out of a sound sleep and frighten him half to death by pretending to get into that house. All he could get in was his bill, but that bill was long and sharp, and although Whitefoot could keep out of the way of it, he couldn't help being afraid of it. It got to be a regular thing for Speckles the Starling to go over there and torment Whitefoot. For a long time Whitefoot did nothing about it. The fact is he didn't think there was anything he could do about it.

So there he was kicking and flapping his wings and quite helpless.

And then one day he had a happy idea. He would turn the tables on Speckles the next time he came over there. Yes, sir, he would turn the tables on Speckles. He would give Speckles a scare. Turning the tables is, you know, simply a way of getting even.

So the next time that Speckles came over and tried to torment him Whitefoot waited until Speckles' long bill was well inside that little house. Then Whitefoot suddenly grabbed that bill and hung on. My, my, my, you should been there! Was Speckles frightened? Just ask Tommy Tit, who happened to be near by. Speckles was so frightened that he acted as if he had gone crazy. He did so! You see, he suddenly felt his bill held fast. He couldn't even scream, because he couldn't open his mouth. It was a terrible feeling. It surprised him so that he let go of his perch and then in his fright he wasn't able to get hold of it again. So there he was, kicking and flapping his wings and quite helpless. Never in all his life had he had such a fright before.

Now, Whitefoot is a very little fellow, you know. He couldn't hold on to that bill very long. He held as long as he could. When he let go he let go very suddenly. Over backward went Speckles, still kicking and flapping. He fell clear to the ground before he could get his balance. Then such a screech as he let out. You see, he didn't even yet know what had happened to him. He just got away from there as fast as his wings could take him.

Whitefoot poked his head out the little round doorway. "What's all that fuss about?" he asked in the most innocent way.

"Ha! ha! ha!" laughed Tommy Tit the Chickadee, dancing up and down in his excitement. "If you don't know, I guess no one can tell you, Whitefoot. That fellow needed a lesson. He's got the meanest disposition of anybody around here, unless it is Bully the English Sparrow. When it comes to a matter of disposition, those two are a pair. I guess you gave him the scare of his life and it served him right. I wouldn't have believed it of you, Whitefoot. No, sir, I wouldn't have believed it of you. Ha! ha! ha! To think of timid little Whitefoot giving that speckled rascal such a fright!"

Of course, the news of what had happened soon spread all through the Old Orchard and everywhere that Speckles the Starling went he was laughed at. Even Bully the English Sparrow laughed at him.

Don't Let That Cold Turn Into "Flu"

That cold may turn into "Flu," Grippe or, even worse, Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once.

Rub Musterole on the congested parts and see how quickly it brings relief.

As effective as the messy old mustard plaster; does the work without blister.

Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.

You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief.

QUARTETTE AND SPEAKER IN SACRED CONCERT

Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, of New London, who is always a popular speaker before Norwich audiences gave one of his inspiring addresses upon "Harmony" and the Lotus Male Quartet of Boston rendered the excellent musical program for the week-night sacred concert Monday evening at the Y. M. C. A., which the association is enabled to give free to the public through the endowment fund left by the late Miss M. Louise Sturtevant. For several of the selections Mr. Charles A. Saxton played the piano accompaniments most acceptably.

The large audience which filled all the chairs on the floor of the gymnasium besides many seats in the bleachers section was warmly appreciative of the fine program provided.

Preceding the address, the quartette gave the following numbers:

Forest Song (DeKoven, Melody in F, (Rubenstein), Mammy's Lullaby (Drorak), The Crescent Moon (Anon), Message of The Violets (Herbert), Bells of St. Mary's (Arr.), Mighty Lak' A Rose (Nevin), Moonlight and Roses (Lemare).

The second part of the program included the solo, Open the Gates of the Temple, by Mr. Hicks, and the following quartette numbers: I Will Life Up Mine Eyes, A Garden of Prayer, Still, Still With Thee, In My Heart, Negro Spiritual, Somebody Told Me of Jesus, The Rugged Cross, Silent Night.

RECEIVER NAMED FOR PYTHIAN FARM HOME

Manlius H. Norton of Hadlyme is appointed temporary receiver of the Connecticut Farm Association, Inc., located in East Lyme, according to a decision handed down by Judge Christopher L. Avery of the superior court and filed with the clerk Monday.

The association has capital stock of $150,000 divided in 15,000 shares of the par value of $10. The receiver was appointed upon application of six stockholders claiming to hold 200 shares of the association, for the purpose of winding up the affairs of the farm association. The petition for the receiver sets forth that the exigencies of the case demand the immediate appointment of a temporary receiver for the corporation in order that its assets may not be wasted and the interest of the stockholders and creditors be protected.

The petitioners asking for a receiver were Irwin Jacobs, J. Franklin Bailey, Thomas H. Troland, James Loscena, Mrs. Nelson Adams and George Durley.

When this farm home was created the stock was bought only by members of the Pythian lodges. Mr. Norton is to continue as receiver for a period of two months under bonds of $2,000. A hearing upon the confirmation of the appointment and for the appointment of two appraisers is to be held in the superior court room in New London February 3, at 10 a. m.

GRAND ARMY AND RELIEF CORPS HAVE JOINT PUBLIC INSTALLATION

Sedgwick post, No. 1, G. A. R., and Sedgwick Woman's Relief corps, No. 16, held a joint public installation of officers Monday evening at the Buckingham Memorial which made a particularly interesting ceremony. Past Commander Francis Bracken of W. W. Perkins post of New London was here to conduct the installation for Sedgwick post and was accompanied by Commander Louis L. Baker, Senior Vice Commander John W. Goddard and Comrade Lafayette Starr of the New London post.

The ceremonies took place at 4 o'clock, but were preceded by a supper served at 6 o'clock under the direction of the executive committee of the relief corps, Mrs. M. Florence Dean, chairman, providing an excellent menu that included chicken a la King, mashed potatoes, mashed turnip, cranberry sauce, celery, rolls, ice cream and cake and coffee.

The officers of the post were first installed. The list is as follows: Commander, George C. Crocker; senior vice commander, Henry C. Wright; junior vice commander, George L. Kless; adjutant, John Curran; quartermaster, Martin O. Grady; surgeon, George E. Parkinson; chaplain, George F. Tillinghast; officer of the day, Thomas Wormsley; patriotic instructor, Edward G. Willey; officer of the guard, Joseph P. Mitchell; sergeant major, William Whitman; assistant to commander, Arthur L. Peale; assistant to adjutant, Lola Belle Roath; assistant to quartermaster, John H. Perkins.

In appreciation of the assistance Miss Roath and Mr. Peale had given to the officers of the post during the year they were each presented gold pieces from the post.

The installing officers for the Relief corps was Mrs. Clara Burke with Mrs. Maud Moody as special conductor and Mrs. Gertrude Tootill, Mrs. Florence Bliven, Miss Maria Briggs and Mrs. Elizabeth Murray, as special color bearers. They all wore white and made the ceremonies of special interest by their marching and use of the flags as the different officers were sworn in and took their stations.

The following elective and appointive officers were installed: President, Ines M. Hill; senior vice president, Althea M. Brown; junior vice president, Abbie Olson; treasurer, Iola Bjurstrom; chaplain, Annie B. Newton; conductor, Mary Austin; assistant conductor, Nellie Bailey; guard, Mary Speirs; assistant guard, Mary Whitman; patriotic instructor, E. Grace Fowler; press correspondent, Grace H. Manning; musician, Lena M. Pukallus; color bearers, M. Florence Dean, Annie L. Wilson, Jayne E. Seed.

Immediately upon taking her place as president, Mrs. Hill presented the retiring president, Mrs. E. Grace Fowler, her past president's badge and Mrs. Susan Kampf presented to Mrs. Fowler a gift from the corps in recognition of her efficient services as president.

The salute to the flag and the singing of a verse of America closed the meeting.

GIVEN $100 PURSE FOR GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Hotchkiss of 56 Lewis street, New London, observed their 50th wedding anniversary at their home Sunday. In the company of all their children they enjoyed a bountiful turkey dinner at noon and during the afternoon were at home to many friends who called to felicitate them.

A purse of $100 in gold, the gift of their children, was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Hotchkiss, who were the recipients also of many other gifts and cards and letters of congratulation.

Mr. and Mrs. Hotchkiss, both natives of Norwich, were married here 50 years ago by Rev. Norris Lippitt, pastor of the Methodist church. Mr. Hotchkiss is a polisher by trade and was employed as such in a pistol factory in this city for many years. He is at present in the employ of the New England Collapsible Tube company in New London, having gone there to make his home seven years ago.

Club Held Initiation

The Norwich Wheel club met at the home of A. E. Wilbur Monday evening. Herbert J. Ferguson was initiated to membership in the club.

JOINT INSTALLATION FOR SPANISH WAR ORGANIZATIONS

The joint installation of officers of R. S. Griswold Camp, No. 8, U. S. W. V. and Major L. B. Almy auxiliary, No. 15, was held last Friday evening in the Buckingham Memorial. Department President Muriel S. Greene, of Norwich, Past Department President Margy E. Flynn, of South Manchester, Department Commander A. T. Dawson, Department Adjutant Adjutant Charles A. Davis, Department Quartermaster James E. Flynn, all of South Norwalk, and Past Commander William Baseley, of New London, were guests of honor.

The regular business of the auxiliary was transacted with Senior Vice President Ida M. Kennedy in the chair, owing to illness of President Elizabeth W. Murray.

An invitation received from R. E. Hourigan Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, to attend their joint installation on Tuesday, Jan. 10, was read and accepted.

Mention was made of the wonderful support given the department president from auxiliaries all over the state in behalf of the Christmas work done at the Soldiers' home at Noroton Heights and Norwich and Middletown state hospitals.

Department President Muriel S. Green then installed following officers with Past Dept. President Margy E. Flynn and Sister Murphy, of South Norwalk, as conductors: President, Annie L. Wilson; senior vice president, Jennie C. Randall; junior vice president, Maude A. Moody; chaplain, Annie B. Turner; guard, Ellen Rathbun; secretary, Muriel S. Greene; treasurer, E. Grace Fowler; musician, Myra A. Waters; color bearers, 1, May E. Grover, 2, Frances E. Fletcher, 3, Ida M. Kennedy.

The following officers will be installed at a later date: Historian, Elizabeth W. Murray; patriotic instructor, Pauline H. Budzeck; conductor, Jessie M. Bunnell; assistant conductor, Dorothy Lamphere.

At the request of President Annie L. Wilson, Department Commander A. T. Dawson presented Department President Muriel S. Greene with a gold piece on behalf of the auxiliary.

The R. S. Griswold Camp officers were installed by Department Commander A. T. Dawson as installing officer and Department Adjutant Charles A. Davis as master of ceremonies.

The following officers were installed: Commander, John L. Moody; senior vice commander, Charles E. Ramage; junior vice commander, A. Eugene Fowler; adjutant, Frank Q. Smith; patriotic instructor, Milo R. Waters; historian, George Rathbun; chaplain, Anson R. Grover; officer of the day, John F. Sauter; quartermaster sergeant, John Hubbard.

The following officers elected and appointed will be installed at a later date by Past Department Commander Baseley, of New London: Quartermaster, John A. Hagberg; trustee, Charles A. Hagberg; surgeon, Hugh B. Campbell, M. D.; officer of the guard, Ivar Olsson; sergeant major, Homidos Lamoureux; senior color sergeant, Albert Thorp; junior color sergeant, Ubald Coderre.

Remarks were heard from Department President Muriel S. Greene, of Norwich, Past Department President Margy E. Flynn and Sister Murphy, of South Norwalk, Sister Baseley, a department councillor of New London, Department Commander A. T. Dawson, of South Norwalk, Comrade (Mayor) Waters, and Commander John L. Moody.

Guests were present from South Norwalk, New London and New Hampshire.

Refreshments of sandwiches, cake and coffee were served at the close of the meeting by the executive committee, Annie B. Turner, chairman.

COLLECTION OF GEMS SHOWN AT ART MEETING

The January meeting of the Norwich Art association was held in the Converse gallery, with Miss Hannah Crowell presiding. The usual routine business was transacted, the treasurer's report showing a balance of $954, the docent committee announcing that note books had been received from 10 schools and Mrs. Ogias Dodge read an invitation to an exhibition at the Morgan Memorial, in Hartford, the private view beginning on January 13th. She mentioned two exhibitions of photographs at Slater hall, one by a Swiss artist, showing the scenery of Greece; the other a collection of 57 photographs from the Metropolitan Museum, and made by a group of boys.

The program committee stated that the subject for the next meeting would be Dutch painters with a paper by Miss Lucas. It will be illustrated with post cards and living models.

The instructive program of the evening was a talk by William A. Mercer of New York on "Gems in the Making." He began his lecture with a reference to the interesting study of minerals, referring to the petrified stones, petrified gum, that we call amber, the growth of coral and of pearls. One of the most interesting things is that they are grouped. He stated that there are between eleven and twelve hundred kinds of material, that are found by the "packing" of similar elements.

Lapidaries determine the variety, first by hardness, the diamond, hardest of all rating at ten and talc or soapstone at one. Cleavage or tendency to split along certain lines is another test and diamonds although so hard are apt to cleave when struck a sharp blow against a window or other hard substance. Very important to the lapidary in determining the stone, is specific gravity, or weight, compared with an equal volume weight, compared with equal volume drawing the mineral on unglazed porcelain, lustre, or reflection, and color all have their share in determining variety, although color is the most misleading as many minerals have a variety of colors.

The art of gem cutting began about the 12th century, but the first record of diamond cutting was in the 14th. Our stones are done in Germany, although there are ten or twelve houses in New York city. In this country modern methods are used, every polishing wheel having a separate electric motor, but on the continent, the methods of twenty-five years ago are used, with water power, and belts connecting all the machines.

A complete description of the methods of cutting, illustrated with diagrams, was given. After a description of artificial stones the lecture closed with a quotation from Ruskin's "Ethics of the Dust."

Among the interesting specimens brought by Mr. Mercer was a topaz ball having over fourteen hundred facets, and some beautiful specimens of agatized wood from the petrified forests of Arizona showed a resemblance to the eyes of an owl. A large collection of amethysts, topaz, sapphires, less precious stones and artificial gems, were shown.

A collection of gems owned by members of the association were shown. Among them were a necklace of cat's eyes brought from the South Seas, and mounted in the Art school, a coral, serpent bracelet, worn at court when Mexico was an empire, a necklace of Mexican opals, an ornate Turkish necklace, one of cairngorms from Scotland, turquoise matrix mounted in bracelets, brought from India, examples of carved jade and crystals. Misses Louise Norton Blanche Wilbur and Mildred Tortoiseshell were the ushers, and during the social hour, light refreshments were served by the committee, Mrs. Frederick T. Savles, chairman, Misses Cogswell, Mrs. Harrison Gray, Miss Alexandrine Trumbull and Miss Mary Lucas.

WEDDINGS.

Kalinowski—Kozlowski.

A pretty wedding took place Monday morning at 9 o'clock in St. Joseph's church when Rev. William J. Topor united in marriage Miss Mary Kozlowski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kozlowski of 17 Perry avenue, and Stanley Kalinowski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kalinowski of Versailles in the presence of many relatives and friends. The double ring service was used. The bride was beautifully attired in white georgette crepe with Spanish veil caught up with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor was Miss Rose Kalinowski, sister of the groom, who was charmingly attired in orchid taffeta. She carried an arm bouquet of pink carnations. The bridesmaids were Miss Mary Bostick, who wore pale pink beaded georgette, Miss Nellie Mehalik, orchid georgette, trimmed with lace and Miss Celebre Lurub, coral georgette with hat to correspond. The ushers at the church were Joseph Grabowski and Thomas Kalinowski. After the church ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the Pulaski Social hall to 250 guests. The bride presented her maid of honor a string of pearls, while the groom gave his best man a pair of gold cuff buttons.

Mr. and Mrs. Kalinowski received many beautiful and useful presents including cut glass, gold and silver checks for substantial amounts and pieces of furniture. The bride held a responsible position with the American Woolen mill at Montville, while the groom is a millright at the Inland Paper Co., at Versailles. Dancing was enjoyed by the guests during the afternoon and evening. After a two weeks honeymoon trip which will take them to New York, Philadelphia, Atlantic City and Washington the couple on their return will occupy a newly furnished apartment at 17 Perry street. Mr. and Mrs. Kalinowski have many friends who wish them happiness and prosperity in their married life.

Ableman-Mopsik

Samuel Ableman, son of Mr and Mrs. A. Ableman of No. 29 Spring street and Miss Sadie Mopsik, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Mopsik, of No. 22 Fairmount street, were united in marriage Sunday at the bride's home. Rabbi Max Stamm conducted the ceremony in the presence of many relatives and friends of the couple.

The attendants were Dr. and Mrs. Kopland K. Markoff of this city and Mrs. Alan Mopsik of Moosup. The bride and the matrons of honor were charmingly gowned. Following the ceremony there was a wedding dinner, covers being laid for 50. A reception followed. The bride received many beautiful gifts including silverware, china and money. The bride and groom will be at home to their many friends after January 21 in a newly furnished home on West Main street.

Mr. Ableman is a well known local business man, being engaged in the shoe busines in partnership with his father. He is a past chancellor of Wauregan lodge, No. 6, Knights of Pythias. His bride has been employed at the office of the American Thermos Bottle Co. She is a graduate of the Norwich Free Academy, class of 1922 and was a member of Zetta Phi sorority. She is also an active member of the Y. W. H. A. Guests were present from Lowell, Mass., New York, Mamaroneck, N. Y., New London, Moosup and other places.

NATIVE OF WAUREGAN DIES IN FITCHBURG

(Special to The Bulletin)

FITCHBURG, Mass., Jan. 9—Louis N. Landry, 26, a native of Wauregan, Conn., died at his home here Saturday night, after a short illness. He was a son of Dr. and Mrs. Napoleon Landry, of Fitchburg and was recently discharged from the navy because of ill health.

Besides his parents he leaves two sisters, Mrs. Alphegine Boisvert and Mrs. Alma Charron, and five brothers, Arthur and Alfred, all of this city, Wilfred of Plainfield and Walter and Odee of Worcester.

DISTRICT MEETING HELD BY SONS OF VETERANS

Seventy members of the Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil war, from camps at Danielson, Putnam, North Grosvenordale, Norwich, Mystic and New London, were presented at a district meeting which was held in Odd Fellows hall, in New London, Saturday night. E. C. Babson, past commander of Danielson camp, No. 30, was chairman of the meeting.

Jared R. Axery camp, No. 20, of New London was presented a large, dark blue silk banner with the name of the camp upon it in gold leaf.

The next district meeting will be held at Norwich in February, when Sedgwick camp, Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil war, will entertain.

COLCHESTER EASTERN STAR MEMBERS ARE QUARANTINED

Twelve members of Wooster chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, of Colchester, have been put under quarantine by Dr. Edward J. Howland health officer, because they went to a meeting of Belleville lodge, East Hampton, where Mrs. Matthew Strong was an installing officer. She is ill with small pox and the Colchester health officer considers that the Wooster chapter members probably came into contact with her at the East Hampton meeting.

CHARGED WITH THEFT OF BAILEY'S AUTOMOBILE

Leon Waterous, 19, of Lyme, was arrested in Waterford late Monday afternoon on a charge of theft of an automobile. He is alleged to be the man who exchanged cars in William F. Bailey's garage Sunday night, driving away in a Chrysler belonging to Mr. Bailey. Waterous was brought here Monday evening by State Police Officer S. P. Johnson and locked up in a cell at police headquarters.

It is understood that Waterous drove a machine to Bailey's garage Sunday night and told Frank Hartle, who was in charge of the garage, that he had trade with Mr. Bailey for the Chrysler. Hartle provided a screw driver, and Waterous transferred the registration number plates to the Chrysler and drove away.

Monday afternoon Mr. Bailey and John P. Gorman started out on a search for the missing machine and discovered the machine in Waterford, just as it was stopped by a constable in that town. The state police who had been notified, took Waterous in charge. He will be presented in the city court this (Tuesday) morning.

LEADERS REMAIN TIED IN CITY PINOCHLE TOURNEY

The city league pinochle tournament met in Eagles' hall Monday evening when the league leading Grotto team by taking an even break in winning ad losing, still maintains its leadership with a tie with the Polishers. One of the closest games on record in the league was between the Polishers and Eagles, the Polishers winning by a margin of 10 points, the score being, Polishers 27060, Eagles 27050.

Another feature of the evening was the winning of both games by the Sons of Hermann.

The Duwells and American Legion are now tied for second position.

Scores first half—J. O. A. M. 28,100 vs. Polishers 25,130; American Legion 25,950 vs. K. of C. 23,050; Grotto 27,730 vs. Eagles 24,770; Sons of Hermann 25,880 vs. Foresters 24,400; Colonials 26,470 vs. Moose 24,830; Duwells 29,570 vs. Yantic 23,990.

Scores second half—Foresters 28,050 vs. Grotto 26,030; Polishers 27,060 vs. Eagles 27,050; Duwells 30,240 vs. Moose 25,450; Colonials 25,780 vs. J. O. A. M. 25,460; Sons of Hermann 28,400 vs. K. of C. 21,790; Yantic 29,000 vs. American Legion 27,590.

TAFTVILLE CRESCENTS CLASH WITH DANIELSON TOWN TEAM TONIGHT

TONIGHT'S LINEUP

TAFTVILLE		DANIELSON
Normandin	rf	Keach
Brown or Gauthier	lf	Schofield
Harris	c	Armington
Jim Murphy	rg	Godreau
Eccleston or Coleman	lg	L. Poirier

The second of the clashes of eastern Connecticut's bitterest semi-pro court rivals comes tonight at Parish hall, Taftville, with the Taftville Crescents defending against the Danielson Town team. A large crowd is anticipated as action is always the slogan when these quintets get together.

Both teams will use the strongest lineups that they possess, the Taftville boys having even reinforced with Jim Murphy, former Taftville boy and now of New London. Murphy will be seen in the backcourt and he should help considerably in checking the two speedy Danielson forwards.

The two clubs appear evenly matched. Billy Schofield, Connecticut Aggie captain last season, will lead the Towners from a forward and around him their attack is chiefly built. Schofield coaches Killingly High in addition to directing this club and his playing is not suffering in the least from these extra duties.

Mondi Normandin is Taftville's best bet and he likewise will provide plenty of trouble.

This is not Normandin's first Danielson-Taftville series and no doubt his play will materially steady the Crescents in the tough spots, of which there promise to be many. It ought to be an interesting battle between Schofield and Normandin.

The Towners have a better record so far then the Crescents for in addition to the win they hold over the Taftville boys in the first game of the series they have downed the Clinton Germans, Emmett Guards of Worcester and other fast clubs. Taftville has won but one in three games, winning most decisively from the Aetna Fire outfit last week and losing to the Towners and All-Manchester. However, against the Hartford team they showed considerable power, both offensively and defensively and especially the former and tonight they expect to come onto the floor a much different club than that which faced Danielson at the tapoff in their last game. Then too, that last half rally of the Cresecents in Danielson in the other game that gave the Towners a big scare will also probably stir the Crescents on to greater things and make up for the pre-game edge that the upstate boys hold.

In the preliminary game the Taftville Whirlwinds will meet the Mystic team and dancing will follow the main game.

MAYOR WALKER REPORTED AS FUTURE OWNER OF DODGERS

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Mayor Walker of New York, and Paul Block, newspaper publisher and owner of the Newark Internationals, were linked today as prospective new owners of the Brooklyn National league baseball club despite a denial that the team was not for sale from Stephen W. McKeever, half owner.

Mr. Block said he had been asked if he would like to buy the Robins with Mayor Walker but declined to say from what source the proposition came.

"I have been asked if I would be interested in the purchase of the Brooklyn team and I said I would be very much interested," Mr. Block stated.

Confronted as he was leaving city hall tonight, Mayor Walker passed off questions with a laugh saying: "It's too cold to discuss baseball tonight, you had better see me tomorrow."

Mr. McKeever emphatically declared the Brooklyn club was not for sale as far as he was concerned. He pointed out that he was a "baseball bug" and that the game was his hobby.

"I will not sell my part in the club under any condition," Mr. McKeever said.

The other half interest in the ball team is controlled by the estate of the late Charles H. Ebbets.

WALKER LOSES FIRST ROUND IN LEGAL BATTLE

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Mickey Walker, middleweight champion, lost the first round in supreme court today in suit for $25,000 brought against him by the Stadium Motion Picture corporation. The company seeks damages for the alleged breaking of a contract under which Walker was to make twelve pictures at a salary of $1,000 a week.

Justice George V. Mullan withdrew th case from the jury and discharged them on the ground that the facts in the case were settled when Mickey admitted on the witness stand that he had broken the contract. Justice Mullan ruled only questions of law are now involved, including the right of the company to sue the fighter for damages.

The case was adjourned until Monday when Benny Leonard, retired lightweight champion, will testify for Walker.

APPOINTS JURY TO SELECT BOXING TALENT

BOSTON, Jan. 9.—(AP)—The Argonne A. A. today established a boxing judge and jury as a means of picking a group of preliminary fighters to the heavyweight bout between Roberto Roberti, Italian boxer, and Monte Munn, of Nebraska here next Friday.

Forty one heavyweights appeared in response to Matchmaker Eddie Mack's appeal for preliminary participants on the card. To prune the field to the required 14, the matchmaker took the role of judge, appointed a jury of 12 gymnasium handlers and the fighters were ordered to perform. Majority vote ruled and the successful gladiators were informed of their final status by the "court."

De Mave Gets Decision

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 9—(AP)—Jack De Mave, of Caldwell, N. J., was given the decision over Al Friedman, of Boston, at the end of a 10-round battle here tonight. The decision was unpopular with the fans. De Mave scaled 195 and Friedman 180.

NIELD LEADS SCORERS IN SCHOOL BASKETBALL

Bill Nield, the light-haired Chapman Tech captain and right forward, continues to hold a wide lead over the scorers in eastern Connecticut's four leading high schools. Eighteen points last week not only gave him honors for the week but also 77 points for the season on 33 field goals and 11 fouls. Scotty McKelvie, the other Tech forward, is still in second place but he is being strongly challenged by Saba, the Windham center. McKelvie has 36 points against 34 for the Willimantic boy. LeBlanc, Tech center is quite a ways behind in fourth place with 21 points while Heller of Windham with 17 points rounds out the select five. Les Pingree, Academy center, is one point behind Heller.

Stonington has won two games in as many starts while the Academy also is undefeated. Chapman Tech continued to hold high-scoring honors with 152 points but she has also been scored upon the most, yielding 136 points. The Academy has the best defensive record to date, with 20 points thrown in by opponents.

Features of last week's play were Windham's decisive win over Chapman Tech in the first meeting of teams of these four and the Academy's convincing win over Plainfield in opening her second season at basketball. Stonington won from the Socony club of New London while Chapman beat Saybrook High earlier in the week.

LARY-POLINSKY BOUT WILL FEATURE PASTIME A. C. SHOW

What should be the feature bout of the evening at the Pastime A. C. amateur show on Friday evening will be the Boots Lary-Polinsky bout. Both boys are down to 125 pounds at the present time and have long wanted to try out their wares against each other. Lary is naturally a slugger while Polinsky is more scientific when in the ring. This bout should be a fast one and will settle once and for all the differences between these two boys.

A new comer to the local amateur ring is Danny Connell who makes his debut next Friday night. Danny is a fast kid with plenty of stuff behind his punches and has been working out for the past several months with Young McCarthy. It is possible that Connell will be matched with Paul Bernier, a Willimantic boy of 11 pounds who has fought in Norwich before. Kid Dunn is another product of the Thread City pugilistic circles who will make his initial bow to a Norwich audience.

NORWICH BOXING TEAM TO PERFORM AT BRIDGEPORT

A team of six amateur boxers representing Norwich will box in an amateur show to be put on by the Redmen in Bridgeport on Wednesday evening. Those who will represent Norwich are Al Koziol, James Anthony Quinn, Johnny Kopp, Frankie Adams, Eddie Busch, and Bobby Tennant.

ACADEMY BRIEFS

There are two basketball games this week, both to be played at the Y gym. Friday night Chapman Tech comes in what is regarded as one of the most important tilts of the year while Saturday evening Tourtellotte High of North Grosvenordale, (minus Chubbuck) attacks the Red and White.

The game Friday is expected to start about 8:30 with a preliminary at 7:30 so as to let the fans out in time for the Sharkey-Heeney fight.

Les Pingree did some creditable work in jumping into sixth place among the eastern Connecticut scholastic point scorers in only one game.

Bill Nield, Chapman Tech captain, will have to be curtailed Friday night if the Academy is to get anywhere. He has run wild against every guard he has faced so far, his latest outburst being against the capable Tinker of Windham when he threw in 5 field goals and 2 fouls for twelve points.

Nield holds down right forward and Buck LaCroix plays left guard for the Academy so it looks like a real merry battle between these two boys.

The crowd Saturday night seemed like old-times. Last year the team did not draw like that until the last few games.

It begins to look like last year's team labored not in vain, even if they lost more than they won. They laid the foundation and things ought to be a lot easier and rosier this season.

It was pointed out that last year's state champs in baseball opened by winning from Plainfield High. The basketball team also started by winning over the school from up-state that has Orange and Black for its colors.

What is expected to prove the final meeting for formation of the newly proposed ten-school athletic conference of eastern Connecticut will be held at the Academy tomorrow afternoon.

RICKARD WANTS CONFAB WITH SHARKEY'S PILOT

BOSTON, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Tex Rickard today told Johnny Buckley, manager of Jack Sharkey, Boston heavyweight title contender, that he wants to discuss the possibilities of a Sharkey-Tunney title match with the Boston manager as soon as possible.

From a long distance telephone conversation with the New York promoter today, Buckley gathered that Rickard intends to go ahead with plans for the fight in New York next June if Sharkey demonstrates his fitness in his bout with Tom Heeney of Australia in Madison Square Garden next Friday night.

Buckley was asked to come to New York as soon as possible and to that end may leave ahead of his fighter, who now is scheduled to wind up his training tomorrow morning and leave for New York some time tomorrow afternoon. Sharkey will submit to an examination of the injured left hand which caused a postponement of the Heeney bout last fall.

The Boston fighter today worked 12 fast rounds, three against Tom Kirby, three with the big bag, two with the small and two of the shadow variety. He scaled 194 1-2 pounds, declared that he was in better condition than when he fought Dempsey and announced that Harry Kelly, of Boston, Jimmy Johnson, of New York and Buckley would be in his corner next Friday night.

Buckley said he would leave for New York as soon as possible, adding that "Rickard merely told me he wanted to talk over the chances of a Sharkey-Tunney fight. I asked him if he had Risko or any others in mind for Sharkey first—as Sharkey's willing to meet any of them—but he said he didn't want to discuss that now as the Tunney fight is the only one he's interested in right now."

LOUGHRAN TO FIGHT AGAIN IN MARCH

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Tommy Loughran, fighting king of the light heavyweights, probably will be called upon to defend his title some time in March, Tex Rickard announced today.

Simultaneously, the Madison Square Garden fight "Impresario" announced that Loughran had signed a contract giving Rickard exclusive rights to his services for a title bout before November 1.

Under present plans, the Philadelphian's opponent will be the survivor of an elimination tournament between Leo Lomski, of Aberdeen, Wash., Jimmy Slattery, of Buffalo, N. Y., and Mike McTigue, former title-holder. Loughran has defeated all three within the past three months. He won recognition in New York as the light heavyweight champion by defeating McTigue to whom the state boxing commission had awarded the title after Jack Delaney's voluntary retirement from the division. Loughran clinched his right to the title last month by defeating Slattery who had been recognized as the official crown-wearer by the National boxing commission. He followed these victories with a triumph last week over Lomski after the Coast slugger had floored him twice in the first round.

Rickard said he had matched Lowski and McTigue for a bout at the Garden February 3. The winner will face Slattery and the ultimate survivor then will get a shot at Loughran's title in a match on or about March 30.

The promoter made known also that he planned a match at the Garden February 10 between Johnny Risko, of Cleveland, and either Jack Delaney or "Napoleon" Jack Dorval.

HAINES MILDLY SLAPS GENE FOR HIS ROWING COMMENT

BOSTON, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Gene Tunney recently wrote an article on rowing that brought a "rise" today from Bill Haines, veteran crew coach at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The heavyweight champion's belief that rowing constituted the "most strenuous sport" was heartily endorsed, but his suggestions as to the physical dangers of rowing and belief that the four mile race should be shortened brought the following from the M. I. T. skipper:

"Gene says that through his field glasses he has seen men crumple in a four mile race and fall limply over the side of the boat. I have seen a lot of boxing matches where I did not need the use of a pair of field glasses to see a boxer crumple and fall after a hard blow to the jaw, or the agonized expressions one sees in a boxing ring.

"Gene says he wouldn't let a son of his row in a four mile race. That, I think is due to his unfamiliarity with the sport. In a four mile race, after the start, the oarsmen settle down to a methodical stroke which they know they can keep all the way. In a shorter race the stroke is higher, the pace killing, and there is no let-up.

"Any sport is harmful, if a man is not in condition. On the contrary, if he is in condition, which he should be at all times if he studies himself all sports are beneficial."

LEOMOND WILL RUN IN SPECIAL RACE

BOSTON, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Leo Leomond, of the Boston Athleitc association, who in one year of competition jumped from the novice class to four championships, will be a starter in the invitation two mile special race at the William C. Prout memorial games here January 28, the Knights of Columbus management committee announced today. Leomond, who is pointed for the Olympic 3,000 meter race, is New England A. A. U. two mile, six mile and cross country champion, and National A. A. U. junior six mile champion. He teamed with Julius Gilbert, the B. A. A.'s apparent annual "find", to win the freak four mile, two man team relay race at the Columbus council, Knights of Columbus, games in New York last Saturday.

PLAINFIELD FACES FIRST CLASS TEAM IN FITTON A. C.

The Plainfield Pros have booked another top-notch club for Wednesday evening in the Fitton A. C. five of Boston. The Fitton club has gained a wide reputation in all branches of athletics around the Hub City and the basketball quintet is no exception. The Fitton team comes to Plainfield with an unbroken record of victories over some of the leading teams in Boston and should give the Pros a tough battle.

Included in the Fitton lineup are Fat O'Rourke and Keaney Kelly at forwards, Dixon and J. Kelly, center, Red Irwin and Rusty Yarnell, guards. All these players have sterling reputations as basketball players and will give any team in New England a stiff fight.

For the preliminary game on Wednesday night the Coast Guard team will stack up against the fast traveling Plainfield Buddies.

Dancing follows the game.

DRAFT DIFFICULTY IN MINORS COMES TO SUDDEN END AT CHICAGO MEETING

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—(AP)—The draft war among the minor leagues came to a sudden end today. The resolution adopted at Dallas last month, ordering the five big minor leagues to cease their "modification" of the draft, was rescinded by unanimous vote of delegates representing all the minors, both big and little.

Today's resolution, in addition to annulling the Dallas action, provided that the methods of former years should continue during the incumbency of Kenesaw Mountain Landis as baseball's $65,000 a year commissioner.

Commissioner Landis did not attend the meeting today and neither did the various major leagues representatives who conferred with the minor league magnates before the executive session began.

In less than two hours the five big minors—International, Pacific Coast and Three Eye leagues and the Southern and American associations—had presented their opposition to the Dallas resolution and had won their right to continue under the modified draft. This system permits the major leagues to draft only those players who have come down from the major leagues, and protects the clubs of the Big Five in possession of the rookies they have developed themselves—for sale to the majors at fancy prices.

President Thomas J. Hickey assembled the American association club owners this morning to agree upon their stand. Cowed by the threat of the major leagues, the little minors did not insist upon any concessions in the peace terms but voted to go back to the former system.

The major leagues had served notice that peace must be effected between the Big Five and the little minors by Jan. 16 or the major-minor agreement would become a scrap of paper and the minors would lose the protection of Commissioner Landis' authority.

The only public notice the commissioner took of the minors meeting was to send a list of suggestions which the major leagues adopted at their meeting last month which the minors promptly adopted. The suggestions provide, among other things, a three year suspension for any umpire or official caught "scouting" for a club in his league, and permanent suspension for any player, umpire or official found betting on baseball games.

COLUMBIA FALLS BEFORE ATTACK OF DARTMOUTH

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—(AP)— Dartmouth romped away with a 27 to 22 victory over Columbia here tonight in the opening contest for the New York team in the Intercollegiate Basketball league. It was the sixth consecutive setback for Columbia, although it was the first defeat in the league play.

Heep of Dartmouth was the high scorer of the evening accounting for eleven points which included four field goals. At half time the visiting quintet was in front by 14 to 11 and retained an advantage through the last section of the contest.

Fred Rieger, Columbia Star who has been on the injured list since the football season, was in the lineup and tallied two goals from the floor.

BLACKBURNE HAD BATTING AVERAGE OF EVEN 1.000

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—(AP)—The official American league batting averages issued today omitted mention of the real batting leader of the league, because of the technicality which insists upon a minimum of ten games before a played can get into the records.

Russell "Lena" Blackburne, years ago a White Sox player and now a coach on the club, finished the season with a batting mark of 1.000 per cent perfect. A base was sadly needed one day last summer and Blackburne stepped up to the plate and delivered it, sending home a runner from second with a "Texas leaguer" back of first base. His one swing at the ball, his only one of the season however, was not enough to get him into the official figures.

GIANTS TO GIVE HAWAIIAN A TRYOUT

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—(AP)—For the first time in the history of the game, a Hawaiian may cavort about the infield of a major league club next summer.

The New York Giants announced today that they had agreed to give William T. (Buck) Lai a tryout during the spring training season. Lai formerly played with the University of Hawaii and showed great skill when his college team made a tour of the United States several years ago. He was signed by the Bridgeport club of the Eastern league but later was released.

BROOKLYN WANDERERS SIGN THREE STARS

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Three foreign stars have been signed by the Brooklyn Wanderers of the American Soccer league to strengthen the team for the National challenge cup competition.

The trio—Karl Jisda, Austrian International centre forward, John Brown, Canadian halfback, and Bela Rosenberg, outside right from Palestine—arrive in this country this week and make their first appearance with the Wanderers against the Trenton, N. J., club at Brooklyn next Sunday.

IRREGULARITY IN STOCK MARKET FOLLOWED BY REACTIONARY TREND

NEW YORK Jan. 9—(AP)—The stock market turned distinctly reactionary today after an early period of irregularity. Many of the standard industrials were liquidated freely throughout the session, but the general list did not turn heavy until the late trading, final quotations disclosing a long list of net declines ranging from 1 to 5 points. Trading did not quite measure up to the terrific pace of last week, although the day's sales ran around 2 3-4 million shares.

Selling was attributed to a variety of causes, not the least important of which was a rather general belief that the market was entitled to at least a technical reaction after the recent spirited advance in many issues. The marking up of call money rates from 4 to 4 1-2 per cent, coincident with the calling of about $25,000,000 in loans, and the note of warning against over-expansion of bank credit for speculative purposes by Albert H. Wiggin, president of the Chase National bank, also had a tendency to chill bullish enthusiasm for the time being.

U. S. Steel common sold off 2 points despite predictions that the December unfilled orders to be made public at noon tomorrow might show an increase as large as 400,000 tons. Other steels moved within narrow and irregular limits. General motors showed a net loss of 3 points at 133 1-2, after dipping to 132, and most of the other motors sagged in sympathy. Hudson, which announced higher prices on several of its 1928 models, fell back 2 1-4 points to 50 1-4. Yellow Truck moved up 2 points in early trading, but lost half the gain.

Erratic fluctuations took place in Radio corporation, which opened at 101 1-4, sold down to 99 1-8, rallied to a new record high at 104 3-4 and then back up to 102, up 1 point net. Total transactions in that issue ran above 900,000 shares. American International Corporation, Corn Products, Kraft Cheese, National Bellas Hess and Devoe & Reynolds were among the issues to reach new high ground.

Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Except for a rally of about 25 points in Japanese yen to just below 47 cents, there were no changes of importance in the mixed foreign exchange market. Sterling cables ruled firm around $4.87 9-32.

Sugar prices were slightly firmer, but the main trend in most of the other leading commodity markets were downward, although the losses were relatively small.

Acute weakness again developed in Greene Cananea Copper, which broke from 139 to 130 1-2 and then rebounded to 132 1-8, off 5 7-8 net. The stock recently sold at 161 1-2. Selling pressure was also effective against Adams Express, American Agricultural Chemical preferred, American Republics, A. M. Byers, Calumet & Arizona, Christie Brown, Coty, General Asphalt preferred, International Match preferred, Nash Motors, Dodge Bros. preferred, Peerless, U. S. Cast Iron Pipe, Rossia Insurance and Woolworth, all off 3 points or more.

Rails presented a few points of strength. Texas & Pacific ran up to a new record high at 107 and then slipped back to 105, and Bangor & Aroostook closed 5 1-2 points higher at 79 1-2 after selling slightly above that figure. New Haven sold off more than 2 points on reports that the resumption on dividends, previously scheduled for tomorrow, might be delayed.

ANNOUNCEMENTS
Broadway Theatre
The management of the Broadway theater is to be congratulated on the quality of entertainment now being offered for vaudeville fare, the five acts constituting the first three days program is all that can be desired from a variety standpoint. The booking of the vaudeville program is under the personal supervision of Mr. Harold F. Eldridge of New York City, who is one of the pioneer vaudeville bookers of the country. Mr. Eldridge has made a personal study of vaudeville conditions in Norwich and has arranged for the showing of some of the biggest stage attractions available, to be shown at the Broadway in the near future.
Headlining on the bill yesterday were the Bradley Sisters and Company in a novelty dance revue which met with popular approval. Hank Brown and Ada King kept the audience in a good-natured uproar through their act. Mr. Brown has played here before and will be remembered as the comedian who has so much trouble trying to talk, his tongue getting mixed up with his words in such a manner as to evoke much laughter. Arthur Jarett and Clayton, a pleasing couple entertained with harmony singing and opening the program Steppin and See registered with a novelty juggling act.
The feature photoplay attraction is "Love and Learn" starring Esther Ralston in one of the best pictures this popular star has yet appeared in.

POETRY

Connecticut Road Song

In the wide and rocky pasture where the cedar trees are green
The briar rose was growing with the blueberry and bay.
The girls went forth to pick them and the lads went forth to play.
But I had to get to Stonington before the brick of day.

And when I came to Stonington she was a town of pride.
"Come in," they said, "and labor, and be at home and bide."
For gold shall be thy wage," but "wear past the hour of morn—
And I had to get to Jordan while the dew was on the thorn.

There is a girl at Jordan, she sweetly smiled at me,
As pale as are the berries on the gray cedar tree.
And "Oh," she cried, "thou traveller, come bide awhile with me."
But I had to get to Lebanon while light was in the tree.

The pale church spires of Lebanon shone sweet upon the sky,
The Sabbath bells were ringing, the parson passed me by.
"Oh, wait traveller, wait, for you've need to say a prayer."
But I had to be in Wallingford, while noon was in the air * * *

And when I got to Killingworth I heard the people say:
"He has come to bring the news from a hundred miles away."
But I had not any news and not any time to stay.
For I had to be at Jericho before the end of day—

And when I came to Jericho I heard the people call,
"Do you run to save a city that you will not wait at all?"
"I ran to save no city, yet must I hasten soon.
For I have to be in Windsor with the rising of the moon."

And when I got to Windsor, then was I spent for bread.
"Come in," they cried, "poor traveller! and be thou comforted.
What strange great need is on thee that makes thee journey so?"
But I had to be in Coventry ere yet the moon was low * * *

Wherefore, ye men of Coventry, if ye desire to stay,
Lay not your courts upon me, that love the open way.
For I want to smell the dew, the blueberry and the bay.
And I have to get to Colchester before the break of day.
—Anna Hempstead Branch, in Poems

An Expectant Worker

He waits and works, and works and waits,
Day after day he toils,
While all the while one constant thought
His satisfaction spoils.
He does his best as best he can,
And every week with hope,
As he turns from the cashier's cage,
He scans his envelope.

As yet his hoping has been vain,
His pay is still the same,
And from the Boss he never hears
A word of praise or blame.
So day by day he labors on
(Not caring much for praise),
But every day he asks himself:
"When shall I get a raise?"

HARKNESS $35,000 HOSPITAL GIFT SECURES NEW LONDON DORMITORY

NEW LONDON, Jan. 9—The receipt of a check for $35,000 today by Albert C. Woodruff, treasurer of the Nurses' Home fund of Lawrence Memorial hospital, from Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Harkness of New York and Waterford, completed the fund of $150,000 required for construction of the new fireproof nurses' home. Already ground has been broken for this building. The gift of Mr. and Mrs. Harkness pledged some time ago was conditioned upon the hospital association raising the remaining $115,000. Following announcement of the Harkness offer, a drive was inaugurated by members of the auxiliary of the hospitals association and pledges and subscriptions for the full amount were obtained. A gift of $60,000 from Mrs. Nanie M. Pond, rounded out the required sum and the conditions of the Harkness offer compiled with the promised check was sent Treasurer Woodruff.

POLICE CONDUCT RAIDS MAKING ELEVEN ARRESTS

(Special to The Record.)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 9—For the first time in many months the police this afternoon conducted a series of raids upon stores, club rooms and houses where liquor is sold and before the flying squadron finished its work 11 arrests were made and another will be made tonight or tomorrow for the twelfth accused could not be found. He is known to be in hiding and it is probable that he will deliver himself to the police and not compel them to make a search for him. The men and women arrested were Frank LaFemina, Smith street; Nora McClue, 112 Howard street; Harry Schlenman, 78 Washington street; Arthur Messer, 31 Summer street; David Palix, proprietor of the club room at 24 Golden street; Max Markoff, employed at the club room, 5 Pearl street; Stephen Lawski, 121 North Bank street; Henry Marcus, proprietor of a men's furnishing store, 46 North Bank street, directly opposite police headquarters; Nicholas Stamaton, 324 Bank street; Dora F. Scosdani, 101 North Bank street, proprietress of a restaurant and Concetta Porretta, 47 Summer street; Charles Keith, 17 Masonic street, was also arrested as a witness against Lawski.

The raiding force consisting of Detective Sergeants John Cavanaugh and Nelson Smith, Automobile Patrol Officers Clarence Martin and Augustus Ray and Patrolmen Clarence Wells, William Manice, George Perkins, William Corcoran, Clyde Murphy, Albert Iverson, George Laboue, Dennis Murphy, Ernest Opperman, Henry Hick and Dennis Cavanaugh, started from police headquarters at 3.30 o'clock. Two officers went to each of the places and all warrants were served except one, that being the Railroad club, Railroad avenue. When officers went there the premises were locked and the proprietors and employes were nowhere to be found.

The evidence was obtained by stool pigeons furnished by the United States coast guard, two sailors, who went among the places where it was known liquor was sold and easily obtained bottles of liquor, which was turned over to the police.

CASE OF NORWICH YOUTH CONTINUED TO FEB. 9TH

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 9—William R. Bissetti, 21, of 23 North Cliff street, Norwich, employed as a taxicab driver at times and a laborer at other times, was in the police court on continuance today, charged with theft. Another continuance was ordered, this time until Feb. 9. Bissetti was arrested several months ago upon complaint of his mother, who claimed that her son stole a talking machine and sold it to a second hand dealer. After Bissetti's arrest the machine was recovered and the second-hand dealer was returned the purchase price. Bissetti claims that he had a right to sell the machine, for, he says, it was given him by his mother and that he did not steal it.

Dennis McCarthy, 270 Hudson street, Hartford, proprietor of a store, was presented on a charge of violation of the state automobile law in driving while under the influence of liquor. McCarthy's attorney being unable to attend court today, a continuance of a week was ordered and McCarthy was held for trial in bail of $200, which was furnished by John Murphy, 47 Pacific street, who made complaint to the police last night when McCarthy took Murphy's auto without permission of the owner and wrecked it. McCarthy was at Murphy's house early last night and became intoxicated. In that condition McCarthy left the house and going to the street entered Murphy's auto and drove away. McCarthy drove the auto through Ocean avenue to Perry street and when the car entered Montauk avenue, McCarthy lost control of the mechanism and it ran across the street and over the sidewalk of the residence of Medical Examiner Charles Kaufman, where it came to a stop on the lawn. Practically the only damage sustained by the car was the wrecking of one wheel.

Edward Neff, charged with train riding, was fined $5 and costs. He was arrested Sunday morning when he was detected riding a freight train as it passed through the local yards. Other cases presented were three men charged with intoxication. One was sentenced to 30 days in jail, but execution of the sentence was suspended one year; the accused has been a frequent offender of late.

Levia Fontanelli of Stafford Springs and Clifford Ritchie, Fred Barr, Harold Roberts and Charles Blake subbase sailors, were charged on continuance with frequenting a house of ill repute at 147 Bank street. All were set free, for a nolle was ordered entered in each case. The Fontanelli woman and the four sailors were arrested three months ago when the house, a rooming house known as the Fournier house was raided. The proprietor of the house was fined in the police court and ordered out of town, but the cases against the frequenters were continued to today.

MOTORCYCLE AND AUTO COLLISION AT SAYBROOK

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 9.—Earl Congdon, of Providence, and Gardner Anthony, of Edgewood, R. I., were painfully injured, the former seriously, this afternoon, when the motorcycle they were riding at Saybrook collided with an automobile. Congdon and Anthony are now patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, the former suffering from a compound fracture of the right leg, which will result in its amputation just below the knee, a fractured hip and thigh and multiple abrasions. Anthony is suffering from shock and bruises. The accident occurred when Congdon attempted to guide the cycle past the automobile. The cycle skidded and the two motor vehicles came together. Congdon and Anthony were thrown from the motorcycle and the former's leg became caught in the wrecked cycle. Medical assistance was given the injured men at Saybrook, after which they were brought to the hospital.

BODY OF ARTHUR HODGES BROUGHT FROM SUBMARINE S-4

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 9.—The body of Arthur Hodges, 28, machinist's mate and a member of the crew of the submarine S-4, was brought to New London at 6:15 o'clock this evening. Hodges is a son of Mrs. Sophia Kenneson, 15 Bragaw street. He was a member of Brainard lodge of Masons, Thomas Hose company and Mohegan lodge of Odd Fellows.

Papers of incorporation have been filed at the office of the secretary of state by Sharpe-Turrisi, Inc., of New London, who will engage in wholesale and retail merchandising. The capital stock is $50,000, with 500 shares of the par value of $100 per share. The company starts business at 108 Bank street with paid capital stock of $6000. The incorporators are C. M. Sharpe, Pomfret; Anthony Turrisi, Westerly, and Carrie M. Ackerman, this city. The officers are president, Anthony Turrisi; vice president, secretary and treasurer C. M. Sharpe. The directors are the officers and Charles M. Smiddy.

Miss Veronica E. Rondomanski, 20, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Zygmund Rondomanski, 28 Stewart street, died this morning at Home Memorial hospital, where she had been a patient since last Friday. Besides her parents, Miss Rondomanski is survived by six brothers, Przemlyslaw, Thomas, Raymond, Zygmund, Jr., Leo and Leon Rondomanski, and by three sisters, the Misses Mary and Anna Rondomanski, and Mrs. Wanda Stickewicz, all of New London.

Felix R. Hulser, of Mystic, was in Groton town court today charged with failing to grant right of way. He was fined $5 and costs, the latter amounting to $11.55. The fine was ordered remitted by Judge Cornelius C. Costello. The automobile Hulser was driving last Tuesday in Mystic, collided with a machine driven by Dr. Louis M. Allyn, also of Mystic, at the corner of West Mystic avenue and Rowland street, the crash causing the physician's auto to overturn. Dr. Allyn sustained two fractured ribs. Dr. Allyn was charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law in not having his registration certificate in his possession when the accident occurred. It was shown that the physician later found the certificate in a satchel at his home. The charge was nolled.

Lino and John Scussel, brothers, were charged with taking articles without permission of the owner. Their cases were continued a week. The brothers entered upon the Henry Gardiner land, the former Poquonoc race track and among other things took window sash, pine boards, etc. They contended that the articles had been left open to the weather and were in a condition of decay, while gypsies, when encamped there, had used some of the timber for fire wood.

Miss Alice M. Bush, a former resident of New London and for many years employed as teacher at the Nassie Hale grammar school died Sunday night at Thames View, Waterford, where she had been temporarily making her home. She had been in declining health for a long time. Miss Bush is survived only by a niece, Miss Alice Walker of Bangor, Me. Miss Bush had been a teacher in the employ of the city about 35 years and about 15 years ago she was pensioned.

The funeral of Edward E. Day of New London and son of Mrs. Lida Domler, 105 Federal street was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at 48 Shapley street. The services were conducted by Rev. Chester H. Howe, pastor of the First Baptist church. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Mrs. Azelia Buddington, 78, of Groton, died Sunday night at the private hospital on Vauxhall street, where he had been a patient for many weeks. She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. John G. Tripland of Groton. Mrs. Buddington was born in Edgecomb, Me., the daughter of Stephen and Emily Matthews. She had resided in Groton many years.

The funeral of Mrs. Emily Brooks, wife of Charles Brooks, was held this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock at her residence the New London Country club, Waterford. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ. Members of the club acted as bearers. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Frederick Dondero, 68, well known Italian resident of this city, died Sunday night at his residence, 11 Brewer street, after an illness of about a week, although Mr. Dondero had been in failing health for a long time, but not until last week was compelled to take to the bed. He is survived by a son, Edward Dondero and a daughter, Miss Mamie Dondero, both of this city. Mr. Dondero was born in Italy, but had resided in New London many years. For a long time, Mr. Dondero conducted a cafe on Bank street.

POETRY FOR WIDEAWAKES

Two Nests.

The wonder was on me in Curraghmacall,
When I was as tall as the height of your knee,
That the wren should be building a hole in the wall
Instead of a nest in a tree.

And I still do be thinking it strange, when I pass
A pasture that has to be evenly ploughed,
That the lark should be building a hole in the grass
Instead of a nest in a cloud.
—Francis Carlin, in "A Cairn of Stars."

The Orphans.

There's a cave in the rocks where the pine trees grow,
And two little cubs, too young to roam,
Are waiting for food, while the blizzards blow;
The food that their Mummy will soon bring home.

There's a big skin stretched at the Trapper's hut,
To dry in the sun and wind and rain;
In the cabin there's bear-meat, freshly cut,
Mummy will never come home again.
—L. Bullock-Webster in Lariat Poetry Magazine.

Such as These.

When the Master toiled, as was His will,
In the Nazareth shop,—with what rare skill
Of hammer and saw and keen-edged blade—
And peasants bought the things He made.

It must have been that, here and there,
The burden was less for some dumb pair
That turned the soil to the sweet Spring breath
Or ambled the lanes of Nazareth.

His perfect skill would He revoke,
When He turned His hands to the oxen's yoke?
Lesser workmen might never heed
Nor guess the lowly toilers' need.

Who made the ox and yoke-beam, too,
Knew well the loads the wearer drew;
And His heart of love and hand of might
Made easy yokes and burdens light.

Master-Workman, of Galilee,
Burden-bearer for such as we,
Give us the heart and hand to ease
The galling burdens of such as these.
—Ellen D. Masters.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE AWAKES.

We often see fine sealskin coats in display windows of fur stores and worn by proud owners, but not all of us know where and how these beautiful coats are obtained. Alaska and the islands of the north Pacific ocean furnish most of the seal-skins used for clothing in this country. The fur seals are sometimes called "sea bears." They are related to the bear family of mammals.

The male fur seal becomes full grown at the age of about seven years. At that age he is about six feet long, four and a half feet around and weighs about 500 pounds. The color of his fur coat is black or brown and he has a long wig or mane on the back of his neck. He often stands erect on land and runs clumsily over the ground with the aid of his short fore-limbs. The seal is the champion long distance swimmer among animals for he has two fore and two hind "flappers" or "flippers" which he uses to propel himself through the water. The female seal is smaller than the male seal and is much slimmer. Her weight is about 80 pounds.

Fur seals live in large families and during the summer breeding season they gather on the rocky shores of islands in groups which are called "rookeries." Each family consists of one adult male, numerous females, sometimes as many as a hundred and the baby seals, which are called "pups." The fur seals spend their summers on the cold rocky shores of the arctic islands and the winters on the sandy shores of California and the islands off the southwestern coast of the United States. They have no difficulty in swimming the long distance between the arctic regions and the coast of California. The fur seals generally live to be 20 years or older.

Many of the male seals are killed during the summer months, for their furs. The seal skins are salted, rolled into bundles and taken to trading posts. Afterwards they are transported by steamer to distant cities and sold in the fur markets. The United States government has taken measures to see that only a limited number of seals are killed each year.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE AWAKES.

How I Spent Christmas.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you how I spent my Christmas. In the morning after I awoke and dressed we, my brother, sister and I, went downstairs to examine our presents. The first box I opened contained a dandy jackknife. Next I took up a pair of shoe skates for which I have been wishing ever since the ice was safe. I also received a pair of gloves, a necktie and a scarf. My sister received a sewing set, a paint book and a new coat. My little brother received a steam shovel, a fire engine, a necktie and many other toys. I was so busy examining the presents that I almost came late to church. I could not wait to come home and try my new skates. When I came home I quickly put on my sweater and gloves, took my skates and started off for the skating pond. As I do not live far from the pond I reached it in about five minutes. When I arrived, there were many others already skating. I found I could skate much better with my new skates. I enjoyed a very good Christmas dinner. After dinner I went to my cousin's house where we looked over his presents. We played games there and had much fun. So I enjoyed Christmas very much.

My Trip to Middletown.

Dear Uncle Jed: One warm summer day my sisters and I climbed into the carriage drawn by the farm horse, with our father as a chauffeur. This was just the first part of our trip. When we arrived at the station we heard the bell ringing and the puffing of the engine.

Thus the train pulled into the station. Many people were seen to get off as it was vacation time. We said good-bye to our father and amidst a crowd we too stepped into the passenger car. We were very excited for this was the first time that we ever went on a train alone. As soon as it started we waved a good-bye to father. At first the train commenced to go slowly but gradually increased its speed. The great rate made us imagine that the train was standing while the objects about it were moving.

Once in a while we heard the tooting of the engine, while passing crossroads. When we heard the conductor call out "Portland" we knew we were near our destination. This increased our excitement all the more. While we neared the station we recognized our aunt and cousins waiting for us. This was unexpected and we were greatly relieved because we did not know exactly where our relatives lived.

In about half an hour we reached the place. As we entered the room and cast our eyes toward the table, our mouths watered. Why? There on the table was a delicious dinner waiting to be devoured. After dinner we visited the shop in which my brother worked. It was just across the street from the house. As most country children do have when they go to the city for a short visit, we had a jolly time.

Christmas Party.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you and hope the Wide Awakes will be interested in what I write.

The night before Christmas we had a large party; many children came. First of all we played games. Then we went to the table to eat. After supper we were frightened by the thud of something and before we knew anything Santa Claus was standing in the room. All the children received presents from him. Then all the children went home. I played a little while then I went to sleep. I was glad when I went to bed for I was so tired I could hardly move myself.

My Roller Skates.

Dear Uncle Jed: It has been quite a little while since I have written to you and the Wide Awake circle. So I am going to tell you about my roller skates.

While I was in Worcester, Mass., this summer on my vacation my cousin gave me a pair of roller skates. I can skate quite well. I asked my little friends if they would ask good old Santa to bring them a pair of roller skates. So they all got a pair of skates for Christmas.

I have been teaching them how to skate. And now they are all doing very good. I suppose that all the girls and boys of the Wide Awake circle can skate. Well I think that roller skating is great sport. My little friends also think it is great sport. I hope that the girls and boys of the Wide Awake circle have enjoyed afternoons roller skating.

Received Lots of Toys.

Dear Uncle Jed: Now that Christmas is over I thought I would write to the Wide Awakes. Santa was very good to me. He brought me lots of toys and games. We had a good Christmas dinner. We had a lot of company.

BELLA DOYON. Age 10.

My Pet Cat.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you. My cat is maltese. Her name is Tootsie. She is a very playful cat. When she sees a piece of string she is anxious to play with it. When she doesn't see anything to play with she climbs in her bed and goes to sleep.

A Happy New Year.

Dear Uncle Jed: In my first letter to the Wide Awakes for this year I wish them all a happy and prosperous New Year for 1928. The title of my composition is: The Passed Year. The year of 1927 was one of triumph to the Americans. From being triumphant in many things it was also disastrous and sorrowful. Many people lost their lives this year in the Mississippi and New England floods.

American commercial aviation triumphed the most. Aviation has spanned the earth from coast to coast, over mountains and over the mainland.

Triumphant aviators have flown from United States to France, receiving glory from foreign countries.

The ending of the year saddened many fathers, mothers, wives and children and even relatives of those forty men who lost their slives in the wreckage of the submarine S-4.

The year of 1927 will never return but the sorrows and triumph of the Americans will never fade away from history.

We people wish sincerely that the year of 1928 will be a thousand fold better than the year of 1927.

Auto Killed Dog.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my first letter and I hope you will like it. I had a nice dog. His name was Buster. He followed me everywhere I went. If I went to my chum's house he would stay outside all day until I came out. And when I went sliding in the winter time he would pull me around on my sled. But not long ago an auto came and struck him and killed him. I feel very lonesome without him.

MARGARET WEAVER, Age 9.

At Slater Museum.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am enclosing a little story of my trip to Slater memorial, which I made a few days ago. When our class went to the museum it was a warm day. I thought we would never get there, but we got there at the right time.

As we went into the hallway, I saw the statue of Agustus or Octavius Ceasar, a nephew of Julius Caesar. He carried out some of Julius Ceasar's plans. I also saw Julius Ceasar; he was sitting on what I would call a throne-like chair. The Dying Gaul was a beautiful statue, sad and yet happy in a way.

I also saw the statue of Zens, the god of all the gods. I also saw his bust. Hera, the wife of Zens, was not very happy. In her face was an ugly scowl. She had a pretty large nose and looked very jealous. And Hercules! Oh! my! how strong he is. His neck seemed to me just as wide as the necks of two or three bear cubs.

I think the Dying Gaul was the best statue with the exception of the Goddess of Athena.

I like Athena best because she is the goddess of wisdom, for if you are wise and poor you may yet pain riches, but if you are foolish and rich you can lose your riches. I also liked her draperies, the helmet, the shield and the Medusa's head on her breast.

STELMA M. SOHN, aged 9.
Norwich.

Party For the Birds.

Dear Uncle Jed: I thought that I would write to you and tell you how I gave the birds a Christmas party.

At the side of the house there is a small pine table. The night before Christmas I planned the party. I took out to the tree a little mixed grain, consiting of fine cracked corn, buckwheat, wheat, barley, some bread crumbs and meat and put them on the low branches.

In the morning I could see through my window many birds on the perch. I kept this up for a few days. Each day it was gone.

FANNIE WEBBER, aged 11.

Our Christmas Entertainment.

Dear Uncle Jed: Our Christmas entertainment was held Thursday, Dec. 22 at seven thirty p. m. Many people of the district attended. There were also a few from places out of the district.

Plays, songs, and poems were given in such a manner as not to be monotonous. In between times, such as when the actors were preparing for a play a Victrola was played. This was brought by one of the girls who attends the school.

The front of the room was arranged like a stage excepting that there was no raised platform.

A large cedar tree was gorgeously decorated with tinsel, popcorn and ornaments. All in all the tree was so beautiful that its beauty could not be expressed in words.

After the plays, songs and poems, Santa came. He gave every scholar a present from the teacher. Previously the school children had drawn names and this night the presents were exchanged. As was the custom each family also gave the teacher a present. While the presents were being given candy was passed around to the audience by one of the scholars.

When the entertainment was over everyone exclaimed that they had had a fine time. After Christmas greetings had been exchanged everyone left.

My Trip to New York.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you. I hope you and the Wide Awakes will enjoy my story. I will tell you about my trip to New York Christmas eve. We went down on the boat and it was very choppy.

We sure did have a nice trip. When we reached there we were met by my cousin and uncle. We spent New Year's down there and it was awful noisy.

We had to come home because I had to go to school.

GREENEVILLE

The New London County Home children were the recipients of gifts for the holidays through the courtesy of Peter Peterson, who for the past five years has tagen up a collection from a number of the employes of the United States Finishing Co., for the benefit of the children. The money collected was spent in purchasing handkerchiefs, pocket combs, neck pins, for the girls, ice cream and individual boxes of candies. The committee bringing the gifts to the children at the home on Mowry avenue witnessed the Christmas exercises. They were repeated by the children for the committees benefit and consisted of recitations and songs.

Ernest White of South Manchester spent the week end at his home on Convent avenue.

John H. Drescher has returned to resume his studies at Mount St. Charles college at Woonsocket, R. I., after spending the holiday recess at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Drescher of Central avenue.

Miss Helen Delaney has returned to resume her studies at the Willimantic normal school after spending the week end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Delaney of Fifth street.

M. Helen Drescher has returned to the Baltic academy to resume her studies after being the guest of her grandmother, Mrs. Drescher of Central avenue.

Miss Loretta Higgins has returned to Willimantic normal school after spending the week end as the guest at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Higgins of North Main street.

Joseph R. Portelance and Peter Marshall have returned to their homes after being guests of relatives at Pasco, R. I.

Mrs. William Dohoney has returned to Providence, R. I., after spending the week end at the home of her nephew, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Riordan.

Napoleon Keroack of Putnam spent the week end at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon Keroack of Central avenue.

John Casey has returned to his home on Ninth street after spending a few days with relatives in Wauregan.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Flynn and family of Plainfield were guests of her sister, Mr. and Mrs. Larose of Fourth street over the week end.

Sunday being the second Sunday of the month the Children of Mary received holy communion in a body in St. Mary's Memorial church at the 7.30 o'clock mass with a large number of members being present. Rev. William A. Keefe, the pastor, was celebrant of the mass and was assisted by Rev. Frederick M. Coholan in distributing holy communion to the communicants. After the mass the society left the church in a body for their rooms in the basement of the church where they held their January meeting.

The seventh of January being Christmas for the Russian Orthodox midnight services were held Friday evening, their eve of Christmas, at St. Nicholas' church on Convent avenue with a large number of the parishioners attending. The services were conducted by the pastor, Archpriest Walter Richloff, who also gave an interesting talk to his audience, the topic being Peace Amongst Men. Special services also were held Saturday, Christmas day, at ten o'clock, with another large audience attending. The choir under the leadership of Michael Rutckovcky rendered songs of Christ-has spirit in a very pleasing manner. Among those in attendance were people from Westerly, New London, Jewett City and Montville. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with Christmas trees and evergreens. At the entrance of the church two large Christmas trees were placed at each side of the door. On Saturday next at five o'clock the Sunday school children of the church will hold their Christmas tree celebration in the basement of the church where they will receive their gifts. A special program will be given by the children for the benefit of their parents and friends. The program will consist of recitations and songs relating to Christmas, also a pageant which will show the Russian people what this country has done for their country in her trials and tribulations when need was greatly appreciated.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Sullivan have returned to their home on Fifth street after being recent visitors in Hartford.

Mrs. D. Louise Atterbury of Paige street attended the installation of officers of the Mary Todd Lincoln Tent, No. 15, at Willimantic Monday evening.

Miss Gerre Fitzgerald of Hartford spent the week end with Miss Frances Fenton of Oak street.

Thomas Howarth has returned to Southbridge, Mass., after spending the week end at the home of his uncle, Patrick Kennedy of Boswell avenue.

George Counihan has returned to Southbridge, Mass., after spending the week end with relatives on Boswell avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Conklin have returned to their home in Danielson after spending the week end at the home of their daughter, Mrs. James Mileski of Fifth street.

John McClafferty has returned to Southbridge, Mass., after spending the week end at his home on Hickory street.

Miss Katherine Ryan has returned to Brooklyn after being the guest of her cousin, Mrs. Peter Gadle of Seventh street.

Month's mind masses of requiem offered at St. Mary's Memorial church this week were on Tuesday morning for the late Mrs. Ann Patterson, and Thursday for Francis X. Marchssault. Relatives and family friends were present in large numbers at each service. The masses were offered by the pastor, Rev. William A. Keefe.

NAVY MAN WAS SPEAKER BEFORE CONGREGATIONAL BROTHERHOOD

A shore dinner and a talk by A. A. Lotte, U. S. N., Submarine Base, Navy Yard, featured the monthly meeting of the Brotherhood of the United Congregational church Monday evening at the Community house. The supper was served at 6:30 o'clock the menu being as follows:

Cherry Stone Cocktail
Clam Bouillon Steamed Clams
Crabmeat Salad Fish Cakes
Clam Chowder Rolls
Coffee Lemon Sherbet
Saltines Crackers
Vanilla Creams

Following the supper the business meeting was called to order by President Harold S. Robbins and the report of the secretary was read by Jean Kiefer, secretary-protem. During the evening Earl Styers, who has been heard on the air from Station WTIC, Hartford, entertained with two excellently rendered vocal solos, with Joseph S. Adams at the piano.

President Robbins introduced A. A. Lotte, U. S. N., as the speaker of the evening. Mr. Lotte, who is an instructor at the submarine base, chiefly on torpedoes, gave a very interesting talk on peace. He said that all of his useful life has been passed in the navy. During his naval service he has been around the world and lived for three years in China. A man in a military organization respects our engines of destruction, he said. I am an extreme pacifist, but I don't believe we should scrap our armaments and submit ourselves to the mercy of the world. We should do that when the time comes and I honestly believe the time is coming.

In the stone age man invented the stone hatchet to destroy his neighbor. The weak man started to think and to invent for himself. Later the neighbors combined forces to attack the people on the other side of the ridge. Tribes followed and tribes developed into nations. We are today in the period of nations.

Mr. Lotte said he has great regard for China and that all China needs is education. The Chinese is industrious but has gotten into a rut, he said. The speaker said that what is needed before world peace can come is for the peoples of the world to get acquainted with each other. He spoke of the radio and of aviation as means of bringing the people of the world closer together.

He expressed the opinion that world peace will not come in this generation. Give the younger generation a chance, he said, and they will get acquainted with their neighbors and will see the world in a new light.

The committee in charge of the supper comprised Charles S. Holbrook chairman, E. V. Ross, C. E. Fitch and C. I. Smith. They were assisted in serving by Clyde Haden and James Chapman.

The committee for next month's supper comprises Dr. C. A. Spear, chairman, Clarence G. Thompson, Albert Bliven, Walter F. Lester and Will L. Stearns.

LIEN RELEASED AFTER STANDING MANY YEARS

Following a hearing here Monday morning before Judge C. B. Waller in the common pleas court, a judgment lien which had stood since 1911 was discharged. It was for $1,522.09 with costs of $31.68 and interest and had been placed on June 12, 1911 on two tracts of land on West Thames and Thames streets near the Richmond Radiator Co. factory.

According to the complaint, Louis Pierano of New York city obtained the judgment on Feb. 27, 1911 against John Paracenti of this city and as a result a judgment lien was placed upon property owned by Johanna (Paracenti) Ceccarelli of New London, formerly of this city, the divorced wife of John Paracenti.

The papers claimed that John Paracenti did not on June 12, 1911, have any right, title or interest in or to the real estate and that the lien placed on the property owned by Mrs. Ceccarelli was invalid, but has not been discharged of record, although written notice was given to Louis Campora of New York to do so.

In order to have the title to the land mentioned clear, Mrs. Ceccarelli brought a suit in equity, through her counsel, Brown & James, against Louis Campora, as executor of the estate of Louis Pierano, late of New York city. Mrs Ceccarelli is now the wife of Peter Ceccarelli of New London.

Judgment on sworn bill of particulars in the case of Natural Produce Co. against S. Patterson, Inc., et al., went off the list.

Quinn & Co., against the N. L. Globe Co., judgment on sworn bill of particulars; postponed.

Humphrey-Cornell Co. vs. M. L. Mason, judgment; off.

John Grippo vs. Jerome Mousette, disclosure of defense or judgment, foreclosure and limitation of time; postponed.

Franklin A. Chapman vs. John Hewetson, further continuance granted.

Giovini Tamborninl vs. James Wade, et al., disclosure of defense or judgment; off.

Mary Dubois vs. Michael Zayontz, of ux, disclosure of defense or judgment; off.

Joseph A. Sadoway vs. Harry B. Ford, adm., disclosure of defense or judgment; off.

Lawrence E. Collins, et al., vs. John Morell, disclosure of defense or judgment; off.

Christena Pasqualine vs. Valeria S. Foran; disclosure of defense or judgment; off.

Anna Horowitz vs. Rose Kalmanowitz, et al., approval of sale, compensation to committee and supplemental judgment; postponed.

CHRISTMAS BASKETS TO SPANISH WAR VETERANS

Each of the thirteen Spanish War veterans at Norwich State hospital was personally presented a Christmas basket when the annual visit of Major L. B. Almy auxiliary, No. 15, U. S. W. V., was made to the hospital. The baskets were filled with fruit, raisins and smokes and were distributed by Muriel S. Greene, department president of Connecticut, and Jennie C. Randall, junior vice president of Major L. B. Almy auxiliary and chairman of the committee.

TIDEWATER PAPERBOARD CO TO ISSUE MORE STOCK

Certificate of issuance of aditional shares of capital stock of the Tidewater Paperboard Co., approved by the office of Secretary of State Francis A. Pallotti, has been filed for record with the office of City Clerk Julian D. Moran in New London. The certificate indicated that the stockholders of the company, on July 2, 1927, had voted to authorize the directors to issue $5,000 shares of unissued authorized preferred stock of the comporation and on Dec. 20, 1927, the directors voted to issue 1,000 of such unissued authorized preferred stock shares.

The instrument indicated that the 1,000 sharess of such stock, with par value of $100, had been issued and the sum of $100,000 in cash had been paid into the corporation treasury. A majority of the directors, including J. G. G. Kerry, D. Macleod, David F. Robertson, C. Hadlai Hull and Frank L. McGuire, had signed the certificate.

SMITH AVENUE SCHOOL IS NOW IN THE HONOR LIST

Smith avenue school has joined the list of 100 per cent. thrift savings schools in Norwich. The December thrift reports show that Smith avenue school is now a 100 per cent. thrift savings school, every pupil buying thrift stamps and saving money, living up to the slogan on the thrift pin, "Every Girl and Boy a Banker."

Miss Katherine Smith of the Norwich Savings society, who has charge of the school savings, is pleased to make this announcement to the pupils of Smith Avenue school, as they have worked patiently to reach the 100 per cent. goal, encouraged by their teachers, Mrs. Lina Spalding, Miss Lena O'Brien and Miss Catherine McVeigh.

The other 100 per cent. schools are Broad street, East Great Plain, Sachem street, Hobart avenue, Laurel Hill and Occum.

NORWICH TOWN

CHILDREN ARE GIVEN TALK BY REV. CHARLES E. REEVES

Rev. Charles E. Reeves, of Norwich Town, spoke at the children's service Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the First Methodist Episcopal church, about "The Boy Jesus." The usual number of boys and girls listened with interest to Rev. Mr. Reeves' talk. The children repeated after him a prayer, at the close of which Rev. Mr. Reeves offered prayer. Miss Virginia Ward was in charge of the musical part of the service.

At the Methodist Christian Endeavor service Sunday evening, Lewis Aldrich was leader. "What Prayer Can Accomplish," was the topic assigned. The scripture lesson was Mark 11:20-26.

When the Junior C. E. society of the First Congregational church held its meeting Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, the topic was "Learners and Doers" of the Word. The leader was Esther O'Mara. An interesting feature of the meeting was the "Story of the Three Bells," told by Miss Sadie J. Dawson.

The annual report of the Cradle Roll, of the First Congregational Sunday school, shows a membership of about sixty children, seven having been graduated during 1927 to Junior Endeavor society and Sunday school classes. An offering of twelve dollars was received from the mite boxes. This money was sent to the Woman's Board of Missions in Boston, to be used for work among children at home and abroad. Miss Bernice Underwood is Cradle Roll leader.

During the morning worship at the Congregational church Sunday, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey told his parishioners that Miss Gertrude Avery, of Bombay, India, had sent New Year greetings to all her Norwich Town friends.

The Young People's Christian Endeavor service Sunday evening was in charge of Rev. Mr. Bailey, who ably treated the topic, "What Prayer Can Accomplish."

The Congregational mid-week service for conference and prayer Thursday evening will have for its theme, "Discipleship," Matthew 10:1-15, 24-33. The Learner in Life's School, The Purpose, the Commission and the the Test of Discipleship, will be special subjects for discussion.

Following this, at 8:15, there will be a meeting of the Church corporation, when officers will submit their reports, also minutes of the last meeting in January, 1927.

The Woman's department of the League of Service, recently organized, is to hold a meeting in the Congregational chapel Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. A social hour will follow.

GOV. SMITH DENIES PLEAS OF RUTH SNYDER AND GRAY

The Governor in His Denial States That He Has Searched in Vain For Any Basis on Which to Grant Executive Clemency—Has Failed to Find Any Extenuating Circumstances for the Deliberate and Premeditated Murder—The Couple Are Scheduled to Die in the Electric Chair Thursday Night

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Governor Smith today denied the pleas of Ruth Snyder and Henry Judd Gray for executive clemency. Both are scheduled to die in the electric chair Thursday night for the murder of the woman's husband.

"The execution of this judgment on a woman is so distressing that I had hoped that the appeal would disclose some fact which would justify my interfering with the process of law," the governor said, in announcing his decision.

"I have searched in vain for any basis which my conscience in the light of my oath of office will approve, on which I might temper the law with mercy," he continued. "Up to this writing, there is no extenuation shown for what the seven judges of the court of appeals, in agreement with the 12 jurors and the trial justice, have found to be a deliberate and premeditated murder committed by these defendants."

With the governor's decision, it seemed almost certain that the condemned pair would die in the electric chair Thursday. While Mrs. Snyder's attorneys were in disagreement as to whether they should appeal to the federal courts for a writ of habeas corpus, there was no indication that any further effort would be made to save Gray.

The governor said the case had received my anxious consideration," the governor said, "not merely since the hearing before me upon the application for executive clemency, but ever since the court of appeals unanimously affirmed the conviction of the defendants."

Governor Smith announced his decision to a group of newspaper men in the temporary executive offices he has established in his suite in the Biltmore during Mrs. Smith's recovery from an operation for appendicitis.

In their appeal to Governor Smith, heard at Albany January 5, counsel for Mrs. Snyder and Gray admitted that their clients had unquestionably killed Albert Snyder, art editor, but argued that they might have been so emotionally diseased that they were incapable of doing right, even though they recognized the difference between right and wrong.

Edgar F. Hazelton, chief of Mrs. Snyder's counsel, said he had recently discovered that a severe sunstroke and a serious fall, in her youth, had left his client in a twilight zone of limited responsibility, not recognized by the older school of medicine but capable of explanation by the new psychiatry.

Hazelton asked a stay of execution for 30 days in order that the impulses of the couple might be studied by psychiatrists and psychoanalysts, and expressed the opinion that capital punishment was due to be abolished soon anyway.

The principal plea on behalf of Gray was made by Samuel Miller, who described Gray as "a poor human mannequin in the control of that tragic and abnormal woman, Ruth Snyder." He asked a thirty-day stay, in order that commutation of the death sentence to one of life imprisonment might be sought.

LOSS OF MARINER RECALLS MURDERS OF 30 YEARS AGO

PORTLAND, Me., Jan. 10.—(AP)—After three decades of waiting, the sea has claimed its own, in payment for what has been termed one of the most brutal murders in history, veteran mariners said today when they learned that the third day had passed with no word from Captain Thomas M. Bram and the schooner Alvena.

That Captain Bram, master of the four masted schooner which sent a call of distress from Cape Hatteras on Sunday, is the same Thomas M. Bram who was sentenced to hang by a Boston court for the murder in 1896 of two men and a woman on the high seas, was the confident expression of local seafaring men.

And, equally as confidently did these men shake their heads, with doubt, when the possibility of the Alvena reaching this port, her destination, with her cargo of lumber from Jacksonville, Fla., was suggested.

They believed that the man who was convicted, but who escaped the gallows through the intervention of Mary Roberts Rinehart, novelist, and was paroled by President Taft and pardoned by President Wilson, has paid the toll of the sea.

The gruesome memories of the trial were recalled as follows:

Aboard the Barkentine Herbert Fuller, on a morning in 1896, came the opening of the tragedy, with the discovery of the badly beaten bodies of Captain Nash, master of the Fuller, and his wife, and the second mate. The murderous deed had been committed with an axe, to add to the horror of the scene.

Captain Nash was found in his chart house; his wife, in her bed, and the second mate, in his bunk where he had retired.

Charles Brown, the man at the wheel, was accused by Bram as the murderer and he was put in irons. Shortly, however, Bram was noted in the act of removing the missing axe from beneath a deck boat. Brown was then released, and Bram placed in irons.

At Bram's first trial, in Boston, in the same year as the murder, he was convicted and sentenced to be hanged. At a second trial, however, he was sentenced to life imprisonment, at Atlanta.

Mary Roberts Rinehart, who wrote a novel, weaving into it the story of the murder, then became interested in Bram, and her efforts were accredited with the parole being granted by President Taft. Later, the man was pardoned by President Wilson.

SEARCHING FOR EDEL WEST OF WALLINGFORD

WALLINGFORD, Conn., Jan. 10—(AP)—Fred W. Edel, sought by New Haven and New York police for the murder of Mrs. Guy Harrington, New York actress, is believed by police here to be in hiding in the western part of this township. A man whose description tallied precisely with that of Edel's fled from a load of hay where he had been sleeping when approached by an employe of the Gaylord farm sanitorium, where the hay was located.

He disappeared along the road leading toward Cheshire, a short distance from the farm.

The entire country west of Wallingford is familiar territory, according to police, who pointed out that the murder of John Mastriano, of Meriden, for which Edel was tried and acquitted, was committed in Cheshire township.

Farm houses and barns in the southern and western part of the township were being searched tonight and police were confident that the capture of Edel, who they are sure is without funds, was imminent.

DROPPED DEAD WHILE TALKING WITH A FRIEND

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Winton J. Baltzell, editor and author of works dealing with music, dropped dead tonight, apparently from heart disease, while talking with a friend.

He was born in Shiremanstown, Pa., in 1864.

SUSPICION POINTS TO THIRD HICKMAN MURDER

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 10—(AP)—The shadow of suspicion for possible complicity in a third murder today was thrust over William E. Hickman, the confessed slayer of Marian Parker and an admitted accomplice in the killing of C. Ivy Thoms, a druggist.

While alienists examined the youthful kidnaper in his jail cell, a girl witness electrified a court room where three men are on trial for murder by declaring the robber she saw kill a store proprietor looked more like Hickman than Harvey Lesher, one of the three defendants.

Roberta Scriver, the witness, was present when three robbers entered a drug store on Nov. 1, last, and killed A. V. Miles, the proprietor. Lesher and two companions, William Rohan and Mike Garvey, are accused of murder.

On cross examination by defense counsel, Miss Scriver said although she had identified Lesher from a police photograph as one of the robbers, she now felt that the man wielding the gun in the robbery looked more like Hickman.

In the county jail, guards reported that Hickman, his face ashen gray and his eyes wide with fear, fled precipitately from a room where three psychiatrists were examining him, to the door of his cell. There he cowered until the steel gate was opened and he rushed inside.

ROAD BUILDERS LOSE ON RURAL CONTRACTS

CLEVELAND, Jan. 10—(AP)—While engineers and state road officials were painting rosy pictures of a new era in road building, contractors attending the American Road Builders' convention here today heard two experts from their own number decry the unhealthy condition of industry for the rural highway contractor.

"Rural highway construction has wrecked more contractors than preferred bonds have wrecked homes," A. R. Hirst, chief engineer of the American Vibrolithic corporation declared in voicing the contractors' protests to the practices of bonding companies who back unstable contractors through unfair methods.

"The total money lost on rural contracts in the last decade far exceeds the total money made," Hirst said, "which means that our states and counties have more miles of road than they have paid for. Prices and conditions in the rural highway field have been so unsatisfactory to contractors that energetic attempts have been made to find an appropriate goat. The goat usually elected has been the surety bonding companies, who are willing to bond unstable bidders whose bids are too low."

Allan Jay Parrish, president of the Illinois Association of Highway and Municipal Contractors, Paris, Ills., declared the industry was in a 'sick and precarious condition" from the contractors point of view.

YALE STUDENTS HELD FOR PASSING OUT HAND BILLS

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Charged with illegal distribution of hand bills, in violation of a city ordinance, 19 Yale students were arrested here tonight as they attempted to pass out pamphlets among striking employes of two neckwear manufacturing firms.

The pamphlets, signed by three Yale students, oppose the open shop ruling that brought the two neckwear manufacturers here from New York city where they fought a closed shop basis with the United Neckwear Makers' union. The pamphlets were said to be part of an effort on the part of the students to prevent the manufacturers here from establishing an open shop.

Stern and Merritt and Beckman and Adler are the two firms who came here and where the strike is now going on.

The pamphlets were printed by "friends and members of the Yale Liberal club through the aid of the League for Industrial Democracy of New York city," and was the result of a conscientious investigation on their part to determine facts and merits of the controversy," between the union and the firms here.

PANAMA, Jan. 10—(AP)—Senora Guillermo Garcia de Parades, eldest daughter of President Chiari of Panama, gave birth to a boy yesterday morning.

DUBLIN, Jan. 10—President Cosgrave has received an invitation from the Canadian government to visit Ottawa during his coming trip to the United States and the invitation will be accepted.

DEMOCRATS GATHERING FOR JACKSON DAY DINNER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10—(AP)—The first nation-wide interchange of democratic opinions since 1924 gathered headway today with the arrival of many members of the national committee for the Jackson day dinner Thursday night and sessions of the committee later in the week.

Committee men streamed through party headquarters all day, each to participate in a brief conference with Clem L. Shaver, national chairman. These visits were followed by small group conferences behind closed doors in hotel rooms at which views on the party outlook were exchanged.

The predominant topic of interest was apparently the availability of Gov. Smith of New York, as the party nominee, and several committee members committed themselves to his candidacy without qualification, while no absolute opposition was expressed. This was attributed by some to the fact that southern committeemen were slow in arriving, and also to a precaution against antagonizing Smith backers so that a "favorite son" might have a chance as a compromise candidate.

A preliminary canvass of early arrivals indicated that Smith sentiment predominates in New York, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, West Virginia, Washington, California and Minnesota, although representatives from a number of other states were not on hand to report sentiment there.

ALL DAY DISCUSSION OF TARIFF IN THE SENATE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10—(AP)—The tariff was dressed up and dressed down in the senate today as another all-day battle was waged over the merits of the resolution of Senator McMaster, republican, South Dakota, declaring the senate in favor of an immediate reduction of tariff rates.

Two battle scarred tariff debaters carried on the argument as the democrats and republicans squared off once more in this issue. Pat Harrison, of Missouri, carried the battle for the democrats in favor of the resolution with the complaint that the tariff was responsible for many of the ills of the farmers. Watson of Indiana, led the defending administration forces throughout the stormy oratorical session, holding up a picture of American prosperity as evidence of the benefits of the tariff.

And while Senators Harrison and Watson battled each other the republican farm group pecked away at both men and turned the tariff debate eventually into one of farm relief.

BECK FIGHTING TO RETAIN HIS SEAT IN THE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10—(AP)—James M. Beck, fighting to retain his seat as a republican representative from Pennsylvania, today described himself as a Philadelphian who was in his home town "almost every week."

Testifying under oath before the house elections committee investigating democratic charges that he is ineligible because he was not an inhabitant of Pennsylvania at the time of his election, Beck, a former solicitor general of the United States, described his Washington home as that which held the things he loved most.

His books and paintings are in Washington, he added, asserting that his residence here was pretentious as compared to his Philadelphia apartment.

"I admit that I spend more time in my Washington home than in my Philadelphia home," Mr. Beck said, "but I am in Philadelphia almost every week."

SUBPOENAS ISSUED FOR TWO OIL CASE WITNESSES

WAHINGTON, Jan. 10—(AP)—The absence of Don K. King, a newspaper reporter and J. Ray Akers, who charged Edward J. Kidwell Jr., a juror in the Teapot Dome conspiracy case with having talked about the trial, caused counsel for Harry F. Sinclair and his associates to issue subpoenas for them today. King and Akers had been summoned as government witnesses in the criminal contempt proceedings against Sinclair, William J. Burns and their four co-defendants.

King and Akers, whose affidavits figured in the oil mistrial, were called today to testify in Justice Frederick L. Siddons' investigation into charges of intimidation made against James J. O'Leary, assistant district attorney. Neither answered and it was explained to the court that King's employer had notified the district attorney several days ago that he had been called to North Dakota by the serious illness of his wife. Akers' absence was not explained.

THE AMERICAN MERCHANT MARINE IS IN A SAD STATE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10—(AP)—Representatives of private shipping interests in conference with the shipping board today agreed that the American merchant marine was in a sad state, but were unable to agree on remedial measures. Chairman O'Connor in opening the conference declared that "while we are fussing over who will hold the reins the horse is starving."

Eastern steamship interests and middle western manufacturing interests clashed over the proposal of the American Steamship Owners' association that "the government get out of the shipping business."

Malcolm Stewart, representing the middle western foreign trade conference, declared that "if the government gets out of the steamship business we won't have any steamship business at all."

147 MEMBERS OF THE MAFIA FOUND GUILTY

ROME, Jan. 10—(AP)—One hundred and forty seven members of the notorious Mafia were found guilty today by a jury at Termini Imerese, Sicily, of various crimes including murder. Seven of those arrested in the round-up of the gang, which had terrorized Sicily for a generation, were acquitted. The jury was out for three days after a trial which lasted three months.

After the verdict was announced the crown prosecutor asked the court to impose these penalties: Hard labor for life for seven, 30 years imprisonment for eight, and imprisonment of from five to 25 years for the others convicted.

Stock Prices Broke Under Money Scare

Avalanche of Selling Orders in Speculative Issues Caused Sharp Reaction in the Market.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10—(AP)—The stock market experienced another "money scare" today and prices broke sharply under an avalanche of selling orders in speculative issues. Extreme declines ran from $2 to $10 a share, but they were moderately reduced in a late rally. For the third time this year and fifteenth time in the history of the New York Stock exchange, the daily sales ran over 3,000,000 shares.

The recent advance in the stock market has been based largely on the tremendous supply of money at easy rates. Therefore, the reported stiffening in bankers' acceptances and time money rates and the attention drawn to the recent expansion of bank credit, particularly on securities collateral, at annual bank meetings, which suggested the possibility of higher interest rates and a reduction in the amount of credit available, led to widespread liquidation. The market, having developed a top-heavy speculative position through the recent manipulation of pool specialities, proved vulnerable to attack.

"Bear" traders started to hammer stocks from the opening, but they temporarily suspended their attacks around mid-day when the United States Steel corporation reported the unexpectedly large increase of 518,430 tons in unfilled orders last month. Prices rallied $1 to $3 a share on this announcement, but trading turned dull on the rally, whereupon "bears" renewed their attacks and received assistance from liquidation by disappointed traders and investors who offered stocks freely in an effort to conserve part of their rapidly vanishing paper profits.

Failure of the directors of the New Haven railroad to resume dividends on the common stock, as expected a few days ago, and the decision of the stockholders of the Chase and National City banks to ask for the removal of their securities from trading on the New York Stock exchange also were regarded as adverse factors. The bank stocks dropped $3 to $18 a share, but the trading was largely in 10 share lots. New Haven common sold down to 61 1-2, as against a recent high of 66 3-4, and then rallied above 63 for a small fraction gain on the day.

POISONED AIR CAUSED DEATHS IN THE SUB S-4

BOSTON, Jan. 10—(AP)—A deadly percentage of carbon dioxide had poisoned the air in the torpedo room of the S-4 before rescuers could convey a supply of oxygen to six men imprisoned in the sunken submarine, the naval court of inquiry investigating the S-4 disaster was informed today.

For the first time Lieut. C. J. Flotte, who acted as medical officer in the salvage operations, made public today the result of tests of air returned from the torpedo room after air lines had been attached to the listening tube on the night of December 21. The tests, made at the Boston navy yard, revealed 7 per cent of carbon dioxide.

"Life could not have existed when the carbon dioxide reached this percentage," Dr. Flotte said. "Three per cent of this gas is considered highly dangerous to life.

"There was not only the question of the high percentage of carbon dioxide to be considered, but the low temperature of the water, which was 34 degrees, the element of exposure to this. The six men had existed for 72 hours in this low temperature with 18 inches of water on the floor, no food, no water, without proper clothing. All of these things contributed to hasten the end."

THREE AVIATORS CRASHED TO DEATH IN HEAVY FOG

CANAJOHARIE, N. Y., Jan. 14.—(AP)—Driving at full speed through an impenetrable fog which hid the earth beneath them, three aviators in a big cabin monoplane crashed to instant death in a farm meadow, near Rural Grove, seven miles southeast of here Sunday afternoon.

The fog that hung over the Mohawk valley on Sunday and Monday was so dense that although the plane crashed within 100 yards of a farmhouse and less than 200 yards from a traveled highway, the accident did not become known until this morning, at least 49 hours after its occurrence.

The dead:

Raymond Henries, of Buffalo, a pilot in the air mail service.

Captain Edward M. Pauley, of Albany, a commercial aviator.

George F. Benedict, of Peoria, Ill., a merchant interested in aviation.

The bodies of the three victims were mangled, and the plane was so crumpled that it resembled a big ball of metal and fabric.

REPORT OF FREE PUBLIC EMPLOYMENT BUREAUS

HARTFORD, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Positions were secured for 2,527 men and women throughout the state during December, 1927, by the five free public employment bureaus of the state bureau of labor, it was announced today. Of these, 1,300 were men and 1,227 were women.

Applications for employment, however, totalled 4,339 for the month, of which 2,756 were men and 1,583 were women, while 2,698 requests for workers were received from employers.

Forty-seven per cent. of the male applicants for employment were supplied with situations during the month, as compared to 63 per cent. during November. Of the female applicants, 77.5 per cent. were supplied, as against 77.3 in November. In all, 55 per cent. were supplied in December, compared to 69.3 per cent. in the previous month.

THIRD DEATH IN FAMILY DUE TO TRICHINOSIS

SPRINGFIELD, Mas., Jan. 10—(AP)—A third death due to trichinosis occurred today in the family of Mr. and Mrs. Domenico Romeo when their daughter, Amelia, 10, died of the disease. A son, Thomas, 12, and daughter, Ellen, 13, have died within two weeks and the mother is today in critical condition. The symptoms in all cases have been identical, it is said. The family ate sausage made at home from locally butchered pork.

Warns Newspapers of Responsibilities

Advice Given by Editor Spender in the Second of the Bromley Lectures at Yale.

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 10—(AP)—A warning that newspapers must be extremely careful not to allow themselves to be used by their governments for political and propaganda purposes, was issued by J. Alfred Spender, former editor of the Westminster Gazette in the second of the Bromley lectures at Yale university tonight.

"Candor in controversy, frank facing of difficult issues, even at times of warning of trouble ahead, must be counted among the duties of journalists," he declared.

"The minister is often unaware of the nature and power of the instrument he is trying to handle when he endeavors to make use of the press. He uses newspapers to fly kites which he afterwards disowns, and gives them an impetus toward a bellicose policy and finds too late that he has started them down an inclined plane from which it is impossible to recall them.

"The safe thing, the easy thing, the commercial thing is to go with the tide; the dangerous thing, the unpopular thing, to attempt to stem it. Here is one of the dangers of an over-commercialized press.

"The scarcity in all countries of a free-lance press, which will play this part, is a very serious fact in the conduct of international affairs. To measure rightly the power of dissentient minorities is a large part of statesmanship in this sphere, and as things are, there is no clear guidance.

"It is for statesmen to remember that if they get into the atmosphere of war, or encourage newspapers with war-like promptings, they are releasing forces which may quickly pass out of their control and the control of them who profess to direct them. As the press is now being organized in most parts of the world, it becomes highly important for statesmne to understand the conditions on which it can and cannot be safely used, and for journalists to realize the nature of the forces they are dealing with."

TRIAL OF VELMA WEST FOR KILLING OF HUSBAND

PAINESVILLE, Ohio, Jan. 10—(AP)—The grand jury that will decide whether 21 year old Velma West shall stand trial on a first degree murder charge for the killing of her husband, T. Edward West, today heard the testimony of a 56 year old man who said he was her former sweetheart.

He is William Chapman, proprietor of a Cleveland restaurant, who was quoted in newspapers after West was murdered as declaring that Velma broke off their romance when she eloped with the man she later killed.

Details of the bridge party that was the basis of the quarrel between young West and his bride culminating in his death were laid before the jury by a group of young women friends of Mrs. West. In her confession, as quoted by Prosecutor Seth Paulin, the girl said she quarreled with West when he objected to her attending the party in Cleveland, struck him down with a hammer and left him on the floor of their bedroom while she went to the party. Among the girl witnesses was Mable Young, hostess at the bridge gathering, and at whose home Velma passed the night.

Twenty-four witnesses waited their turns today to go before the jury. One of them was a former employer of Mrs. West who said he had discharged her because "she paid too much attention to the boys." Many others were neighbors who were called to tell of the domestic life of this country boy, West, and his city bred wife.

Velma again had company in her cell tonight, Sheriff Edward Rasmussen having placed a deputy matron with her when the girl showed evidences of extreme nervousness.

FORD AND EDISON WERE CENTER OF ATTRACTIONS

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—(AP)—The Fords and the Edisons had a quiet little visit today while a crowd of thousands jostled around them, pushing and pulling and jockeying for just a glimpse at the two white-haired giants of the machine age.

The occasion was the electrical wizard's inspection of Ford's exhibition of automobiles, airplanes, tractors and machines of many kinds at Madison Square Garden. Police arrangements were so thorough that the two men and their wives moved peacefully from one exhibit to another in a solid circle of blue uniforms against which the crowd pushed in vain.

Both men were in high spirits, Ford pretending to be frightened at the flashlights of news cameramen and Edison making jests audible only to his own party. Ford had to lean close to the inventor's right ear to shout his comments and Edison, as though Ford were deaf too, replied in like manner.

After inspecting the exhibition, Mrs. Ford and Mrs. Edison left and the two men escaped from the crowd in the office of Tex Rickard, where they had a chat with the boxing promoter, then eluding the waiting reporters and photographers, they slipped out a rear door and drove away together in Ford's waiting car.

DECLINE IN WHOLESALE PRICES OF BREAD SINCE 1920

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10—(AP)—A pound loaf of bread cost the American family 8.55 cents over a three year period recently studied by the federal trade commission, with the farmer who raised the wheat receiving 1.15 cents and the baker 5.11 cents of the amount.

With nearly half the bread now consumed in the United States produced by commercial bakeries and with three companies controling about 30 per cent of that output, the commission found that competition was keen, although price cutting wars had resulted in price fixing agreements in some cities.

The report of the commission, prepared for the senate and made public today, said it had been observed that where restraining influences on competition were found indications frequently pointed to activities of national, district or local associations or clubs of bakers or millers. These associations, it was added, are prominent in price fixing activities.

Wholesale bread prices have shown a pronounced decline from the high levels of 1920, with prices in a general way following the trend of flour prices during that period, the commission noted.

PAPAL ENCYCLICAL ON THE UNION OF ALL CHRISTIANS

Pope Pius XI Informs the Entire World That All Believers Dissenting From the Roman Catholic Church Must Return to the Faith of the Church of Rome If They Really Wish a Union of all Christians—Encyclical Removes All Hope of a Reunion of the Anglicans With Rome.

ROME, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Protestants, Orthodox believers and all others dissenting from the original Roman Catholic church, must return to Rome if they really wish a union of all Christians, is the substance of a papal encyclical to the episcopacy of the of the entire world, issued today. There is no safety outside the Romon Apostolic Catholic church, Pope Pius XI repeats once more.

During the pontificate of Benedict XV, prominent American members of the Protestant church came purposely to Rome in order to induce the pope to send a representative to a conference for union of the churches. The pontiff received them most cordially, listened to them with the greatest attention, but answered in effect: "There is nothing we desire more ardently than a union of all Christians, but this can be obtained only in one way—by the return of the wandering sheep to the fold."

In this, the first encyclical of the new year, the pope, restating the Roman Catholic church's age-long stand on the union of Christians, emphasizes that while it is good to cultivate charity among Christians, it should not be done to the detriment of the faith upon which that very charity is founded.

The pontiff, recognizing the general tendency towards better international union between peoples, deplores the fact that "some seem to wish to transfer it from the political to the religious field, thus blending the true religion with the false, holding all religions equally good and praiseworthy.

"God, the Creator," says the pope, "is also the revealor to man of the way in which he founded his church on earth. The duty of the human being therefore is to believe God's revelations, and consequently adhere to the church—not that which is supported by the erring, but, on the contrary, to that church which in verity was willed and founded by Christ and which by the promise of Christ's own assistance perseveres as one and identical throughout the centuries—namely, the Apostolic Roman church."

Pointing out that those who deny this unity of faith and government of the real church of Christ, and who desire a union by means of an accord on a few points, "fundamental," according to them, the pope declares that that would be leading truth into error and bargainings into and human transactions which would be treacherous, and against which the Roman church has always resisted, and continues to resist.

Therefore, the pontiff concludes, it would be impossible to conceive of a Christian society of the faithful, free to follow, each one his own way of thinking in the matter of faith.

The encyclical is interpreted in Rome as removing all hope for the resumption of the memorable "malines conversations," looking to a reunion of the Anglicans with Rome, in which the late Cardinal Mercier, Lord Halifax and other noted men took part.

PRESIDENT OF PANAMA IN FLIGHT WITH LINDBERGH

PANAMA, Jan. 10—(AP)—The president and vice president of Panama were passengers in a de Haviland biplane flown by Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh today, providing a high spot in a day full of festivities in honor of the noted flyer's visit.

After a short test flight, Colonel Lindbergh took President Chiari up for a fifteen-minute trip. When the executive stepped from the aircraft after the first ride of his life he said: "Admirable! Magnificent! A man must fly in order to realize how insignificant he is in the universal order of things."

After cabinet members had hastened to congratulate the chief executive, Tomas Gabriel Duque, vice president of the republic and owner of the Star and Herald, a member of The Associated Press, stepped into the plane and went up with Lindbergh for a fifteen-minute flight.

The flyer was entertained at luncheon, receptions and sight-seeing trips. Everywhere he went he was acclaimed with the utmost enthusiasm. This morning he laid wreaths on the statues of Bolivar, South American liberator and Balboa, Central American discoverer, and at the foot of a monument to firemen killed in action.

REPORTER NOT GUILTY OF LARCENY OF SMITH LETTER

CONCORD, N. H., Jan. 10—(AP)—Fred H. Thompson, a Boston Post reporter, was found not guilty by a jury today of procuring the larceny of a copy of a letter written by Governor Alfred E. Smith, of New York for publication in the Atlantic Monthly.

The jury returned the verdict after deliberating for four hours and 20 minutes. Judge Oscar L. Young ordered a verdict of not guilty on another indictment charging Thompson with larceny of the copy of the letter.

Thompson was accused of having induced William E. Callahan, a former night watchman at the Rumford Press in this city, where the Atlantic Monthly is printed to obtain a copy of the letter for him. In the letter Governor Smith discussed the position of any Catholic who might be elected president of the United States.

The case had been on trial for four days, during which witnesses for the prosecution testified that the copy of the letter was worth from $5,000 to $10,000 while a newspaperman called as an expert by the defense said that it had no value.

Thompson denied that he had procured the copy or induced Callahan to obtain it for him. Callahan admitted that he had taken the copy from the printing plant, but maintained that he had received nothing from Thompson for it.

FORMER PAL OF HICKMAN PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO MURDER

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 10—(AP)—Pleading not guilty to a murder indictment for the death of C. Ivy Thoms, a druggist, 16 year old Welby Hunt today took the first step in his fight for freedom that eventually expected to bring him to the witness stand to testify against his former pal, William E. Hickman.

Hunt's plea, entered in superior court, tended to confirm his attorney's plans to have the boy client be a state's witness against Hickman when the latter's sanity trial begins January 25 in connection with his confessed slaying of Marian Parker.

Plans for Hickman's former partner to stake his testimony against that of Hickman and to have young Hunt testify his belief Hickman was sane and always had been since he set out on his criminal career were revealed by Hunt's counsel.

ANOTHER AIRPLANE CRASH IN NICARAGUA

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 10—(AP)—The second marine corps airplane crash in two days occurred this morning when a photographic plane went down near Trinidad, midway between Managua and the fighting zone.

The machine burst into flames when it hit the ground and was destroyed. The pilot and photographer were not injured.

15 NEW CASES OF SMALLPOX DISCOVERED IN MIDDLETOWN

MIDDLETOWN, Jan. 10—(AP)—Discovery of 15 new cases of smallpox here late today brought the total number of cases in Middlesex county to 43. Doctors from the state board of health said that several of these cases had been walking about town without realizing that anything was the matter with them. They added that there was no cause for alarm as the epidemic was characterized by an exceedingly mild form of the disease.

Middletown and Cromwell both had 16 cases reported within their boundaries, East Hampton had eight cases with no increase reported tonight. Portland and Chester each had a single victim of the disease.

Two doctors from the state board of health were here tonight aiding over worked local physicians in the task of vaccinating school children and others who came to take advantage of the free clinic established here.

Except for the closing of schools, churches and the theatre in East Hampton no action had been taken elsewhere of a similar nature.

RETAIL TRADE VOLUME IN DECEMBER SET HIGH RECORD

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10—(AP)—Retail trade volume in the United States last December, which includes the Christmas shopping season, was larger by one per cent. than in 1926, and set a new high record. The federal reserve board reported this calculation today, after compiling reports from all twelve of the federal reserve districts.

In several of the districts, there were declines, but these were more than made up for by the national average increase. December retail trade volume for Chicago was estimated to have been five per cent above the previous year, while that of New York was 3% per cent. above. Kansas City, Atlanta, St. Louis, San Francisco, Cleveland and Richmond were the other districts reporting increases.

Out of 437 department stores reporting to the reserve system, 227 enjoyed increased December sales, and 205 reported decreases. Mail order houses estimated their Christmas increase at 12.1 per cent. over the previous year, while five and ten cent stores had an increase of 10.2 per cent.

THREE STILLS WERE SEIZED IN WATERBURY

WATERBURY, Jan. 10—(AP)—Three stills, capable of producing 15 gallons of "moonshine" an hour, were seized late today by Lieut. James Murphy and the vice squad during a raid on an elaborate liquor manufacturing plant at 172 Hamilton avenue.

Leroy Thompson, 48, of 172 Hamilton avenue, who was arrested on the premises and John Sciortino, 33, of 219 Baldwin street, who was arrested on a warrant, are both charged with illegal manufacture of intoxicating liquor. Police are hunting for an Italian, known as "Pete" who is said to be the owner of the equipment seized.

In addition to the stills, 110 gallons of cider brandy, 28 50-gallon barrels of cider brandy mash, three 50-gallon barrels of rye mash, several bottles of coloring and a quantity of tins and barrels were confiscated.

NICARAGUAN MURDERER SHOT DEAD BY MARINES

BLUEFIELDS, Nicaragua, Jan. 10—(AP)—P. Escobar, on trial for murder, was shot and killed by United States marines today when he attempted to escape.

Upon reaching the prison on the way from the court house, just as a marine corps lieutenant started to lock him up, he fled.

The lieutenant's command to "halt" was unheeded. The lieutenant fired, hitting Escobar in the left shoulder. Two enlisted marines then opened fire. Escobar fell, and died a half hour later.

RECEIVERSHIP OVER THE C., M. & ST. PAUL TERMINATED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10—(AP)—Receivership over the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad in effect was terminated today when the interstate commerce commission finally approved the creation of a new corporation and the issuance of securities necessary to complete a reorganization.

WILLIMANTIC

Office 824 Main Street. Telephone 1131-2.

HARVEY H. BRONSON WAS MEMBER OF FRATERNAL BODIES

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Jan. 10.—Harvey H. Bronson, 38, local business man, who committed suicide Monday night by shooting himself in the right temple at his home, 84 Walnut street, was born in Worcester, Mass., Oct. 8, 1889, a son of Harvey and Mary Seeley Bronson. He was a member of the Willimantic Rotary club, Willimantic lodge, No. 1811, B. P. O. Elks and he was affiliated with several Masonic bodies including Thomas lodge, A. F. and A. M. of Palmer, Mass.; Trinity Chapter, No. 9, R. A. M.; Olive Branch Council, No. 10, R. and S. M., and St. John's Commandery, No. 11, Knights Templar, of this city; Sphinx Temple, A. A. O. N. M. S., of Hartford, and the Norwich Consistory.

The installation of officers of Mary Todd Lincoln Tent, No. 15, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War was held in G. A. R. hall Monday night preceded with a chicken supper served to members of the G. A. R. and invited guests including members of Barton Tent of Norwich. The installation was carried out by Mrs. D. Louisa Atterbury of Norwich, past department resident, assisted by Mrs. Jennie Newberry, department senior vice president. The officers installed were: President, Mrs. Mary Lovett; senior vice president, Mrs. Lizetta Brehant; junior vice president, Mrs. Amy Anderson; chaplain, Mrs. Mary Rafferty; treasurer, Miss Sadie E. Curley; council, Mrs. Florence V. Williams, Mrs. Blanche Montigny and Mrs. Mary Meehan; patriotic instructor, Mrs. Francis McKenna; secretary, Miss Elizabeth Hallock; press correspondent, Miss Anne Shea; guide, Mrs. Minnie Mathieu; guard, Mrs. Anna Dondero; assistant guard, Mrs. Leah Grimley; musician, Mrs. Harriet Ladd; color bearers, Mrs. Lucy Lynch, Miss Edith Twomey, Miss Corinne Picknell and Miss Bridgett Moriarty.

To use or not to use voting machines in the future elections of this community will be decided at a special meeting to be held in the town hall Wednesday night. The town electors have voted to purchase three voting machines provided that the city does likewise. The town's action is then subservient to the city's and the vote Wednesday night will determine whether or not the machines are to be used at all in either city or town elections. The old board of aldermen sanctioned the purchasing of three machines by the city and the city meeting is to vote on appropriation for their purchase. There were 23 petitioners who sought a ruling that the vote on the machine matter be taken by ballot and check list at the city meeting. Such a ruling was not in order, however, and the method of voting will be one that will have to be decided after the meeting opens. A canvass of opinions shows a majority in favor of securing the voting machines but it is known that a certain amount of opposition to the project will be on hand. The special meeting will also take up the matter of making the annual appropriation of $2,000 for the Willimantic Visiting Nurse association for the ensuing year.

The Windham National Bank stockholders held their annual meeting this morning and elected as directors: H. Clinto Lathrop, Edgar E. Bass, William A. King, William D. Grant, Louis A. YANTIC

ELECTRICAL SERVICE SOON FOR NEIGHBORING SECTIONS

Thursday evening, Nathan Gilman of Bozrah, president of the Bozrah Electric Light company, held a meeting in the Sodom school, for the purpose of interesting the people of the southern end of Franklin in electrical service. The townspeople were very enthusiastic and many from the Lebanon road petitioned for service for their homes. Before the evening was over, subscribers agreed to provide for the installation of electricity in nearly all the homes, from the Yantic bridge—Norwich Town line—to Smith's Corners, on the Willimantic road. It was suggested that the people of the Lebanon road be given service as far as the home of Jason Kingsley.

Mr. Gilman states that the poles will be set immediately, wires strung and he hopes that the people will begin to have the use of the electrical current by June.

As the majority of large farms cater to a milk supply base and have electric lighting systems of their own, they prefer the universal system and with it will undoubtedly follow the installation of many electric refrigeration plants.

DANIELSON

WINDHAM NATIONAL BANK RE-ELECTS ITS OFFICERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Jan. 10—This morning the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Windham County National bank was held at the banking rooms here, with a heavy proportion of the stock represented. As is customary with this institution, only directors were elected at this meeting, the officers to be elected at a subsequent meeting of the directors. There is one change this year in the directorate from the board of last year. It is again made up of Nathan D. Prince, who is president of the institution; Charles A. Tillinghast, Obadiah Butler, A. Don Bitgood, Moosup, and William E. Parker. The bank has just closed one of the most remarkably prosperous years in its history of more than a century.

DANIELSON MAN INJURED IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Jan. 10—Ross Lyon, Broad street, was so badly injured in an automobile accident about 5 o'clock this morning that he was removed in an ambulance to the Day Kimball hospital for treatment. He complained when assisted into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Benoni Meunier, opposite St. James' rectory on Franklin street, where the accident occurred, that his chief injuries appeared to be to his right side, indicating fractured ribs, but this was not clearly revealed by X-rays later taken at the hospital. It was not indicated today that his injuries are of a critical nature, though he was severely and painfully hurt.

Mr. Lyon is employed nights at the Dyer dam plant of the Connecticut company. He was on his way to Danielson this morning in a Ford touring car, the property of the company, to pick up motor coach drivers who were going on duty, when the wishbone on the car let go, causing it to go out of control and overturn. Mr. Lyon was riding alone. He is a particularly heavy built young man and the shock of the accident was a severe one for him.

PACO EMPLOYES PRESENT SNAPPY MUSICAL COMEDY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Jan. 10—Seventy-five Danielson people, nearly all of them employes of Powdrell and Alexander, with the curtain factory heavily represented, stepped out of their characters tonight to become thespians and to give an entertainment that delighted the audience that filled the Orpheum theater to capacity.

They elected to present a musical comedy—Jiggs in New York—and it was such a happy vehicle that it provided an abundance of mirth, colorful scenes and good music. The cast had been coached by William J. Brennan, and William Reddy was manager of the production and in a generous measure accountable for its fine success.

Henry Bodo, who is getting so good as to endanger his amateur standing, had the part of Larry Jiggs, and Miss Myrtle Arnold was Mrs. Jiggs. Winfred Pierce was Patrick Jiggs, Harold Warner, Tony Pasquale, Ralph Shoales, Dinty Moore, Leo Bodo the Count de Croskscrew, Mrs. Delia Perreault, Lady Hanna and Yvonne Racine, Mary Pasquale. These very capable peops were the featured players of the evening and much that is nice might be said about their work.

In addition there were featured musical numbers Yolande Camerlo, Stella Breayea, Julienne Chartier, The P. and A. quartet consisting of Messrs Herbert Pepler, Harold A. Roberts, Earle Winslow and Gordon J. Gale, and Henry and Leo Bodo and Harold Warner in "Garibaldi."

President J. W. Powdrell of Powdrell and Alexander and a delegation of 50 from the Boston office and factory of the concern came to Danielson for the production.

Chorus members were: Yolanda Camerlo, Beatrice Loiselle, Mary Provost, Grace Lis, Eva Morin, Alice Smith, Annie Peters, Stella Breayea, Agnes Charon, Staffie Vadas, Kathleen Kilgariff, Blanche Reeves, Cora Morin, Adriene Chartier, Julain Chartier, Edna Butts, Mildred Leanna, Mabel Copp, Lillian Parr, Mary Leanna, Jeanette Morris, Pearl Butts.

This morning the funeral of Mrs. Clara Masse, wife of Peter Masse, was held from the home in Baltiouville, with a solemn high mass of requiem at St. Joseph's church in Dayville at 9 o'clock. Rev. Ignatius Kost, the pastor, was celebrant of the mass, with Rev. James McCarthy, M. S., and Rev. Joseph A. Demers, M. S., both of Danielson, as deacon and sub-deacon. The large funeral congregation was representative not only of the various communities of the town of Killingly, but also of Norwich, Baltic, Occum, Taftville and Woonsocket. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery, the committal service conducted by Rev. Fr. Kost. Bearers were Clovis Parker, John Z. LaBelle, P. A. Levenoch, Germain Ledger, Noe Cusson and Etienne Favreau. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Early assumption of the contract of rebuilding the state highway between Danielson (West Side) and Brooklyn was forecasted today when a steam shovel and steam roller were being taken off railroad cars in the local yard. The early work will involve grading operations, largely, to make ready for the putting in of the crushed rock and surfacing in the spring and summer. Practically all of the four miles between the Quinebaug bridge and Brooklyn village are to be rebuilt. All of the work to be done will be within the limits of the town of Brooklyn.

Members of the Danielson fire department encountered a novel situation when some of them went out on what was a still alarm for what was supposed to be a chimney fire in the house known as the Peckham place at the corner of Cottage and School streets, and occupied by Edward Anderson. The house was filled with smoke when the firemen arrived and the difficulty appeared to be due to the setting up of an additional stove in a room where one had not been in use. Climbing up into the attic to trace along the chimney line Deputy Chief C. A. Hamilton discovered that the chimney that had been put into use after many years of disuse had long since been discontinued and topped over. Having no other source of exit, the smoke from this blocked up chimney poured through the house.

A telegram came this afternoon to thrill Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gareau of Potter street. It was from their son, Paul, a graduate of Killingly high school, and announced that this morning that he had made his first two solo flights as an aviator and that he made two perfect landings. He has been with the Nicholas Beazley company at Marshall, Mo., near St. Louis, since November 1, in training to be a commercial pilot. Upon obtaining his diploma as a flyer from that school he intends to return east and fly from Brainard field at Hartford to qualify for his pilot's license. Recently he wrote his parents that he saw the sister plane to Colonel Lindbergh's Spirit of St. Louis. The new one, of somewhat larger design than the famous Spirit, is magnificently appointed, with plush upholstery and silver trimmings. Mr. Gareau indicates the nation-wide interest that has developed in flying by stating that students are pouring into Marshall by the hundreds from all parts of the country, each and every one of them anxious to learn to fly a plane.

The following change is made in the order of officers of Danielson chapter, No. 77, Eastern Star from the list published in this column this morning: Mrs. Ella Chase, marshal; Mrs. Mabel Walters, chaplain.

Mrs. Clare Lamothe, a motion picture actress, has returned to Hollywood, Cal., after a visit here with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cloutier. Miss Lamothe is Mr. Cloutier's niece.

Simon Dufresne is slowly recovering from a severe cut to his left foot sustained five months ago, though he still requires hospital treatment. Mr. Dufresne cut his foot with an axe, the first severe injury he received in 35 years as a woodchopper.

Chauncey Genung, a deputy of the commissioner of domestic animals, Hartford, was in Danielson today on department business.

Raymond E. Allen remains incapacitated as the result of a severe cut, sustained with a razor while he was shaving.

Miss Frances Jessup has returned from a visit in Providence with Rev. C. C. Rimbarter and members of his family, and with Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Thomas at Thornton, R. I.

Treasurer Sidney W. Bard of the Brooklyn Savings bank conducted the service at Christ church, Pomfret at noon last Sunday.

Joseph J. Brennan, who is ill with pneumonia, remained in critical condition at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam today.

John A. Benson of Holyoke was a visitor with friends in Danielson this afternoon.

January continued to be unseasonably mild today, with a maximum temperature of 49 degrees this mid-afternoon.

Miss Margaret Sullivan, who fractured her left wrist last Sunday afternoon, returned from the Day Kimball hospital at Putnam today.

The monthly community scheduled to be held at South Killingly Thursday of this week has been postponed.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert J. Barnett, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bartlett were in New York today attending the automobile show.

The quarterly meeting of the standing committee of the Westfield Congregational church is scheduled to be held in the Jacobs library Thursday evening.

No ice cutting for the Danielson supply during the present week is now probable. The fog and rain and high temperature of last night spoiled the possibilities.

A monthly meeting of the Danielson W. C. T. U. was held this afternoon at the Westfield Congregational church.

QUARANTINE ON DOGS TO BE LIFTED TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Jan. 10—The dog quarantine that has ben in force in the town of Woodstock since November 1 is revoked at noon Wednesday of this week. Notice of this was given out today by Chief Special Deputy Howard A. Elliott, Hartford, of the commissioner of domestic animals. The town clerk of Woodstock, the dog warden and other interested officials have been notified.

Woodstock's dogs were put into limbo, as it were, more than two months ago after a stray dog, believed to have come over the border from Massachusetts, wandered into that town and started biting other dogs and attempting to bite people. Some dogs that were believed to have been bitten were killed; likewise the dog that started all the trouble. The quarantine has been a rigid one and the fact that it has been effective is attested by the failure of any cases of rabies to develop in Woodstock for weeks. Dog owners will be about as delighted to let their dogs have their freedom again as the dogs will be to have it. The quarantine has been irksome to both man and beast.

Webster has been the only important city in this vicinity which has had no Rotary club. It is no longer in this class as the Webster Rotary club was organized yesterday with nineteen members. The officers were installed by Putnam, Southbridge and Palmer Rotarians.

Dr. Joseph E. Sullivan was chosen president; vice president, Ralph K. Hubbard; Lawrence J. Daley, editor of the Webster Times, secretary, Raymond W. Sheldon, a former Putnam resident is one of the directors. Rev Fr. Rogers of Palmer gave a talk on the Ideals of Rotary which was enthusiastically received. Meetings will be held every Thursday at the Joslin house.

The following are the officers for the Ladies' Aid society of the Swedish church at North Grosvenordale: President, Mrs. Selma Johnson; vice president, Mrs. Carl E. Johnson; treasurer, Mrs. Charles T. Johnson; secretary, Miss Carrie Anderson, flower committee, Miss Florence Bild and Mrs. Magna Lorenz.

Miss Pearl Hart, night supervisor of the Mansfield State hospital has been the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hart. Miss Hart is to enter a hospital at Providence to undergo treatment for an infected ear.

Relative to the recent inspection of almshouses in Connecticut by the National Civic Federation and the somewhat unfavorable report regarding the condition of the Putnam Town farm, two of the selectmen of the town of Putnam, Clarence E. Pierce and William P. Warren have been interviewed. As they lacked any specific statements as to the unsatisfactory conditions of the town farm, they told of the conditions as they knew them. The Putnam Town farm with old farm house was purchased from the Sawyer estate shortly after Putnam was divided from the towns of Thompson, Woodstock, Pomfret and Killingly. Soon after this purchase, nearly fifty years ago, a new and at that time an up-to-date almshouse was built. This new building is still in excellent condition, is kept clean and tidy and appears to them to be satisfactory in every way. The old house is used for sleeping quarters for the men and at the present time is somewhat crowded and has not been made a modern building, there being no modern plumbing in the building. The selectmen have nothing but praise for the work of the manager, Mr. Hill, and so far as they are aware there has been no local critism of the care and attention of the unfortunate poor that is being given. A visit at the town farm shows that there are about twenty-three occupants and who are apparently well satisfied with the conditions as they find them. Lacking any specific information regarding the rating of the institution, the selectmen are not willing to make any comments regarding the unfavorable report and cannot understand such a report.

Mrs. Christine Anderson of Woodstock has undergone a second operation at a Hartford hospital. The plate in her thigh had shifted and had to be placed back into position. Several months ago, Mrs. Anderson fell at her home in Woodstock and broke her hip. She was taken to the Day Kimball where the fracture was reduced but the break did not heal readily and after several consultations with a specialist from Hartford, it was thought advisable to move her there. Mrs. Anderson is still under the care of the specialist as the break does not yield to treatment as it was hoped that it would do.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brousseau of Watertown, Mass., and George F. Brousseau of Boston have been the recent guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Brousseau of Wilkinson street.

Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Secunda and little daughter Patricia have returned to their home at Pittsfield, Mass., after spending several weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Harmidas Labonte.

Mrs. Floyd Manson and little daughter Shirley have returned to their home at Bridgeport after having visited Mrs. William Manson of Walnut street for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Byron Wilcox of Bridgeport have been the recent guests of Mr. Wilcox's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wilcox of Chapman street. Mr. Wilcox is connected with the Southern New England Telephone company with headquarters at Bridgeport.

Mrs. Augustus I. Morse and her granddaughter, Miss Esther Wilson are at Lakeview, N. J. Mrs. Morse expects to remain throughout the winter but Miss Wilson will return after a visit of several weeks with her grandmother.

Mr. and Mrs. John Perrin and two children of Worcester have been visiting Mrs. Perrin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brownlie.

Charles Ainley has returned from St. Vincent's hospital in Worcester where he has been a patient for several weeks. His health is much improved.

Mrs. Honorius Maynard and her niece Miss Jeanette Tourvikle have returned from a week's visit with friends and relatives in Providence.

CREOMULSION

FOR THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Your Cold May Develop Speedily into Pneumonia

If you've a cold, it's your danger signal. Pneumonia can follow speedily. Don't tolerate a cold. It too frequently leads into a fatal disease. Stop it; get over it. Creomulsion will help you do it. It is pleasant, easy to take. It is decidedly helpful. It can help you to avoid the dangerous diseases that usually follow coughs or colds that hang on.

If you've a "runny" persistent cold; if you've a deep, hollow cough that tears and hurts your throat; or, a cold that just won't get well, go and get a bottle of Creomulsion.

Take it like we tell you to take it, and we guarantee relief. We know what it can do. Millions of users know how it helps. Your money will be refunded if your cough or cold is not relieved, when you follow directions.

GALES FERRY

A fine entertainment was given under the auspices of the Epworth league in the vestry of the Methodist church Friday evening with Mrs. Courtland E Culver, chairman of arrangements. Frank Mell of Jewett City was the reader, and the soloists were Miss Charlotte Fowler, soprano, and George Hollingsworth, bass, both of Norwich, with Mrs. Rufus W. Hurlbutt of Gales Ferry accompanist at the piano. The progam opened with piano selection, Pierrette, Mrs. Robert Miller, Gales Ferry; reading, Rev. Platt Johnson's sermon; Mr. Mell, encore, A Lovely Scene; piano selections, Irma Mazurka; encore, Country Dance; Mrs. Miller, The Debating Society, Mr. Mell, encore, Kelly's Dream; Solo, My Memory, encore, The Hand of You, Miss Fowler; bass solo, Danny Boy, encore, One More Day, Mr. Hollingsworth; reading, Discourse on Apples, encore, Orthodox Teams, Mr. Mell; solo, With All My Heart, encore, Red Rose of Love, Miss Fowler; solo, I Passed by Your Window, encore, Parted, Mr. Hollingsworth; piano selections, Way Down South, encore, Novelette Gavotte, Mrs. Miller. At the conclusion Mrs. Culver expressed thanks to the reader, soloists and pianists, who had given such an enjoyable program. A social hour followed, during which sandwiches and cocoa were served.

The Ladies' Aid society of the M. E. church held a meeting Friday afternoon in the veshtry. The work was largely on aprons. At the pusiness meeting, the president, Miss Alice Satterlee presided. The secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Dudley C. Perkins gave her report. The president appointed a committee to arrange for the selling of certain furniture in the old parsonage upon the removal of Rev. and Mrs. Jerome Greer to the new parsonage, which is now nearing completion; also to consider the purchasing of any new furnishings subject to the approval of the society as a whole. This committee is Mrs. Eugene LaFontaine, Miss Sarah T Latimer, Mrs Billings, F. G. Crandall, Mrs. Charles Hoyt, Mrs. Jerome Greer.

The Kingdom of God, Romans 14:17 was the theme of Rev. Jerome Greer Sunday morning in the Methodist church. The anthem, My Soul, Longeth, was sung at the offertory. Rev. Mr. Greer received into membership of this church Mrs. Richard Parker by letter from Park Congregational church, Norwich. Church school at noon was conducted by Supt C. E. Colver. "The Messenger" was the subject of the evening service for the young people, with Miss Ethel Main leader. The subject was continued by Rev. Mr. Greer.

OUR MERCHANT MARINE

The American Merchant marine has been the cause for thoughtful consideration for many years. It promises to command attention for many years to come before a complete solution is reached. There's no telling when that will come if we are to judge by the progress that has been made since the war. We are still floundering around holding onto ships which ought to be in the hands of private capital and keeping the government in competition with private enterprise. This is not because there have been no proposals for accomplishing a change, but because none of them has been able to get approval.

What will happen to the latest proposition is of course a question. In connection with the establishment of a new line for the operation of a line of steamships that will cross the Atlantic in four days, with three sailings a week, the plan has been advocated for congress to advance three quarters of the necessary funds for the construction of such vessels. This would involve something like $30,000,000 in the form of a loan and in additional provisions would be asked for more favorable terms for the transportation of mail.

This comes at a time when the senate commerce committee has given approval to the Jones bill which would plunge the government more deeply than ever into the shipping business instead of calling a halt, selling the ships and turning the business over to private capital. It is in fact a proposition which has to do with the establishment of a terminal somewhere in New England or at Montauk point in order to shorten the distance and get away from the delays in New York harbor.

What congress will do is a mystery. It may be said that it is along the lines of the proposition for the building of the Boulder dam and that it will be the establishment of a precedent that will bother in the future. But a merchant marine must always get consideration from the standpoint of national defense, and American shipping presents a condition which cannot be ignored if it is going to be allowed to keep its head up among the others.

According to figures which have been put forth by the shipping board, American ships carried cargoes valued at $120,000,000 out of a total foreign commerce of $140,000,000 back in 1830. There was a steady gain each succeeding decade until in 1860 American vessels carried cargoes valued at $507,000,000 out of a total foreign commerce of $762,000,000. Then there was a change. We began to carry a smaller part of the goods. We saw foreign competition become stronger and stronger as our own shipping grew weaker and weaker. The American flag hadn't entirely disappeared from the high seas but it did not occupy the conspicuous place that was once the case when the war opened. We responded to the demand for ships and in 1920 we had the greatest volume of foreign commerce ever experienced in a single year. It reached a total value of $11,875,000,000. That was a peak that we could hardly expect to maintain, but the downward trend has been continuous, other countries have been pushing their shipping ahead and the maintenance of our merchant marine at such an efficiency as to retain the business is the problem confronted.

What is going to be done about it. With government help one concern wants to not only equal the advantages offered by foreign shipping but go ahead of it. Others advocate government support in another manner. On the other hand there is insistence that the government get out of the shipping business. What is best to do under the circumstances isn't the easiest question for congress to answer. It might be easier if this country regarded a subsidy as favorably as other countries do. Nevertheless the new proposition will give congress a chance to debate its merits and properly weigh its desirability.

COURTEOUS TRAFFIC COPS

It cannot be said that New York has set such examples in the past that other cities hasten to follow them when it comes to handling automobile traffic, but when its police commissioner directs the traffic officers to be courteous and establishes a school to give them instructions in so handling the traffic that discourteous, harsh treatment of drivers will be eliminated, it cannot fail to make other cities sit up and take notice.

Anyone who has watched very long knows that traffic officers have their troubles. They are subjected to all sorts of annoyances, forced to contend with many who have no intention of respecting regulations unless they are forced to and obliged to be emphatic at times in order to impress upon inconsiderate drivers that favors cannot be passed out to some and not to others.

Nevertheless there are those traffic officials who are discourteous, gruff and eager to bawl out the unintentional violator of rules. There may be difficulty in discriminating between the driver who intends to disregard regulations and the one who does so by mistake, but there is much of the ill temper that can be eliminated and should be, and it is to be hoped that New York's commissioner will make a pronounced success of his undertaking.

Inasmuch as New York is not the only city where the all powerful, ill tempered, inconsiderate traffic cop is to be found, it might be well if the new school which New York is establishing would open a correspondence course so that other cities might take advantage of the courtesy instructions.

We don't believe that there are many who would like to change places with the traffic cop. His work is by no means a snap and he certainly needs an unusually good disposition to remain clear headed and polite under all that he has to contend with, especially if he is stationed at a busy corner. Nevertheless it is gratifying that New York intends to see that courtesy is placed first and has taken steps to instruct its men in what it wants and what it believes to be possible. Its traffic cops may yet become its best diplomats.

LINDBERGH'S TOUR

Having reached Panama, a city to which he has long wanted to go, Lindbergh reaches the southernmost point in his flight. He has successively visited the capitals of the Central American countries and been invited to continue his visit to countries in the northern part of South America. Wherever he has gone he has received a tumultuous welcome. Furthermore he has made the same excellent impression that has characterized his other flights.

As he turns northward his objective will be Cuba and he will so govern his flight as to be at Havana for the opening of the Pan-American conference in that city next week to which President Coolidge and representatives of other countries in North, South and Central America will go.

The spreading of the spirit of good will could not have been put in better hands. Lindbergh has been eminently successful and while he has been giving his attention to and accepting invitations of Central American republics he is not unmindful of the importance of doing as much for the American possessions and island republics in the West Indies. Willingness to accept invitations from these means the continuance of his good work for some days to come.

His accomplishments, his method of coming and his personality and skill make him a most important personage, but they also help him to present aviation in a much different light. Like the victor of old, Lindberg's conquest of the air never fails to be acclaimed, and while he is making friends for himself and for his country he is also emphasizing the fact that the day is not so far off when there will be a much freer contact between nations through more frequent messengers of the air. None could have blazed the way with greater success than that which has attended the Lindbergh efforts.

NEGLIGENCE'S LESSON

Guarding against a firebug is not the easiest thing possible. Where safety would otherwise prevail, grave peril lurks when the pyromaniac or the spiteful get busy. Nevertheless there are precautions which ought to be established that will provide safeguards for humanity even though the menace of a firebug isn't taken into consideration.

The burning of a small, wooden hotel in New York state is attributed to an incendiary, but in the investigation which has followed it has been learned that while there was no negligence on the part of the owner or proprietor in connection with the fire the building was a veritable firetrap and few, if any, provisions were made for the protection of the guests under such conditions as those which prevailed.

It was a building where it might be expected that flames would make rapid headway once they got started, and yet that three story hotel was without fire escapes and without means of fighting fire! Three of the guests were trapped and lost their lives. Metal fire escapes or even ropes would have contributed to the needed protection, but they were missing. Because they had never been needed in the past was no cause for failing to provide them. The very fact that other attempts had been made to burn the hotel, even though they had been frustrated, should have caused sufficient thought to be projected toward the possibility of loss of life in case such a fire ever developed as that which wrecked the building.

There's no telling when the best in fire protection is going to be required and it is of the greatest importance that it should be available when wanted, whether that need arises within the next month, next year or not at all. The lessons of negligence continue to pile up in an impressive manner.

EDITORIAL NOTES

After the first week it comes a bit easier to write it 1928, but habit puts up an awful kick.

The January thaw is getting away to an early start. No prolonged cheer from the icemen.

The man on the corner says: Are you beginning to think about the spring plowing?

Whether it is accomplished or not, depends entirely on whether Sandino forces the marines to pound the sand out of Sandino.

A bill has been introduced in the Massachusetts legislature to curb the smoke troubles. Would that be enough to stop Miss Royden?

Even if Sir Esme Howard, British ambassador at Washington, claims immunity for his 14 year old son who struck and injured a girl while driving an auto, he should at least promise that the youngster will not be allowed to drive the machine again until he reaches the legal age for a driver in Washington.

THEIR UNREGENERATE YOUTH

Catherine opened a drawer of her dressing table and took out a letter. In the glance which she then turned upon her best friend, perched expectantly upon the bed, there was a light of unholy joy.

"Allison," she demanded, "what do you think of your mother and father?" Allison looked puzzled.

"I think they're awful nice, if that's what you mean, only maybe too kind of fussy sometimes."

"Oh, that, of course," Katherine dismissed this with a shrug. "I mean what do you think they did when they were—you know—young and everythnig? Do you think they ever wanted to go auto riding without any old person along or to the movies on a school night or those things—like we want to do all the time and they won't let us?" Allison shook her head.

"I don't think so," she said. "I think my mother just stayed at home and learned her lessons and maybe knitted herself a sweater, and dad raked the yard for grandfather and—and—and studied his lessons——" Katherine laughed derisively.

"To hear them tell it," she jeered. "But I guess things were really pretty different. Now, listen. You know my Aunt Frances that's visiting us? Well, the other day she said she had a letter from grandmother she wanted me to see, and so yesterday she gave me this." She held up the letter, at the same time lowering her voice slightly. "Now, listen. It isn't from grandmother at all—just some kind of a friend or something. I'm going to read it to you! The thrilling part anyway."

"'Dear Frances,'" she began. "'I'm so glad you're having such a wonderful visit. I'm not surprised. Virginia and Tom always were charming companions and from what you tell me of the children they must be a lively and interesting set.

"'I was greatly entertained by all the things you told me about them. But what really amused me so that I almost laughed myself sick is the high moral tone Tom and Virginia have adopted. I wonder what their progeny would think if they could know all the escapades of their revered parents.

"'The standards they have established for their children are irreproachable. But what of those same standards had they been left to the tender mercies of Tom and Virginia in their unregenerate youth? I loved your account of the lecture Tom gave Tom Junior about his low grades at school. Did Tom himself ever study anything as far as you can recall?

"'And Katherine isn't even allowed to go to an afternoon movie with a boy friend! Virginia must have forgotten her long string of beaus. And will you ever forget the furor when she threw over the Grand Rapids man she was engaged to and eloped with Tom? Right on the eve of the wedding too! It was a good thing, of course, because she and Tom were made for each other, but it is amazing that she should have developed into such a stern duenna.'"

Katherine's eyes gleamed with impish delight as she laid the letter down.

"That's all," she said. "The rest is just about relations and such dull things." Then she faced her friend, whose blue eyes had been growing larger and larger as the reading progressed, and demanded: "What do you think of that?"

"I can't hardly believe it," Allison breathed.

"Well, I guess it's true, all right," Katherine said. "And what's more, knowing my Aunt Frances as I do, I don't think it was any mistake her giving me this letter, though maybe she'd say it was. I think it's just as the letter says—she couldn't bear for 'em to get away with it."

Wide-eyed, Allison pondered this.

"But, after all," she said presently, "doesn't it make you like 'em—I mean our fathers and mothers—maybe all the better?"

"Sure it does," Katherine replied briskly. She rose and put the letter back in its hiding place. Allison watched her with interest. "Are you going to tell 'em about it?" she asked. Katherine turned upon her the serene look of one who knows her powder is perfectly dry.

"Not right away, I'm not," she answered. "But," with a ring of triumph in her voice, "if mother finds out I cut classes yesterday to go to the movies with Dick this'll be an awful good thing to know about!"—Chicago News.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Busy Days for Lorenzo Dow

Mr. Editor: Noticing in The Bulletin the article in reference to Lorenzo Dow. I have a book entitled The Dealings of God, Man and the Devil as exemplified in the life, experience and travels of Lorenzo Dow. I find on May 30, 1802 he spoke twice in Scotland, twice in Canterbury, then rode to Preston and spoke in Mystic, Groton and New London. June 2nd at Quaker Hill and Colchester, four times that day. Monday 7th the toothache took all my strength. Friday 11th preached in Andover (generally well behaved), from the 12th to 15th preached in Pomfret, Brooklyn, Canterbury, Franklin, Norwich and at the landing where the people appeared serious. And so on all over the country, 464 pages.

Time to Give Thought to Boys and Girls

Mr. Editor: In my travels abroad and at home, I have never known of such shocking crimes committed by young men as in America. There must be a reason for this terrible condition and many reasons have been given—thus far they have not reached the root of the growing crimes committed by young men. It seems to me that our great scientist, Mr. Edison, has given a very reasonable cause. In his laboratory the cigarette has been examined and found to contain a poison called creolin, that destroys certain cells in the brain, which can never be restored and leads the habitual user of cigarettes to commit crime. It may be recalled that the only reason why Loeb and Leopold committed their fiendish crime was because they wanted a "new thrill," it may also be recalled that all through the trial they exhibited no consciousness of the enormity of their crime. They were cigarette smokers. Is it not reasonable to believe that the poison of the cigarette had destroyed those "certain cells" in their brains and rendered them irresponsible.

Herbert Hoover is one of our greatest men and his word is eminently worthy of being considered for he is the truest friend of the children of the world. He wrote to President Coolidge some time ago concerning the boys and girls of America:

"We in America are far behind what a national conscience should demand for the public protection of our children. There is no agency in the world that is so seriously affecting the efficiency, health, educational character of boys and girls as the cigarette habit, yet very little attention is given to it. Nearly every delinquent boy is a cigarette smoker, which has certainly much to do with it. Cigarettes are a source of crime. To neglect crime at its source is a short-sighted policy, unworthy of a nation of our intelligence."

Here are two men of rarer character and sound minds, who have made every effort to rouse our nation to the realization of the ruin that is being wrought upon the character of our young people and we go on our way unmindful of the warning.

It would be interesting to know if the arch fiend, Hickman is a cigarette smoker.

Is it not time for our nation to wake up and banish cigarettes as we have liquors?

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Bronson Cutting, who goes to the United States senate to fill out the unexpired term of the late Senator Andrieus A. Jones of New Mexico, is a newspaper publisher of Santa Fe and a man of ability, social standing and wealth. His early life was spent in New York city, where his family has been prominent in social and business affairs for several generations. Senator Cutting has been listed as an Independent Republican since the 1912 campaign when he gave staunch support to Theodore Roosevelt. His independent tendencies have been demonstrated, too, by the occasional support he and his newspaper have given Democratic candidates for office. It is expected that Senator Cutting, who now holds his seat by gubernatorial appointment, will be a candidate for the full six-year term next November.

YOUR HEALTH

WHO ARE THE DEAF AND WHAT ARE THEIR NEEDS?

By Alice G. Bryant, M. D., Boston, Member Gorgas Memorial.

(The following is one of a series of articles prepared under the direction of the Gorgas Memorial as part of its Better Health and Longer Life program. President Coolidge is the honorary president of the Memorial, which has been organized and endowed by prominent doctors and laymen throughout the country to perpetuate the work of the late Major-General Gorgas in preventing unnecessary illness. Headquarters of the Gorgas Memorial are at 400 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago.)

We ordinarily think that an ear's function is to hear. The human ear is a beautiful and wonderful organ. Do we who have normal hearing always appreciate the great gift that was given to us? With little effort on our part and with a lesser amount of energy, vibrations are poured in upon us.

It happens that the ears do not always function as they should. Deafness may occur, and deafness may be defined as subnormal hearing. In a general way, we may have deafness of the outer and middle ear, or deafness of the inner ear. The causes producing deafness in the first group are numerous and the diseases and malformations of the latter group are far less numerous. The former yield more easily to treatment, and fortunate it is that it is so, for ninety per cent of the causes of deafness are found in this region.

Among the many contributing causes of deafness are defective adenoids, tonsils and teeth, rhinitis, pharyngitis, bronchitis, pneumonia, influenza, hay-fever, sinus trouble, abscess or fluid in the middle ear, diseases of the bone link work, perforation of the ear drum, and scarlet fever, measles, whooping-cough, and other contagious and infectious diseases. Improper diet, deficient water intake, unsuitable clothing, shortened sleeping hours, misdirected efforts, irregular and defective bowel movements, deficient sunlight within and without the house, lessened quota of outdoor sports and physical exercise, and last, but not least, wrong air conditioning in private and public abodes,—all these and more are offenders against better health.

Can these conditions be prevented, mitigated, or improved? Before the problems can be solved, they must be rightly envisaged, and by the trained experts—the physicians, the aurists—are needed in co-operation, in collaboration at the very inception for the common good. What is a life mortgaged by disease? Do not be content or satisfied to poke along alone on the growing edge of medicine, where the ground work is so vast. We would plead for the family doctor to forestall such tragedies and to keep us fit for our highest efficiency in all positions of calling. We would worship him in the family circle as the Pharaoh of old and his queen worshipped the power behind the sun.

There are seventeen normal ears in a thousand and approximately 1,250,000 school-children with defective hearing in the United States. The deaf adult has the full power of speech. The deaf-mute must learn to speak. The hard-of-hearing child is only partially deaf. A congenitally deaf child and a hard-of-hearing child are two separate problems. The former may have been born deaf or acquired deafness before he knew the value of speech. There are special schools for him, whilst the hard-of-hearing child should be trained in the ordinary schools. He is only hard-of-hearing and he should be taught lip-reading. Lip-reading has diminished the strain, fatigue, diffidence, faint-heartedness, and brooding incident to deafness. The hard-of-hearing are no longer shunned by classmates or friends. Their education has given a purpose and prevented the waste of time in unprofitable by-paths.

The Better Health educational movement of the Gorgas Memorial anticipates the needs of the next generation in its constructive co-operative educational movement of to-day.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Speckles The Starling Is Talked About

Gossip mixes truth and fiction;
The result is always friction.
—Old Mother Nature.

That is the trouble with gossip. It would be bad enough if it stuck to the truth, when the truth is bad, but when it includes fiction, telling things that are not so, there is bound to be trouble sooner or later. There is only one safe way to gossip and that is to listen and say nothing.

Speckles the Starling had been living in the Old Orchard, or near it, for a long time. He never had been welcome among the other birds. None liked him. He was as unpopular as Bully the English Sparrow. All his feathered neighbors resented his presence there. It was because they all knew that Speckles the Starling doesn't belong in this country any more than does Bully the English Sparrow. If he had been the best neighbor ever was none would have admitted it. He was an outsider and he wasn't wanted and that was all there was to it.

"Huh!" exclaimed Chatterer the Red Squirrel.

So you can guess that when they talked him over it was mostly to say unpleasant things about him. "Did you ever see such a pig?" said Sammy Jay, as they watched Speckles gobbling bits of bread which Mother Brown had thrown out.

"He may be a pig while he's eating," said Drummer the Woodpecker slyly, "but I notice that when his stomach is full he stops eating; he doesn't carry it away."

"He would if he were thrifty," declared Sammy Jay virtuously. "It's because I'm thrifty that I store food." "Huh!" exclaimed Chatterer the Red Squirrel, who happened along just then. "I call it greed. If you stored it away in a storehouse it might be thrift. But you hide it here and hide it there all over the Old Orchard, where you can't find it yourself and nobody else can. That's what I call greed."

"Well, what has all this to do with Speckles the Starling?" asked Yank Yank the Nuthatch. "He may be greedy, all right, and I dare say he is, but there are so many other greedy people that I don't think anything of that. What I dislike is the way he tries to drive other people away. He hasn't any manners."

"You've said it!" declared Drummer the Woodpecker. "That fellow hasn't any manners at all. He just simply isn't decent. The fact is, I don't know a good thing about him."

"Oh, yes, you do!" broke in Tommy Tit the Chickadee. "Yes, you do, Drummer. You know very well that he's a good whistler."

Drummer grudgingly confessed that this was so. He had to, for that very minute Speckles was whistling over in Farmer Brown's dooryard, and his whistle was good to hear. "I expect," continued Tommy, "that if the truth were known there is a lot of good in Speckles."

"Huh!" said Sammy Jay. "If there is he has managed to keep it well hidden."

"Perhaps you don't see it because you don't want to see it," said Tommy Tit, and dodged behind the trunk of a tree as Sammy dashed at him.

"I'll admit that he can whistle," said Yank Yank, "but I wish you'd tell me one other good thing about Speckles the Starling. What good does he do? Now look at us! We work all winter long picking off the insect eggs and killing the grubs on Farmer Brown's trees. We are the best friends Farmer Brown and Farmer Brown's Boy have. Yet Speckles the Starling tries to drive us out of the Old Orchard. Do you see any good in that?"

Stories That Recall Others

She Knew Her Cards

Mrs. A. was having an afternoon table of bridge. Alice, her four year old daughter, tiring of playing with her dolls, was standing near looking at her mother's cards. At the crucial moment the unobserved child exclaimed, "Mother, you haven't any men or lady cards in your hand."

Crack Shot

A man brought home three turkeys from a shooting match last Thanksgiving day. His neighbor and four year old were congratulating him on his success. The father told the neighbor he was a crack shot. The turkeys were being discussed at dinner and the four year old informed the family that "he shot 'em with firecrackers and never burnt 'em one tiny bit."

Office worker or porter, clerk or housewife—no matter who we are—every one of us may offend unknowingly.

BODY ODOR...here's the plain truth about it

IT IS no secret that body odor offends. In business, as well as socially, it is a serious handicap.

But do you realize that we are all subject to body odor? That at times nearly everyone is guilty?

And the stuffy, indoor life we lead in winter, travel in close, crowded cars—all make body odor more readily noticed now than ever.

We must perspire—or die. Even on coldest days our millions of pores continually give off invisible perspiration—often as much as a quart of waste every 24 hours.

The danger of offending without realizing it

Whether you see this waste body moisture or not—it is always odorous. And it spares no one! Financier or laborer—society leader or servant—all may offend if they don't take precautions.

Body odor more noticeable in winter—due to stuffy rooms—closed windows . .

Pores give off as much as a quart of waste a day—even in coldest weather . . . . .

Now, a purifying toilet soap. Its antiseptic lather keeps you safe from body odor . .

Nor, unfortunately, can we tell when we ourselves are guilty of unpleasant body odor.

For once we become accustomed to an odor, our own sense of smell becomes deadened to it. That's why even the most fastidious people—people who think they are safe—are often among the chief offenders.

Don't risk embarrassment

It's easy now to avoid body odor. Simply wash and bathe often with Lifebuoy, the deodorizing toilet soap.

Just as its mild, antiseptic lather protects health by removing germs—so does it prevent body odor by purifying pores.

And you'll be delighted how fresh and clear Lifebuoy's antiseptic lather keeps complexions. Like millions of others, you'll favor it for every toilet purpos.

Note its hygienic scent

You will learn to love Lifebuoy's clean scent, which proves Lifebuoy purifies, yet which quickly evaporates after rinsing. Use Lifebuoy a week and you'll use it for life. Get some today.

The funeral of Seth Durfee, 52, who died in Norwich Saturday, was held at undertaking parlors in Rockville Monday afternoon. Burial was in Grove Hill cemetery. Mr. Durfee was a resident of Rockville and was an ardent follower of baseball.

STRONG TEAM ORGANIZATION FOR BUREAUS' CAMPAIGN

A strong team organization was built for the campaign for the Merchants and Credit bureaus when 30 men met at the Wauregan hotel Tuesday under the leadership of Herbert B. Cary, campaign chairman. Mr. Cary, had already assembled a group of active team captains about him and the response Tuesday was in reply to the call from Chairman Cary, and his captains.

Mr. Cary opened the meeting with an enthusiastic statement of his own attitude toward the work of the bureaus. He stated that his own company had profited so much from them that it was only natural for him to be enthusiastic in advocating their increased activity. The bureaus have done splendid work and yet many merchants realize that there is more trade to be secured for the Merchants bureau if properly supported. The necessity of keeping up a regular program of special sales and cooperative advertising by all the merchants were two of the strong reasons for going into the campaign. Norwich has the resources for a larger trade center.

The Credit bureau will be available to members of the Merchants bureau and for this reason the campaign is including doctors and dentists along with other professional men who could use the bureau. The campaign is to take place next week, January 17, 18 and 19, in an intensive drive lasting two and one-half hours each morning.

The names of the men who gave their pledge of service are as follows: Rudolph Henschel, Ernest L. Latimer, Louis M. Crandall, William Bode, Earl Styers, George E. Johnson, F. Russell Smith, Thomas Savard, Alex. Pasnik, Edward T. Connelly, Joseph Pysyk, Fred J. Fleming, Simon Mandell, Henry H. Vignot, James Quinn, Jacob Block, William Clark, Matthew Thune, Joseph S. Adams, Earl Taggart, Walter E. Gilbert, Harold E. Robbins, John P. Lyston, Louis Gottheif, Clifford E. Wilson, Charles D. Foster, A. Curland, Michael Cohen, Walter N. Block, E. Arnold Smith, C. E. Smith.

Secretary Walter H. Pilcher led the meeting in some stirring songs punctuated by special song features by Earl Styers and Edward T. Connelly. The enthusiasm displayed at the opening of the campaign indicated its early success.

Met With Pearl St. Member

The Jolly Eight Pinochle club met Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Samuel Miller at her home, No. 15 Pearl street. Mrs. Charles Hambien won first prize with a score of 7,000. Mrs. William Farrell won the consolation prize, score 5,798. The club is to meet with Mrs. William Farrell next Tuesday afternoon at Grant court.

Mrs. Malzacker Entertains

Mrs. Fred Malzacher entertained the Sunshine class of Baltic Monday evening at her new home at 284 West Main street. Mrs. Malzacher, who was recently married, was a member of the class. Bridge was played during the evening and refreshments were served by the hostess. The guests present were Mrs. Laura Geigenmiler, Mrs. Gertrude Taylor, Mrs. Lawrence Drescher and Miss Athol Cullen.

Automobile Hit By Trolley.

An automobile owned by Dr. David A. Sussler was hit by a trolley car on Main street Saturday morning at 11 o'clock and somewhat damaged. Dr. Sussler attempted to pass the trolley car on the left near the Porteous & Mitchell store and the crash threw his machine against a machine owned by William Bowen of the Greeneville section of the city. Mr. Bowen's machine was also damaged to some extent. The trolley car, in charge of Robert T. Lilley, was bound for the West Side.

RECOMMENDED NOLLES ON PAYMENT IN TWO STATUTARY MANSLAUGHTER CASES

In the present session of the criminal supeiror court in this city, two cases continued from September in which the charges were statutory manslaughter arising from automobile accidents, have been nolled on payments of $200 and $150 upon recommendation of State Attorney Arthur M. Brown.

One was the case of William Buechner and wife, which was nolled on payment of $200. A man named Novack was killed in Salem in the accident in which the Buechner machine figured.

The other was the case of George Ledoux, which was nolled on payment of $150. Ledoux was driving in the town of Waterford when his machine struck and killed a man named Morris Arzenow, who was one of a group of men standing in the road where a previous accident had taken place.

In making his recommendations, State Attorney Brown told the court that both were cases for civil rather than criminal suits.

JUDGE ELLS TO HEAR MANSLAUGHTER TRIAL

Jerome Gareaux, of Providence, is to go on trial in the criminal superior court here this (Wednesday) morning before Judge Arthur F. Ells on the charge of statutory manslaughter for having caused the death of Fred S. Campbell on Sept. 4 at Jewett City.

Campbell, who had come to Jewett City from Hoboken to visit his brother, was struck by the Gareaux machine as he was crossing the street.

GEN. PAYNE ISSUES ORDERS FOR TEST MOBILIZATION

Maj. Gen. Morris B. Payne, commander of the 43rd Division, has issued his orders pertaining to the test mobilization of the Connecticut units of the 43rd Division and attached units, pursuant to the recent orders of Adjt. Gen. George M. Cole. Major General Payne's orders, issued Tuesday, were signed by Col. H. B. Bissell, chief of staff, and Capt. Alfred Ligourie, aide-de-camp, acting division adjutant.

Included in these orders are the 85th Infantry Brigade Headquarters Co., of this city, and the four local units of the 192nd Regiment, Field Artillery. In addition to the units of the division, copies of the orders were sent to the chief of the militia bureau at Washington, commanding general of the First Corps area at Boston; adjutant generals of Maine, Vermont, Rhode Island and Connecticut, National Guard instructors and War Diary.

The orders are as follows:

"1. The governors and the adjutants general of Maine, Vermont, Rhode Island and Connecticut having approved the organizations of the 43rd Division and attached units will hold a test mobilization upon telegraphic orders of the division commander given through the adjutants general of the states concerned upon some Monday night during January or February, 1928.

"2. Organizations will assemble at their armories at 8 p. m. on test mobilization day in service uniform. Roll will be called promptly. Immediately thereafter each organization will conduct the one and one-half hours of drill scheduled for its regular drill night of that week. If test mobilization day occurs on other than the weekly drill night for any organization, that organization will not drill again on its regular drill night of that week.

"3. Immediately after roll call and not later than 8:15 p. m. each organization commander will telegraph (or telephone) the result of the test mobilization day roll call to his regimental commander, or corresponding unit commander, who will consolidate such reports and telegraph collect the resulting consolidated report direct to the commanding general, 43rd Division, Broad street armory, Hartford, Conn. Such telegraphic reports from unit commanders should reach the division commander not later than 9:30 p. m. on test mobilization day. If so required, duplicate telegraphic report will be made by each unit commander direct to the adjutant general of his state.

"4. Telegraphic reports will show number of officers, number of warrant officers and number of enlisted men actually present at test mobilization day roll call; also numbers of each class absent at such roll call.

"Officers and enlisted men unavoidably absent from the city in which the armory of their organization is located on test mobilization day but who actually report to their organization commander by telegraph or telephone on that day may be included as present for the test mobilization but not for the drill that follows. The telegraphing of such reports from absentees from the city of the organization must not be permitted to delay prompt rendering of required reports of the organization.

"5. Unit commanders will arrange to have present at convenient armories during roll calls the regular army instructors and sergeant-instructors assigned to their units."

FRENCH SOLDIER'S STORY TO JOHN TROLAND, NORWICH

As an interesting aftermath of the World war, there came to John Troland, of Norwich, at the week-end a letter from a French soldier to whom a copy of Mr. Troland's poems, "Wild Posies," reached in the trenches. Not only this, but the writer had a most astonishing story to tell.

Dr. Jean B. Claverie is now a physician, practicing in Chicago, his address is 1467 East 53rd street. Evidently he went back to France with the Legionnaires to see his relatives; for he writes to Mr. Troland:

I went home this past summer and hardly need say how happy I was to see my family again. Mother was missing of course; she died four years ago, and that made my home-coming very sad. Father was 80 in December and is as well as ever.

I had planned to pay you a visit on my way back; but as I was unable to find accommodations on a steamer to New York, I had to come back on the Empress of Scotland, via Quebec and Detroit.

I had a rather strange experience just a few days before I left home. I met a man whom I had picked up on the battlefield of Verdun ten years before. He was lying on a stretcher apparently dead. A shell had mangled his right leg. As I got nearer to him I saw him move his head slightly; and in a whisper he asked me if I would carry him to safety.

I learned this summer that both stretcher bearers had been killed while attempting to bring him to safety. His leg was amputated, but he feels fine now and is leading a useful life once more.

Fifteen minutes or so after meeting this old comrade, I was introduced to a man who, in 1918, tore open the fuselage of my wrecked plane, pulled me out and carried me to a field ambulance.

I was unconscious of course and as this man was still in the service when I came to the States, in 1919, I did not know he or who had helped me out.

The strange thing about the whole affair is, that we three men were born within a very few miles of each other—about three and a half to four miles.

I brought back "Wild Posies" with me and I am enjoying it now and then.

Gave Programme at The Seaside

A delightful program of musical selections were rendered Sunday at the Seaside sanatorium, Niantic, by Dave Lyons and his orchestra, who had gone to the hospital for the especial purpose of entertaining the children. The children thoroughly enjoyed the program, which was for three hours, during which several vocal numbers were given by members of the orchestra.

SETTLEMENT IN SUIT OVER FERRY TAVERN

Suit brought in the superior court for this county by Mrs. Frances Clapp Hall of Old Lyme and Pittsburgh, Pa., to regain possession of the Ferry Tavern property at Old Lyme, in which she asks $100,000 damages from Mrs. Helen F. Ryan of Old Lyme, was settled out of court Tuesday in New London after a conference between attorneys that lasted three hours and a half. Mrs. Hall's claim was that she had furnished the money for the purchase of Ferry Tavern and had placed Mrs. Ryan in charge to manage it for her.

Another suit which centered around the same property and involved to an extent the same transactions, that of Frank M. Roche, Old Lyme contractor, against Francis Clapp Hall, the plaintiff in the first suit, in which Roche sued for $28,000 damages for labor and materials on the property is also in the course of settlement and will be settled with several days, it is understood.

In the Hall-Ryan suit, the firm of Waller, Waller, Avery and Gallup represented the plaintiff, while the firm of Fitzgerald and Hadden of New Haven represented the defendant, Helen F. Ryan. Former Mayor David Fitz-Gerald of New Haven was present in court. Contractor Roche was represented in his suit by Attorney Arthur T. Keefe.

Mrs. Hall in her suit against Mrs Ryan claimed that on Nov. 1, 1922, she employed Mrs. Ryan by oral agreement to act as her agent, and, as such, to purchase and title in her own name, but for the sole use of the plaintiff, certain real estate in Old Lyme.

By the terms of this oral agreement, according to the complaint of Mrs. Hall, she agreed to furnish all money necessary for the purchase of the properties and Mrs. Ryan agreed to take over the properties and to transfer the name to Mrs. Hall upon demand.

The papers allege that between Nov. 1, 1922, and April 26, 1923, the plaintiff gave to the defendant $2,500 as part payment in the purchase of the property known as the Bacon house and later as Ferry Tavern, and that in pursuance of the agreement, Mrs. Ryan bought from Bertha C. Trowbridge of Old Lyme the property.

Mrs. Hall further alleged that she, by oral agreement, requested that Mrs. Ryan should contract for remodeling of the place and that she (Mrs. Hall) was to pay the costs. Hence, it was alleged, Mrs. Ryan engaged Frank M. Roche, contractor, of Old Lyme to do work and that $15,000 was paid him, $10,000 of which was derived by a mortgage obtained at the Mariners Savings bank by Mrs. Ryan, under agreement with Mrs. Hall. The mortgage was dated April 29, 1924.

By the same arrangement it was alleged Mrs. Ryan purchased from Robert J. Noble of New York for $4,170, land, known as the dock or wharf property, this deal going through on July 1, 1923, and on that date, Mrs. Hall gave Mrs. Ryan $2,670 as part payment, the property being subject to a mortgage for $1,500 to Noble.

Mrs. Hall further alleged that Frank M. Roche, who had done work on the dock property was due more money and that she gave Mrs. Ryan the sum of $14,500 between May 1, 1924 and Nov. 30, 1926, to pay the contractor.

Mrs. Hall alleged that at present Roche still claims that $31,000 is due him for the work on the property.

Other Deals Involved

Mrs. Hall further alleges that on Nov. 6, 1922, she authorized Mrs. Ryan to buy from Frank M. Wilcox, the "band box" property and that between Nov. 6, 1922 and May 29, 1923, she gave to Mrs. Ryan $2,500 towards payment for the "band box" property which was actually purchased on May 29, 1923.

The complaint further states that Mrs. Hall authorized Mrs. Ryan to purchase from John A. DeWolf, of Old Lyme, the property known as the "Meadows" and that between Feb. 1, 1923 and Dec. 11, 1925 Mrs. Hall forwarded to Mrs. Ryan $2,500 in payment for the "Meadows," which was actually purchased on Dec. 1, 1925.

Mrs. Hall alleges that on Dec. 14, 1926, she demanded that Mrs. Ryan turn the property over to her and she refused to do so. She alleged that on Nov. 1, 1922, she agreed to pay Mrs. Ryan $3,000 a year to look after the property nad that she also agreed to give her 50 per cent. of the income.

Mrs. Hall claims to have furnished the Ferry Tavern with furniture, crockery, glass, linen, silver, floor coverings to the value of $15,000.

Operated at Loss

The plaintiff alleges that from June 1924, the place had been operated at a loss and that the plaintiff had put in $17,500 for furniture and expenses in the business.

It is also alleged that from Dec. 31, 1924 to Dec. 31, 1925, two separate mortgages of $2,500 each were put on in addition to the first mortgage of $10,000 this being done to meet expenses.

Mrs. Hall claimed that Mrs. Ryan had not only refused to transfer the property to her but also refused to give an accounting.

Mrs. Hall asked for an injunction restraining the defendant from attempting to sell the property; for a decree ordering the defendant to convey and transfer the property to the plaintiff; a decree ordering the return to the plaintiff of all personal property; a judgment for an accounting and $100,000 damages.

Makes Counter Claim

Much of the complaint of Mrs. Hall was denied by Mrs. Ryan, who set up a counter claim, setting out that she was induced to give up her home in Kansas City, Missouri, to take charge of that property, that the property was bought by her and with her money; that the plaintiff had given her the first option to buy it that many of the furnishings came from her own home in Kansas City that the plaintiff had failed to pay on the mortgages and had failed to have any insurance placed on the property.

Mrs. Ryan also claimed that Mrs. Hall and her daughters lived there and used the place for social functions when they wanted to.

Mrs. Ryan asked for a declaratory judgment that the title in the property remain in her name that the furniture and furnishings be adjudged hers and $25,000 damages.

WILL ANNOUNCE DECISION IN ANGELOPOULOS DIVORCE

In the divorce suit of Constantine Angelopoulos against Athena Angelopoulos, both of this city, which was partly heard in the superior court here last Friday by Judge Arthur F. Ells, the attorneys for plaintiff and defendant appeared with more witnesses before Judge Ells in New London Tuesday afternoon to present testimony bearing upon the custody of the two children in the family. Both the father and the mother want the custody of the children, a girl aged 6 and a boy aged 3.

After hearing the testimony and arguments of the attorneys, Judge Ells stated that he would give his decision in the superior court here this (Wednesday) morning.

Attorney Edwin W. Higgins, counsel for the husband, had the brother and sister-in-law of the petitioner, Mr. and Mrs. Chris Angelopoulos, appear before the judge, while Attorney Thomas M. Shields, counsel for the defendant, had two of her neighbors appear, Mrs. Bonnell and Mrs. Lariviere. Both testified that she had been a good mother to the children.

GIVEN SURPRISE FOR 25TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Monday evening Rabbi and Mrs. Joseph N. Rosenberg were pleasantly surprised at their home by 35 of their friends, in honor of their 25th wedding anniversary. Rabbi and Mrs. Rosenberg were presented a beautiful secretarial desk and desk set. Bridge was played during the evening and refreshments were served. CRESCENTS EVEN UP SERIES WITH DANIELSON TOWN TEAM, 28 TO 16

The Taftville Crescents gave the Danielson Town team a bad beating in the second half last night at Parish hall and it was more than enough to offset the edge that the Towners had in the first 20 minutes. The Crescents won 28 to 16 before a large crowd in a rough game and thereby evening the series at one game apiece.

After piling up what seemed like a safe lead in the first three-quarters of the first half the Danielson team lost its bearings and after allowing the Crescents to come to within three points at the half, then lowered its defense considerably more after intermission and let the locals romp through them with little trouble.

As is always the case when teams from Danielson and Taftville clash in basketball this game bristled with action, and plenty of the rough kind too. Billy Schofield, Danielson coach was hurst in one lively scrimmage but after a short rest returned to the game while Jim Murphy and Aubrey Brown of Taftville each received ankle injuries and retired for the evening.

Schofield's play was the feature of the game even though he was slowed up a bit after colliding with a door. During the first half his dribbling and spectacular over-arm shots while going at top speed kept Danielson in the van. He seemed to be all over the floor and for practically all of the time up to intermission he fooled his opponents with little trouble.

When the teams took the floor for the second half however, it was Brown's turn to do the scoring and he proceeded to sink several of his specialities from under the basket. He had the edge on Schofield during the last half. Mondi Normandin was off in his shooting last night but still he popped in five points.

Danielson led up to a few minutes after the start of the second half. Godreau, left uncovered, scored one from under the basket right after the opening tapoff in the first half and Keach, the rugged Danielson forward tossed in one from way out before Brown dropped in a short one for Taftville. The teams then battled for many moments before Eccleston scored on a follow-up shot and tied the count at four-all. Schofield then sank three side shots pushing Danielson's total up to 10. Eccleston, dropped in a foul but Schofield got loose for another from the side and it was 12 to 5. However, Murphy threw in a foul and then one from mid-court and Harris converted a foul as the half ended. Eccleston's foul and Brown's short throw tied the count soon after the period opened and Harris then gave the lead which they held for the remainder of the way with a field goal and Normandin popped in two more points from off to the side, making it 16-12.

Schofield sank a foul and Poirier made a long shot bringing Danielson up to within one point, 15-16. Schofield was hurt on the next play and on resumption of activities missed the foul shot that would have meant a tie. Brown then won a foul and Normandin got loose for a field goal again from quite a distance off to the side. Eccleston converted another foul and Schofield did likewise. Murphy was hurt on the next play and Gauthier took his place. Brown took a pass from Normandin and easily threw in two more points. He again scored in easy fashion from under the basket making it 24-16 and then tossed in a foul.

Normandin's foul and Eccleston's pretyt field goal completed the scoring as the game ended right after Eccleston's score. The Whirlwinds lost a one overtime period preliminary to Mystic 26 to 22.

Next Tuesday Cabby Hartnett and his Millville Mass. quintet plays at Taftville. The Chicago Cubs catcher will have a strong supporting cast and a large crowd is looked for.

PLAINFIELD CLASHES WITH FITTON A. C. THIS EVENING

Another of those fast and furious basketball encounters are in store for the basketball fans of Eastern Connecticut tonight when the Plainfield Pros clash with the Fitton A. C. five of Boston at the Plainfield Community house. Fitton comes to Plainfield on the long end of a very healthy record and with the avowed purpose of humbling the Pros, who are fast gaining recognition as one of the leading teams in New England. A victory for the Pros will be another long step toward recognition as New England champions.

The Fitton team boasts some of the leading players in the Bay State, many of them having made enviable reputations in the collegiate circles before entering the professional game. Two fast forwards, in fact the fastest forward line of any team in Boston, are Fat O'Rourke and Keaney Kelly. In Dixon and Johnny Kelly, the Fitton outfit has two centers of equal ability and both smart pivot men. The defensive positions are taken by Red Irwin and Rusty Yarnell, two auburn haired boys who are second to none in the game.

To combat this aggregation of stars, the Plainfield team will put on Brusso, Normandin and Dissinger at forwards, with Stavnitsky at center, and Madden, Nichols and Whitey Bernot at the guards. Plainfield has been meeting some of the best basketball teams in New England and has been meeting with fair success against them all, the Boston Whirlwinds being the only team to have something on them. Dancing will follow the game.

PASTIME A. C. HAS CARD PRACTICALLY ALL LINED UP

With the signing of a number of boxers on Tuesday evening, the Pastime A. C. amateur card for Friday evening is practically filled up. The card which will be headed by the Boots Larry-Young Polinsky bout is bound to be full of action and fans can rest assured that they will see some pretty boxing. Those who will appear on the card are Boots Lary, Danny Connell, Vic Dar, Charlie Mathews, Young Hudson, Mush Morlarty and Jack West, representing Norwich; Jimmy Melte, Young Sposato and Young Comfort, from Westerly; Young Rockford, Young Whitey, Young Cyzeu and Young Hooper of New London; Young Bogash and Young Bruzin, of Danielson; Young Polinsky and his brother, Wallie, from Colchester; Willimantic will send Paul Bernier, Kid Dunn and two other boys who will give the Norwich fans a pleasant surprise.

In the Fitton A. C. tonight no doubt the Plainfield Pros will have a strong opponent. This Boston club is always up front in the athletic life of the Hub.

ACADEMY CLASHES WITH CHAPMAN TECH FRIDAY

Nearly a year ago two high school teams met in this city and after four wildly exciting periods one of them won 13 to 12. Almost immediately as the echoes of the final whistle died away things began to happen with the ultimate result that this tilt, generally supposed to be for the championship of eastern Connecticut and western Rhode Island interscholastic league was just another basketball game.

Friday evening, at the Y gym, these teams meet again. These teams are the Academy and Chapman Tech. Last season, early in March, they locked horns in their "crucial" battle. Up to within a few days of that game it promised to be full of rivalry but on the eve of the game this rivalry grew real intense when Les Pingree, Academy center, found from Tech that he was ineligible to play for having performed with outside teams.

On the night of the game it was found that Trude, Chapman center had been playing with outside teams under an assumed name. He was kept out also. With both teams minus their star pivot men they went at it and as mentioned N. F. A. nosed out ahead. A league meeting later on decided to award no championship although the Academy was unofficially recognized as the champion.

Friday night both teams intend to have their strongest lineups.

Chapman's offense lies in Bill Nield, captain, and Scotty McKelvie, forward, who at present are first and second among the scorers of eastern Connecticut's leading high schools. Le Blanc at center, is another, well up in the scoring and, of course, these three men will have to be curbed somewhat if the locals are to win. To slow them down the Academy will trot out three capable men in Capt. Jim Kelly and Buck LaCroix guards and Les Pingree center and it should be a merry tilt between these boys.

Chapman's guards will probably be found in Johns and Fratelli while the Academy's forwards, Joe Viau and Red Fagan, showed enough last Saturday to seem able to hold their own with their Whaling City opponents.

BOSTON HAS PERFECT CONFIDENCE IN SLATTERY

BOSTON, Jan. 10.—(AP)— Boston boxing circles contain no doubts as to Jack Sharkey's physical condition even though the New York state athletic commission does desire to examine his once injured left hand before his bout with Tom Heeney, next Friday night.

Jimmy Maloney, South Boston heavyweight whose title aspirations were blasted by knockouts by both Sharkey and Heeney, today predicted Sharkey would win by a knockout. Dan Carroll, Maloney's manager, agreed and set the limit of the fight at "four or five rounds."

Tom Kirby, the fast lightweight with whom Sharkey has done most of his stiffest sparring in the last two weeks, classed the Boston heavyweight as "a true and mighty hard hitter" who is due to bewilder his New Zealand opponent by a changed style of fighting. Sharkey at present is inclined to lead with his right instead of the left as in former workouts. While some observers believe the change forecast that all was not well with the injured left, others counted it the product of a mental quirk or a piece of ring strategy designed to upset Heeney next Friday.

An automobile accident case, which necessitated Sharkey's appearance as a witness here today, prevented the Boston boxer from leaving for New York this afternoon as planned. The enforced lay-over will give him one more day in the gymnasium here before he leaves for New York late tomorrow afternoon. Johnny Buckley, his manager, will wait to accompany his fighter, believing there is no necessity for discussing Tunney-Sharkey fight prospects with Tex Rickard until after Friday's bout.

MINOR LEAGUE MOGULS GRANT AND REFUSE CLAIMS

CHICAGO, Jan. 10. —(AP)— The board of directors of the minor leagues waded through a sheaf of complaints and disputes today, and finally voted to reopen the case against J. F. Griner, president of the Jacksonville club of the Florida State league. At the Dallas convention last month, Griner was fined a total of $1,530 for various charges in connection with the inter-league series last fall between Jacksonville and Greenville.

He was charged among other things with tieing up the gate receipts, permitting gambling on the games, insubordination toward the board in charge of the series. The Dallas convention found him guilty. Today Griner presented numerous affidavits and records in his defense, and Commissioner Landis dropped in on the sessions long enough to give Griner a vigorous lecture on baseball ethics.

Another hearing will be given Griner on the charges at some future date, the directors indicated.

Ty Tyson, former Giant outfielder, was granted a claim of $483 against the Buffalo Internationals, and the Dallas club of the Texas league was notified to turn back to Vicksburg players Allen or Wood or else pay the other $1,000 of their purchase price.

The Des Moines club of the Western league was refused an extension of its loan by the Minor association, which demanded payment of the $3,000 balance at once. The Des Moines club had already paid back $1,000, and owes $3,000 more.

HORNSBY REFUSES TO BELIEVE HE'S BEEN TRADED

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 10. —(AP)—Rogers Hornsby, when informed here tonight of the sensational trade which transfers him from the New York Giants to the Boston Braves said "I cannot believe it." Talking over the telephone from his hotel here Hornsby seemed flabbergasted and said he could see no reason why a deal should be made severing him from the Giants.

"Only today I had tried to get McGraw on the long distance telephone in regards to the employment of a trainer for the Giants fo the coming season," Hornsby said. "However I failed to get hold of McGraw. I have not been notified of the trade and know only what you have just told me." Hornsby was reached by telephone by St. Louis newspaper men who told him of the trade.

Asked if he were going to the Braves to ultimately manage the team, Hornsby said he did not care to comment on that prospect because he had not been notified officially of the deal. The former manager of the Cardinals, said he believed there was nothing to the deal, offering a suggestion that he did not think the Boston club would care to assume his large contract.

He made reference to the release of Dave Bancroft by Boston last fall to the Dodgers, inferring that Bancroft might have been left out because of his large salary.

The State league starts on its second half season next week and fans around that circuit are hoping that it will provide a closer race than the first half did when the New Haven Atlas won almost from the start.

NOTHING STARTLING FOUND IN LIST OF BOXERS NAMED BY TEX RICKARD

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—(AP)—For the fourth successive year, Tex Rickard today lined up the rank and file of pugilists for "The Ring," a boxing publication, and at the head of the parade set Gene Tunney who just recently declared war on the promoter.

There was little variation from the generally accepted ratings of the leather tollers. All recognized champions lead their classes except in the somewhat obscure junior welterweight section, where Ruby Goldstein gains top position over Mushy Callahan, hailed as champion of the 140-pound class.

In all but the heavyweight class, the promoter split the divisions into two groups, only the first of which were ranked numerically, among the ponderous battlers, Rickard set Tunney first, Jack Dempsey second and Jack Sharkey third before dividing the remainder of the heavyweights inte two groups.

Rickard deplored the lack of outstanding foreign contenders in a copyrighted article accompanying the selections but declared there were "happy compensations—new records, healthy conditions, splendid champions, and a rosy future." He declared Gene Tunney the "big sensation of last year, as he was the shining light of 1926."

"There is no denying that Tunney is not only a champion but a great champion," he said. "I believe that he is one of the greatest champions the class has seen. Any man who saw Dempsey make the most desperate effort of his entire career and send Tunney down—and then saw Tunney come out of this crisis and fight back until he hurt his man, must admit that in Gene Tunney the American ring has developed another outstanding exponent of science, power, gameness—and sportsmanship."

Rickard paid tribute to Dempsey as a fighter "who still rates a strong No. 2 among the heavyweights of the world" alhtough he won the title from Jess Willard back in 1919 and has been fighting them all.

In the lightest three divisions, where title possession has been the subject of controversy since the recognized champions voluntarily relinquished their purple robes, Rickard ranked Tony Canzoneri at the head of the featherweights, Bud Taylor at the top of the bantamweight division, and gave the flyweight palms to Corporal Izzy Schwartz.

Basing his judgment entirely on performances during the past year, Rickard placed Tiger Flowers just back of Mickey Walker, middleweight champion. Sergeant Sammy Baker gained the edge over Ace Hudkins for second place in the welterweight standing behind Joe Dundee, the titleholder.

FUCHS ELATED OVER HORNSBY TRADE

BOSTON, Jan. 10. —(AP)— Judge Emil E. Fuchs, president of the Boston Braves, said tonight he was "elated with the trade" which will bring Rogers Hornsby of the New York Giants to Boston in exchange for Frank Hogan and James Welsh.

"The Braves never have had a real clean-up hitter," Judge Fuchs said. Thus for the first time, the club is assured of a punch which will deliver runs. In Hornsby the Braves have obtained the greatest clean-up hitter in the National league.

"The personal feeling between Hornsby and myself has been one of warm friendship for years, and I promise the Boston public that he will give us everything he has to bring the Braves toward the top. While I regret the parting with Hogan and Welsh, whom I was very fond of, from the standpoint of Boston I am elated with the trade."

Judge Fuchs said that the Braves had an option on an experienced catcher to replace Hogan. He expressed confidence that the Braves would have a strong infield, defense and that Hornsby would add to the batting strength.

MORE ORGANIZATIONS GO BACK INTO OLYMPIC FOLD

NEW YORK, Jan. 10—(AP)—Sport organizations which withdrew from the American lympic association a year ago after a dispute concerning control of the olympic body, were restored to membership at a meeting of the executive committee of the Olympic association today. They were the National Collegiate Athletic association, the National Amateur federation, the Western conference and the Y. M. C. A.

At recent meetings of the N. C. A. A. and the N. A. F., action was taken to return to the olympic fold. On motion of Major General Douglas MacArthur president of the Olympic association, the committee voted to reinstate the organization without discussion.

PLAINFIELD WINS CLOSE GAME FROM STONINGTON

(Special to The Bulletin)

PLAINFIELD, Jan. 10—Plainfield High with Capt. Royle featuring nosed out Stonington High here tonight 24 to 21, the winning points being made in the closing minutes of play. The game open with both teams displaying a strong defense and the scoring in this period was largely on fouls, the quarter ending with Stonington in the van, 4 to 2. Smith and Dimock were lost to their teams by the personal foul rule. At the opening of the second quarter Plainfield with three pretty field baskets took the lead and at half time were out in front 13 to 9.

The third quarter was a nip and tuck defensive game and little scoring was done by either five. The final period found both teams fighting for the game and Stonington in the last few minutes came from behind to tie a 21 to 21. However this tie did not hold for long as Capt. Royle broke loose and caged the basket that broke the tie and then added another point on a foul. Cragan and Royle featured the game. In the preliminary game the Stonington girls nosed out the Plainfield femmes 22 to 21. The summary:

HIGH SCHOOL COACHES HAVE LEAGUE CONFERENCE

Representatives of at least eight and very probably ten high schools of eastern Connecticut and Westerly of Rhode Island meet this afternoon at the Academy and they hope to definitely form the so-longed-talked-of athletic conference for this section.

This is the third meeting held in the interest of forming a league from among the most prominent schools of this part of the state. In Westerly about a month ago the plan was first talked over and adjournment was taken to a meeting in Norwich for the latter part of December. At this second meeting giant strides were made toward getting the schools together but as a few flaws still existed in the proposed make-up of the league another adjournment was taken until today, Jan. 11.

It is practically certain that by the time the session ends today a new larger and real representative league will have been formed with a membership of eight teams and it is not far amiss to predict that ten schools will be lined up.

Of course, this is going to be a big improvement over the present league supposed to embrace this section. The league now in operation is probably the smallest in New England, having a membership of but three teams in football and basketball and four in baseball. Westerly, Chapman Tech and Stonington comprise the grid loop while the Academy takes Westerly's place in basketball. In baseball they all compete, all four.

Schools expected to have representatives present today are Windham high of Willimantic, Bulkeley high of New London, Kilingly of Danielson, Putnam, Plainfield and Wheeler high of North Stonington in addition to those four named above.

STARK TO BE NAMED NATIONAL LEAGUE UMPIRE

BOSTON, Jan. 10—(AP)—The Boston Transcript today said that Albert "Dolly" Stark, freshman basketball coach at Dartmouth and a leading collegiate baseball official in the east for the last five years, will be named as a National league umpire when the list is made public this month.

Stark, who has just turned 27, will be one of the youngest umpires in either major league and his appointment by President John A. Heydler of the National league will follow on the retirement of the veteran Henry "Hank" O'Day, the paper says.

ROGERS HORNSBY GOES TO BRAVES IN EXCHANGE FOR TWO PLAYERS

NEW YORK, Jan. 10—(AP)—Rogers Hornsby, second baseman and captain of the New York Giants, has been traded to the Boston Braves in exchange for Catcher Francis Hogan and Outfielder James Welch, the New York National league club announced tonight. No cash was involved.

News of the trade broke like a thunderbolt out of a clear sky to newspapermen assembled in the Giants' offices tonight. Neither Stoneham nor McGraw were present and notice of the deal was handed to the reporters in the brief announcement.

Earlier in the day, the Giants' notified sports writers that an important announcement would be disclosed tonight and baseball circles had expected it might indicate the appointment of Hornsby as manager of the Giants for reports to that effect were current throughout the closing days of the 1927 campaign.

Hornsby, former manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, was traded to the Giants for Infielder Frank Frisch and Pitcher Jimmy Ring after the 1926 season.

The deal was for the "best interests" of the club according to a statement issued by President Charles A. Stoneham and Manager John J. McGraw.

Hornsby signed a two year contract with the Giants last year at a reported salary of $40,000 a season, the highest paid any player in the National league.

The statement signed by Messrs SToneham and Managerin.ETAOIN Stoneham and McGraw said:

"Arter due deliberation between President Stoneham and Manager McGraw and having in mind wha we think to be the best interests of the New York Giants, a trade was consummated today which involved Rogers Hornsby, second baseman, where the Giants receive Catcher Francis Hogan and Outfielder James Welch of the Boston Braves. No cash was involved."

Hornsby's departure leaves the Giants with C. R. Crawford, a Greenville, N. C., rookie, as the only second baseman on the roster. From this fact, most baseball observers felt that McCraw would have to negotiate a trade for an experincd man to fill Hornsby's shoes of he hoped to make the Giants a contender for the 1928 championship.

The announcement of the trade was given out by Ed Tierney, the Giants' secretary. All efforts to draw from him a nexplanaation of what McGraw and Stoneham had in mind when they said the deal was "for the best interests of the club" met with a refusal to comment.

Asked if the club or its officials contemplated a further announcement clearing up definitely the facts surrounding the most surprising player deal since the closing of the 1927 season, Tierney said that nothing more would be forthcoming.

"The deal is completed. There will be no further announcement," he declared.

The deal was particularly surprising in view of Hornsby's brilliant work afield and at bat during the Giants' las drive. In the absence of McGraw due to illness, Hornsby was acting manager of the team and during the closing days of the race brought the New York club into a contending position for the pennant. For 1927, the "Rajah" led the club in runs batted in with 125 and had a batting average of .361.

Before coming to the Giants, Hornsby was defendant in a suit for $90,000 brought by Frank Moore, Cincinnati betting commissioner for alleged wagers Hornsby placed on horse races. By a jury decision last month, Hornsby was freed of those claims.

After leaving the Cardinals, Hornsby was obliged to sell his holdings in that club in order to play with the Giants. After lengthy conferences, he sold his stock to Sam Breadon, owner of the St Louis team for $116,000. Two years previous to that sale, Hornsby had purchased the stock for only $52,515.

RETAIL MERCHANTS' ASS'N HAS RECEIVED ITS CHARTER

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Jan. 10.—A meeting of the board of directors of the Westerly and Pawcatuck Retail Merchants' association was held this morning at the Colonial club, when the charter, by-laws and articles of incorporation were received. Thursday evening, Jan. 19th, the first meeting under the new charter is to be held, preceding which a dinner will be served at the Colonial club.

NEW BRITAIN PHYSICIAN TO ADDRESS MEDICAL SOC.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, Jan. 10.—Wednesday noon at the meeting of Washington County Medical society, Dr. Robert S. Boul, of New Britain, will be the speaker at the luncheon at Elm Tree inn. "Diphtheria in Children," is to be his subject. The present officers are: President, Dr. John Champlin, Jr.; first vice president, Dr. John Paul Jones, of Wakefield; second vice president, Dr. John W. Helfrich; secretary-treasurer, Dr. William A. Hillard; auditor, Dr. Samuel C. Webster; board of censors, Drs. John Champlin, C. Grant Savage and J. DeVere Barber.

Mild weather Tuesday permitted resumption of work in the excavation for basement and foundations at the Union street site of the new Westerly central fire station. Much work has already been done in the basement excavation at the north end of the projected brick and stone fire-proof building, a depth of 15 feet below the floor level having been reached. The excavated material is spread on the south side of the lot to bring that part up to grade.

Westerly Fire Police held their third annual meeting Monday evening in Vets hall when officers were re-elected as follows: Captain, Shelby C. Nicholas; lieutenant, Henry W. Sutcliffe; clerk, William R. Wilcox; treasurer, Ralph Spargo; ordinance committee, Samuel T. Patton, Alexander M. Greig and Harry Barber; delegate to State Firemen's league, William R. Wilcox; alternate, Hugh Quinlivey. Officers of First Aid squad were elected as follows: Captain, Robert A. Wilcox; lieutenant, Clarence D. Stanhouse; secretary-treasurer, Hjalmar E. W. Larson. At the banquet at Peckham's which followed, Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown and Fire Chief George E. Egger and members of the board of engineers were present.

Miss Ruth Taylor, of Niantic, Conn., returned home Tuesday after being the guest of Westerly relatives and friends.

Members of Battery E, 243rd, R. I. C. A. C. (H. D.), Capt. John F. Datson, Tuesday evening held a strenuous drill in the Dixon street armory in preparation for the annual Battery Prize drill, when a $5 medal and $20 in gold will be awarded to the batteryman most proficient in drill. Members of Westerly Town council, Horace F. Burdick, president, have voted to attend in a body, first meeting at the Westerly council chamber in the Town hall.

Local No. 7, Rhode Island Federation of Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers' International union, held its annual meeting in Stone Cutters' hall, headquarters of Westerly Central Labor union, Monday evening. Officers were elected as follows: President, John Palozollo; vice president, Biagio Moscaritolo; recording secretary, Milan Moscaritolo; financial secretary, Joseph Dotolo; treasurer, Louis Gentile; deputy, Sabino Nardone. At the conclusion of the business session, a smoker was enjoyed and refreshments were served.

Boy Scout Executive Frederick E. Burdick, of New London county, was the main speaker Tuesday evening at Peckham's inn, at the annual meeting and dinner of Boy Scout leaders of Washington County. Other speakers were Assistant Scout Executives Louis W. Gavitt and Christopher Gunderson, of the Greater Providence council. D. Harold Rogers, chairman of the South County executive committee, was toastmaster. After the dinner, moving pictures of scenes at Camp Yawgoog were shown.

Westerly Music club Monday evening held its January meeting in the form of a recital at the residence of Mrs. Frederick C. Buffum, Jr., 22 Elm street, before an audience of club members and a few guests from the Westerly Junior Music club. The entertaining artists were Rita Breault, of Pawcatuck, pianist, and Huntington Rice, of New York, baritone. Miss Breault played two groups of piano solos and Mr. Rice sang two groups of songs. Both were generous with their encores. Mrs. Edward B. Coy, formerly of Norwich, accompanied Mr. Rice.

Westerly clergymen were the speakers on Christian Endeavor activities at the Tuesday evening quarterly meeting of the Westerly local union of C. E. and kindred societies, held at Grace Methodist church. "What Should Be the Aims of Our Local Union?" was the general topic followed by a social and refreshments.

NOANK

HERE'S A VILLAGE HERO WHO RESCUED HIS MAN!

Capt. E. Franche and Capt. Fred Jerome were driving spiles at their dock near the north dock, to tie their boats securely on account of the winter storms. Capt. Jerome slipped while using a heavy hammer and fell into the water. Capt. Fred weighs around 200 pounds. Capt. Franche was all alone and nobody in sight to help him get his mate out of the January water. Getting a block and tackle he got busy with his strong arm and puffing like a long freight train soon had Capt. Jerome on the dock. The latter ran to his home to change his clothes. Capt. Jerome said that Franche was a real hero to save a man heavy enough and weighing more with clothes on soaked with salt water. He claimed he ought to get a life saving medal from the state. The dock will be finished this week. Both captains need a rest, for it was a hard luck day, that blue Monday.

Noank Fire company held a dance recently at Unity hall when over 200 attended to hear Hanney's sanppy five orchestra of Niantic. It was a Leap Year dance. The girls had to ask the young men for a dance—pretty soft for the men and as one dancer said, a good chance to pick a Leap Year wife. Robert Lamay sang during intermission "Watch Your Step Fellows, it is Leap Year for the Girls are Watching You All the Time." The song made a big hit.

Two old baseball pictures, of Noank Fire Co. and the Belmars teams are on exhibition at the Noank trolley waiting room. One was taken 40 years ago when the Belmars were champions of New London county. All were Noank men on the team except one who lives now in New York. In those days, only 9 men were on the roster. John Ebbetts was manager and booked a team from New York also Greenport, L. I., for then Noank was a real baseball town. People came from everywhere, with horse and buggy, for there were no Henry Fords in sight. Albert Rathbun was called Noank's wonder boy, having plenty of speed and slow working curves. His right arm put many local victories on the score book. Ellison Carroll was telling about ten fellows in the waiting room that the suits worn were made then in Boston by the Wheeler Co., and only cost $2 a suit, with the best of cloth in them. Carroll was an outfielder and took care of centerfield. About 40 were looking at the picture and saw the old timers in their young days. The players were John Daboll, Ellison Carroll, Albert Rathbun, Arthur Douglas, Nelson Rathbun, Allen Rathbun, John Ebbetts, Charles Chester and John McDonald. The Noank Fire Co. team is shown in the other picture taken in 1897, with Frank Freeman manager. On the suits was N. F. D. A fine bunch of ball tossers were the smoke-eaters and a good cheering squad they had. All were shipyard workers. O. Beebe was rated the best and fastest player in Noank and Mystic. A good hitter, his position was third base. The team played fire company teams around this section, also won a cup in a league formed. The firemen kept to their red shirts as part of their uniform. The local people who have seen the pictures remember them as if it were yesterday. A sign on a card reads "Noank Fire Co. team. How many can you pick out?"

A. Hanson of New York arrived in the village Monday morning from the Fairbanks-Morse Co., to install the engines in the new fishing boat at the shipyard. The boat is not launched yet and it will be a few days before the work will start. Engine Expert Almon Meister of the yard will help Mr. Hanson to set up the 100-horsepower fine looking engines that ought to push the boat over the water at a good rate of speed.

Hamicarr Bracci has entered the carpenter gang of Patterson Bros. at Groton Long Point on the new cottage they have to build.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Webster were at Gardner lake for the day recently.

Ted Anderson was in Hartford recently attending a legion school for commanders. He will tell the Legion post about it at the next meeting.

Miss C. Smith has returned to Hartford after a visit in the village for a few days.

The fire engine was out Monday evening filling up a cistern on Langworthy court. If it does not rain soon the village will have a dry spell, for several cisterns are empty, waiting for the sky water to fall.

At the Baptist church Sunday evening, Chaplin Rittenhouse, an evangelist, opened a week of special services. The church was crowded. Chaplain Rittenhouse entered the field of evangelism after years in a university in New York state. He is a graduate from Colgate seminary, class of 1908, then taking to the road and many churches have had him conduct special services. He worked also in summer tents in the open air and when the World war called the United States to fight, he served as chaplain with the 19th infantry. A special violinist and soloist is chorus leader during Evangelist Rittenhouse's stay in Noank. Rev. Ernest Weise, of the church, has charge of the services each evening.

SOUTH KILLINGLY

A. E. Hall has moved his steam mill and started sawing on the Swept lot, at North Foster.

Elizabeth Barber, who has been spending a few weeks at The Oaks returned Sunday to her home in Putnam.

Several local people were in Brooklyn Saturday evening to attend a dance.

Frank Eldridge was in Putnam one day last week and called on Frank Smith, at Putnam Heights.

Denton Gates has recovered from his recent illness and has returned to school.

Mr. and Mrs. Winsor Barlow and a friend from Hillsgrove, R. I., spent Sunday at the Barlow homestead.

Ruth and Beatrice Coffey entertained Alcott Spaulding and William Potter of Auburn, R. I., Saturday afternoon.

Herman Barlow took his father, G. W. Barlow, for an auto ride Sunday through Wauregan and Central Village. As Mr. Barlow is unable to go out much, the trip proved especially enjoyable to him.

Members of Truck Company No. 4 of the Chicago fire department have set what they believe is a world's record in speedy preparation for a fire. They jumped from bed, took their stations on the truck and connected 300 feet of hose in forty seconds. A New Jersey company had held the previous record of forty-nine seconds.

LA SALLE'S

Unprecedented Popularity Has Made Possible These Substantially Lower Prices

$2350
5-passenger Sedan, 135-inch wheelbase

$2575
7-passenger Sedan, 134-inch wheelbase
f. o. b. Detroit

Every LaSalle is complete with all modern equipment, much of which is usually obtainable on other cars only at extra cost, and including at the new lower prices, Winter Front, Lovejoy Shock Absorbers, Exclusively Designed LaSalle Bumpers, Cowl Lamps, Cowl Band, Ventilators, Windshield Wiper, Cigar Lighter, Rear Vision Mirror, etc.

The triumphant preference accorded LaSalle during the past nine months has automatically opened the circle of LaSalle enthusiasts to all those thousands who originally viewed, admired and desired LaSalle.

LaSalle prices are now so attractively low—when value is considered—that you need not and in fact cannot forego LaSalle's surpassing excellence. For an investment of about $2500 you may now enjoy a LaSalle sedan, roomy enough for the family, endowed with the transcending riding and driving ease of Cadillac manufacture, and distinguished from the highest-priced Six and every other Eight — excepting Cadillac itself—by the famous V-type, 90-degree, 8-cylinder, heavy-duty Cadillac-built engine.

This engine alone assures long years of the most luxurious kind of motoring, in service to which no other car could be successfully subjected. And it is obvious, of course, that in its ultra-modernistic lines and colorings, its modish appointments, LaSalle is so far in advance of current practice that it is sure to be "in vogue" for many years to come.

Enjoy the prestige and satisfaction of LaSalle now! Only a small outlay is required. Appraisal value of your present car acceptable as cash. The balance payable in terms to suit your convenience.

The La Salle is manufactured completely by the Cadillac Motor Car Company within its own plants.

RAILS AND INDUSTRIALS SLUMPED IN A SHARP REACTION IN STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—(AP)—The stock market was swept today by a sharp reaction from which it made only partial recovery. Prices of scores of popular rails and industrials were carried down 2 to 5 points, with even larger losses in some of the high priced specialties. A small sprinkling of issues showed independent strength, tending to confirm a growing belief that uniform price movements are a thing of the past. For the third time this year, total sales ran above 3,000,000 shares.

Renewal of selling pressure was attributed to a variety of causes. First, there was the weakened technical position of the market itself as a result of the recent sharp advance in prices, making it vulnerable to selling attacks. Then there was the reported stiffening in some of the acceptance and time money rates and the uneasiness over the brokers' loan situation as a result of the attention centered upon that subject at some of the annual bank meetings today.

An unexpectedly large increase of more than 500,000 tons in the unfilled orders of the United States Steel corporation started a rally around midday, but it was of short duration. "Bear" traders, acting on the theory that heavy distribution was going on in some of the industrial leaders, threw large blocks of stocks on the market at the higher levels, and quoted values melted away rapidly. Failure of the directors of the New Haven to resume dividends also caused some disappointment. The conditional approval of the St. Paul reorganization plan by the Interstate Commerce commission was not announced until after the market closed.

U. S. Steel common opened at 148 1-2, ran up to 150 1-2 on the tonnage statement, broke to 146 1-2 in the early afternoon and then snapped back to 148 1-4, off 1-2 a point net. General motors dropped from a high of 134 to 130 and recovered to 132. Radio slumped from 104 1-4 to 98 and rebounded to 100 3-4, off 1 1-4 net. General Electric lost 3 1-2 points and recovered 1 and American Smelting dropped 3 and recovered 1 1-4. American Machine & Foundry, Case Threshing, Coty, International Harvester, Mathieson Alkali, National Supply, Pillsbury Flour convertible preferred, Rossia Insurance, U. S. Cast Iron Pipe and Warren Bros. closed 4 to nearly 8 points lower, some of them 20 to 30 points below their recent high levels.

Bank stocks were heavy in reflection of the decision of stockholders of the Chase and National City banks to ask the stock exchange to strike those issues from the trading list. Chemical National broke 18 points, National City 10 1-2, National Bank of Commerce 10 and Case 3.

In the railroad division, losses were generally held to a point or two. Texas & Pacific again showed independent strength by touching a new record high at 108 5-8 and Bangor & Aroostook moved up 3 points to 82 1-2. Canadian Pacific, Norfolk & Western, Chesapeake & Ohio and Delaware & Hudson were the hardest hit.

Call money ruled at 4 1-2 per cent all day. There was no actual change in time money rates, although a firmer undertone was reported. Slightly higher quotations also were reported in the acceptance market.

Foreign exchanges were slightly firmer, sterling cables ruling around $4.87 1-2. Changes in the continental rates were nominal.

Commodity markets also were reactionary. Wheat sold off a cent or more a bushel, presumably in expectation of heavier imports from the Argentine. Cotton futures yielded 5 to 17 points in colorless trading. Coffee and sugar quotations also were slightly easier.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE.

New York

Stocks weak; U. S. Steel breaks despite huge tonnage gain.

Bonds steady; leading rail liens sag.

Foreign exchanges, steady; sterling slightly higher.

Cotton lower; disappointing cables.

Sugar barely steady; easier spot market.

Coffee easy; European selling.

Chicago

Wheat easy; poor export demand.

Corn easy; bearish Kansas report.

Cattle firm.

Hogs firm.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Influenced largely by weakness of the New York stock market, grain values crumpled today, and closed at about the bottom level reached. The government report announcing that 2,320,343,000 bushels of the 1927 corn crop was actually harvested for grain made an apparent bearish showing.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, 1 1-4c to 1 1-2c net lower, corn 1c to 1 3-8c down, oats 5-8 a 3-4 c to 7-8c off, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 7 a 10c.

Almost from the outset, wheat showed a downward tendency, but weakness did not become pronounced until the last hour of trading. At this stage, as a reflection of Wall street weakness, numerous standing orders to sell out holdings of future delivery contracts for wheat were automatically put into operation to stop losses. Execution of many of the late selling orders appeared to be especially for the houses with connections northwest. Earlier, a good deal of attention was given to a forecast of large clearances of Argentine wheat this month. On the other hand, reports were current that central Kansas wheat areas are becoming dry, and that the western half of Kansas is suffering from lack of moisture.

Inasmuch as the government crop report today was not issued until after the close of trading, the market was not directly influenced by the new official figures. Recent bullish predictions, however, were offset by assertions that previous government reports at this time of year had not materially changed the official figures on corn acreage nor the yield per acre for any state. Oats declined with wheat and corn.

Provisions were easier, downturns in grain and cotton having some effect although hog values were higher.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Easing tendencies were present in most sections of the bond market today, the recently popular railway liens being particularly in supply. A stiffening of bankers acceptance rates undoubtedly was a factor. New offerings fell off sharply after yesterday's heavy volume, and presented little competition to the listed market.

Approval by the interstate commerce commission of the St. Paul reorganization plan came too late to have any effect on bonds of that road, some of which were quite heavy. Pressure was directed against such outstanding railway mortgages as Chesapeake Corporation 5s, Rock Island 4 1-2s, Denver & Rio Grande Western 5s, Hudson & Manhattan 5s, and Missouri Pacific 5s. Some of the selling may have been induced by the need of some traders for cash to bolster up weakened accounts on the stock market.

Convertible liens in most instances drifted lower. Andes Copper 7s fell back a point and Julius Kayser 5 1-2s were offered in large amounts. Simms Petroleum 6s lost 1 1-4 on a handful of sales. Anglo Chilean Nitrate 7s, however, gave a good demonstration of independent strength.

Public Utilities liens were firm but there were no outstanding features in that group.

French securities turned soft after an early period of firmness based on improved confidence in the country's financial position following the lifting of the ban on capital exports. Other foreign bonds followed a mixed course.

United States government obligations were not especially active and prices were a shade lower.

HOW TO SAVE COAL: No. 2

USE OF SMALL SIZES OF COAL

By using 25% to 50% of buckwheat coal mixed with a larger size, coal bills may be greatly reduced without making any change in equipment. Observe the following rules:

1. Keep sizes in separate bins.
2. Kindle the fire in the usual way with the large size.
3. When the coal is all ignited, add a layer of buckwheat. Whenever the furnace requires more coal put it on in layers: first one size and then the other.
4. The amount of pea or buckwheat coal which can be burned successfully will depend on the draft available and the care exercised in firing, but there should be little difficulty in using one shovelful of small coal to four of the coarser coal. More buckwheat should be burned in moderate weather and more of the larger coal in extreme weather.
5. From $10 to $25 may be saved on the annual coal bill by banking the fire at night with small sizes of coal. Be careful to have a thin, bright spot at the side or back of the fuel bed in order that all gases will be thoroughly burned.
6. Shake grates gently, moving shaker only a few inches to either side, and stop when the first red coals appear. A bed of ashes should be carried on the grate to prevent the fine coal from running through the ash-pit.

Consult us about the proper size of coal for use in your particular heater.

THE MERCHANTS NATIONAL BANK
Norwich, Conn.
January 9, 1928

At the regular meeting of the Directors of The Merchants National Bank held today, the following resolutions on the death of Mr. John T. Almy were adopted, and ordered spread upon the records:

The passing away of Mr. John T. Almy causes a deep sense of regret and personal loss to the Officers and Directors of this bank.

Mr. Almy served as director for a period of three years, during which time, he gave unsparingly of his time and effort to our affairs, rarely missing a meeting, and at all times vitally interested in the bank's welfare.

His was a man of firm convictions, conservative in regard to the Bank's policies, and a director who held firmly to the idea that a sound condition was paramount to everything else in the management of this institution.

Aside from our business relations, there was also a cordial and sincere friendship between him and the other Directors, which will be pleasantly remembered for many years to come.

It was voted: To devote a page in our records to his memory, and that this minute be spread thereon, and a copy sent to his family.

That the Officers and Directors attend the funeral in a body.

Attest, HENRY F. POWERS, Secretary

THE CHELSEA SAVINGS BANK
Norwich, Conn.
January 9, 1928

The Directors of The Chelsea Savings Bank desire to place upon its records an expression of their high appreciation of the life and character of Charles E. Chandler, who served the Bank as President for seven years, Vice President for nine years, and Director for twenty-seven years, and who became associated with the Bank on September 21, 1892, as an Incorporator.

During this long connection, Mr. Chandler gladly devoted a great deal of time to its business and was ever ready to do his best in forwarding its interest, and his conservative judgment was sought and relied upon by his associates. We mourn his departure from us no less because of his conspicuous character as an officer of the Bank, than because of his upright life and spotless integrity as a man. He was earnest in his convictions of duty and had the courage of them whenever they were called to the test.

We have adopted this minute and ordered that a copy be engrossed and forwarded to his bereaved family and published in the daily papers.

By order of the Board of Directors.
FRANK HEMPSTEAD, Secretary

PROVIDENCE CYCLIST LOSES LEG, AFTER ACCIDENT NEAR NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 10—Earl Congdon, 26, of Providence, one of the two motorcyclists terribly injured last night when the cycle collided with an automobile at Saybrook, was operated upon at Lawrence-Memorial hospital late last night. His right leg was amputated just below the knee, this action being necessary in order to save Congdon's life. He withstood the operation well and today his condition was said to be encouraging under the circumstances. Gardner Anthony, 20, of Edgewood, R. I. the other occupant of the cycle, is reported as resting comfortably. The state police, Centerbrook barracks, who investigated the accident determined that the cycle was being driven at a terrific rate of speed for the speedometer showed that it had been traveling 72 miles an hour and in a fog. The cycle was reduced to a mass of junk. Congdon and Anthony had been to Norfolk, Va., and were on their way home, intending to reach Providence last night.

BOOTLEGGERS' PROFITS GO TO PAY FINES IN CITY COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 10—Four of the eleven distributors of liquor, who were caught in the police dragnet yesterday when raids were conducted, were before Judge Victor Prince in the police court today, each being charged with actual sale and keeping with intent to sell. A fine of $200 and costs was imposed on each count. Those to plead guilty were Harry Scheinman, 78 Washington street, who, with his wife, is an old offender; David Palitz, proprietor of the club room, 24 Golden street and former prize fighter; Max Markoff, employed at the club room, 5 Pearl street, another old offender and Stephen Lawski, 121 North Bank street. The stool pigeons, sailors from the United States Coast Guard were in court, but because of the accused pleading guilty no testimony was taken, but the sailors were on hand if their stories of how they obtained the liquor was desired. The cases of Frank LaFemina, Smith street; Mrs. Nora McClue, 112 Howard street; Arthur Messer, 81 Summer street, and Henry Marcus, 46 North Bank street, were continued until Saturday next. The cases of Mrs. Concetta Porretta, 47 Summer street, Dora Scosdani, 101 North Bank street were continued to Thursday and the case of Nicholas Stamiton, 324 Bank street was continued to Friday. Charles Keith, 17 Masonic street, arrested and held as a witness against Lawski, was discharged.

The greatest amount of liquor seized was at the residence of LaFemina and the stores of Stamiton and Marcus. At the LaFemina house a sailor appeared there while the raid was in progress and believing that Patrolman Thomas Cavanaugh was employed there, desired a pint of whiskey and was told that the price was $1.50. When the sailor realized that Cavanaugh was an officer, the tar beat a hasty retreat.

SHIP CARPENTER INJURED WHEN SCAFFOLD COLLAPSES

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 10—John McNeill, 56, of 20 Farnsworth street, employed as a ship-carpenter by the Thames Towboat company, was seriously injured this afternoon while at his work. He suffered a fall and received possible internal injuries and several fractured ribs. He is now a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital. McNeill was engaged with other carpenters at the towboat company's yard making repairs to the United States Coast Guard training ship Alexander Hamilton. McNeill was standing on a scaffold when it collapsed, causing McNeill to be thrown to the deck. He was given medical treatment after which he was taken to the hospital.

DETECTIVE AFTER MARION GETS SIGNATURE IN NORWICH

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 10—Detective Sergeant Nelson Smith went today to Norwich where he obtained the signature of State's Attorney Arthur M. Brown to extradition papers that will insure Robert Marion, 18, local youth, arrested in New York last week charged with the theft of a Chrysler automobile, owned by Mrs. Sarah Miller, 118 Bilnman street, being brought back to New London for trial. Sergeant Smith after obtaining State's Attorney Brown's signature to the instrument, continued to Hartford where Gov. Trumbull affixed his signature to the papers. Sergeant Smith will go to Albany tomorrow and obtain Gov. Al Smith's signature. He will continue to New York, where Marion will be delivered to the officer. It is expected that Marion will be given a hearing in the police court Thursday or Friday. Marion forced an entrance to a garage at 105 Truman street the other morning and driving an automobile to New York, was arrested a short time after he arrived there.

A gang of youths last night shamefully molested the little daughter of Prof. Herbert Z. Kip, of 815 Williams street, a professor at Connecticut College for Women. The young girl was walking along Meridian street on her way to the residence of Mrs. Emanuel A. Henkle, on Federal street, where a social affair was in progress. At the corner of Church street several boys who were assembled seized the girl and struck her, one or more of their number even going so far as to disarrange her attire. The boys then followed the girl to the Henkle residence where they smashed a window. A report of the lawlessness was not made to the police until after the girl had returned to her home and had related her experience to her parents. By that time the youths had dispersed.

Mrs. William Watrous and infant son, Groton, patients at Lawrence Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Lieutenant of Police James C. Sullivan is confined to his home on Steward street by illness. He will be absent from his desk at headquarters several days. During his absence Desk Sergeant Frank Howard is in charge of the night detail.

The funeral of Miss Alice M. Bush, former teacher, who died at Thames View, Waterford several days ago, was held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at her residence, 34 Channing street and was attended by many mourners, including city officials and teachers in the public schools. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Beveridge Lee, pastor of the Second Congregational church. The bearers were Warren A. Hanson, superintendent of schools; Principal F. L. Newton, Loren E. Daboll and Frank S. Greene. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

The funeral of Frederick Condere, of 11 Brewer street, was held at 9 o'clock this morning at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church and was attended by a large gathering of mourners. The high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Michael Reagan. Mrs. William Buckley of Waterbury sang at the offertory, also the waiting hymn. The bearers were Charles Clementini, John Leverone, Charles Bauby, Michael Clementini, Dominick Ribenni and Charles DiBarbieri. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Lewis Ryabilll was arrested last night by Patrolman Walter O'Neill charged with evading payment of taxicab fare, but he was not prosecuted in court today, being discharged. Ryabilll hired a taxicab driven by Tony Bisconti and then refused to pay for the time that he used it.

MILITARY FUNERAL HONORS FOR ARTHUR F. HODGES

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 10—Arthur F. Hodges, 28, son of Mrs. Sophia Kennerson, 13 Bragaw street, who with about 40 other members of the crew of the S-4 went to their death three weeks ago when the submarine was rammed by the destroyer Paulding off Provincetown, Mass, will be buried tomorrow with full military honors. The body, which now lies in a casket draped with the American flag at the residence of the young man's mother, will be taken to Brainard lodge, Masonic temple tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. There the funeral services will be conducted by officers of the lodge. The bearers will be members of Brainard lodge, Mohegan lodge, I. O. O. F., and Thomas Hose company, of which organizations Mr. Hodges was a member. The body will be provided an escort of sailors from the submarine base and at Jordan cemetery a volley will be fired and taps sounded as the casket is lowered into the grave. Mayor May has requested that the members of the council attend the funeral, also has requested that a platoon of uniformed firemen attend.

The raising of the big new flag at Lawrence hospital, described in The Bulletin was by Dr. H. W. Wellington and was without ceremony, although the hoisting of the flag was witnessed by physicians, nurses and patients. The flag will not be displayed continuously, but will float to the breeze on all holidays and other special dates.

Mrs. Cynthia Coates, of Groton; Mrs. Henry Jansen and infant son, 91 Main street and Archie Fogg, Waterford, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Councilor Edward L. Streeter, Jr., threatens to throw a bomb into the council meeting when the city fathers convene next Monday night, for the councilor is aggrieved, even maddened, by the action of the city council as a committee last night, in approving the appropriation of the budget, which provides for an increase of salaries of $100 a year for the teachers of Bulkeley high school. Councilor Streeter desired that action on that appropriation be deferred, but the other councilors approved the salary increase over his vigorous protest. The councilor requested information from City Manager Holt relative to the matter of salaries paid the teachers, but the information sought was not forthcoming. The city manager said that he did not have any figures which covered salaries and that he was unable to supply the information Mr. Streeter sought. Councilor Streeter then declared that he would obtain the information from another source and intimated that when he addressed the council on the matter next Monday night there would be revealed facts that will be a surprise to citizens and taxpayers. P. LeRoy Harwood, president of the board of school visitors was present and declared he believed the increase approved necessary and proper. He said that the board had no jurisdiction or authority in the matter.

Steamer Richard Peck has replaced the Chester W. Chapin on the New London line of the New England Steamship company. The Chapin has gone to Newport where she will receive repairs.

William Basely and Winder E. Rees were in Norwich tonight where they attended a meeting of the Knights of Pythias.

Miss Cornelia Tinker, Niles Hill road young woman, who was assaulted on that lonely highway last Saturday evening by an unidentified assailant for the purpose of robbery, and who was treated at Lawrence Memorial Associated hospital, is recovering at her home in Waterford. The New London police and the state police are working on the case.

It was announced today that Capt. H. G. Hamlet, commandant of the United States Coast Guard destroyer force, state pier, had been appointed to succeed Comdr. H. D. Hinckley as superintendent of the United States Coast Guard academy when Comdr. Hinckley will relinquish his duties next May as head of the academy. Comdr. Hinckley will be in command of one of the cutters now in course of construction at Quincy, Mass.

New London hasn't known a milder winter in many years. There was snappy weather for five days this month, but after that the temperature became mild. The conditions have operated against the coal and ice dealers, but their time will probably come as the weeks pass along.

Brainard Masonic lodge met for business and balloting for members this evening.

The city is fortunate in that it has had no snow to contend with this winter to date. Last year the city made preparations for the removal of snow, and has the implements that can be brought into use at any time, but there has been no necessity for their use thus far. Improved methods obviate the employment of as many laborers as were formerly required to clear the walks and the crossings.

The New London Ship and Engine company, which is an auxiliary to the Electric Boat company, is negotiating for contracts for work but it has not yet secured them. Contracts for a few submarines or for the engines for these war vessels would quicken things very much over at the Groton plant.

Railway employes here as well as the management of the lines are rejoicing that they have not had a winter of the usual intensity of cold. They have had no snow and little cold weather. So trains have been operated on time, mishaps have been very few and of slight consequence.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Strand Theater

One of the feature attractions at the Strand tonight will be the Tiffany production "The Beauty Shoppers" showing for the first time in this city. In brief it tells of the trials and tribulations of a young lady who comes to New York to make a name for herself as a painter and becomes a beauty demonstrator to keep the wolf from the door. How she is eventually brought out of a haze of mishaps, give the high lights to this interesting film. Doris Hill and Ward Crane play the leading roles.

Comedy, love and rapid-fire-thrills these serve to make "Her Man O'war" a most notable screen achievement. The scenes are laid behind the German lines and while the characters are reminiscent of war, no battle scenes are shown. It is a charming love story with Jeta Goudal and William Boyd in the leading roles.

Bread Theatre

"7th Heaven" which local picture lovers have been acclaiming as one of the finest screen dramas of years, is nearing the end of its run at the playhouse, where it will have a final showing tomorrow evening.

This is the picture with which Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell, the two leads, created a sensation in both Los Angeles and New York where critics hailed it as the greatest picture shown there this season. It was directed for Fox Films by Frank Borzage, maker of "Humoresque" the great screen success of some years back but in the opinion of those who saw both "7th Heaven" surpasses the former masterpiece in every way.

Palace Theatre

If realism is the aim of motion picturegoers, they are sure to find it today and tomorrow at the Palace theatre, where Columbia Pictures' "The Opening Night" will be shown.

The adaptation, continuity and direction were by E. H. Griffith. In transferring the story to the celluloid, Griffith made the most of the opportunity to introduce queer twists, quaint characters, picturesue atmospheric backgrounds and thrilling action. Players of all sorts and descriptions were required by the plot. These range from small tots to aged persons.

There is the glamor of the stage, the romance of the sea, the bliss of home life and the adventure and valor of catastrophy blended in this screen fabric. The emotions run the gamut, tears well into the eyes in pathetic sequences only to be driven away by the quaint humor of one of the odd characters. One moment the audience is pausing in breathless suspense and the next instant is overawed at the gorgeous splendor of the theatre.

Perhaps yon never drove a car through a barricade at eighty miles an hour, but you can experience the sensation by seeing "Yours To Command," George O'Hara's best comedy-drama for FBO, which i sthe co-feature at the Palace today and tomorrow. The barricade episode is only one of the many thrilling features of the picture, and O'Hara has outdone all his previous performances in his clever delineation of the millionaire who becomes his own chauffeur for the sake of a girl. An abundance of comedy situations, coupled with a delightful romance, makes the production a highly entertaining one, and Director David Kirkland is entitled to great credit for his deft handling of the various phases of the film.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Burton's Agency Sells Another.

Mrs. Maud McDougall Byles, of Groton, has sold her eight-room house located at No. 124 McKinley avenue, to James and Betsey S. Hartley, of this city.

The new owners will occupy the same after extensive alterations are completed.

The sale was negotiated through the real estate agency of Mrs. Rosa E. Burton.

Roses Royal Midgets

The biggest individual vaudeville attraction on the stage today, has been booked for a three day showing at the Broadway theatre, commencing Thursday, when Roses 25 Royal Midgets will occupy the stage. Among the twenty five little people are all kinds of entertainers, ranging in size from 18 to 33 inches and in age from 19 to 42 years old.

The company presents a full hour of entertainment, offering during their time on the stage numerous specialties such as xylophone solos, songs both operatic and jazz, a complete minstrel show as done years ago by the Primrose and West Minstrels, cyclonic dancing, mystery and illusion wonder workers, wire specialties, an imitation of that famous team Gallacher and Shean, musical selections, comedy and in fact everything that might be seen or heard in a big musical comedy revue.

The troupe arrives here Thursday morning from Boston, where they have been playing to phenomenal success. In booking the attraction Mr. Harold Eldridge, booker for the Broadway stated that it is in line with his policy of presenting the best and biggest of stage atractions at the Broadway Theatre.

In conjunction with Roses Midgets, the feature picture booked for the occasion is the latest starring vehicle for Glenn Tryon, who first came to light in the picture "Painting the Town." His newest production is said to be much better and is called, "A Hero for a Night," being a travesty on a non-stopp flight from New York to Paris.

Winning Buyers By the Score From Higher Priced Fields

Practically without exception, seasoned motor car owners are appraising the new Hupmobile Six of the Century at hundreds of dollars more than its actual price.

Won by its striking eye appeal and distinction, scores of men and women are cancelling orders for costlier cars—confident that higher expenditure can bring no greater return in beauty, luxury and mechanical excellence.

So eager are local buyers to obtain delivery of this handsome new Hupmobile that demonstrations are being practically dispensed with by purchasers.

If you plan to own a new Hupmobile Six by next spring, we urge you to place your order on record now. Deliveries are being made in strict rotation as orders are received.

Miss Mae Rully has returned to her home on Twelfth street, after spending a few days at the home of her parents in Waterbury.

Frank E. Peckham, of Preston, left Sunday for Maine, where he will spend a few weeks on his annual vacation trip, visiting Portland and other places of interest.

Mrs. John McKinley, of Providence, spent Tuesday calling on her many friends in town.

Boys of the Greeneville grammar school have organized a drum corps through their principal, James Murphy. The boys have the services of CSharles W. Bush, of New Haven, who pays a visit to the school once a week to instruct the boys in reading music and in playing the different instruments in a drum corps. These lessons have been given for the past three weeks and the pupils, numbering 30, are showing much progress.

Mrs. Joseph R. Portelance, Mrs. Richard Hourigan, Mrs. Edward Riordan and Mrs. John B. LeClair, of Jewett City, motored to Providence Tuesday and were guests of relatives.

Mertin Rangeford has returned to Southbridge after spending a few days at the home of his aunt on Smith avenue.

Miss Elizabeth Jones has returned to Winstead after spending a few days with relatives on Page street.

John Sullivan, of Waterbury, is spending a few days with relatives on Paige street extension.

The Gas and Electric department has had a number of men working at the corner of Fourth and North Main streets, repairing defective gas pipes.

Frank Haliburton, who has made his home on Fourteenth street for the past ten years, has recently moved to Putnam. Mr. Haliburton held a responsible position with the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad and was transferred from Norwich to Putnam. His many friends in Greeneville wish him the best of luck in his new field of work.

Nathaniel Harrington has returned to Detroit after spending a few days at the home of his parents on Eighth street.

Michael O'Brien has returned to his home in Chicago after spending three weeks with his sister, of Eighth street.

No More Gas In Stomach and Bowels

If you wish to be permanently relieved of gas in stomach and bowels, take Baalmann's Gas Tablets, which are prepared especially for stomach gas and all the bad effects resulting from gas pressure.

That empty, gnawing feeling at the pit of the stomach will disappear; that anxious, nervous feeling with heart palpitation will vanish and you will again be able to take a deep breath without discomfort.

That drowsy, sleepy feeling after dinner will be replaced by a desire for entertainment. Bloating will cease. Your limbs, arms and fingers will no longer feel cold and "go to sleep" because Baalmann's Gas Tablets prevent gas from interfering with the circulation. Get the genuine, in the yellow package, at any good drug store. Price $1.

STATE COMMANDER PRESENT FOR INSTALLATION OF V. F. W. POST OFFICERS

Department Commander William E. Dibble, of Meriden, and members of the court of common council were present at the joint installation of the officers of Richard E. Hourigan post, No. 594, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and of the post auxiliary, which took place Tuesday evening in the post rooms at the Olympic hall building. The officers were installed by the state commander. The meeting opened about 8 o'clock, and the officers were installed as follows:

Hourigan Post—Commander, Herbert F. Burdick; senior vice commander, Raymond J. Cavanaugh; junior vice commander, Ernest L. Mills; officer of the day, Joseph Eccles; quartermaster, Arthur Fitzgerald; chaplain, Albert Turner; adjutant, Harry Richmond; sergeant major, Earl Maynard; patriotic instructor, George Nagolny; historian, Anthony Cook; publicity officer, Albert Turner; guard, Jesse Peloquin; sentinel, Dennis Collins; color bearers, Frank Piper, Edward Sweet; color guards, Earl Maynard and Cornelius Hoelck; bugler, Emile Lavigne.

Auxiliary officers—President, Mary Hull; senior vice president, Lena Maynard; junior vice president, Bertha Piper; treasurer, Agnes Peloquin; chaplain, Julia Pawelac; trustees, Emma Hull for 18 months, Louise Manchester for 12 months; secretary, Rosamond Jacques; conductor, Ida Fairbanks; patriotic instructor, Elizabeth Kenefick; historian, Louise Manchester; guard, Rose Graham; color bearers, Hortense Turner, Emma Kavanaugh, Viola Rodman and Anna Hoelck.

The retiring president of the auxiliary was presented a bouquet in appreciation of her services. Remarks were made by Department Commander Dibble, District Commander Joseph Perrone, of New London, Past Commander Noonan, of Meriden, Councilman William H. Aldrich, and Councilman William H. Quinley, and Past Commander Charles A. Hagberg of R. S. Griswold Camp, No. 6, U. S. W. V. Members of Griswold camp were present as guests.

Following the installation there was a chowder supper in the banquet hall. Fred Blanchard had charge of the chowder. After the chowder, dancing was enjoyed until midnight, the music being furnished by Fitch's orchestra. Harry Frischman, commander of the New London post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, was also present as a guest.

NEW LONDON HAD 700 MEN AT HOLY NAME COMMUNION

In New London Sunday morning over 700 men, from St. Mary's and St. Joseph's churches attended the 8 o'clock mass in the former church, receiving holy communion in a body on Holy Name day. Their chaplain, Rev. Raymond J. O'Callaghan offered the mass, and Organist Edward S. Hand and the male choir provided special music.

Then the men formed in line or Huntington street, led by Mayor James A. May and a detail of 24 policemen, all of whom had received holy communion—marched to the Mohican, for breakfast. William T. May, president of the Holy Name society was toastmaster. The speakers included Mayor May, Rev. Dr. T. M. Crowley, pastor of St. Mary's, and former Senator C. C. Costello. Rev. Father O'Callaghan presented Rev. Michael Earls, S. J., a professor at Holy Cross college, Worcester, noted historian and scholar. Father Earls gave a ringing address, pronouncing the condition facing the Catholics in Mexico at present as duplicating that which forced Catholics of ancient times into the catacombs. "They could shrivel the bodies in those old Roman days," he declared, "but they could not dim the faith and they could not destroy the soul. In Mexico, the Catholic church will emerge as it did from the catacombs and will carry on to the end."

FALVEY BUYS FORMER SUMMER WHITE HOUSE

T. J. Falvey, of Brookline, Mass., a former resident of this city, has just purchased White Court, the estate at Little's Point, Swampscott, where President Coolidge and Mrs. Coolidge spent the summer of 1925. Mr. Falvey will improve the property and hold it as an investment.

The property is considered one of the best on the North Shore and comprises six and one-half acres of land, most of which is elevated and slopes gradually to the shore, where there is a frontage of 400 feet, and a residence of twenty-five rooms and a garage. The land commands a fine view of the water.

On the first floor there is a large reception hall which extends through the center of the house, a living room, library, large dining room, breakfast room, music room, butler's pantry, kitchen, maids' dining room, laundry. The second and third floors are devoted to chambers, servants' rooms and five bathrooms.

There is a large combination garage and stable, with men's quarters on the second floor.

The property is taxed on an assessed value of $107,000 and has been valued at $150,000.

WILL BE TRIED ON AUTOMOBILE THEFT CHARGE

Leon Waterous, 19, of Lyme, was presented in the city court Tuesday morning on a charge of theft of a Chrysler automobile, valued at $800 and owned by John Furlong of this city, from the garage on Bath street conducted by William F. Bailey. The case was continued until Wednesday morning after the accused had entered a plea of not guilty.

Waterous is charged with taking the machine Sunday night. He drove a Star car to the garage, it is charged, and transferred the number plates of the Star to the Chrysler and drove the Chrysler away leaving the Star behind. He was arrested Monday afternoon in Waterford and brought to this city by the state police.

The case was to have been tried at a session of the city court Tuesday afternoon, but as the public defender who is to be counsel for Waterous could not be here it had to be postponed.

HEALTH OFFICER OFFERS VACCINATION WITHOUT CHARGE

Precautionary measures against small pox are being taken by Town Health Officer Harrison Gray who has announced that citizens of the town may be vaccinated free of charge at the town health office starting on Thursday, Jan. 12th from 2 to 3 p. m., daily. Cases of small pox have shown up in Colchester and other towns in this section. Dr. Gray has been in communication with the state commissioner of health, Stanley H. Osborn, ni regard to the matter Commissioner Osborn has heartily approved of the precautions to be taken. The free clinic is open to all school children as well as adults.

FORMER NEW LONDON BAKERS IN BANKRUPTCY

Fred and Paul Zeppieri, former proprietors of the Wentworth Bakery in New London, have filed an involuntary petition in bankruptcy in the United States district court at New Haven.

The papers show that they have liabilities totaling $2,265.45 as follows: Taxes, $74.73; wages, $174; secured claims, $340.86; unsecured claims, $1,676.32. The assets are given as $441 and consist of personal property in the amount of $400 and accounts receivable to the sum of $41.

ST. MARGARET'S GUILD RE-ELECTS ITS OFFICERS

TWO NEW DIRECTORS ON MERCHANTS BANK BOARD

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Merchants National bank was held Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock at the bank building. The following were elected directors for the coming twelve months: Frank L. Woodard, James C. Henderson, Joseph P. Connor, Herbert W. Gallup, Alexander Jordan, Benjamin T. Hall and Ebenezer Learned. Mr. Hall and Mr. Learned are new members on the board, succeeding John T. Almy, deceased and L. Henry Saxton, resigned.

Mr. Learned who is well known known through his association with B. P. Learned & Co., is a director of the Norwich Savings society. Mr. Hall is a native of this city, a graduate of the Norwich Free academy and of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, class of 1917. He was recently admitted to partnership in the woolen manufacturing firm of Hall Brothers.

At a later meeting of the directors, the following officers were appointed: Frank L. Woodard, president; James C. Henderson, vice president; Henry F. Powers, cashier; William Manley Eastwood, Jr., assistant cashier.

ROUND TABLE PROGRAMME GIVEN ON FASHIONS

The Norwich Round Table met Tuesday evening with Mrs Elizabeth B. Davis and Miss Susie C. Whittlesey of 22 Lincoln avenue as hostesses. The programme opened with roll call, which was answered by a fashion story, and the paper of the evening was by William H. Collins upon "What Shall We Wear?" Mr. Collins made this particularly interesting by describing the processes in the manufacture of rayon, which he illustrated with samples of the goods. Frederick J. Maples was heard in several fine tenor solos and Miss Amanda Fisher gave an entertaining reading, "Nothing To Wear." Refreshments were served by the hostesses.

UNCAS NATIONAL BANK DIRECTORS ARE ELECTED

Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock the stockholders of the Uncas National bank held their annual meeting at the bank building. The directors elected follow:

Calvin H. Frisbie, C. Morgan Williams, Rutherford C. Plaut, Herbert F. Dawley, Frank E. Palmer, Jacob Munz, George H. Bradford, Nelson J. Ayling, Charles R. Butts and Charles E. Lamb. The election of officers was postponed until a later date.

Young, Grosvenor Ely, Nathan A. Gibbs, Arthur M. Brown, Walter F. Lester, Hugh B. Campbell, Frank B. Ricketson, William G. Park, Henry A. Tirrell and Philip A. Johnson. The directors at a later meeting elected bank officers as follows, which were all re-elections:

Arthur M. Brown, president; William B. Young, vice president; Nathan A. Gibbs, vice president and cashier; William T. Crandall, Walter M. Buckingham, Henry L. Bennett, and George R. Fellows, assistant cashiers; George R. Fellows, trust officer.

NAMED OFFICIAL LECTURER FOR MEDITERRANEAN CRUISE

Professor Thomas G. Brown of Otis street has received the appointment as official lecturer on the Holland-American line cruise to the Metiterranean and will sail from New York on February 2 on the S. S. Rotterdam. This is the seventh annual cruise of the Rotterdam, which this year will visit ports in 16 countries. The feature of the cruise is a two weeks' tour of Egypt and the Holy Land. The return to New York is to be made on April 14th.

Professor Brown will deliver illustrated lectures on all the places visited, using slides made from his own photographs, and will also give a series of talks on the history and art of several countries. Last year he was on the University Cruise Around the World as instructor and editor of the daily paper.

NORWICH BOY JOINS U. S. MARINE CORPS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Attracted by the prospect of service with the U. S. marines, James V. LaRochelle, of Norwich, recently qualified as a member of Uncle Sam's famous corps by successfully passing the entrance examination at Parris Island, S. Car.

LaRochelle lived at the home of his father, William LaRochelle, 66 Myers avenue, Norwich, before he applied for enlistment in the marine corps at Philadelphia, last month, and later was sent to Parris Island for qualification as a U. S. marine. At the South Carolina camp he has been undergoing instructions in the drills duties and customs of the soldiers of the sea. Upon the completion of this preliminary training he will be available for duty at any post at home or abroad where marines are stationed.

TOWN SCHOOL BOARD HELD MONTHLY MEETING

The monthly meeting of the town school board was held Tuesday evening in the office of the superintendent of school, E. J. Graham, at the court house. The regular monthly bills were ordered paid and routine business transacted. The members of the board discussed the new Samuel Huntington school and also the proposed improvements at the Yantic school building. Those present at the meeting were: Walter F. Lester, chairman, T. J. Kelly, secretary, James C. Macpherson, Robert W. McNeely, Dr. E. J. Brophy and Edward G. McKay.

SUMMONED FOR HEARINGS IN AUTOMOBILE CASES

Four of the five summoned for automobile hearings here next Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the common pleas court room are charged with operating under the influence. These are Joseph Szewik, 65 1-2 Meadow St., Putnam; Henry C. Henseler, R. F. D. No. 8, Norwich Town; George G. Clark, R. F. D., Lyme; Fred LaChance, R. F. D. No. 66B, Putnam.

The other is Paul Kusnier of East Lyme summoned for a fatal accident.

WITHDRAWAL IN SUIT OVER MOTOR ACCIDENT

Suit brought by Paul Salerno against Hugh McPartland, both of New London, for $2,000 damages has been withdrawn from the superior court. Salerno brought the suit on the ground that he had been injured when struck by an automobile owned by McPartland and driven by his agent on State street, New London, on Aug. 17. Salerno claimed that he was incapacitated from work for four weeks and was obliged to spend $50 for medical care and attention.

Workmen's Compensation.

The following workmen's agreements have been approved by Commissioner Albert J. Bailey:

N. Benvenuti, New London, employer, and James Daley, employe, laceration and bruise of right leg, Nov. 1, at rate of $13.61.

C. H. Norton company, employer and Henry Benovicht, 42, North Westchester, employe, cut chord in thumb on Dec. 12, at rate of $10.75.

Hendel Furniture company, employer, and William D. Fox, 65, 210 Howard street, New London, employe, bruised and sprained wrists and back lacterated left hip and thigh, on Oct. 28, at rate of $20.

SCHOOL FOR TEACHERS IN SUNDAY SCHOOLS

The Norwich Council of Religious Education announces a school for teachers to be held at the United Congregational church school rooms on five Tuesday evenings beginning January 17.

The new dean of the Hartford Seminary School of Religious Education, Prof. Karl R. Stolz, will teach a course in Old Testament Prophets; Miss Edith Welker of the same school will conduct a class in Junior Materials and Methods; Rev. Charles R. Reeves will teach a class using the International lesson for the Sunday to follow.

The courses will each of them consist of ten lessons and therefore two lessons in each course will be given each evening.

UNCONTESTED DIVORCES FOR SUPERIOR COURT

Six uncontested divorces are on the superior court short calendar list to be held here Friday morning with Judge C. L. Avery presiding. They are the following:

Ruth Robinson Bishop vs. William G. Bishop, Frances A. B. Dupont vs. Noah Dupont, Rose A. Cook vs. Blair F. Cook, Mary E. Belcher vs. James H. Belcher, Mary Esty Benefield vs. Joseph B. Benefield, Ida Peck vs. Eugene Peck.

LEASES PROPERTY FOR GARDNER LAKE CAMP

The property of Miss Margarette Fuller, situated on Gardner lake, has been recently leased to Mrs. Ida A. Davidson of Brooklyn, N. Y., who will establish a high grade camp for girls on this site next summer.

Mrs. Davidson is well known in camp and club circles in Brooklyn and New York and will personally supervise the camp.

TAFTVILLE

Mr. and William Lavigne have taken a house on North A streets.

Fernando Gaudette of the U. S. naval araining station at Newport, R. I., has been spending several days at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Gaudette and family of South A street.

Alderic Lussier has resigned his position with the No. 4 weaving department of the local mills.

The monthly business meeting of the members of the Taftville Social and Football club was held Monday evening at the clubrooms in the Ponemah house, with the president, Fred Ince presiding. The treasurer's report showed the club to be in excellent financial condition, and several bills and other obligations were ordered paid. David Murphy was appointed janitor for the coming month.

Albert Langlois, U. S. N. of Newport, R. I., is spending some time with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Langlois and family of Merchants avenue.

Miss Rose Duscheneau who has been spending several days with friends in the village has returned to her home in Warren, R. I.

Farmers who live off the beaten track are having difficult times getting to the village with milk and other products because of the condition of the country roads, many of which are mud to the depth of several inches.

Most of the local ponds and streams are still swollen from the effects of the recent heavy rains, and fishermen who enjoy ice fishing, have not had much opportunity to use their tilts and tackle so far this season. Several of the members of the Taftville Rod and Gun club report catches of pickerel in small ponds miles north of here, but locally the ice fishing season has been poor.

A registered letter from Switzerland, addressed to Johann Hafner has been held at the Taftville postoffice.

Does your daughter attend school regularly?

MANY GIRLS are absent from school for a few days each month because of illness. In many cases this is unnecessary because young girls — as well as older women — can be strengthened by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Girls suffering from run-down condition, sleeplessness, nervousness, and loss of appetite, should gain new strength and vigor from this Vegetable Compound.

The following testimonials show what the Compound has done for other schoolgirls.

NERVOUS AND DIZZY

Charleston, Illinois:—"I gave my fifteen-year-old girl Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it did her a wonderful lot of good. She was nervous, weak and dizzy. At last she was so bad off that she was out of school for four months. The Vegetable Compound has improved her in every way and she has gone back to school. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to other mothers with girls who are not as strong as they should be." Mrs. Alice Louthan, Route 2, Charleston, Illinois.

Remember this package. None genuine without the signature of Lydia E. Pinkham.

SICK AND WEAK

Camden, New Jersey:—"When my daughter was twelve years old she was hurt at the playground. She was sick and weak for some time after that and was not able to go to school regularly. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped her wonderfully, and she now goes to school every day. She has gained in weight and has a better appetite than she had before taking it." Mrs. Ada McKim, 1044 Linden Street, Camden, New Jersey.

JUSTICE LEVY HAS STAYED EXECUTION OF MRS. SNYDER UNTIL FRIDAY AT 10 A. M.

Stay Was Granted Pending Hearing of Suit Brought by the Prudential Life Insurance Co. to Avoid Payment of $97,000 on the Life of Her Husband—Warden Lawes Will Not Issue Statement Until Formal Papers Have Been Served on Him—The Order for Stay Does Not Apply to Gray

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Mrs. Ruth Snyder, whose execution for the murder of her husband had been set for tomorrow night, was granted a stay until 10 a. m. Friday, by Supreme Court Justice Aaron J. Levy, tonight. The stay was granted pending hearing of the suit brought by the Prudential Life Insurance company to avoid payment of $97,000 on the life of her husband, Albert Snyder.

The Queens village housewife was convicted with her former lover, Henry Judd Gray, a corset salesman, of the murder of her husband, a magazine art editor. Snyder was found slain in his bed March 20 last. Mrs. Snyder and Gray confessed to the killing a few hours after Snyder's body was found.

The order granting the stay directed Warden Lewis E. Lawes, of Sing Sing prison to appear before Justice Levy Friday at 10 a. m. to show cause why the execution should not be stayed until the insurance case had been disposed of.

It was said in behalf of Justice Levy that the order did not apply to Gray, whose execution has been set for tomorrow night.

Warden Lawes at the prison tonight when informed that the stay had been granted said he would issue no statement until formal papers had been served on him.

Shortly before Edgar F. Hazelton, and Dana Wallace, of Mrs. Snyder's counsel, obtained the stay from Justice Levy, Joseph Lonardo, another member of her legal staff, had obtained the condemned widow's signature to an application for a writ of habeas corpus which it was announced was to be presented to a federal judge in an effort to stay the execution on convictional grounds.

Executive clemency was denied the condemned couple by Governor Alfred E. Smith last night in a statement in which he said nothing had been presented to him by attorneys for Mrs. Snyder and Gray which would permit him under his oat of office to intervene in the case.

An appeal from the conviction and sentence was denied both defendants by the court of appeals in an unanimous decision.

Although it was said that the stay granted by Justice Levy would have no effect on Gray's scheduled execution, Samuel L. Miller, of Gray's counsel announced tonight that he had procured Gray's signature to an application for a writ of habeas corpus and would present it to a federal judge in an effort to save Gray's life.

HOW MRS SNYDER AND GRAY PASSED THE DAY

OSSINING, N. Y., Jan. 11—(AP)—Last minute plans by counsel for attempts to stay the executioner's hand filled the last full day of allotted life of Mrs. Ruth Snyder and Henry Judd Gray.

And although the lawyers were feverishly active the prisoners themselves appeared little concerned. Mrs. Snyder remained in bed all day, refusing food almost entirely while Gray after reading his Bible, ate normally though without apparent relish and waited quietly for the end.

From newspapers both prisoners learned that Governor Smith had denied their plea for a stay of execution, but neither showed any great emotion. Earlier Warden Lawes had said that the prisoners had sensed that their plea had proved futile and that the news would be no surprise to them.

Mrs. Snyder had three visitors today but only one of them, her brother, Andrew Brown, was admitted. The two excluded were the chaplain of the Queens county jail who converted Mrs. Snyder to Catholicism and a Salvation Army woman prison worker. Both came at the invitation of Mrs. Snyder and the Salvation Army worker was armed with a court order, but Warden Lawes adhered to the rule of relatives only.

Gray was visited by his mother and Samuel Miller, his chief of counsel who announced before leaving New York that he planned to make one last court move in an attempt to save the former corset salesman. The move, he indicated, would be an application for a writ of habeas corpus.

FOR INCREASED FACILITIES FOR WORLD WAR VETERANS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11—(AP)—The American Legion's program for increased facilities for disabled World War veterans was placed today before congress. An expenditure of $15,000,000 was proposed for new hospitals and improvements to existing structures and the ultimate provision of 4,490 additional beds, was contemplated.

The program was submitted by Watson J. Miller, chairman of the legion's rehabilitation committee, to a house veterans' sub-committee which yesterday received from Director Hines of the Veterans' bureau a smaller but somewhat similar plan for increasing hospital facilities. Hines requested $10,500,000 to provide for about 3,000 beds. Director Hines testified that several soldiers' homes throughout the country that have been turned into hospitals for the treatment of veterans' bureau neurasthenic cases might advantageously be turned over to the administration of the bureau.

In answer to a question from Representative Edith Nourse Rogers, of Massachusetts, Director Hines said the bureau had found it extremely difficult to provide the special facilities required if ex-service women are to be received in men's hospital.

TO SEARCH FOR AUTHORS OF SPURIOUS DOCUMENTS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11—(AP)—A search to determine the authors of the Mexican documents published in Hearst newspapers was promised the senate today by its special investigating committee which submitted its report that the documents were "spurious and fraudulent."

Miguel Avila, American born son of a Mexican father and Italian mother, was put under suspicion of complicity in the manufacture of the papers by Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, chairman of the committee, as he asked time for the committee to seek the authors of the documents.

The committee again notified the senate that not a "scintilla of evidence," had been uncovered in its inquiry to show that any United States senator was approached or received any money as was charged in one of the documents. This paper purported to show that $1,215,000 was set aside by Mexico for Senators Borah, of Idaho; Norris of Nebraska; Heflin of Alabama, and Lafollette, of Wisconsin.

RUSSIA TO DISCIPLINE OPPOSITION LEADERS

BERLIN, Jan. 11—(AP)—Just what the Moscow government intends to do with a number of opposition leaders, who have been marked for discipline is somewhat of a mystery, and so far as soviet quarters in Berlin are informed the proposed deportations of these men have not yet been made effective.

Leon Trotsky, Karl Radek, Grigory Zinovieff, Leon Kameneff and Christian Kavosky, former soviet ambassador to France, are reported to be among those who are to feel the weight of the soviet government's hand. All of these men have opposed the government strongly, particularly Trotsky who with some of his lieutenants, has been gradually deposed from whatever official positions he held in his own country.

Soviet circles in Berlin attempt to minimize the importance of the contemplated action, professing to see in it merely a disciplinary measure intended to make the opposition amenable to party discipline.

ARRESTS AT BRANFORD FOR THEFT OF AN AUTO

BRANFORD, Jan. 11—(AP)—After emptying his service revolver at them during a long automobile chase, Chief La Croix, of the local police, overtook Frank Moran and Thomas Glavin, both of Charlestown, Mass., and arrested them on a charge of theft of an automobile.

The men were taken to Branford jail and later removed to the state police barracks at Centerbrook.

After notification of theft of his car was received from Walter Rochette, of Old Saybrook, Patrolman Haines and La Croix sighted the men and ordered them to stop. They refused to do so, and the officers gave chase. About two miles along Windmill road, after he had fired all the shots in his revolver at the fleeing men, La Croix managed to pass them and stop them by putting his car across the road.

SENTENCED TWO TO FOUR YEARS FOR MANSLAUGHTER

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 11—(AP)—William Boyd, alias Blue Goose, 25, of this city was sentenced to from two to four Jennings in criminal superior court today, after he had found him guilty of years in state prison by Judge Newell manslaughter in the death of Wesley McKay, 32, of this city, on October 1.

McKay's body was found at Dixwell avenue and Foote street about midnight. Although there were no external marks of violence, autopsy revealed that six ribs had been broken, and a resulting internal hemorrhage had caused death.

An investigation by Coroner Eli Mix revealed that McKay had first been assaulted by Clarence Gardiner, 22, alias Bon Ton Sam, and knocked to the ground. Later he was pursued by Boyd and struck again. A quarrel over a woman was said to have preceded the assault.

NETTED NEARLY $200 FOR STRIKING MINERS

HARTFORD, Jan. 11—(AP)—An impassioned plea for support of the striking miners of Colorado, Pennsylvania and Ohio was made to 400 people here tonight by three colorful labor agitators, "Flaming" Milka Sablich, 19 years old girl who was trampled upon by a mounted mine guard in Colorado; A. S. Embree, organizer of the Colorado strikers and a member of the executive committee of the I. W. W.; and Ella Reaves "Mother" Bloor, 65 years old, worker who has taken part in dozens of prominent strike throughout the country during the last 30 years. The appeal netted nearly $200 to be used directly for the support of strikers and their families.

TO INSPECT SPOT WHERE SUBMARINE WENT DOWN

BOSTON, Jan. 11—(AP)—The naval court of inquiry investigating the S-4 where the submarine went down on disaster tomorrow will inspect the spot December 17 off Provincetown in collision with the coast guard destroyer Paulding.

After hearing three witnesses today the court adjourned without setting a definite date for renewal of the hearing. Rear Admiral Richard H. Jackson, president of the court, said tomorrow would be devoted to inspecting the scene of the collision. If a second visit to Provincetown is required it will be made on Friday.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

BOMBAY, British India, Jan. 11—(AP)—The coming marriage of the former Maharajah of Indore and Miss Nancy Ann Miller of Seattle, Wash., has not met with enthusiasm among the maharajah's former subjects.

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 11—(AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh has declined the gift of a fund collected for him in Sweden by Swenska Dagbladet, Stockholm daily newspaper. He has suggested that the money be used as a fund for worthy Swedish airmen.

NORTHAMPTON, England, Jan. 11—(AP)—The government lost a seat to the labor party at the recent by-election here made necessary because of the death of Sir A. Holland, the conservative member from Northampton. The seat was captured by Colonel Cecil Estrange Malone, laborite, who polled 15,173 votes.

RESCUED THREE FROM DROWNING IN LONDON

LONDON, Jan. 11—(AP)—The story of how twenty-year-old Marjorie Franckeiss rescued a woman and two boys from drowning in Saturday's flood, related today in coroner's court, brought the remark from the coroner, "If we have girls like this we need not fear for the future generation of English people."

The girl told her story with obvious reluctance to dwell on her own part in it. At 2 o'clock in the morning she awoke to find the water at her window ledge and a few minutes later she and another woman were washed out of the room by the force of the water. "I was washed into another room," she continued, "and we crouched on a bed floating near the ceiling. I finally got out of the window and while swimming managed to relieve myself of my dressing gown."

What followed was told by another witness who saw her swimming outside his own doomed house. "Miss Franckeiss swam to our window," he related, "but refused to take hold of the sheet we held out and asked where the others were. We pulled her brother up and told her a woman and a boy were in a room underneath. I saw Miss Franckeiss dive and swim through that window, reappearing with the little boy, whom we pulled up. She still refused our help but dove in again and got the woman. She then allowed herself to be hauled up by my wife and maid. Her limbs were badly cut by window glass."

Miss Franckeiss was driven to the inquest today from Fulham hospital where she had been confined since Saturday. The mayor of Fulham stated that he had opened a testimonial fund for Miss Franckeiss.

FOUND NO MONOPOLY OF ELECTRIC EQUIPMENT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11—(AP)—Reporting to the senate today on its investigation of electric equipment manufacturing in the United States, the federal trade commission said it had found no evidence that any company, group of companies, had attempted a monopoly.

Small manufacturers informed the commission, the report said, that while the large companies undoubtedly have the power to crush them by price competition, this power had not been used in recent years.

The commission reported, however, that certain small manufacturers of fractional horsepower motors had complained that in recent years prices had been reduced to levels at which they have been unable to compete.

MRS. COOLIDGE TO VISIT MOTHER IN NORTHAMPTON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11—(AP)—Mrs. Coolidge will leave Washington tonight for Northampton, Mass., to visit her mother, Mrs. Lemira Goodhue, who has been ill of influenza.

There have been no alarming developments at Northampton but Mrs. Coolidge desired to see her mother before making the trip to Havana. She will return to Washington early Friday morning, and plans to leave that afternoon with the president for Cuba.

Mrs. Goodhue was taken ill some weeks before Christmas and was removed to a hospital in Northampton. For a period her condition was pronounced more or less serious but recent information to the white house has been that she was recovering.

CONFESSION MAY SOLVE MYSTERIOUS ROBBERY

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Jan. 11—(AP)—Arrest and confession here tonight of Charles L. Shannon, alleged navy deserter, is believed to have solved a mysterious robbery of thousands of dollars worth of jewelry and merchandise from the Shepard Department store in Providence, R. I., according to the police.

Shannon is held here for theft of $1,000 worth of merchandise from the E. W. Edwards store here. He admitted, according to the police, hiding in the store until after it was closed and making away with two suitcases filled with goods from the counters. He was arrested when he drove into the city in a rented automobile alleged to have been stolen in Providence.

DEFINITELY DECIDED HICKMAN NOT A MINOR

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 11.—(AP)—One more chance to escape the noose for the kidnaping and slaying of Marian Parker was lost by William Edward Hickman late today when the juvenile court, Judge Scott, dismissed a petition filed last August making him a ward of that court. The petition was placed with the court when the youth was released on probation on forgery charges.

The action definitely ended Hickman's claim that he is a minor and makes him now eligible for trial in the superior court, where conviction for murder is punishable with death.

DEATH OF THOMAS HARDY NOTED ENGLISH NOVELIST

DORCHESTER, England, Jan. 11—(AP)—Thomas Hardy, noted English novelist, died today.

The writer had been confined to his bed since December 12. His illness began with a chill, and from time to time improvement was noted. But on each occasion he seemed to slip back. As he was in his 88th year, his condition caused much anxiety, and the attending physicians could hold out little hope for his recovery.

FIVE NICARAGUAN REBELS KILLED BY U. S. MARINES

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Five rebels were killed in an engagement near Cuje yesterday between followers of General Augustino Sandino and a joint patrol of United States marines and Nicaraguan national guardsmen, marine headquarters was informed today.

Lindbergh to Extend His Tour of Good Will

Will Visit Venezuela, St. Thomas, Porto Rico, Haiti and San Domingo.

BALBOA, Canal Zone, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh has definitely decided to extend his tour of good will. Having virtually completed his Central American tour, he will fly to Venezuela, landing as close as possible to Caracas. He will go to Saint Thomas, one of the Virgin Islands, and to Porto Rico, Haiti and Santo Domingo.

He will take off for Colon, on the Carribbean side of the isthmus tomorrow morning, but his plans have not been definitely decided upon regard to dates and the schedule of his flights.

Colonel Lindbergh spent the day as the guest of the 27,000 Americans in the Canal Zone. His particular host was the acting governor, Colonel Harry Burgess, and he was at the governor's home discussing his plans with the newspapermen, when messages were received inquiring as to rumors that a serious accident had befallen him. He was safe and in good condition at that moment.

Explaining his plans, Lindbergh said: "I am having the Spirit of St. Louis thoroughly checked, not overhauled, at Colon tomorrow. I shall fly to Colon in the morning. The time of my various arrivals and the sequence of my flights are uncertain. I shall not be able to arrive at Havana before the Pan-American congress begins.

"I shall fly across the northern section of South America, up the West Indies and thence to Cuba."

The airman said he was sorry he could not give details, but he wished to be certain first of all of landing fields.

The unofficial ambassador from the United States carried his message of good will to his fellow countrymen now residing in the Canal Zone, and they returned his greetings in full measure. Again the school children passed in review, wearing dainty frocks and waving flags before the flyer.

A unique honor was paid the conqueror of the Atlantic today, when he was presented with a golden eagle which had been taken from the grave of an Indian chief. This remarkable talisman came from the Chirique mountains and represented an eagle with wings and tail outspread and talons clenched.

GOOD WORDS FOR A DOG FROM THE COMMON PLEAS BENCH

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Good words for a dog were spoken by Judge Walter M. Pickett from the common pleas court bench today when he had to pass upon a demurrer which he overruled. He held that there was cause for action in the malicious and intentional killing of a canine although the law says that recovery may not be had where the dog killed is unlicensed and unregistered.

In the suit in question, the parties at issue had agreed that the killing was intentional but the defense by demurrer set up that recovery of damages was not possible because the dog was unlicensed.

John D. Conaty, of West Haven, owner of a pedigreed dog, sued Antone Turcotte for $500 damages because the latter killed the former's dog as it was carrying away a chicken belonging to Turcotte, the complaint saying that the dog was "unlawfully" clubbed to death.

Judge Pickett in speaking of dogs, said that while a dog may be inferior property, he is "in the hearts of human kind more than creature, more than property, more than human, a faithful friend. When the cold, moist noise of the dog gently muzzles the hand of blind justice, the cold, dry precepts of ancient law lose something of their austere verity."

NEW MEXICAN OIL LAWS HAVE BECOME EFFECTIVE

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Amendments to the Mexican oil laws which caused friction with the United States government and American oil companies, became effective today through publication in the "Diario Official."

The amendments, suggested by congress by President Calles, are considered to remove American objections.

Unofficial interpretation is that the amendments remove retroactive and alleged confiscatory features of the oil laws in the constitution of 1917. Th adenmdments were recently passed by congress and under Mexican procedure their publication today in "Diario Official" makes them immediately effective.

The amended law as officially published is the same in text as sent by President Calles to congress and as passed by congress, but has in addition a penalty clause providing that oil companies which do not accept the amended law within one year from its publication will lose their property rights and will not have any claim upon the government in consequence.

AMERICA TO STAND PAT IN PARLEYS WITH FRANCE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1.—(AP)—America will stand pat in its negotiations with France for a treaty outlawing war to have the covenant apply to "war" as such rather than to "aggressive warfare," as proposed by the French government.

The second note of Secretary Kellogg to France in the treaty negotiations was drafted for communication today and there were definite indications that this government not only turned down the French amendment for "aggressive warfare," but that it also would insist upon the inclusion of other world pozers in the treaty.

CHAMBERLAIN FAILED TO ESTABLISH RECORD

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Jan. 11—(AP)—Thwarted after a four-hour flight in an attempt to establish a new world's endurance record, Clarence Chamberlain, trans-Atlantic flier, and a companion, Roger Williams, landed late today and immediately began planning to start at dawn tomorrow.

Chamberlin and William, who took off from Roosevelt Field's famous runway at 12:13 p. m. today, in an effort to break the present record of landed at 4:13 p. m., after dumping 52 hours, 22 minutes and 31 seconds, 300 of their original load of 451 gallons of gasoline.

Plans For Highway From Canada to Chile

Project of Pan-American Division of American Road Builders' Association.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Delegates from Mexico, Chile, Peru, Cuba, Colombia and the Dominican republic today formed a Pan-American division of the American Road Builder's association for the purpose of working out their road building problems on an international scale. The first great project to be undertaken through the new organization will be the construction of an international highway from Montreal, Canada, to Valparaiso, Chile.

Antonio Madrazo, national highway commissioner of Mexico, was chosen president of the new organiaztion. He is one of the foremost road building authorities in Mexico and was at one time governor the state of Guanajuato. Madrazo is head of Mexico's delegation to the Road Builders' convention, which has attracted 25,000 persons from nine nations and Alaska.

The Pan-American road organization will establish its headquarters in Washington with Charles M. Upham, managing director of the American association, as secretary. Dr. E. Gil Borges, assistant director of the Pan-American union, Washington, presided at today's session.

Official invitations to join the Pan-American division will be sent to national highway officials of Ecuador, Brazil, Guatemala, Nicaraugua and Costa Rica. A system of international highways that would challenge the imagination of the world's greatest engineers is the plan of the Pan-American group. With all parts of nations in the western hemisphere linked in a vast network of highways.

The international highway from Canada to Chile, plans for which were announced Monday, will extend from Montreal, through Detroit to Laredo, Tex., through Mexico City, Guatemala, Panama, Colombia, Ecuador, Peru to Valparaiso, Chile, with an arm extending into Brazil.

NAVAL OIL RESERVE BEING DRAINED BY ADJACENT WELLS

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Jan. 11.—(AP)—A warning that the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve is being drained by wells in the adjoining Salt Creek field was contained in a special report filed in federal court here today by Albert E. Watts, who represented Harry F. Sinclair's mammoth oil company in the recent receivership of the property.

The report said the government's loss from this cause may have been $60,000,000, and is continuing. The government, Mr. Watts stated, should take cognizance of the actual facts as opposed to the "legal fiction," that the Teapot Dome is not being drained by Salt Creek wells.

Geologists appearing for the government in the proceedings which resulted in annulment of Sinclair's lease of Teapot Dome testified the oil field was a closed structure and there was no drainage of oil from it into the adjoining field.

As a basis for his contention, Mr. Watts stated that the Wall Creek sands under the reserve were estimated to contain 50,000,000 barrels of oil, but that 84 wells have been sunk into the naval reserve to these sands without yielding a barrel of oil from the Wall Creek formation.

CHILD BURNED TO DEATH; SEVERAL SEVERELY BURNED

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Trapped on the third floor of the Germantown community center when fire swept through the building late today, 8-year-old Frances Pifano was burned to death and six other children were burned so severely they may not recover. The fire started from an undetermined cause in the hallway leading to the floor occupied by the community center, where children between the ages of six and fourteen are taught handcraft.

Approximately 100 children, mostly girls, were caught in the rooms when flames and smoke surrounded them.

Frantic parents struggled and screamed in the street below as firemen and volunteers ran up ladders and carried the panic stricken children to safety. Those not carried out by firemen were led down fire escapes.

Miss Anna and Miss May McMurtrie, the sisters in charge, collapsed son after their last trip into the building, but were revived.

15 BODIES RECOVERED FROM SUB S-4 YESTERDAY

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., Jan. 11.—(AP)—Fifteen additional bodies of men who died 17 fathoms under water in the broken hull of the sunken submarine S-4, were recovered today by divers operating with the naval salvage fleet. The number of bodies thus far recovered now totals 32. Six of the eight remaining unrecovered bodies are known to be in the tight torpedo room leaving only two unaccounted for.

All of the bodies recovered today were found in the engine room and the motor compartment of the sunken boat. They were found lying about in various postures on the iron flooring of the passageways, with the exception of one victim, whose body was discovered in sleeping posture on a collapsible cot. The finding of the single body on the cot was taken to indicate that this victim was the first to have been overcome and that he was placed there by more rugged mates.

NOW 51 CASES AF SMALLPOX IN MIDDLESEX COUNTY

MIDDLETOWN, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Middlesex county's smallpox roll swelled to 51 today with the discovery of nine additional cases in this city during the day. The disease which is an exceptionally mild form has 24 victims here and 27 in other towns of the county.

A meeting of city authorities was held tonight to discuss the securing of a new isolation hospital as the present pest house is now over-taxed.

Vaccination clinics were continued today throughout the county and many thousands of persons have been treated.

In describing the type of smallpox prevalent in the epidemic, health authorities said that it was extremely mild and rarely fatal. It was even doubtful that any marks would be left after the disease had passed if those who had it took proper care of themselves, they said.

DEMOCRATIC GOSSIP ON EVE OF THE JACKSON DAY DINNER

National Committee, Meeting in Washington Today, Will Receive Bids For the National Convention—Detroit and San Francisco Are the Leading Contenders, With Chicago and Cleveland Also Receiving Serious Consideration—Gov. Smith of New York Seems to Be the Leading Figure in Most of the Conversations.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11—(AP)—A sharp refining of the list of possible cities for the 1928 democratic convention was indicated today by powers that be in the party on the eve of the national committee meeting and Jackson day dinner tomorrow.

Some semblance of disagreement on party affairs was found where the committeemen and others gathered in private conferences. While none of the members would speak for publication, it was said that a move would be initiated for a change in the present system by which the chairman of the committee is chosen only once every four years.

This followed reports that Clem L. Shaver, of West Virginia, the present chairman was contemplating his resignation, which he denied flatly.

In the gossip going the rounds of the hotel corridors where the party chieftains congregated was a report also that some committeemen had contemplated a move to oust Shaver, but had abandoned it in the interest of party harmony.

Leading contenders among the cities for the June convention now appear to be Detroit and San Francisco with Chicago and Cleveland also receiving serious consideration. Bids will be submitted to the committee tomorrow by the first three and it was said tonight that Cleveland stood ready to advance any "reasonable" amount to obtain the convention.

George F. Mars, of New York, who is to be financial adviser to the committee in making the selection, said that "the democratic convention is not for sale." He added that the controlling factor in selection would be the facilities for handling the gathering, both in hotels and the hall.

"It seems to be the impression that the democratic party is broke and has to accept the highest bid," he continued, "but we are now in the same position as the republican party was in selecting its convention city."

It was said at national headquarters that early invitations to the Jackson day dinner seemed to be valued lightly, but later indications of a significant meeting had increased the demand especially from senate and house sources. This was taken as an indication of the belief that the outcome of the present conference would serve as a barometer as to what might be expected at the June convention.

While some talk was heard here and there about Reed, of Missouri; George, of Georgia; Pomerene, of Ohio; Ritchie, of Maryland; Walsh, of Montana; Woollen, of Indiana, and Robinson, of Arkansas, the dominant figure in most of the conversations was Smith, of New York. Many of the committeemen, including Guffey, of Pennsylvania; Christensen, of Washington, Brennan, of Illinois, and Mack, of New York, predicted Smith's nomination early in the balloting.

WILLIAM GIBBS M'ADOO HAS NOT PLEDGED HIMSELF

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—(AP)—William Gibbs McAdoo said tonight that he had not pledged himself to refrain from commenting on the presidential candidacy of Governor Smith of New York in his address at the Jackson day dinner tomorrow night. He would give no indication, however, to the nature of his speech.

Reports had been current that Mr. McAdoo, who participated in the long deadlock with the New York governor at the national convention of 1924 had given his word that for the sake of party harmony, which the dinner is intended to foster, he would not renew his fight against Smith.

He said tonight, however, that no such pledge had been given and that he would expound his views on the most optimistic outlook for the democratic party.

PROHIBITION VIEWS OF GOV. SMITH AIRED IN SENATE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11—(AP)—Presidential politics got its first airing of the session in the senate today with the prohibition views of Governor Smith of New York the hub of a debate. Before its end leaders of both parties became involved before a crowded gallery which broke into laughter frequently as each side scored.

Governor Smith was put forward as a democratic candidate "who will sweep the country," by Senator Copeland, democrat, New York, when pressed by republicans to name his candidate after he had predicted a harmony meeting of democrats at the Jackson day dinner here tomorrow night.

Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, immediately questioned the New York senator as to the prohibition views of Governor Smith and was informed that the governor "is thoroughly in favor of enforcing the eighteenth amendment."

Democrats immediately rallied behind Copeland and Senators Caraway, Ark., and Neely, West Virginia, pressed Senator Borah for the prohibition views of President Coolidge and republican presidential candidates.

The Idahoan replied that he wasn't sure of the views of Mr. Coolidge but called attention that his prohibition policy had been endorsed by leading dry organizations. He gave notice that he intended to ask every republican presidential candidate to state his position on prohibition "if anybody ever announces his candidacy for the republican nomination."

Senator Caraway suggested that Senator Curtis, of Kansas, the republican leader, had announced his candidacy and he called upon Borah to inquire of the Kansas senator who sat nearby as to his prohibition views. The Idaho senator said he didn't understand Senator Curtis had announced his candidacy and he suggested that the Arkansas senator was a good interrogator.

In reply to Senator Borah about Governor Smith's position on the eighteenth amendment, Copeland said that while he didn't speak for Smith he felt he knew his views.

"He has never made one utterance against the eighteenth amendment," Mr. Copeland said "He has believed that the enforcement act as embodied in the Volstead law could be modified."

Senator Copland further stated that he understood that Smith favored having congress determine what should be the alcoholic content of intoxicating liquor and then have the states if they wish permit the sale of beverages with alcohol up to that limit.

Senator Borah persisted that congress already had determined the amount of alcohol which it considered intoxicating and that if Governor Smith was willing to leave this question to congress that point was settled.

"As chief executive," Copeland continued, "he will use all the powers at his command to enforce the eighteenth amendment and all other laws. Regardless of his beliefs about the Volstead act he believes that every law must be strictly enforced."

NEW ENGLAND FIGURES IN FLOOD CONTROL HEARING

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11—(AP)—Turning from its lengthy study of the Mississippi river's problem, the house flood control committee today learned of the losses occasioned by the short lived inundation that swept over parts of New England and New York last November.

In five states the flood caused $42,000,000 damage and nearly a hundred lives were lost, Representative Gibson, republican, Vermont, who headed a group of New England members of the house declared before the committee. Vermont was the heaviest sufferer, he said, adding that the Green Mountain state had a loss of $30,000,000 and of 61 lives.

"The loss per capita in Vermont was $90," he continued. "This loss on the basis of wealth of the state's population constituted a real catastrophe."

Representative Brigham, also a republican of Vermont, told about the efforts of the state to restore conditions after the flood. Representative Rogers, republican, Massachusetts, attended the hearing but did not testify.

Mrs. Rogers, however, announced that she was planning to introduce a bill to direct the army engineers to make a survey of flood control methods in New England.

"The damage to highways and bridges in Vermont is nearly twice the amount of loss caused to this class of property by the Mississippi flood," Mr. Gibson declared.

FAVOR $725,000,000 FOR NEW WARSHIP CONSTRUCTION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11—(AP)—Approval of the administration's $725,000,000 new warship construction program was urged upon congress today by high naval officials as necessary to the establishment of an American navy strong enough to "protect commerce, preserve our ocean trade routes, and provide adequate national defense."

"We have not such a fleet at the present time," was one of the conclusions of the navy general board placed before the house navy committee by Secretary Wilbur.

The secretary, in testimony, stressed a personal belief that "America needs a first class navy," and declared he felt that if the program were carried out the "danger of war and therefore of the destruction of our overseas commerce will be greatly minimized if not entirely met."

Admiral Charles F. Hughes, chief of naval operations, said that while completion of the program would not give the United States command of the sea, the proposed ships added "to our present force" would cause any nation to pause before attacking American rights and interests.

MOUNTAIN PEAK IS TO BE NAMED FOR WOMAN CLIMBER

NEW YORK, Jan. 11—(AP)—Miss Annie S. Peck's ascent of Mt. Huascaran in Peru in 1908 is to be commemorated on the map of that country, she said today.

The Lima, Peru, Geographical society has notified her that the mountain's highest peak is to be named "Annie's Peak." S. S. Liona, general secretary of the society, said he regarded the name as most appropriate, as the Peruvians pronounce her name "Peek or Peak."

After making the 21,812-foot ascent, Miss Peck was awarded a gold medal by the Peruvian government. The veteran mountain climber, a native of Providence, R. I., said no other American has since reached so high a point in the western hemisphere.

When Miss Peck climbed Huascaran, she hoped to attain the highest point in the western hemisphere, but the mountain was found to lack 1,000 feet of the height of Mt. Aconcagua in Chile.

"My two feet," Miss said, "have taken me higher than Lindbergh has flown."

TWO MEN COMMITTED SUICIDE IN BRIDGEPORT

BRIDGEPORT, Jan. 11—(AP)—Within the space of three hours tonight two local men, one, a real estate operator reputed to have lost a fortune in Florida real estate and the other a factory worker out of a job, committed suicide in their homes, each man hanging himself in the cellar of his home. Louis Salwitz, 51, of 1816 North avenue, real estate operator, is believed to have hanged himself about 10 p. m., and John Spodnik, 54, factory worker of 374 Bunnell street, ended his life with a rope in his cellar at 7 o'clock while his family was at supper.

WILLIMANTIC EXPOSITION OPENS WITH BIG ATTENDANCE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Jan. 11—The Willimantic exposition, staged under the auspices of the Windham County Poultry, Pigeon and Small Stock association as an annual event, opened for the 1928 run at the state armory on Pleasant street here tonight under most auspicious conditions. The affair is staged in collaboration with Company C, 169th Infantry, Conecticut National guard. Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton, president of the chamber of commerce delivered the welcome talk which officially opened the exposition. He pointed to the notable achievement of the poultry association in not only promoting interest in the growing poultry raising industry of this section but of giving the public a rare opportunity for gaining more intimate knowledge of small stock as well as commercial progress. The education value of the exposition has been enhanced this year through the success of the association in securing a wider scope of exhibits to attract the attention of a cosmopolitan gathering. The exhibits are under three major heads, trade, small stock and "unusual," the latter group including baby alligators and freak birds. There is a wide variety of dogs, cage birds and pets on display. Roy D. Wood of Danielson is judge for the working dogs and Howard Rich of Springfield, Mass., for the cage birds and pets. Entries in the various groups have come in from no less than 12 states, making the show the most complete of its kind ever seen here. While hundreds of cages and dog kennels have been placed about the center of the large drill shed, 30 trade exhibits booths line the walls.

Thursday is slated as the banner day of the exposition, Mr. Rich will judge the toy dogs and poultry on that day and in the evening the annual banquet of the association with the business men of this and other cities as guests, will be held at the Nathan Hale hotel. At the banquet the dedication of the "Wid" Card memorial cup, purchased by popular subscription, will take place. "Wid" Card was a widely known poultry judge and breeder of South Manchester. The cup is later to be placed on exhibition at the Connecticut Agricultural college. The meeting will be in charge of I. M. Johanson, president of the association and Daniel D. Cavanaugh, exposition manager.

Officers were re-elected at the annual meeting of the Willimantic Council of Catholic Women held in St. Mary's hall Tuesday night. Mrs. Joseph B. Riordan, chairman, presided. The reports of the various officers were read and accepted. Mrs. A. J. Squires was in charge of the entertainment for the evening, the program consisting of violin solos by Clarence Lafleur and two vocal solos by Arthur Roy. The speaker of the evening was Miss Victoria Larmour of New Haven whose talk on Social Service proved highly interesting and instructive. Miss Larmour traced the social service work since the dawn of Christianity.

Officers who were re-elected were: Chairman, Mrs. Joseph B. Riordan, treasurer, Mrs. Edmund R. Portelance; recording secretary, Miss Anne L. Shea; financial secretary, Mrs. John F. Keagan. Refreshments were served by the hospitality committee.

At a special meeting of the Willimantic Rotary club held in the Nathan Hale hotel Tuesday evening with the ladies as guests, Arthur M. Brown of the Norwich Rotary club, state's attorney for New London county, delivered a stirring talk on "The Ideal Rotarian" in which he defined the influence of Rotary on the Rotarian in his private and public life, and on the 41 nations of the world in which Rotary is represented by tending to develope an international understanding and goodwill. He classed Rotary as being the outstanding movement today in developing world peace. Judge Brown was introduced by Justice George E. Hinman of the supreme court. The talk given by the Norwich Rotarian who was accompanied by Mrs. Brown was only one of several delightful features of the evening. President Richard E. Dodge, in opening the meeting, indicated that the purpose of the meeting, which was not the annual Ladies' glimpse of a regular luncheon-meet-night, was to give the Rotary Anns a ing of the club. Special song numbers were led by Song Leader John C. Frazier assisted by John F. Ahern and Harry W. Standish. Among the renditions was a quartet by Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock, Raymond A. Parker, Dr. R. Bullock Jones and Harry W. Standish. Following the session there was dancing to music by Gibson's orchestra and card playing in the coffee shop.

A vote to sell the Turner mill property occupied by the Goyer company, to the town of Windham to be used as a trade school, was taken at a meeting of the Willimantic Development company stockholders held in the chamber of commerce rooms Tuesday night and presided over by George S. Elliott. The sale price was fixed at $35,000. A vote was also taken to dissolve the corporation and to have the officers dispose of the proceeds of the sale to the stockholders. The proceeds will be sufficient to return the par value of the stock with the addition of a bonus. The Turner mill property was the only one held by the corporation which has been in existence for several years.

Mrs. Mary Mathieu, past president, installed the following officers at the annual meeting of Windham Review No. 31, Woman's Benefit association held in the Al-Pierre Tabarin Tuesday evening: President: Mrs. Ida Grady; financial secretary, Mrs. Mary Brooks; vice president, Mrs. Minnie Smith; acting past president, Mrs. Mary Lombardo; chaplain, Mrs. Ive LaVallee; recording secretary, Mrs. Mary Barber; treasurer, Mrs. Mary Mathieu; lady of ceremonies, Mrs. Mary Benoit; sergeant, Mrs. Katherine Bedford; inner hostess, Miss Alice Brooke; outer hostess, Miss Mamie Maxwell; press correspondent, Mrs. Ive LaVallee.

The exterior of the new addition to the Model school, an institution under state supervision, has now been completed. The rough woodwork in the basement and second floor has been completed and plastering is now underway. When the window and door casings have been put into place and the windows installed the carpentry work will be done with the exception of minor details. It is hoped to open the building for use shortly after April 1 and the state board of education has planned to occupy some of the rooms on that date, removing class rooms which are now being held in the normal school building. A contract will be awarded soon for the grading and beautification of the school grounds early in the spring.

Willimantic was quite free from contagious diseases during December according to returns of local physicians made to City Health Officer Dr. William P. S. Keating. The reports hsow a slight epidemic of scarlet fever, there being eight of these cases listed. There were two cases of lobar pneumonia and one of bronchial pneumonia.

A large attendance is expected at the 100th anniversary meeting of the First Congregational church to be held Thursday evening in the church. A banquet and birthday cake will be features. The report sof officers will be made and the officers for 1928 elected.

MAYOR GATES RE-APPOINTS HEADS OF CITY DEPARTMENTS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Jany 1.—At a special meeting of the common council held with a full attendance tonight Mayor Charles A. Gates read his annual message and upon his recommendation all of the incumbents, heads of the city departments, were reappointed. The appointments were: Corporation counsel, William A. King; inspector of plumbing, Theodore Marrotte; superintendent of streets, Edwin O. Sumner; superintendent of water works, Henderson S. Moulton; superintendent of pumping station, Willard N. Bowen. On recommendation of the sewer committee made by Chairman Oliver L. Willard, Edwin O. Sumner was reappointed superintendent of sewers in collaboration with his position as superintendent of streets. In his message which was addressed to president of the board, William E. Jackson, and members of the council, Mayor Gates made several recommendations for the constructive administration of the city during the ensuing term. The first item was that of public health which included an extension of the sewer systems and the removal of vaults and cess pools now in existence and which are injurious to health and cleanliness. While calling attention to the present purity of the water supply, the mayor warned against pollution and recommended steps be taken to establish a second high service or main supply pipe line for the conduction of water from the pumping station at Mansfield to the city. The present pipe line, the only one on which the city depends is 40 years old. He expressed the belief that the construction and maintenance of the city ice plant had proven a very good investment of the people's money by reason of the fact that it has resulted in a sale of ice at a reasonable price to the people. The establishment of a sufficient number of adequate public comfort stations was recommended for early consideration. The fire department consisting of a chief and deputy chief and ten permanent men also call men consisting of five officers and thirty men, Mayor Gates considers sufficient for present needs. Mention was likewise made of the police department which consists of a chief, captain, lieutenant, six permanant patrolmen and eight supernumerary officers. The extension of street lighting, city parks, sidewalk construction and street maintenance and improvements were included in subsequent recommendations. The message made a review of the finances, showing that at the close of the fiscal year the amount of bonds outstanding was $489,000 divided as follows: Municipal, $289,000; water department, $150,000. A reduction of the debt each year was stressed as imperative, while the bonded indebtedness of the water department will be taken care of from the net earnings of that department. In conclusion, Mayor Gates called attention to the board of the responsibility of city administration and asked for judicious economy as a mark of the conduct of the affairs of the city without crippling its efficiency. The keynote of his conclusion was a plea for hearty co-operation to give the people the best possible government and to make it the aim that the citizens shall receive a dollars worth of service in return for every dollar for public money invested and expended under the direction of the board.

SCHOOL ADVISES THAT CHILDREN BE VACCINATED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Jan. 11.—Preventive measures against a smallpox epidemic were taken at the January meeting of the school committee held tonight. Secretary Egbert A. Case stated that the committee would request that Town Health Officer Dr. Frederick C. Wilcox to use such authority as is given him by the statutes to give the public the opportunit of free vaccination. An effort will be made to interest parents in the free vaccination with the hope of warding off smallpox, which has prevailed in an epidemic degree in other sections of the satte. In taking this action, the school committee hopes to ward off the epidemic and the unnecessar expenditures and suffering attending it. Vaccinations are given free in the schools and the expense is paid by the town through its board of selectmen. Other than this discussion, onl routine business was transacted at the meeting over which Chairman Dr. F. E. Guild presided.

SPECIAL MEETING VOTES TO BUY VOTING MACHINES

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Jan. 11—By vote of 37 to 42 the electors of the city at a special meeting tonight approved a resolution for the expenditure of $2,285 for the purchase of three voting machines to be used in all future elections in conjunction with a similar purchase made by the town government. The vote tonight and the subsequent making of an appropriation for that purpose by the common council was the last step in a controversy which has existed here for several months over the prospective purchase of voting machines which does away with the Australian ballot. The leading spokesmen pro and con were Robert O. Snow and Valentine L. Murphy, respectively. A yea and nay vote was doubted and standing vote counted by tellers resulted as indicated above. Mayor Charles A. Gates presided at the meeting and the warning was read by City Clerk Arthur L. Clark. The meeting also voted an appropriation of $2,000 for the work of the visiting nurses' association during the year. This amount is paid in monthly installments by the common council.

Judge Frank H. Foss gave an informing talk on Bankruptcy laws at a largely attended meeting of the Willimantic Exchange club held in the Nathan Hale hotel here tonight. Judge Foss was introduced by George H. Gurley, chairman of the program committee, President Alfred P. Abbe was in charge of the session.

A story of something unusual and that does not come from Winsted is to the effect that while in the woods near the city limits this afternoon Teevan Hornberger, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Hornberger, of South Park street, gathered a bunch of pussy willows nearly fully blossomed The willows are on display to all unbelievers.

JEWETT CITY

SAVINGS BANK DEPOSITS SHOW HANDSOME 1927 GAIN

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Jan. 11—Jewett City Savings banks at the January meeting of the corporators held this afternoon re-elected J. E. Phillips and L. M. Carpenter auditors for six months and W. T. Crumb alternate auditor.

The gain in deposits last year was $179,267.01 and the profits increased $34,816.08. Dividends paid last year were $97,058.24.

The trial of Jerome Gareaux on a charge of causing the death of Fred S. Campbell of Bayonne, N. J., while visiting his brother in Jewett City, is set for Friday morning.

The members of Pachaug Grange, who are attending the State Grange in Hartford this week are Mr. and Mrs Frank Mell, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hull, Mrs. Patrick Weaver, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kendall, M. H. Bartlett, Mrs. Leon James and Charles Campbell. The last two mentioned were in the class receiving the sixth degree.

All persons not paying their personal tax on or before Jan. 15, 1928, will be charged $1 extra, making total $3. May be mailed or paid at T. E. Shea's, foot Tracy Ave.—Adv.

The Woman's Missionary society of the Baptist church was most hospitably entertained at the home of Mrs. John P. Post on North Main street Tuesday afternoon. The meeting was opened by Mrs. A. M. Brown. The president read 2 Kings 4, 8-11, the story of the little room provided for the entertainment of Elisha by the Shunammite woman. This introduced a discussion of the use of the guest room and the house by the woman of the house as a steward of God, participated in by Mrs. R. A. Wilbur, Mrs. E. E. Scates and Mrs. E. M. Gray. Prayer was offered followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison. Mrs. Brown reported $53 in the White Cross fund with the end of the year very near, and it was voted to appropriate $25 of it toward the missionary budget of the church.

An appreciative letter was read from Miss Pearl Harris, at Puerta de Tierra, Porto Rico, acknowledging the Christmas box sent by the society. A letter from Mather school thanked the society for two barrels sent early in December, also telling the need for more warm clothing.

Mrs. Wilbur sang "Oh Master, Let Me Walk With Thee," a hymn very apt, since the subject of the meeting was "Twenty-five Years on American Frontiers" and had been prepared by Mrs. Brown, using a book by that name by Dr. Bruce Kinney. She read an appreciation of him and showed his picture which visualized him and his work among the Indians and Mormons in the frontier states.

Miss Belle Guy and Mrs. Thomas Brown read excerpts from Dr. Kinney's book and Mrs. Brown read the story "After Many Days" in which he tells of the conversion of Wild Bill Donovan. The change to a new way of life among the Indians was divided into the following subjects: "Change in Dress," Mrs. S. F. Brown; "Language," Mrs. N. J. Babcock; "Education," Mrs. A. D. Tripp; "Home Life," Mrs. John McLean; "Health" Mrs. Babcock; "Morals and Religion," Mrs. E. M. Gray; "Evangelism," Mrs. Martin Davis. Miss Mabel McBroome read of the customs at a Hopi wedding, Mrs. Wilbur read the story of "Comanche Jack," and Mrs. B. R. Gardner read "A By-Product of Home Missions." There was an attendance of twenty including a delegation of four from the Missionary society of Plainfield Congregational church. Mrs. Post, assisted by Mrs. J. E. Post of Norwich and Mrs. Wilbur, served tea and wafers.

Mrs. A. M. Brown and Mrs. B. R. Gardner are in Boston Wednesday and Thursday attending meetings of the Baptist Woman's Missionary society. Mrs. Brown is secretary-director of the society for Connecticut.

Dorcas Circle of The King's Daughters met at the home of Mrs. Alice Anthony Tuesday evening. The annual reports were read showing much good work done, always to alleviate suffering or bring sunshine into homes and hospitals. The sick committee appointed, each member to serve three months, is Mrs. E. H. Hiscox, Mrs. Alice Anthony, Mrs. John T. Stewart, Mrs. S. H. Holmes. Social committee, Miss Grace Olin, Mrs. E. B. Cheney, Mrs. W. H. Payne, and Miss Eleanor Stetson. Work committee, Mrs. A. C. Burdick, Mrs. F. I. Ray, Mrs. Ella Geer and Mrs. Walter Marshall. Miss Mabel Wilcox was appointed to find the place of meeting each month. It was voted that a fine of five cents be imposed upon the member not displaying the pin at the meetings. After the business session Miss Sadie Thompson sang a solo, also sang in a duet with Mrs. E. H. Hiscox. Humorous readings were given by Misses M. A. Burdick and Sadie Thompson. Cake and cocoa were served by Miss Olin and Mrs. A. C. Burdick.

NEW LONDON PAYS FINAL HONORS TO ARTHUR F. HODGES, OF S-4 CREW

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 11.—The funeral of Arthur F. Hodges, chief machinist's mate and son of Mrs. Sophia Kennerson, 18 Bragaw street, a member of the crew of the submarine S-4 was held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at Brainard lodge rooms, Masonic temple, and was attended by a throng of mourners. So great was the number, that all who desired to attend the services were unable to obtain admission to the lodge room. Tribute was paid to the memory of the dead sailor, not only by relatives and friends, but by the citizens in general, including numerous city officials. Conspicuous among the mourners were many chief machinist's mates and sailors from the submarine base. The services were conducted by Worshipful Master Ellery Edwards and Chaplain J. Romeyn Danforth. The bearers were members of Brainard lodge, Mohegan lodge of Odd Fellows and Thomas Hose company. Burial was in Jordan cemetery where a volley was fired and taps sounded as the body was lowered to its final resting place. As the sprigs of acacia and the lambskin were deposited in the casket, women sobbed and sympathetic men were deeply affected. The final rites were most impressive. A deputation from the New London fire department accompanied the cortege as far as the city line. The young sailor was in regulation navy uniform and his casket was draped with an American flag. The body was brought to the temple at noon, escorted by a battalion of members of the fire department. There the casket was opened and for three hours, with a lone sailor as a guard of honor at the head of the coffin hundreds of men and women filed past.

The absence of a military guard of honor was noticeable, especially in view of the fact that the body was not accompanied to this city from Boston by uniformed guard, nor did a guard meet the body at the train, or was such a formality provided at either the undertaking establishment or at the home of the dead sailor. It was not until the firing squad arrived at the temple was there any evidence of military honors bestowed. The absence of the guard of honor could not be explained by city officials, Mayor May endeavored to get in communication with submarine base officials relative to the failure of a guard of honor or an escort of sailors provided, but was unable to do so.

Outside the temple hundreds lined the sidewalks unable to get places within. There were hundreds of men and women who did not have an acquaintance with the machinist's mate, but they gathered to manifest their sympathy. Traffic on Green and Starr streets was congested to such an extent that the police were compelled to perform traffic duty.

BEHIND ASSUMED NAMES, BUT SNEAKS IDENTIFIED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 11.—Three New London young men were arrested last night charged with breach of the peace when they went to Raynolds' road house, Waterford, and created a disturbance because they were refused admission. They were arrested by Constable Chester H. Brigham and when locked up at New London police headquarters, they gave fictitious names for they said they were John J. Murphy, J. J. Kelly and Patrick T. Barry. They were recognized by the police and their identity is known. The three were held over night and today they were admitted to bail of $25 each and will be presented in the Waterford town court Friday afternoon. The men went to the road house about 11 o'clock and had bene drinking. They were refused admission by he proprietor. A disturbance resulted and became so serious that Constable Brigham was summoned and arrested the trio.

But two cases were tried in the police court today, both being for drunkenness. One was fined $10 and costs and the other was sentenced to jail for 30 days. Both men were arrested on North Bank street yesterday afternoon by Patrolman Dennis Murphy. They had been employed on construction work at Fishers Island.

Funeral services for Mrs. Azelia E. Budington, Groton, were held this afternono at 2 o'clock at 15 Masonic street, the services being conducted by Rev. Henry W. Hurlbut, pastor of Groton Heights Baptist church. The bearers were Charles E. White, A. B. Cone, John G. Tripland and Charles Andrews. Burial was in Starr cemetery, Groton.

The funeral of Miss Veronica Rondomanski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Zygmond Rondomanski, 28 Steward street, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Joseph's church and was attended by many mourners. The high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. William C. Fitzsimmons. As a waiting hymn, Edward F. Murray sang "One Sweetly Solemn Thought." The bearers were Miss Rondomanski's four brothers, Przemyslaw, Thomas, Raymond and Zybmond Rondomanski, Jr., and her two cousins, Berbard and Joseph Rondomanski. The flower bearers were Theodore Sterry, John Riley, Joseph Tasca and John Rynasko. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Ruth Henderson, 31 Church street, and Dorothy Ayrton, 15 Ledyard street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Abraham Bronstein, formerly of New London, now residing in New York, has quit-claimed to his wife Rose, all of his real estate holdings in this city, deeds of which have been filed for record at the office of the city clerk. The realty involved comprises a three story wooden building, corner of Pearl and Green streets, three houses on Tilley street and a house and lot on Pearl street, corner of Green street. The last mentioned building was recently condemned by the city and is now being razed.

S. M. CHASE, NORWICH, OFFICIAL OF KENNEL CLUB

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 11—The annual meeting of the New London County Kennel club, held last night at the Y. M. C. A., was attended by a majority number of members. The principal business transacted was the election of officers which resulted in the following choice: President, Eugene J. Leahy; first vice president, Frank M. Foster; second vice president, Sterrill M. Chase of Norwich; secretary, Prentice L. Alexander; treasurer, Edward S. Huntley; board of governors Walter Griswold and Francis A. Glenn, Benjamin N. Pennell was the retiring the organization had had a prosperous president and the reports showed that year.

SUPPLIES OF FRESH FISH FALL OFF FOR SOME REASON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 11—Very little fresh fish is being brought to this port at present and the reason therefor is not readily apparent. Both Boston and New York ship much frozen fish to this market, but the fishing boats also send much of their catches to the bigger markets. The price has much to do with determining the market. Truckloads of fish go through New London every night for the New York market, these fish being landed at the ports just east of New London. If the price of fish is high in New York, the markets get larger quantities of fish than they get when prices are low.

A Hupmobile straight eight, owned by W. C. Rochette, Old Saybrook, was stolen this afternoon from that place and the state police of Centerbrook and Groton, together with the New London police, have been requested to be on the lookout for it. The auto carries Connecticut registration, 28-484 and is painted brown. The auto, a sedan, was seen to be driven away by two men, both of whom wore glasses.

The annual meeting of F. L. Allen Hook and Ladder company was held last night and the officers, who had served during the past year, were re-elected.

A still alarm was received at fire headquarters this afternoon when Mayor James A. May discovered a quantity of oil ablaze on Trumbull street that was to have been used on streets in various parts of the city as a dressing. The fire resulted in Chief Thomas Shipman and the Ockford Hose company responding. The fire was extinguished in quick time and without damage.

Mrs. Sebastian Ribano, of Waterford; Mrs. Rita Prottas, Niantic and Miss Laura Ribano, Waterford, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

All the officers of Loyal Order of Moose, No. 344, were re-elected at a meeting of the order in their rooms, on Main street, last night. The president is Charles Cavanaugh.

The marriage of Miss Carol H. Ferguson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred L. Ferguson, of Lake avenue, Greenwich, and Daniel K. Chapman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin N. Chapman, also of Greenwich, will take place at Christ Episcopal church, Greenwich next Saturday afternoon. Miss Ferguson and her parents, are summer residents on Fishers Island.

About one hundred attended the annual banquet of the Women's auxiliary to the Knights of Pythias, held last night in Goff Temple at Union Masonic hall. The banquet preceded the installation of officers for the ensuing year. At the business meeting the state commander presided. An attractive menu, consisting of a full course turkey dinner, was prepared by members of the auxiliary. This was served at eight p. m. Many members of the Knights of Pythias lodge were guests.

Great hope is being entertained by business men of New London that the proposed trans-Atlantic ocean line of passenger steamers of the Brown-Boveri corporation will become a reality and that this city will be selected as the United States port for the service. Recent attention that has been paid by government officials to the tragic decline in the United States merchant marine service, it is thought, will expedite decision of the authorities to appropriate money for bringing into being this new trans-Atlantic service. And if this should come about it is generally believed that New London will be chosen as the logical port for the line as there are many favorable conditions existing here that are not claimed by any other of the locations that have been suggested as substitutes.

The F. L. Allen Hook and Ladder company, of this city, yesterday contributed $200 to the LaFlamme fund, bringing the amount of relief money that has been given to the young man injured in a recent automobile wreck to over two thousand dollars. The LaFlamme fund was originated for the benefit of sixteen year old Kenneth LaFlamme who several weeks ago had both eyes destroyed in an automobile wreck near Montville.

The Connecticut company has been very fortunate, in that it has avoided mishaps very generally for a long time. Indeed the company has had so few serious mishaps in recent years that the last one is not readily remembered. Collisions have been few and in cases where street railway cars were involved in accidents the mishaps were beyond the control of the trolley operators. Recently a passenger from one car stepped in front of another car, but that could not have been avoided by the motorman of either car, it is claimed. The record is a good one for the company.

New London appears to have gotten rid of the degenerate who at one time was grabbing women in the darker streets of the city. The police hunted him so earnestly that he has given up his nasty tricks, or has been frightened in fear of the consequences that were certain to come to him.

Denis Reidy has bought the Brand street filling station from Sarah and Reuben Lubchansky. This station has been established but a few years. It is declared that wherever filling stations have been established they are beneficial to a street, especially in lighting it well.

IT'S NOT HARD TO GROW THIN

People all about you can testify to that. Most of the slender figures seen today have been won in easy ways. Many have been won by Marmola prescription tablets, based on a modern scientific discovery. People have used Marmola for 20 years — millions of boxes of it. Now slender figures in almost every circle show what Marmola does.

A book in each box of Marmola gives the formula and states the scientific reasons for results. So users realize how and why effects are beneficial. A way which has done so much for so many deserves a test from you. Make it now, watch the results for a little while, then decide. Ask your druggist today for a $1 box of Marmola.

DANIELSON

TWO WORCESTER BOYS ARRESTED FOR AUTO THEFT

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Jan. 11—Bernard Beauvais, 16, of 1 Denny street, Worcester, and Earl Glockner, 16, of 21 Hudson street, Worcester, were taken back to that city this afternoon in charge of Lieut. Murphy of the Worcester police department, and up in the Heart of the Commonwealth the youths will find themselves with a little explaining to do.

They are going to be asked chiefly about stealing the Ford sedan of Fred H. Glanville of 10 Young street, Worcester, which they took last evening about 7 o'clock from the place where Mr. Glanville had left it parked in Chestnut street.

Some three hours later Beauvais and Glockner were rolling merrily south along the state highway between Putnam and Danielson when they attracted the attention of State Officer Donald J. Geddes of the Danielson barracks, and he stopped them to check them up. Among other things he ascertained that they were bound to New London for a visit with friends, and also that they were without an operato's license or the registration for the car. The lack of proper credentials for the car heightened Officer Geddes' suspicions and he brought them into Danielson, where they were subsequently locked up at the police station for the night. A checkup through the Worcester police department established the car they had been driving was a stolen machine, and that they did steal it they eventually admitted. It wasn't much of a car, either, being of the vintage of 1926, but it was running along and that's about all the boys were asking of it.

From the home in Wauregan the funeral of Miss Eva Polrier, who died at a hospital in Norwich last Sunday, was held with a solemn high mass of requiem at the Sacred Heart in that place at 9 o'clock. Rev. John H. Quinn, the pastor, was celebrant of the mass with Rev. Oscar Norman of All Hallows' church Moosup as deacon and Rev. J. C. Mathieu of St. Joseph's church, Grosvenordale as sub-deacon. Delegations were in attendance at the service from the Ladies of St. John and the Ladies' of Ste. Anne and these organizations also were represented by honorary pallbearers. Burial was in the Sacred Heart cemetery, Rev. Fr. Mathieu conducting the committal service. The bearers were Eli Chabot, Emil Schrath, A. Polrier, Bertram Polrier and John B. Tetreault. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Those hardy souls who glory in real winter weather should take a trip up to Estavan, Sask., and hob nob a while these January days if the community where Rev. F. X. Richards, M. S., pastor of St. John the Baptist church and formerly an assistant in St. James parish here, is having anything but a not old time.

A letter that came from him this morning tells of snow drifts ranging from 12 to 15 feet in height about the countryside and of the temperature sliding down to 42 below zero during the solid week of arctic weather just after Christmas. "It was quite enough for me," Father Richards comments.

Father Richards is having a splendid success in the prairie country and is receiving cooperation from parishioners who delight in aiding in the many activities of the parish.

OFFICERS OF ST. ALBAN'S PARISH ARE ELECTED

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Jan. 11—Last evening found the members of St. Alban's church assembled at the Parish house for the annual parish supper and business meeting. The supper, prepared by the ladies of the church, was a bountiful one.

The parish meeting involved the electing of officers for the present year, the submission of reports by the church officers and representatives of church organizations and the taking of action on the resignation of the rector, Rev. Leonard R. Richards, which was accepted with regret. As previously announced in this column the rector goes to Christ church at Pomfret March 1.

The officers elected were the same as served during the past year: James E. Milner, senior warden; William M. Shaw, junior warden; Alfred L. Reed, clerk; John Marland, treasurer; John Bamford, collector; Walter A. Musgrave, auditor; delegates to diocesan convention, Alfred Pate, Edward Ingamells; delegates to the archdeaconry convention, James E. Milner, William Shaw.

Reports presented to the meeting were uniformly indicative of the condition of the parish and full of promise for its future success. Rev. Mr. Richards, reporting as rector, had much of interest to submit. Of special interest was the report of Mrs. Susan Armington, as treasurer of the Sewing society, an office she has filled for 45 years, while her report was the 50th for the Sewing society. Other reports were given by John Marland, as treasurer; Alfred L. Reed, as clerk; John Bamford as collector. Mrs. Alfred L. Reed reported for the Woman's auxiliary. Miss Adah King for the Altar chapter, Mrs. F. O. Armington for the Church Periodical club.

The matter of a general revaluation of property in the town of Killingly—and it is a matter that must be given attention by 1930—is stirring up some strong reactions in Danielson, though one hears little public discussion of the matter.

It may be recorded as definite, however, that there is going to be strong opposition to any revaluation made by other than residents of the town of Killingly. Which is saying in a different way that the opposition to bringing in some one from outside this town to make the revaluation will be very insistent. Those whoopose employing alleged experts having worth-while reasons for the stand they are taking. These will be fully explained to the people of the town of Killingly in due time. It may be said, though, that they have largely to do with guaranteeing this town's future insofar as that may be possible through fixing property assessments, on which the tax rate is based.

Long talked of traffic beacons for installation at Main and Reynolds and at Main and Broad streets continue to offer a problem for those who have taken thought of the matter. As yet no one appears to have worked out a proposal that will work out suitably, though numbers of plans have been suggested. The points mentioned are danger points and are on trunk line highways running through the borough.

A statistician, having facts and figures before him, figured out this afternoon that if Killingly people who had not paid personal taxes up to 4 o'clock did not begin to pay at that time at the rate of one a minute the books would be cleared of accounts just in time to have all escape being penalized for failure to pay within the allotted period. And again, every minute that elapses during which no one pays means that someone will pay a dollar extra when that one does pay after the time limit for so doing has expired.

The monthly business meeting of the Danielson Girls' clubs was election of officers for 1928 were as follows: President (re-elected for fourth year) Mrs. Bertha Carragher; vice president, Miss Annie Gates; treasurer, Miss Antoinette LaBonte; secretary, Mrs. Mary Creighton; financial secretary, Mrs. Eva Bodo.

The annual treasurer's report showed a balance on hand of $312.11.

Mrs. Bertha Carragher and Miss Annie Gates were named as delegates to attend the Connecticut League of Girls Clubs' directorate at Meriden, January 28 and 29.

The club hope chest was given away at a dance in the state armory last Saturday evening, Master Louis Wolsard, Jr., being the lucky little man who received it.

Due to the fact that most of the members had seats for the Paco play, the rest of the business was postponed until next Tuesday evening at 8 p. m., at which time a special meeting is to be held. After this meeting a one-act cmedy will be given by several members and refreshments served. A full attendance is expected.

Sunday afternoon, Jan. 22, at 3 p. m., there is to be a "get together" tea in the club rooms. The idea of this tea is to give each member the opportunity of offering suggestions for the good of the club. It is hoped that each member will attend and bring them new ideas which may possibly be worked out throughout the coming year, and in this way make 1928 the most prosperous year the club has ever had.

Rev. C. A. Downs of Goodyear, Ray W. Pellett, Mrs. Frank Lathrop, Mrs. Harriet L. Wood and Florence Wood were in Hartford today attending a meeting of the Connecticut State grange.

With her cousin, who is resident in Boston, Miss Jane Mendell of Broad street left today by motor on a trip to Florida. The journey will be made in leisurely manner. Before returning to Danielson in the spring they are to visit in Cuba.

Thursday afternoon this week the Roundabout club will be entertained by Mrs. John A. Gilbert of Spring street.

Progress that had been made up to today on the stucco work at the Jodoin building indicate what a really fine improvement will have been made in the property when the work is completed.

The refinements of the bootlegging game as it has been developed in this year of 1928, may be indicated in a measure by a story one heard today of an electrically device, much on the plan of a seperator, that removes poisoouh substances from denatured alcohol.

Killingly cases figure in a minor way in the list that the January term will bring before the court, convening in Putnam on Friday of this week.

George C. Johnson of Worcester was a visitor with friends in Danielson today.

For the week end Henry Church of Hartford is to entertain at his country place near Phoenixville, Hartford and Danielson men being his guests.

Again country highways are in bad condition throughout this territory as the result of mild weather and thawing. Daily dozens of machines become mired.

The musical comedy presented at the Orpheum theater last evening by Powdrell and Alexander employes was very successful financially. The profits will go into a fund for an employes' outing next summer.

Why Not Laundry Soap for the Hands?

Some men seem to think any old soap with which they wash their hands is good enough for shampooing. Though they wouldn't use laundry soap for bathing, they never think they may be shampooing with an unsuitable soap. Specialists have prescribed Packer's Tar Soap for shampooing for 55 years. Its pine tar is antiseptic, stimulating—ends dandruff, helps avert baldness, keeps hair and scalp healthy. At all drug and department stores.

PUTNAM

MAN IS FINED FOR ABUSING SMALL BOY

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Jan. 11.—Philip Cournoyer, a man appearing to be about 40 years of age, was before Judge M. H. Geissler in the city court this morning to answer to an assault charge and to tell, if he cared to talk about the matter, why he mussed up a 10-year-old boy—one James Jackson It appears that Jackson and another boy who can run so fast that he managed to keep himself out of harm's way when it was necessary, made some remarks to Cournoyer on a recent evening that the latter hotly resented. Young Jackson was too slow of foot to escape Cournoyer, so was chastised to such an extent that Cournoyer was brought to court. He was fined $5 and costs of $13.34.

Mrs. Rose Hogan, 77, mother of Martin Hogan of this city, died about 2 a. m. this morning at her home in North Grosvenordale, where she had been a resident for years. Mrs. Hogan was a native of Ireland, but had spent the greater part of her life in this country.

GLASSON BROTHERS DRAW FOR PART IN FREE-FOR-ALL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Jan. 11.—Something akin to a battle royal that took place at what is known as the Greene home out in the Gary district has left Fred L'Heureaux with a bandaged head and James Marsh, a Western Union lineman, with various painful souvenirs of the hectic party.

For the part he had in the affair, George Glasson was fined $25 for assault and $25 for breach of the peace in the city court and ordered to pay costs of $14.59. His brother, Howard, on on similar charges, was found not guilty. They were represented by Attorney Irving H. Miron as counsel, on Tuesday morning.

At the Greene place, where people do congregate, the particular occasion herein considered a fight started, just how appears to be immaterial, but it is understood to have been over some passing remark. In the early stages of the affair, Marsh and George Glasson battled for supremacy. Glasson and a companion, that the police have been unable to identify as yet, not being satisfied with the outcome of the first go, came to Putnam for reenforcements and then returned to the Greene place to renew the row. In the free for all, someone slammed L'Heureux on the head with a device alleged to be an automobile jack. From all the versions of the affair the police were able to obtain, the Glassons were ordered into court. Marsh was badly beaten in the affair.

In the twelfth of the series on the card tournament between the Elks club and the Masonic club, the Elks were again victorious in a score of 14 to 6. This makes the total score to 115 to 93 in favor of the Masonic club. The play on Monday night was held in the Elk club rooms.

The annual meeting of the Citizens National bank was held Tuesday afternoon in the directors' rooms at the bank. The old board of directors were all re-elected and after an executive session of the directors, announced that the former officers of the bank were all re-elected as last year:

President, Samuel Reynolds; vice presidents, Mahlon H. Geissler, Alexander Gilman, Whitman Danielson; cashier, Arthur E. Smith; directors, Alexander Gilman, Charles V. B. Cushman, Whitman Danielson, Louis P. Faucher, Mahlon H. Geissler, Victor Chapdelaine, Ethel May Goodridge, Subbo Nikoloff, Samuel Reynolds, Earl C. Rogers, Arthur E. Smith, Asa M. Ross, Charles D. Tatem, William P. Warren, John W. Whipple, Albert H. Williams.

The monthly meeting of the Parent-Teachers association was held on Tuesday evening at the Auditorium of the Putnam High school. It was voted to give $10 toward the educational pictures now being held on Sunday evenings at the Second Congregational church. It was also voted to send the president and one other delegate to the State Parent-Teachers Association meeting to be held at Hartford on Tuesday, January 17. After the regular business meeting there was a musical program given under the charge of Kenneth C. Sharpe and was as follows: Vocal solo, "Three for Jack," Wallace Smith; reading, Lewis Battey; instrumental quartet, Kenneth Sharpe, Walter Rich, Mrs. Fred Prince, Mrs. Pierre Myers; piano solo, Mrs. Katherine Lown; reading, Miss Maud Perkins; vocal solo, "Could I," Mrs. E. L. Robinson.

Mrs. Wallace Whitney, of School street, has returned from a visit with her sisters in New York city.

Miss Gertrude Jones has been the recent guest of friends in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Swain have gone to New York city where they will spend the winter at the Hotel Barclay.

Charles Sain has closed his house at Pomfret and will remain at Fox Hill farm until Saturday when he sails for Europe to be gone for several months.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Unger, of Pomfret, have returned from Boston where they have been the guest of Mrs. Herbert Brown, who is spending the winter there.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Sherman have been the guests of Mr. Sherman's mother in Boston this week.

Miss Harriet Sampson, of New York city, is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George M. Sampson.

George Hamilton, of Pawling, N. Y., a former well known resident of the Woodstocks, has been visiting friends in this vicinity.

Miss Carrie Swanson, of Providence, has been the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Swanson, of North Grosvenordale.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bradford, who have been living in Webster for the past year, have gone to New York, where they will make their home.

WESTERLY

FOUR PLACES ARE RAIDED—BOOZE EVIDENCED IN TWO

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Jan. 11.—All members of the active police force of Westerly, headed by Chief Thomas E. Brown, engaged in the first liquor raid of the year about 12:15 o'clock this noon. Armed with search warrants, four places in the northern part of the town were visited, but very little evidence was taken by the officers for which to summon the alleged owners to appear and claim it in next Friday's Third District court.

Frank Juliano's place at 76 1-2 Pierce street, was visited by Chief Brown and Officer Robert M. Kessel. While no contraband liquors were found, there was a fifty-gallon cask and two dozen cans of malt.

James Salimeno's Providence cafe, 73 Pleasant street, was paid a visit by Lieutenant George H. Champlin and Officer Michael Curtin. Two glasses found standing on the bar and containing a liquid, were taken.

Pasquale Salimeno's grocery store, at the southeast corner of Pleasant and Canal streets, was entered by Police Officers George L. Madison and Frank E. Knight. Here some opposition was reported and a hurried dumping of liquids down a sink and smashing glass of breaking botues was heard. There were two men in the place and one is claimed to have seized Officer Knight with such violence as to tear the buttons from his coat.

Edward Liotta's Black Coffee house, 65 Pleasant street, had a call from Officers Leroy H. Norman and Joseph Owens. Search of the premises proved fruitless.

At the Westerly police station the liquid evidence secured was sealed and sent by Chief Brown to State Assayer Albert Fenner, in Providence, for analysis.

D. J. P. JONES PRESIDENT OF COUNTY MEDICAL SOC.

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Jan. 11.—Sixteen members and one guest attended the annual meeting of Washington County Medical society, organized in 1884, which was held Wednesday noon at the Elm Tree inn. A feature was the address on "Diphtheria in Children," by Dr. Robert S. Buol, of New Britain, Conn. After dinner, the business session was called to order by the president, Dr. John Champlin, Jr. The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Dr. John Paul Jones, of Wakefield; first vice president, Dr. John W. Heffrich; second vice president, Dr. Charles P. Crandall; secretary and treasurer, Dr. John Champlin, Jr.; auditor, Dr. Samuel C. Webster; censor for three years, Dr. John Champlin; delegate to Rhode Island Medical socity for two yeads, Dr. F. E. Burke, Wakefield; consol to Rhode Island Medical society for two years, Dr. Michael H. Scanlon; alternate, Dr. David F. Marr, of Bradford. The legislative committee will be named by the newl elected president.

The South County Poultry association held its 18th annual meeting Tuesday evening in Calendonian hall. Reports were read by officers. The annual poultry show held in the Dixon street state armory Thanksgiving week was reported a success. Officers elected are: President, William Collins; secretary, Thomas Thorpe; treasurer, Earl Wills. Following the business session, adjournment was taken to the Far East restaurant, for the annual dinner.

Members of the T. B. club of Westerly, now eleven in number, and the oldest social organization in town, will wind up their club existence at the end of the month. Their quarters for years has been on the top floor of the Traggis block, corner of Broad and High streets. Merrill Post, No. 16, American Legion, which has occupied some the rooms formerly used by the T. B. club, will take over the single room on the corner of the third floor of the block when the old-time club dissolves.

Officers of Narragansett Commandery, No. 27, K. T., of Westerly, Robert Hazard, commander, Wednesday evening in their asylums held their first rehearsal in preparation for the annual inspection Wednesday, Feb. 15th, when Fifth Division Commander Em. Sir Harold W. Sprague, of Bay State Commandery, No. 38, K. T., of Brockton, Mass., will be inspector. A meeting of the committee in charge of the annual inspection, Em. Sirs Carle E. Burdick, chairman, Arthur C. Thompson, John A. Hogg, Arthur C. Card and Recorder Albert E. Barber, was held to make arrangements for the inspection.

Granite City Camp, No. 9159, Modern Woodmen of America, held its annual installation Tuesday evening in Stillman's hall. William E. Martin was installed clerk for the 26th consecutive term. At the same time Dr. Samuel C. Webster was installed as camp physician for his 27th consecutive term. The board of officers was installed jointly with those of Elm Tree Camp, Royal Neighbors, by Past Councilior William A. Rook, Ilnstalling Escort Charles E. Austin and District Deputy Emma S. Bromley. Following the ceremony, a past councilor's jewel was presented Orrin Tarbox and a pin for securing the largest number of new mambers during 1927. The officers for Granite City Camp are: Past councilor, Orrin Tarbox; councilior, Richard Opie, Jr.; advisor, Herbert Martin; banker, N. P. Hall; clerk, William Martin; escort, Lewis Blackburn; watchman, Howard Greene; sentry, Herbert Maggs; trustees, Richard Newton, William A. Rook and Stanley Laing; camp physician, Dr. Samuel C. Bromley. The installation was attended by a large delegation from Clara B. Wood Camp of New London. A lunch and dancing concluded the evening.

The following transfer has been recorded in the office of Westerly town clerk: Jan. 11. F. Samuel Nardone to Luigi Marchese and wife, lots Nos. 213, 214, 215 and 216, Prospect Park street.

Workmen Wednesday completed placing the second fireproof covering upon the cement roof of the addition to the Westerly Memorial and Public Library building. Part of the scaffolding staging on the brick wall sides of the building was removed. A waterproof coating will be added to the roof and then laying the terra cotta roofing tile will be started.

Motorists on the Noose Neck Hill road into Westerly stopped at Hope Valley Tuesday evening to view the $50,000 fire which destroyed the large barn on former Dutee Flint farm, now owned by Charles M. Johnson.

Evening classes at Westerly high school building were resumed Tuesday evening following vacation. The subjects taught include bookeeping, typewriting, stenography, commercial English, shop mathematics, algebra, geometry and mechanical drawing.

George L. Stillman left Wednesday morning for Boston.

Carl F. Crandall and daughter, Miss Beverly Crandall left Wednesday morning on a motor trip to New York, where they will attend the auto show.

Charles S. Fowler was a business calelr in Bridgeport Wednesday.

Frank H. Freese, who returned to Westerly Monday by motor from New Jersey was a Providence visitor Tuesday.

NOANK

HOME SURGEON OPERATES TO SAVE HIS PRIZE CHICK

Herman Fisher owns a large flock of white chickens. Tuesday morning he saw one of them sick, it's throat swollen and the chick rolling on the ground with pain. So Farmer Fisher picked up the chicken and taking a knife from his pocket he cut its throat. Then with a wire hook he fished out dead grass for over 15 minutes, enough to weigh two and one-quarter pounds. To operate on the chicken, its legs were tied. Then sewing up its throat, the home surgeon let the chicken go. Half an hour later the cockerel was as lively as ever and was with his buddies again. "Dr." Fisher was telling several young fellows at Mrs. Jane Carson's news store that evening, but he got the horse laugh. So he proved it was no lie; for in a green paper was the dead grass, which was weighed by Clerk John Ashby. Mr. Fisher has over 100 white chickens at his home on West View avenue.

People are coming from all sections to the Baptist church which was crowded Tuesday evening to hear Evangelist George Rittenhouse. The speaker is a fine built man, with a clear voice and he preaches straight from the shoulder, not afraid to tell the audience what it what. His topic for the evening was The Personality of Jesus Christ and for two hours he gave the church assembly a fine talk. Evangelist Rittenhouse is assisted by Elmer Angevine, singer and chorus leaded. They will be here for two weeks. Rev. E. Weise, the pastor, hopes to break all records for crowds in the history of the church.

Over 20 movie fans from the village went to New London recently to see the picture "The Light in the Window," to see Keefe in the leading part. Mr. Keefe played in the picture "Hope," that was taken in this village about two years ago. He was the leading man then. He was called "Blondy" by his friends in Noank.

Eddie Morgan has gone to Edgartown, Mass., for a few days' visit with relatives and friends.

William Tourjee is in New York on a short business trip.

Raymond Jones has returned from a visit in Glen Falls, N. Y., with friends.

The mild weather of the last few days has set back local ice owners. On Bergman pond the ice is only 3 inches thick and on Chesebro pond 4 inches. This time last year the icemen were wearing happy smiles for their houses were about half filled. Up in Maine they have just started to cut ice for the first time in 25 years having so late a season.

Noank Boy Scouts' basketball team is going like a champion team. The Night Owls team wanted to come down from Mystic to beat the fighting Scouts, so Manager Eugene Butson sent word to bring them on. The battle took place recently in the village hall with 75 fans there to see the teams in action. Referee Bracci, a man with two good eyes that don't miss anything in the foul line, kept the game going all the time. In the first quarter the Night Owls dropped in two short shots, but the Scouts were taking it easy and at the end of the quarter the score was, Scouts 12, Owls 5. Then came the second quarter, and how those young soldiers of the village passed the ball around the up-river boys! Lankley Chesebro's clean shots put his team far out in the front when the first half ended, Scouts 32, Night Owls 7. In the third quarter the Night Owls were waking up a little and kept after Noank forwards but it was no use. Lankley Chesebro was dropping them in like hail stones on a tin roof and that quarter was over with the Scouts in the lead, 33 to 9. In the final quarter all the Scouts did was to pass the ball around, keeping it away from their rivals for five minutes. But Mystic sharpshooters' eyes were off and they missed many points. Smiling Buddington kept Peeping Sherman, the Night Owls' star forward, down to two baskets so the game ended. Scouts 36, Night Owls 11.

WILSONVILLE

Mrs. Handy and family entertained friends and relatives from Worcester Sunday.

Mr. Belanger was in Hartford Sunday to see his little son, who is in a hospital there.

Mr. and Mrs. James Welch informally entertained a few friends and relatives on their sixth wedding anniversary, Monday evening.

Belle Langelier, who has been ill with grip, is able to be out. Her brother is out of danger also.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c and 60c.

MOTHER

A Cross, Sick Child is Constipated! Look at Tongue

No matter what ails your child, a gentle, thorough laxative should always be the first treatment given.

If your little one is out-of-sorts, half-sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally—look, Mother! see if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that the little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup," and in a few hours all the constipated poison, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this harmless, "fruity laxative" because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach and they dearly love its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup;" then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

END GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP

When the senate committee on commerce gave endorsement to the Jones bill for the replacement of government owned merchant marine vessels it was in direct opposition to the recommendations made by the president concerning such ships. When the president now declares for the sale of the trade fleet as soon as possible and the lending of such government support as is needed for the maintenance of American shipping, even though it takes the form of a subsidy, he stands by his previous position and makes the most of the opportunity to let it be known that there can be no expectation of sound operation of a government owner merchant marine.

The demand has long been for the government to get out of the business of competing with private capital in shipping. Some ships have been sold, but not as many as ought to have been or as many as the shipping board was authorized to sell.

Under the provisions of the bill which has been approved by the senate commerce committee the day would be pushed far into the future when such a separation would be possible. The government would put more and more funds into new vessels which would immediately become worth much less than it cost to construct them and government control would further serve to bother the operations. In the opinion of the president the government cannot profitably operate ships.

American shipping faces a situation which calls for assistance. It is handicapped now by government activities in this direction, but it is also handicapped by the advantages which foreign competitors have in contrast to the restrictions which prevail in their cases. American shipping is without the subsidy which plays such an important part for steamship lines in other countries, while it must opemate under laws which through their restrictions give an added advantage to ship owners of other countries.

It has long been apparent that the shipping problem is a complicated one but it doesn't appear that progress of the right kind is going to be secured through an uncertain policy. It is time to take the bull by the horns and push consistently forward in behalf of a stronger American merchant marine under private capital.

BACKING THE LAW

Time and again the statement is made by judges that they are enforcing the law in accordance with their interpretation, that they are giving consideration to the circumstances and when occasions require it seeing that it is so applied as to meet the intentions of the law makers without imposing penalties for mere technicalities. And yet there are other instances where such an attitude is not taken.

The New York woman who was summoned into court for failing to comply with the order for the muzzling of dogs must have felt much the same as the truck driver in Connecticut who was arrested for having no windshield wiper. In the latter case the truck was without a windshield and therefore had no place on which to attach a windshield wiper, while the New York woman had a dog without teeth so that there existed no reason for the muzzling. Yet in each case the situation was such as to allow the court to say that the law is the law and it must be enforced.

When the story was told to the New York magistrate it disclosed that the dog which a policeman had seen without a muzzle was 14 years old and had lost its last tooth three years ago. It was not therefore in a position to do any damage, but it was still a dog and the law called for the muzzling of dogs, the expectation being that the muzzle would make it impossible for the dogs to use their teeth. It was evident of course that those who didn't know the situation didn't appreciate the freedom enjoyed by that dog when their beasts must wear a muzzle. The result was that a suspended sentence was applied with the understanding that the dog would wear a muzzle. That even showed much more consideration than was accorded to the Connecticut driver who had no windshield yet he was penalized for not having a wiper. Perhaps the presence of such equipment tacked to the body of the car somewhere would have satisfied the law. It is quite evident that all opportunities for the application of reason are not employed. Law enforcement is a wonderful business.

ANOTHER INQUIRY

So far as the Teapot Dome case itself is concerned it has been finished. There are, however, features of it which will probably command attention for some time to come. During the investigation and the trial, there figured conspicuously in the news the Continental Trading company for which organization a total of more than $3,000,000 worth of Liberty bonds were purchased. What became of those bonds has never been revealed. About a quarter of a million dollars worth were traced to Albert B. Fall, but light has never been thrown upon who got the rest.

In its decision, the United States supreme court has held that this company was organized "for some illegitimate purpose" and it is the claim of the government that it was to cover up the transfer of a large sum of Liberty bonds to Mr. Fall. At least, it doesn't appear as yet just what became of the Liberty bonds in which this company invested and the desire is to get the entire history of the company, its purposes, its activities and the disposition of its funds through an inquiry which has been authorized.

The connection of this company with the oil case has subjected it to suspicion, and particularly so because there are activities about which such secrecy has been maintained that the impression has been gained that the object was to keep the facts covered up. Whether that is the case should be determined by the proposed inquiry.

Ordinarily it might be expected, if everything was above board, that the company would not only welcome but invite an inquiry and do all in its power to give assistance to a sincere investigation. Such a course does not appear to have been followed up to this time. Ability to get certain witnesses who had left the country when the previous inquiry was under way should materially assist the new investigation and help get at the bottom of all the details connected with the company and the case. Let us have the facts.

CANADIAN VISITORS

Figures given out by collectors of customs indicate that there is a steady increase in the number of persons who go to Canada each year. There is no surprise in announcements to that effect for it has become quite the thing to so extend vacation trips as to get across the border into Canada.

There's a fascination about visiting a foreign land to many people, and there is a desire to witness the many attractions which are afforded. With the gain in visitors to Canada coming at the same time with the dry law in this country it is inevitable that the advantages which are afforded across the border are referred to as the big attraction.

That the wetness of Canada is an attraction in itself is unquestionably true in a great many instances, but it is also to be realized that Canada is a natural goal for the large number of people who are now owners of automobiles. It makes a delightful vacation trip and those who go to Canada find a different and decidedly interesting country. In a great variety of ways the tourist has many objectives in the dominion to the north. Good roads in great number are provided as a big inducement and those who go understand that there is a charm about the woods, the farmlands, the mountains, the rivers and the contact with ancient conditions which is worth experiencing. This is true to the extent of inspiring many to go again and again, and it is evitable that such trips should be inspirations to others. That Canada should do its utmost to see that the number of visitors each year grows larger is only to be expected. Canada fully understands the advantages of it. Canada profits from the visitors even as Europe does.

MAKE IT IMPARTIAL

There are democratic senators who want a senate investigation of the sinking of the S-4 instead of the impartial plan proposed by the president. It is impossible to look upon such a move as anything but partisan. The purpose is plainly disclosed in the very attitude that is taken.

Everyone must be desirous of having all the facts brought out in connection with that deplorable affair, and there's no question but what they will be, but there should be an equally broad desire that such a matter should be kept as free from politics as possible. The clamor of democratic senators for their own inquiry, their chance to kick up a lot of claims and charges, like a raft of criticism that has been spread about through irresponsible statements and gossip only to have it shown to be without foundation, makes a poor impression.

From the political standpoint nothing would be better. But it isn't the political ends that should be served through such a misfortune. The inqury already underway by the navy is throwing valuable light upno the situation that existed and is indicating the conditions that prevailed at the time of the collision and the efforts that were made to raise the submarine.

That inquiry promises to be in every way thorough and there is no question but what the facts will be brought out, but for the purpose of having an inquiry by competent investigators, experts outside of the navy, which is directly interested, the idea of an impartial board to conduct the same outside of politics and all other influences is what the situation requires. This it is believed the country prefers to a political inquiry regardless of the party sponsoring it.

EDITORIAL NOTES

How are the new resolutions riding?

In this day and generation "petticoat" rule means that there's no such thing.

The man on the corner says: Isn't it tantalizing when you want to tell your story and the other fellow has the better voice?

Isn't it about time the weather prophets had something to say to us about the future, or the consequences in view of the thus far mild winter?

Even though the Mexican documents are declared clumsy forgeries, will Mr. Hearst follow any different course if other similar papers are offered to him?

Because there was a reduction of $3,000,000 tons in anthracite production in 1927 miners as well as operators are beginning to understand the effect of forcing substitutes on the consumer.

There were 24,000 killed in motor accidents last year but we hear no insistent demands for inquiries by the democrats of the senate and house in Washington.

SHE REMINDED HIM

Every one said it was really too bad the way Fanny Wynn let herself go. Such a pretty woman and so good-natured, but much to plump. One had to admit that Dora, her sister, even if she had a rather crabbed disposition, was much more sensible. She stuck to salads and green vegetables and acid fruits and kept her lovely slim figure.

When Jim Cordell came to the Pleasant Home hotel to live the other guests noticed at once that he had his eye on Dora. The "Petit Point" ladies, excitedly jabbing their squares of burlap, thrilled pleasantly at the thought of the romantic session in store for them as onlookers. Jim Cordell was a widower and reputed wealthy.

Jim was continually casting curious glances from Fanny to Dora. But his eyes always lingered on Dora. He noted the finely chiseled features, the lean white throat, the narrow wrists, the slender body.

"You remind me of my wife," he would say, and turn back to his dinner a little abruptly.

The romance developed rapidly. Jim and the Wynn sisters were seen everywhere together. That was a nice thing about Jim. He always invited poor Fanny to go, too. People wondered a little at Fanny for accepting. She was so obviously an extra wheel. But Fanny went along and laughed and pollied about being the chaperon and ate ice cream and candy, while Dora, with pitying looks at Fanny's broad hips, sipped her sugarless lemonades daintily.

They were dancing together—Jim and Dora—when Jim again mentioned his wife. Dora was a particularly graceful dancer and light as the proverbial feather.

"How much do you weigh?" asked Jim suddenly. Dora flushed self-consciously.

"Hundred and fifteen pounds just now," she said softly.

"That's about what my wife always weighed, too," remarked Jim. "Just about your height, too—five feet five or around that, aren't you?" Dora nodded.

"Funny that your sister should be so much—er—heavier." Dora glanced at Fanny's buxom figure clasped in the arms of George Boland.

"Fanny ought to be ashamed of herself. She eats too much. She isn't any taller than I am and she weighs nearly 150. I'm always telling her to reduce, but she just won't. You see, it runs in our family to be—well—rather plumpish. I'd be fat too, if I didn't—sacrifice my appetite a bit."

"You certainly do watch everything you eat, don't you?" exclaimed Jim. "Just like my wife. She had a scale——"

"So have I," interrupted Dora.

"And she weighed herself every day," continued Jim. "I tell you she had the thing down to a science. Knew all about food—what was fattening and what wasn't."

"So do I. I have lists of everything to eat—whole books full of diets."

"Just like my wife. You surely do remind me of her."

Fannie trotted up a little breathlessly, bearing Boland and Mrs. Boland in tow.

"Come on, folks, up to our rooms," urged Fanny. "I'm going to make toast and rarebit and some real coffee on my grill. I'm famished."

"So am I," admitted Jim heartily.

"Fanny is always thinking of food," groaned Dora.

"So are you, darling," laughed Fanny. "Your thoughts are black with longing and renunciation, while mine are pleasant with anticipation."

After the rarebit party Jim Cordell seemed even more friendly with the Wynn girls. Dora strained her credit to the breaking point and even borrowed from Fannie to acquire a new evening dress in pale blue chiffon. She admitted proudly that it was a small sixteen size and the "Petit Point" ladies exclaimed over it and her in a manner that was very satisfactory. Jim stared from her to Fanny in the strange way he had.

Every one present said that Jim was certainly crazy about Dora Wynn. You could tell that by the way he looked at her.

But when it leaked out a few days later that Jim Cordell and Fanny Wynn had gone away and married the "Petit Point" ladies were too busy exclaiming to jab their square of burlap.

"Strangest thing I ever heard!" declared one of the "Petit Point" ladies. "He seemed so fascinated by Dora—stared at her all the time. And he was always telling her how much she reminded him of his first wife."

At this point George Boland shot an odd look at his wife, who was holding a fold of her dress tight around her hips to show an admiring group how much she had lost.

"Maybe that was the trouble," he rumbled darkly.—Exchange.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Sir Frederick Lugard, whose elevation to the peerage was among the notable New Year honors bestowed by King George, is a celebrated British colonial administrator, for many years high commissioner for Northern Nigeria. He has had an adventurous career, and probably the most notable of his achievements was his race against time and France to secure a treaty with the king of Nikki. He left England in July, 1894, four days after a French officer had left France, and, when the latter arrived with his treaty for signature, he found that Colonel Lugard had been there five days before. Lady Lugard is equally famous. She was Miss Florida Shaw, noted author and head of the colonial department of The London Times, and was the only woman witness before the Jameson Raid Committee.

YOUR HEALTH

THE KID IS MADE THE GOAT.

By Samuel Walter Kelley, M. D., Cleveland, Member Gorgas Memorial.

(The following is one of a series of articles prepared under the direction of the Gorgas Memorial as part of its Better Health and Longer Life program. President Coolidge is the honorary president of the Memorial, which has been organized and endowed by prominent doctors and laymen throughout the country to perpetuate the work of the late Major-General Gorgas, in preventing unnecessary illness. Headquarters of the Gorgas Memorial are at 400 North Michigan avenue, Chicago.)

I have spent many hours in my classroom demonstrating to medical students the differences in the structure of the child's physique and its functioning, as compared with those of the adult man or woman. With all the apparent resemblances it surprises the uninitiated how many points of unlikeness are really present.

The anatomy of the growing child differs from the adult in the size of its parts as compared with each other, and in the proportions of the individual parts. The bones differ in their composition and their marrow; and their shafts or bodies are but weakly joined to the ends which go to form joints. Muscles, sinews, and ligaments differ in their delicacy, the fat in its quality and distribution. The brain and nerves and the internal organs differ in development and power of functioning.

All these differences are rapidly undergoing changes according to the age and stage of development of the child. These peculiarities cause different reactions when the young organism has to cope with heat and cold, foods and drinks, accidents and injuries, and all the factors of its environment, including the numerous germs of infections and contagions which assail it. For it has not yet acquired its immunities, which all must acquire to live.

These statements apply to children normal at birth. But great numbers are not normal. They are handicapped by malformations, or defective constitutions, which must be dealt with promptly in early life. Of abnormal conditions afflicting infants and children, some are found at no other time of life. Others, although they may occur to adults, in children present different symptoms, run a different course, and bring results and after-effects different from those the same affection would present in an adult.

These statements are true of surgical conditions as well as medical. A great amount of special knowledge and skill is required on the part of the physician or the surgeon to give children the best possible treatment today. This fact has come to be generally understood as it applies to medical diseases, but many parents are not aware that the same holds true in cases of surgical disease, deformity, or injury. The child's surgeon, as well as his physician, should be one who, besides his general professional knowledge, is especially educated and skilful in work among children.

Otherwise the result is that, in the language of the day, the "kid" is made the goat.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11—There is considerable speculation here as to the outcome of the Ware-Swift river controversy regarding diversion of waters from the Connecticut river into the new reservoir at Boston. The decision of the supreme court granting the petition of Connecticut that the matter be brought before that court, has resulted in a demand from that state to the board of army engineers that it is no longer a case that should be in their hands, as the supreme court has taken over its jurisdiction. March 5th, the date named by the court on which Massachusetts must file an answer to Connecticut's complaint, leaves the matter subject to several outcomes.

If the case continues before the court, it may mean several years delay before a final decision is reached.

The facts, as seen by the two contestants will naturally vary to such an extent that it may be necessary to have a fact finding commissioner appointed by the court, for after an order of the court is served on the governor of Massachusetts, briefs will be filed by both sides in the controversy. Unless the facts agree and there is a material difference in the statements, a commissioner, who is not a resident of either state and who is entirely disinterested would probably be named by the court to find the facts and report to the court. When the court has the facts in its hands, then a decision could be rendered and not before. In that case it is possible a temporary injunction, pending the handing down of the decision, might be granted. In the meantime, if Massachusetts completed the work and tapped the waters of the tributaries of the Connecticut, new complications would arise, hence the probability of such an injunction, if there is much delay. Members of the Connecticut delegation have been in conference with the board of engineers this week.

Mrs. McLean, Mrs. Edge, Mrs. Gillett and Mrs. Sacket, all wives of senators and members of the Senate Ladies' Luncheon club, gave a luncheon Tuesday in the senate gold and crystal caucus room in honor of Mrs. Coolidge and at which wives of other senators were the guests.

Senator and Mrs. McLean will entertain the Connecticut Congressional delegation at dinner this evening at their residence on Massachusetts avenue.

POETRY

Worlds

Stand and stare
At this wayside stone
Where the molecules wheel
Like star and moon
In their tiny orbits
On and on.

Kneel and look
Where this globe of dew
Shines like heaven
On a flower of blue—
A vault with the seraphim
Flashing through.

And know that all beauty—
Though but stone or flower—
Can break on the breast
With sudden power
And hold eternity
Fast for an hour;

That from pebble or petal
The world may unfold:
Eve in her garden,
The Fleece of Gold,
And Troy in flames
Ere earth grew old;

The dirge of David
For Absolom,
Lear in the tempest
Without a home,
And John's heart sighing
For Kingdom Come;

And dark Isobel
And Genevieve
Walking with moonbeams
Upon their hair,
With tragic shadows
Woven there;

And the Christ Child's smile
In the star's pale light,
Where the trees rise steel
In the frosty night,
And the powdered meadows
Glimmer white.
—Theodore Maynard in the Yale Review.

Geese

Oh, swans are lovely, lovely too, are geese
White in a greensward, dreaming on a stream,
On whose calm surface lilies they might seem.
I have seen geese in proud procession gleam
Bright as high-sailing clouds, whiter than fleece
Or crested seas, white as the soft increase
Of tranquil snowfall and as filled with peace;
Their beauty is like beauty in a dream.

I have seen them, when summer's heat brings rain
In driving gusts, stand with their heads held high
Facing the downpour—Oh, before you die,
Would you might see them when the sun again
Shines on their dazzling whiteness and they fain,
Impelled by some wild ecstasy, would fly.
—Charles Winks in the American Poetry Magazine.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Dora—"Are you happily married?"

June—"Indeed, my husband's scared to death of me."—Detroit News.

"Well, how did you enjoy your visit to the dentist?"

"I was bored to tears."—Boston Transcript.

Sybil—"Uncle told me I looked 10 years older than when he last saw me."

Jack—"What confounded cheek!"

"Not at all. When he last saw me I was six months old!"—Boston Post.

Aunt—I'm surprised at you making love to the two Smith girls at once.

Nephew—Oh, but they are only half sisters, you know, aunt.—Boston Transcript.

Lawyer—Was the man you found under the street car a total stranger?

Witness (who had been told to be careful)—No, sir, his arm and leg were gone; he was only a partial stranger.—Wit and Humor.

Father—"Where has mamma gone?"

Daughter—"She is shopping."

Father—"Why, what more does she need?"

Daughter—"Nothing. She's just looking to see if she can find anything she might need."—Pathfinder.

Jemima, at the zoo, saw a zebra for the first time. "Rastus," she said, "what kind of animal is that?"

Rastus also gazed in much perplexity and awe. He had never seen one before, either. "Why, Jem, that there is a sport model jackass!"—Tit-Bits.

"Who's that impressive-looking woman over yonder?"

"That's Mrs. Peckham. She's a remarkable woman, and they say that she commands a very large salary."

"How does she earn it?"

"She doesn't earn it. Her husband earns it, and she commands it."—Pepper and Salt.

For a while A. J. Grant, of Enumclaw, Wash., thought he was entertaining an ostrich unawares when he picked up a goose egg, 11 1-2x8 1-4 inches, weighing twelve ounces. It was equal to half a dozen hens' eggs and was laid by a ten-year-old Toulouse goose.

Seven sets of twins in one school at Inglewood, Cal., and all of them not higher than the fourth grade, is believed to be a record. Of these sets of twins none is of differing sexes, each being both boys or both girls. Only one set is separated in classrooms. Thomas and Rolce Erin are in the same grade but they are so identical in appearance that the problems of telling them apart was best solved by seating them in different rooms.

Though unable to see, earthworms can still detect light, and can distinguish between colors. They do not seem to mind red light particularly, but a streak of blue light is like a fence of fire to them. In Science, Professor G. H. Bretnal of Baker University, describes a test which he made on the colorsensitiveness of worms: "For the experiment I used a box about two and a half feet long, two feet wide and eighteen inches high. This I thoroughly blackened inside. For light I used one with a mantle and a reflector. The light was passed through a carbon disulphide prism and fell on a white paper in the bottom of the box. In this array of special colors I dropped angleworms. As they moved to one away from the light they always worked out the red end. They would go back from the blue as if it hurt them and turn toward the red."

HYDRANT WAS SMASHED IN AUTOMOBILE COLLISION

Early Wednesday evening an automobile driven by Daniel Polsky, of this city, smashed a hydrant at Bushnell place on the New London road. It is understood that Mr. Polsky's machine was in a collision with a Ford sedan driven by Elmer Botham, of No. 254 West Thames street and that the collision threw Mr. Polsky's machine against the hydrant. The front bumper on the car driven by Mr. Botham was damaged.

OBITUARY

Albert Goodwin Fielding

At 4.30 o'clock Wednesday morning Albert Goodwin Fielding, direct descendant of the Mohegan Indian tribe, died suddenly at his home at Mohegan. He was apparently in good health Tuesday night when he retired. At 2.30 o'clock he got up to attend the fires in the house and again retired. When his wife called him shortly before 4.30 o'clock she found him unconscious and immediately summoned a physician. Mr. Fielding died before the doctor's arrival. Death was pronounced due to over-exertion of the heart.

Mr. Fielding was the son of Eliphalet and Lydia Taylor Fielding and was born at Mohegan, July 12, 1864. About 42 years ago he was united in marriage with Jeanette Chapel of New London. Surviving him are his widow, two brothers, Lemuel Fielding of Norwich and Burrill Fielding of Mohegan and three sisters, Mrs. Gertrude Hurley Harris of Norwich, Mrs. Edwin C. Fowler of Mohegan and Mrs. John N. Q. Quidgeon of Mohegan.

Mr. Fielding was prominent throughout this section of the state because of his connection with the activities of the few remaining Mohegan Indians. He made many warm friends who join with the family in mourning his death. He was a loving husband and brother and was always of an industrious nature.

Mr. Fielding removed to New London when a young man and married Jeanette Chappell. He was employed many years by Benjamin A. Armstrong as chauffeur and during his latter residence there was employed as a boiler maker. He returned to Mohegan several months ago to reside and had been employed there as a carpenter. Mr. Fielding was a direct descendant of Chief Uncas of the Mohegan Indians, who was friendly with Captain John Mason one of the early settlers in this section and who, with Captain Mason was successful in driving out the Pequot tribe of Indians, a hostile tribe which fought the white and red man alike.

Mrs. Laban R. Jewett.

Eastern Connecticut friends will go to Old Saybrook for the funeral services for Elizabeth Lefevre, 86, widow of Laban R. Jewett, at Grace Episcopal church. Burial is to be at Rye, N. Y.

Mrs. Jewett died Monday night at the summer home of her niece, Mrs. William F. Converse (Sadie Jewett) of New York, formerly of Norwich.

Mrs. Jewett's husband was for years a prominent coal merchant in Norwich, with yards on Thames street. The family residence was an apartmen in the Jewett block, 60 Washington street.

WEDDING

Feinberg—Stone.

The wedding of Miss Gertrude Stone, daughter of Mrs. Sarah Stone of New London, and Rudolph Feinberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Feinberg of Sigourney street, Hartford, took place Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Hotel Bond, Hartford. The ceremony was performed by Rabbi Morris Silverman of the Emanuel synagogue, in the presence of the immediate families only. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Carlos Stone. Jack Feinberg acted as best man for his brother. Mr. and Mrs. Feinberg left for a wedding trip to Palm Beach, Fla., and after February 15 will be at home at No. 310 Palm street, Hartford.

SEVEN PER CENT GAIN IN AUTOMOBILE REGISTRATIONS

Motor vehicle registrations in Connecticut during 1927 increased about 7 per cent over the 1926 total according to figures compiled by the State motor vehicles department and made public. During the year just ended 296,030 cars of all classes were registered, representing a gain of 21,748 over 1926 when there were 274,782 motor vehicle registrations. The largest percentage gain was recorded by Newington which more than doubled its registration total.

Men's Bible Class at Y. M. C. A.

The study and discussion at the Men's Bible class last evening at the local Y. M. C. A. was most interesting. The scripture used was Acts 3rd verses, 1 to 18 inclusive, the record of Peter and John ministering successfully to the lame man. Among the points brought out in the discussion were the following: Peter and John seem to have caught the spirit of service as they dealt so successfully with the lame man; they were not content with preaching alone they wanted to practice as well. Preaching without practicing either by the minister or the laymen is not practical Christianity. Most people then as now content themselves with giving a few coins to the unfortunate, but this is not the highest kind of giving, but men give in money because it is the easiest way. The best way to help a man is to help him to help himself. We must never limit our help to what we have in our pockets. Peter took no credit for helping the lame man to walk; he gave all the credit to God. Peter splendidly co-operated with the man by assisting him to his feet. The deepest needs of men are not physical but spiritual, and Peter helped this lame man in both ways.

Fleischman Marries

The marriage of Julius Fleischman, Jr., summer resident of Eastern Point, and Miss Doretta Kruse was one of the leading social events of the season in Cincinnati, O. Mr. and Mrs. Fleschman have gone to Honolulu on their honeymoon.

WOMAN MUST SERVE JAIL SENTENCE FOR VIOLATION OF THE LIQUOR LAW

Mrs. Rosa Behnke of Jewett City, whose $1,000 bond was called in the September term of the criminal superior court, appeared before Judge C. L. Avery in court here Wednesday morning and pleaded guilty to reputation of keeping liquor with intent to sell. She was sentenced to 30 days in jail upon recommendation of State Attorney Arthur M. Brown.

Attorney Thomas M. Shields, who was counsel for Mrs. Behnke had a long conference with Judge Avery and State Attorney Brown before the court took action in this case. Two other counts of sale of a half-pint of moonshine whiskey last August to Adelor Blanchard and keeping with intent to sell were nolled. There was also a charge against her as a third offender but this was not pressed.

As there are no more jury cases, the jurors summoned for this term were excused by the court from further duty and were paid off by Clerk George E. Parsons.

State Attorney Brown informed the court that there were only three cases remaining, one being that of John Filburn, Jr., of this city who will be put to plea Friday morning on the charge of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. This is not expected to take much of the court's time. The other two are expected to be trials before Judge Avery. They are those of Edward McClue of New London, accused of indecent assault, and Jerome Gareaux of Providence, accused of statutory manslaughter in causing the death of Fred S. Campbell by running into him with an automobile.

REMARKABLE PHOTOGRAPHS AT SLATER MUSEUM

A series of photographs recently made in Greece by Frederick Boissonas is at present on exhibition in the Converse art gallery. Interesting in their relation to the Greek collection in the museum, they bring a fresh point of view on Greece for those who have not been there. The group contains some lovely examples of color photography, showing certain famous spots at sunset or at sunrise. It gives a new angle on the ruins. There is a view taken from the Parthenon. There are effects of sunlight on the gnarled tree trunks among which the fragments of the temple of Olympia and a view of the Erechtheon with a wonderful back ground of cloud and mountain. There is a sunset over the island of Aegina, a wide panorama of the pass of Thermopylae, the gorge of Delphi, and the excavations at Mycaenae. There are also groups of people and of animals, buffaloes at the spring, a pasture scene with sheep among olive trees, with a Greek shepherdess watching them, and other scenes showing figures in costume.

With the photographs is shown a small but choice collection of Greek vases and figurines.

In the small gallery adjoining is an entirely distinct group of photographs which happens to be available at the same time. They show camera work done in the Metropolitan museum under museum guidance by boys in the Stuyvesant high school at New York. Talks on lighting and composition given in the galleries of the Metropolitan by a member of the staff have produced some admirable results, both in photographs taken in the museum and subjects selected outside. A clothes line between tall buildings and a collection of objects on an area porch are so well lighted and arranged as to become pictures. A group of coal shovelers and a boot black at work are among other interesting compositions.

These exhibits will be open through January 20 on school days from 10.30 to 3.30 and on Sunday from 3 until 5.

GAVE FINE PROGRAMME OF CHAMBER MUSIC

Second in the series in the Slate hall musical course, under the auspices of the Norwich Free Academy, was the Fox-Burgin-Bedetti trio, which appeared at Slater hall Wednesday evening delighting the large audience with its interpretation of a finely selected programme of chamber music.

The members of the trio are Felix Fox, piano, Richard Burgin, violin, Jean Bedetti, 'cello, with Mary Vincent Fox accompanist.

They gave a thoroughly artistic programme in which the trio numbers were a perfected blending of the three instruments and the solo work of each was a brilliant contribution to the pleasure of the audience which called for encores from each member of the trio.

The programme was given as follows:

Trio, Op. 18, F Major	Saint-Saens
Allegro Vivace
Andante
Scherzo. Presto
Allegro
Violin Solos:
Larghetto	Handel
Valse Mignon	Paul Juon
Zapateado	Sarasate
Piano Solos:
Prelude, B Minor	Rachmaninoff
Clair de Lune	Philipp
Caprice-Burlesque	Garbrilowitsch
'Cello Solos:
Arioso	Bach
Humoreske	Serge Koussevitzky
Elfentanz	Popper
Trio, Op. 32, D Minor	Arensky
Allegro Moderato
Scherzo. Allegro Molto
Elegia. Adagio
Finale. Allegro non troppo

At an organization meeting of the Uncas Finishing corporation held Tuesday afternoon the following directors were elected: William G. Park, W. H. Oat, Walter T. Camp, F. Russell Smith, Flint Brayton, Noah Lucas, Edmund W. Perkins, Nelson J. Alying, and Joseph C. Worth. The officers are: William G. Park, president; Walter T. Camp, secretary; J. C. Worth, treasurer and general manager.

It is expected that the plant will start operations the later part of this month and the installation of machinery has already begun in the location it will occupy in the old Shetucket mill where the company has leased 25,000 square feet of floor space from the Atlantic Carton corporation.

ROTARIANS MADE PICTURE TRIP TO SOUTH AMERICA

The large number of Rotarians and guests at the weekly meeting of the Norwich Rotary club on Wednesday noon were taken on a delightful sight-seeing trip through South American cities under the guidance of William H. Oat. With the aid of about 1,600 feet of film Mr. Oat took his audience all over South America, making stops at Rio Janerio, Rio Santos, Buenos Aires, San Paulo and Montevideo and other cities, with trips into the interior to the coffee and rubber plantations.

One of the most beautiful of the films was the trip to Iguaza Falls in all its majestic grandeur and beauty. Iguaza Falls are 700 feet high and cascade from their dizzy heights in a feathery cascade to the deep pool below. The Tajuca Falls in the Tajuca mountains to the rear of Rio Santos were also shown. At San Paulo the leading coffee port of the world, ships were shown being loaded with coffee for export to North America and Europe.

Another interesting film was the one showing the snake farm where hundreds of snakes were being raised in the interests of science. This snake farm is one of the two largest in the world. A large laboratory is also connected with the farm where the venom is extracted from the reptiles and serums compounded to counteract the effect of snake bites. Many successful cures have been discovered in this laboratory. The trip to Montevideo showed the marvelous architectural beauties of the government buildings, the plazas and parks. Buenos Aires was another city visited and one is impressed here by the natural beauty of the place.

Life on ship aboard was also shown with Mr. and Mrs. Oat appearing in a number of the shots taken on the ship. The film closes most fittingly with a few feet showing the Statue of Liberty and the New York waterfront as the ship proceeds up the harbor.

Mr. Oat was given a rising vote of appreciation. He was assisted in the operation of the picture projector by Arnold Smith.

At the business session President Clarence A. Spear presided and Walter E. Turner was the song leader with Henry J. LaFontaine at the piano. Reports from the leaders of the attendance teams, Edwin A. Harris, captain of Team A and Dr. Hugh B. Campbell of Team AA were given. The teams were tied at Wednesday's meeting with two absentees each.

The attendance at the meeting of the club was large with many visiting Rotarians present from Willimantic, Danielson, New London, New Haven and Boston.

The meeting closed with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

MAKES HIGHEST MARK IN HAMPTON EXAMINATION

Nathan John Ayer of 47 Bentley avenue has passed the entrance examination for the U. S. navy electrical school at Hampton Roads, Va. He passed with the general average of 3.8, the highest mark attained by an enlisted man at the station.

Ayer enlisted at the New London navy recruiting station, Oct. 17, 1927. He was educated at the grammar schools and Norwich Free Academy.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Albert R. Chandler has returned to Columbus, where he is a professor at the University of Ohio.

Miss Matilda B. Randell, of McKinley avenue, is leaving Saturday for Boston, to visit Mrs. Gerard L. Parker, of Brookline.

After a visit in Whitneyville, during which she attended the Shallor-Bonney wedding, Miss Jennie G. Bonney is at her home on Harland road.

Miss Marion Mitchell has resumed her studies at Kendall Hall, Pride's Crossing, Mass., and A. Frisbie Mitchell has returned to the Clark school, Hanover, N. H., after the holiday recess.

Edmund B. Perkins has returned to the Berkshire school, Sheffield, Mass., and Dunstan Perkins has left of Kent school, following the holiday vacation at their home on Washington street.

Mrs. W. Leslie Fletcher, of 347 Washington street, was hostess to the Home Service Unit Wednesday afternoon. After sewing, tea was served by Mrs. Fletcher, assisted by Mrs. W. L. Fletcher.

The Mah Jegg club was entertained Wednesday afternoon by Miss Marian Brewer Briggs, at her home on Broadway. The prizes were won by Mrs. Russell A. Clapp, Jr., Mrs. Lucius Briggs an dMiss Briggs.

Miss Mary H. Paddock is to return to town today (Thursday) from Princeton, N. J., where she has been visiting her nieces and her nephew, Rev. Charles Paddock Johnson. Miss Paddock had been traveling abroad from May to December, going to Princeton to spend the holidays.

The Wednesday club, meeting with Miss Annie L. Ruggles, of Broad street, heard a most interesting paper on Queen Victoria. A great number of rare prints and portraits illustrated the theme, and such an unusual possession as Queen Victoria's autograph; this was from the official papers issued to Miss Ruggles' father, the late Henry Ruggles, as consul to Malta. The previous meeting of the Wednesday club was with Mrs. William Anderson Norton, of Broadway, who read an informing and interesting paper on the Pueblo Indians.

Grading At Hollyhock Island.

The city recreation commission held a regular monthly meeting Wednesday evening at the court house. Bills were presented and ordered paid and there was a report received that the grading at the Hollyhock recreation field has progressed as far as possible this winter. The grading will be resumed in the spring.

BIG ELECTRIC SIGN FOR HANOVER-CURLAND

The new electric sign of the HanoverCurland company on top of their store building at Bath and Franklin streets, the largest and most modern sign on Franklin square, flashed into operation Wednesday night for the first time and made a big contribution to the lighting effects on the square.

It has 124 ten-watt lamps in green caps, with four reflectors of 200 watts each. There is a running snake border, the lights on the face changing into purple while the big reflector flashes on and off, changing to white light.

FUNERALS

Jeremiah J. Gleason

With a large attendance of relatives and friends the funeral of Jeremiah J. Gleason was held Wednesday morning at 8.15 o'clock at his home, No. 106 Oakridge street. Rev. William A. Keefe was celebrant of the requiem mass at St. Mary's Memorial church at 9 o'clock. Mrs. M. J. Farrell presided at the organ and Edward T. Connelly sang Pie Jesu at the offertory and Nicholas J. Spellman sang Libera as the waiting hymn. Chopin's Funeral March was played at the recessional by Mrs. Farrell.

The bearers were John Gallivan, John Young, Bernard Keenan, Joseph Shannon, Edward J. Gleason and John Donovan, the last named of Uncasville. The burial took place in the family plot at St. Mary's cemetery and Rev. Frederick M. Coholan conducted the committal service. The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful. Undertakers Cummings and Ring had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Mrs. William S. Patridge

The funeral of Mrs. William S. Patridge was held at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William T. Austin, Laurel Hill road, Wednesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. Rev. J. Harlow Graham, pastor of Trinity M. E. church conducted the funeral service. The burial took place in the Brewsters Neck cemetery where Rev. Mr. Graham conducted the committal service. The bearers were Chester Parker, Walter Smith, Eugene Fournier, John Carpenter, Clarence Carpenter and William Perkins. Many relatives and friends were present and there were a number of beautiful floral tributes. Undertakers Church and Allen had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Miss Katherine O'Reilly

At 9.15 o'clock Wednesday morning the funeral of Miss Katherine O'Reilly, who died in Keesville, N. Y., Sunday, was held from the parlors of Undertakers Shea and Burke. Relatives and friends were present and there were many beautiful floral tributes. At 10 o'clock there was a solemn high mass at St. Mary's Memorial church. Rev. Daniel O'Reilly of Keesville was celebrant of the mass and was assisted by Rev. Patrick O'Reilly of Canaan, Conn., as deacon, and Rev. James A. O'Mara of Montville, as sub-deacon. Rev. William A. Keefe, rector of St. Mary's Memorial church, was the master of ceremonies.

Mrs. M. J. Farrell presided at the organ and Edward T. Connelly sang Pie Jesu at the offertory. As the waiting hymn Mr. Connelly and Mrs. Farrell sang When Evening Comes and at the recessional Mrs. Farrell played Chopin's Funeral March. The burial took place in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery, friends acting as bearers. Rev. Daniel O'Reilly assisted by Rev. Patrick O'Reilly conducted the committal service.

Given Surprise Shower.

Miss Rose Wein of 17 Grand street, New London, was hostess at her home Monday night at a surprise towel shower for Miss Mollie Greenblatt, whose marriage to Frank Goldstein of this city, is to take place on Jan. 29. Bridge was played and prizes of silver tea balls were awarded. A dainty collation was served by the hostess after the game.

NORWICH TOWN

HOME CHAPTER LEADER REPORTS 1927 ACTIVITIES

The January meeting of Home chapter of the King's Daughters, was held at the Johnson home Monday afternoon. The lesson in Acts was conducted by Mrs. Thomas Keene and Mrs. Neville Bilcq. At the meeting to be held in February, Mrs. Roswell F. Brown and Mrs. Charles Burke are appointed to have charge of the lesson. The leader, Mrs. William E. Manning, and officers, submitted reports for 1927. Announcement was made that the sewing society of Home chapter would hold its next meeting Thursday, Jan. 12th, at the home of Mrs. William H. Whitman, of West Town street.

During the business session, the following were elected to serve during 1928: Leader, Mrs. William E. Manning; vice leader, Mrs. Charles R. Cross; treasurer, Mrs. Herbert R. Branche; recording secretary, Mrs. Earle H. Christman; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Fred M. Clark; flower committee, Mrs. James Gilmore, who succeeds Miss Lizzie Ortman; membership committee, Mrs. William R. Balcom; chairman of the executive committee, Mrs. William H. Whitman, who succeeds Mrs. Neville Bilcq; chairman on entertainment, Mrs. Avery Jarvis Baker, who succeeds Mrs. Louis Engler. Miss Maria Briggs was re-elected chairman of Silver Cross magazine. Earle H. Christman and William R. Balcom are the auditors for the chapter. The nominating committee comprised Mrs. Charles H. Marsh, Mrs. Eugene Saunders and Mrs. Fred Rogers. During the social hour, Mrs. Engler, the retiring chairman on entertainment, served sandwiches and coffee, having the assistance of Mrs. Baker, the new chairman of that committee. The very interesting report of the leader, Mrs. Grace H. Manning, who has served the chapter faithfully for the past few years, follows:

During the year all the regular meetings of the chapter have been held at the Johnson home; each month we have held a sewing bee, excepting July and August. At these sewing societies we have made garments for Rock Nook home, have pieced quilts and tied one. Through the kindness of one member, several tops have been set together and sold for the benefit of the order. All are sorry to know that the capable chairman, who has served for eleven years, is retiring; may she continue to come and help us at most of our society meetings. Let us all give our best support to her successor, that the work may go steadily on, "In His Name." At part of our regular meetings we have had a short program and during the fall months we have been studying the "Book of Acts" as recommended by the International Order. We have had one roll call. In April, we held a very successful supper. We have gained only three members during the year. The service at the Almshouse, which we voted to hold, was staunchly supported by five members and several friends. The annual picnic shared a like fate, as out of more than 100 members only six went; we had two visitors, all had a very pleasant day. To the chairman of our Flower committee, who has served us faithfully for 10 years, we also extend our sincere thanks and regret that she feels unable to longer continue the work; we also extend a glad welcome to the one who takes her place.

We have given aid to some needy ones, have sent money to the flood sufferers of the south, also to those in our own New England states. We have given to the Near East and for the Johnson home, we have bought a bed, draperies and several dollars' worth of dishes. We sent a delegate, both to the conference in May and to the convention in November. Early in the year, a dish towel shower yielded about a dozen towels.

We made each member of the home a

MUCH SPECULATION AS TO REASON WHY HORNSBY WAS TRADED TO BRAVES

By Alan J. Gould.
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Instead of satisfying a startled baseball public with the explanation that Rogers Hornsby was traded to the Boston Braves "to avoid any future conflict in the management of the club and for no other reason," the New York Giants today apparently heaped only fresh coals on the fires of debate.

The brief statement issued by Charles A. Stoneham, president of the Giants, not only was taken with several grains of salt by the assembled experts but drew from Hornsby a sharp reply in which the famous second baseman disclaimed any controversy with Manager John McGraw and denied any attempt last season to undermine the authority of the "Little Napoleon."

While innocent bystanders still were a trifle groggy from the shock of the deal which sends the league's highest salaried star to a seventh place club, in exchange for two little known players—Catcher Frank Hogan and Outfielder Jimmy Welsh—the experts probed behind the scenes for the "real reason" prompting what seemed, on the surface, like the most one-sided transaction in recent years.

Most of the observers took one of the two views, either that some mysterious circumstance caused the sudden trade or that it was merely the fore-runner of another big switch in player talent by the Giants. The latter view is strengthened by the existence of a gaping infield hole left by Hornsby and for which the club now has only rookie talent to fill.

The suggestion that "syndicate baseball," was involved, in other words that the Giants had an interest in strengthening the Boston club, was scouted by most observers. J. J. Tierney, secretary of the Giants, characterized this as "ridicilous," pointing to the new major league rules which prohibit any club owner from having any interest whatsoever in any other team. Nevertheless newspapers recalled the long succession of dalls between the Braves and Giants over a period of years as well as the fact that Former Judge Emil E. Fuchs, president of the Braves, is a resident of New York.

In the absence of Manager McGraw, however, officials of the Giants made it clear that the chief reason for parting with Hornsby was to keep harmony on the club and prevent the possibility of "two managers" trying to run the outfit. Stoneham's statement frankly admitted this but neither he nor Tierney shed any light on exactly what prompted the prospect of such "conflict" or on what ground McGraw and Hornsby differed.

"Statements have been made throughout the country that Mr. Hornsby would be the future manager of this club," Stoneham's statement said. "I have never been consulted regarding this and have had no conference about the selection of a manager, as Mr. McGraw still retains the management of the New York Giants."

The Giants, it seems, regarded these published statements as prompted by Hornsby's friends, if not the second baseman, in spite of the fact that McGraw himself pinned the "heir apparent", label on Rogers late last season at a time when the second sacker was being given almost a free rein in the field direction of the club.

Even if Hornsby's supposed "lese majeste" isn't quite clear to observers it is manifest at any rate that McGraw has no intention of handing over the managerial reins to anyone else for some time to come so far as the Giants are concerned, there is only one manager and his name is John Joseph McGraw.

Meanwhile the Giants do not feel that they have been altogether worsted in the deal, even though Tierney admits it involved "some sacrifice," made necessary by the desire to unload Hornsby and his $40,000 contract, which has one more year to run.

Hogan, the catcher obtained in the deal, is regarded by McGraw as the best backstopping prospect in the league. Young and strong, he is expected to fill a gap that proved costly to the Giants last season. Welsh likewise is regarded by McGraw as a future star.

Unless the Giants make some new deal, Andy Cohen, young Jewish star, may fill Hornsby's shoes at second base. Cohen, who came up from Texas a few seasons ago, was a sensation with Buffalo in the International league last year, batting close to .400.

HUB FANDOM JUBILANT OVER ACQUISITION OF HORNSBY

BOSTON, Jan. 11.—(AP)—The Boston baseball world today inclined to the belief that there is a Santa Claus.

While various explanations and rumors concerning the origin of the deal which brings Rogers Hornsby to the Hub to captain the Braves still eddied about the wake of the sensational announcement last night, Boston fandom and officialdom seemed content to let the New York Giants' explanation of the deal stand for itself.

Officially, from Braves headquarters, Boston "has been after Hornsby for some time and gave up two promising as well as youthful players, both of whom are wanted by the Giants, to further that end." Unofficially the deal was something of an accident, the deal growing out of Boston attempts to secure the services of a different player.

According to unofficial version, President Emil E. Fuchs of the Braves met Manager John McGraw of the Giants some 10 days ago on a dicker for another Giant infielder. The deal fell through but at a later conference McGraw intimated that he would like Francis Hogan, the young Braves catcher, and Jimmy Welsh for his outfield if the Braves' president really had any trading in mind.

More in amusement than in earnest, Judge Fuchs replied that "it would take Hornsby himself to get those two." When McGraw gave serious thought to the statment instead of an answering smile, the Braves chief executive got down to business and the deal went through as much to his own surprise as that of the lay baseball world.

Some aftermaths of the deal are yet to be encountered. They will include announcement of the National league catcher on whom the Braves have an option and who will be brought to Boston to plug the gap left by Hogan's departure, as well as what disposition is to be made of Little Walter "Doc" Gautreau, last year's second baseman.

The name of the catcher will be announced in a week or ten days, Ed Cunningham, the Braves secretary said today. Although the club has not yet got around to considering Gautreau's position, it was indicated today that he would be held for the present as replacement material inasmuch as the Braves are not too well off in the matter of secondary timber.

The value of Hornsby as an addition to the Braves naturally overshadowed the whys and wherefors of his acquisition here, but in some quarters the hand of Charles F. Adams, the comparatively new vice president of the Braves was seen in the deal, despite the positive announcement that no cash was involved in the transaction.

It is no secret here that Adams spent money and spent it freely to bring a championship contending hockey team to Boston in the Bruins National Hockey league club, and when announcement was made here last summer that he had bought into the Braves ownership there were predictions that new and outstanding faces might be expected on the club roster.

The only additional comment forthcoming from the Braves president regarding the deal today was a statement to the effect that Hogan and Welsh were valued at $150,000 and worth a lot to the Giants.

"If Hogan and Welsh were to be sold by the Braves I would ask $150,000 for them," President Fuchs declared. "That's their value to me and the Braves and any statement such as one I have heard from New York that Rogers Hornsby, a $200,000 player, was traded for $25,000 worth of material is absurd. All I know is that a deal has been made with the Giants the same as any other club in any league. Why there should be any criticism or 'mystery' over this particular one is beyond me."

RUBY GOLDSTEIN TRAINING SHILLER'S LEBANON CAMP

Ruby Goldstein, leader of the junior welterweight division, is in our midst, or rather our near midst. Ruby is in training for the week or so at George Shiller's camp at Lebanon for his bout on Tuesday January 24th with Danny Cooney of Jersey. Ruby has been going strong during the past year or so and has fought his way to the top of the junior welterweights. In Tex Rickard's listing this week he is given the first place which means that he is some little scrapper.

George Shiller with Ruby and several other boys from the camp went over to Plainfield last night to see Plainfield humble the Fitton A. C. team. Ruby, who is some basketball player himself, was disappointed in the game because of the lack of competition. The champion last night expressed himself as being mighty well pleased with the Shiller camp and intends to make it his training grounds for future fights. He says he is a big booster for the place and intends to send a number of other boys up this way. Goldstein devotes his training at the present time to road work and hikes through the surrounding country topping off with the bags and a few rounds with some of the camp boys.

It is possible that Ruby will be the referee for the amateur bouts at the Pastime A. C. show on Friday evening.

Minnesota Has Game.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Jan. 11.—(AP)—The University of Minnesota already had a football game scheduled for November 24, the date suggested for a proposed Army-Minnesota game by Chairman Morin of the house military committee in a report to the secretary of war today. The Minnesota schedule for 1928 featuring six hard Big Ten games, has been closed.

McLarnin and Terris Matched.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Jimmy McLarnin, of Los Angeles, and Sid Terris, of New York, leading lightweight title contenders, today were matched for a 10-round bout at Madison Square Garden, Feb. 24. The winner is expected to fight Sammy Mandell, of Rockford, Ill., the champion.

SHARKEY LEAVES FOR SCENE OF BATTLE

BOSTON, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Jack Sharkey left Boston tonight for his heavyweight elimination bout with Tom Heeney of Australia in New York Friday wearing a new mantle—a cloak of silence concerning his prospective opponent and what he intends to do to him.

Johnny Buckley, the Boston boxer's manager, today explained that "silent Jack" is all through with pre-fight announcements of his prowess as well as his former characteristic and frank discussions of his opponent's salient points.

"Once Sharkey gets going again, gets back the position that he held before that Dempsey knockout, he may begin to talk again and build up another following," Buckley explained. "Believe me, too, from now on he's going to follow instructions. Harry Kelly, his trainer, is going to be the general. His orders are going to be followed and there won't be a repetition of that Dempsey fiasco when Sharkey went against orders and tried to trade punches."

Sharkey has been installed a heavy favorite here for Friday's bout, which will mark his first ring appearance since his knockout at the hands of Dempsey last summer. He will scale around 194 pounds, which he considers the best fighting weight he has reached, and generally is regarded as faster, shiftier and hitting harder and more accurately than at any other point in his career.

He worked out 12 rounds in all in his last day here, three with Tom Kirby, his leading sparring partner, and left, confident of victory. Betting odds here favor him anywhere from 7 to 5 to 2 to 1. The injured left hand which forced a postponement of the fight with Heeney last November will be examined by physicians for the New York state athletic commission in New York tomorrow.

Before leaving tonight, Buckley said that any Sharkey-Tunney championship fight could wait until after Friday night.

"This man Heeney is no set-up," the manager declared, "He's knocked out Jim Maloney, has gone to a draw with Paulino Uzcudun and has beaten Johnny Risko. I don't want to talk to Rickard about a June bout with Tunney until after Friday's bout."

DANIELSON TOWNERS CLASH WITH HARTFORD TONIGHT

This Thursday night the Danielson Towners take on Hartford National Guard basketball team. In prospect this looks like a first class, high speed game. It should be at any rate as Danielson has been improving steadily. Hartford National Guard comes to town with a record that is imposing.

The visitors are bringing over Clough and Nolan for use at the right forward position, Allen and McCollum for left forward place, Gallagher for center, Pelker for left guard and Carmody for right guard.

Clough and Allen were the leading scorers of the State Military league during the 1926-27 season. Clough scored 86 points and Nolan 84 in eight games played in the Military league.

Allen is a well known court performer, and is particularly well known in the territory around Holyoke and Boston. He played with and against the Original Celtics and on the Fisk All Stars. He is the coach of Bulkeley High school. In a recent game at Willimantic he scored 28 of the 51 points made by his team.

McCollum is a new man with the Guards. He played last year with the Poquonock Town team.

Gallagher was the leading scorer in the Hartford Insurance league last season, and is again leading this season.

Pelker is well known in the Hartford district. He is coach of the Trinity college team.

Carmody has played on a number of teams and is noted for his guard work in the Military league.

Danielson will use its regular lineup.

AUTO DRIVERS TO ATTEMPT NEW RECORDS

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Jan. 11.—(AP)—The American racing drivers and one Englishman will attempt to break the world's automobile speed record of 203.79 miles per hour, now held by Major H. O. D. Seagrave, in the speed meet on Ormond-Daytona Beach February 15 to 23. They are Frank Lockhart, winner of the 1926 Indianapolis race, J. M. White, and Capt. Malcolm Campbell, of London.

Capt. Campbell's car, the Bluebird, has already gone 187 miles per hour at Pending Beach, England. It is a small car designed to reduce wind resistance to a minimum, and is fitted with a 450 horsepower Napier aero engine, which was built for the British air ministry. Lockhart's car is likewise a small stream-like affair. Preceding the speed test there will be a series of races for stock cars.

EASTERN CONN. INTERSCHOLASTIC ORGANIZED WITH SIX TEAMS

The newly enlarged eastern Connecticut, western Rhode Island interscholastic athletic council got itself in position for a running getaway next fall by practically completing its grid schedule at a meeting Wednesday afternoon at the Academy. A slate of thirteen games, bringing each of the six teams to form the league into conference competition four times during the season was drawn and except for one slight hitch an official "Big Six" is ready to start next fall.

The teams to compete in the conference for its first sport will be Windham, Bulkeley, Chapman Tech, Stonington, Westerly and the Academy. As far as is possible the plan is to have two home games and two on foreign soil.

The 1928 football schedules for the league will open Saturday, Sept. 29 with the Academy at Chapman Tech and will close with the Academy-Bulkeley tilt here Saturday, Nov. 24. The other Academy games in league competition are at Westerly, Friday, Oct. 26 and at Windham Saturday, Nov. 3. The Red and White will play Stonington here Saturday November 17, but this game, being above the quota of four league tilts, will have no bearing on the conference title.

The schedule as put together by the coaches of Westerly, Stonington, Bulkeley, Chapman Tech and the Academy, who were present in complete save for a Windham-Bulkeley contest the second Saturday in October. Westerly was originally slated to oppose Windham this week, Friday, Oct. 12, but to even things up Coach D. Harold Rogers of the Rhode Islanders agreed to cancel this game to give Bulkeley a chance to list another league opponent and by that, bring her number of conference games to the required four.

The schedule follows: Saturday, Sept. 29, N. F. A. at Chapman Tech; Saturday, Oct. 6, Windham at Chapman Tech; Saturday, October 13, Chapman Tech at Stonington, Windham at Bulkeley (pending); Friday, October 19, Westerly at Bulkeley; Sat. Oct. 20, Stonington at Windham; Fri. Oct. 26, N. F. A. at Westerly; Sat. Oct. 27, Bulkeley at Stonington; Sat., Nov. 3, N. F. A. at Windham; Mon., Nov. 12, Westerly at Stonington; Fri. Nov. 23, Westerly at Chapman Tech.; Saturday, Nov. 24, Bulkeley at N. F. A.

Adjournment was taken to Thursday, March 29 when schedules for 1928-29 in all sports are expected to be definitely agreed upon.

Present at the meeting were representatives from Westerly, Stonington, Chapman Tech, Plainfield, Bulkeley and the Academy. Putnam was reported as very favorable toward joining the loop in a communication read by Secretary E. Stanley Taylor while Mr. Taylor also reported that Windham was still on pleasant terms with the conference plan although its representative was not present.

Academy-Bulkeley Football Game

The Academy-Bulkeley football game next season will come a week later, according to the schedules given out Wednesday afternoon at the league meeting. The annual battle has been transposed with that of Stonington, both games coming here, the Stonington game Nov. 17 and that with Bulkeley a week later Nov. 24.

With five games already listed Coach Whitney will probably have but three or four dates to fill. Stamford, Torrington, Wilby, Ansonia and Harding are mentioned as likely candidates for a date on the Red and White's grid slate, which is as yet incomplete.

Two Baseball Dates

There will positively be two Academy-Bulkeley baseball games this year, rain, hail or snow. A confab between Coach Earle E. Brigham of the Academy state champions and William R. Canty, Bulkeley mentor Wednesday afternoon decided that should either team's home game of this important series be cancelled because of weather that the opponent will play that game off thus assuring against financial loss and disappointment to the many hundreds and yes, a few thousand that would witness these games.

The Academy and Bulkeley have been little bothered with inclement weather for their traditional games of late years.

VON ELM TO BECOME PRO UNDER KEARN'S MANAGEMENT

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 11.—(AP)—George Von Elm, former National champion of amateur golfers, today hooked his amateur rating into a bunker and decided to shoot down the fairways as a paid professional.

The flashy linksman who conquered Bobby Jones for the amateur title in 1926 confirmed reports that he would abandon the amateur ranks and turn professional under the management of Jack Kearns, fight promoter and erstwhile manager of Champion Jack Dempsey. The Long Beach open golf tournament starting next Friday will mark Von Elm's last appearance as an amateur.

Kearns had revealed earlier in the day that Von Elm was seriously considering his proposal and the fight promoter voiced his belief that there was plenty of money to be made out of professional golf if it were given the "proper ballyhoo."

Kearns declared that with Von Elm's signature to a pro contract, he would pair him with Al Watrous of Grand Rapids, Mich., for a country-wide tour and possibly make up a professional foursome, another member of which would likely be Harry Cooper, Los Angeles professional.

Von Elm, formerly lived in Salt Lake City but has been making his home in Los Angeles of recent years. Snice his defeat of Jones in 1926 he has declined repeated offers to turn professional. Kearns is the present manager of Mickey Walker, middleweight champion.

ADAMS AND KOPP WIN BUT QUINN LOSES BOUT

BRIDGEPORT, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Eddie Brody, Bridgeport outpointed Jimmy Quinn, Norwich, in a four round bout at the weekly Redmen's amateur boxing show at the Redmen's hall here tonight. Both boys were in 132 pound class.

The results of the other bouts follow:

Charlie Santo, Bridgeport, outpointed Billy Bradford, Fairfield, 3 rounds.

Vincent Anthony, outpointed Tommy Horvath, three rounds. Both of Bridgeport.

Johnny Kopf, Norwich, knocked out William Lewis, third round.

Jack Gerrity, knocked out Zigge Barto, first round.

Gilbert Payne, knocked out Joey Buck, second round.

Buddy Doran, outpointed Young Marlo, three rounds. All of Bridgeport.

Eddie Liberty, Bridgeport, won technical knockout over Frankie Edwards, Danbury, first round.

Tommy Carroll, Bridgeport, won technical knockout over Tommy Brown, Norwalk, second round.

Frankie Adams Norwich, won technical knockout over Fred DeLucia, Bridgeport, 2nd round.

REQUESTS ARMY BOOK MICHIGAN FOR GAME

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP)—Chairman Morin of the house military committee recommended to the secretary of war today that West Point schedule a football game with the University of Minnesota to be played at Soldier's field, Chicago, in place of the Army and Navy game on Nov. 24. As an alternative he suggested a game with Stanford university to be played in the west.

"I understand that plans for such games are being considered," Representative Morin said after a conference with Secretary Davis. A game with either the University of Minnesota or Stanford would give westerners an opportunity to see the Army team and academy cadet corps, which would benefit both, he declared.

He praised West Point for the stand taken in the controversy with the naval academy over the three year eligibility rule, and said that 53 per cent. of the student personnel previously had attended other institutions and if the rule was adopted West Point would have to pick a team from only 500 to 600 students.

VON ELM DENIES HE WILL TURN PROFESSIONAL

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 11.—(AP)—George Von Elm, former national amateur golf champion, tonight denied reports that he would sign under the management of Jack Kearns, fight promoter, as a professional for a golf tour. Von Elm insisted he would never consider abandoning the amateur ranks for the professional.

While Kearns insisted the star linksman was considering seriously his offer, Von Elm declared the suggestion had been made only in a "kidding way," and that he would not for a minute think of making such a change.

AGGIES OPEN SEASON SATURDAY AGAINST TUFTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Jan. 11.—The 1928 basketball season at Connecticut Agricultural college will get under way at top speed here next Saturday night when the Connecticut Aggies will meet the Tufts college five in what shapes up as a real treat for hoop fans. And as an added attraction to the varsity encounter, the freshman teams of Connecticut and Tufts will meet in a preliminary game, beginning at 7.00 p. m.

The strength of the Aggies' 1928 varsity hoop team is still a matter of conjecture, and there is no saying how the team will shape up against a veteran Tufts five that has already played several games this season. Many Aggie followers believed that this year's quintet would be one of the fastest in the history of the sport at Storrs, pointing to the fact that only one regular was lost from the 1927 team and that every member of the crack freshman five of last season is now eligible for varsity play.

Coach Louis A. Alexander is none too optimistic over the outlook in view of the type of play shown by his men to date, however, and he believes his team will be facing one of the stiffest tests of the season in meeting the Jumbos. It is true that the Aggies lost only one man last year, but that man happened to be Bill Schofield, one of the flashiest forwards to ever represent the State college, and an "All-New England" selection for two years. There is no Schofield in the present Aggie varsity squad.

CLASS BASKETBALL GETS UNDERWAY AT STORRS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

STORRS, Jan. 11.—The annual class basketball league at Connecticut Agricultural college got away to a flying start here last night when three hotly contested games were played before a crowded Hawley armory. The Faculty and School of Agriculture are putting teams on the floor again this year, making the league a six-team outfit scheduled for three games every Monday night.

The Juniors, Seniors and Faculty all won their games last night giving them a tripple tie for first place in the league standing, while the Freshmen, Sophomores and School of Agriculture are likewise tied but for the cellar position. The Juniors downed the Sophs 24-19 in an exciting contest that necessitated an overtime period to settle the issue. The Seniors defeated the Freshmen 23-17 after a hard fought and stubborn battle. In the final game of the evening the Faculty overwhelmed the School of Agriculture by a 39-3 count.

Senior-Freshman Game

The work of Howard Kennedy, Aggie football star, in one of the forward positions, and Sam Dorrance at center kept the Seniors out in front in their game with the Frosh, Fisher and Murphy, forwards on the yearling five, counted heavily in the scoring column.

SHARKEY PROMISES TO BECOME "SILENT MAN"

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Cloaked in ominous silence and with or without a tender left "Maulie," Jack Sharkey will descend on the doctors of the New York state athletic commission tomorrow at 11 a. m., to demonstrate his physical fitness for a 12-round battle with Tom Heeney, bulgy-muscled New Zealander, in Madison Square Garden Friday night.

A picture of Sharkey, minus the torrent of words that have bubbled about the Lithuanian on previous fistic invasions of New York, will be something new to local fandom. Sharkey announced in Boston today that in the future he would be just a big strong silent man.

BELANGER-GENARO BOUT FOR JAN. 23 OR FEB. 3

NEW LONDON, Jan. 11 (AP)—Frenchy Belanger, of Toronto, will defend his National Boxing association flyweight title against Frankie Genaro, of New York city on either January 23 or February 3, Thomas E. Donohue, of New London, president of the National Boxing association announced today.

The title scrap will be fought in Belanger's home city, Toronto, where the Frenchman is a great drawing card and a favorite. Belanger recently won the title in a bout with Ernie Jarvis, of England, the holder of the European flyweight championship.

President Donohue also announced that the winner of the Belanger-Genaro scrap would be free to meet Corporal Izzy Schwartz, of New York city, the New York flyweight champion, for the undisputed world's title.

ILLINOIS COMMISSION ON TRAIL OF MANDELL, WALKER

CHICAGO, Jan. 11.—(AP)—The Illinois state athletic commission today recommended serving Sammy Mandell, world's lightweight champion, and Mickey Walker, middleweight titleholder, with an ultimatum calling on them to meet their outstanding challengers or face suspension, in the twenty-seven states affiliated with the National Boxing association.

The attitude of the Illinois commission was indicated when Chairman Paul Prehn forwarded a formal reply on the subject to Thomas E. Donodue, president of the National Boxing association. Chairman Prehn suggested both Walker and Mandell be given a reasonable period of time in which to accept offers.

President Donohue communicated with each of the 27 commissions affiliated with the N. B. A. in an effor to create legislative pressure towards forcing more action among the champions, compelling them to box the contenders in defense of their title every six months.

The Illinois commission recommended that the champions should be forced to fight outstanding challengers instead of engaging in barnstorming matches around the country, meeting push-over opponents in bouts over the championship weight which did not endanger their crowns.

SCHAEFER TO TRY FOR NEW RECORD

BOSTON, Jan. 11.—(AP)—A new world's high run record for 18.1 balkline billiards will be the objective of Young Jake Schaefer, 18.2 titleholder, in a 3,600 point 18.1 exhibition match with Welker Cochran, former champion which is scheduled to start here next Monday. Cochran at present holds the high run record with a cluster of 287 which he put together here last November while playing Erich Hagenlacher. Schaefer, since regaining his 18.2 crown, has turned exclusively to the 18.1 game with a view to lifting that title now held by Willie Hoppe.

TUNNEY HAS NOTHING TO SAY ABOUT RICKARD AFFAIR

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—(AP)—With "absolutely nothing to say," Gene Tunney left New York tonight for a ten day stay in Brunswick, Ga., in the midst of well-substantiated reports that his quarel with Tex Rickard is over.

In absolute variance with his attitude a week ago, when Gene came north from Florida to attend the "all champions" banquet of Rickard's "100 Millionaires" club, the heavyweight champion would say only that an "important announcement" would be made within a few days. Rickard admitted that he had been in contact with the titleholder. Gene said only, "who saw us?"

Stanley Is Indicted.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Jan. 11.—(AP)—Gilbert Stanley, of Great Barrington, former Yale hockey player, was indicted by the grand jury here today for manslaughter in connection with the fatal shooting of Peter Fulco at the Berkshire school in Sheffield, of which Stanley is manager, last November.

Bruins Cancel Sale.

BOSTON, Jan. 11.—(AP)—The Boston Bruins have cancelled the conditional sale of Lelan "Hago" Harrington to the Providence club of the Canadian-American Hockey league and have recalled him to Boston, President Charles F. Adams of the Bruins announced tonight. The Bruins' management said Harrington had reported and would play for the Boston club against the Rangers in New York tomorrow night.

BASKETBALL BRIEFS

The Plainfield Buddies sure are putting some close games up with Norwich teams. In four games to date they have lost three and won one. They lost by a margin of 4 points to the Y Outlaws here, lost to the C. F. C. there by one point, won from the Y Outlaws there by one point and lost to the C. F. C. by one point here.

The C. F. C. sure is bowling over the opposition this year. It's a good bet that they will beat the Hartford Central Baptists in their next meeting. This team is the only one to hold a decision over the locals. Their regular lineup of Brown and Capt. Lambert at forwards with Nell at center and Davis and Moberg at guards is hard to beat in the amateurs.

Warren Harding of Bridgeport is apparently an up and down basketball team unlike teams of late baseball and football seasons at that school. After receiving a convincing trimming from Torrington a few weeks ago they now come back and after trailing for most of the way nose out strong Wilby High at Waterbury the other night. The score was 21 to 18.

The Socony club in the New London City league is either another up and downer or that loop is not extra fast. The Gillmen have won their four games played in the league, having a good lead but in outside games they have done little, losing to the Plainfield Buddies, Colchester and Stonington High.

The Plainfield Buddies are looking for games with fast teams and would like to hear from the Battery E five of Westerly.

With Gabby Hartnett and Jim Thorpe visiting eastern Connecticut basketball floors during next week it ought to be a week of featgres.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Nurses Giving Play

"Tea Topers Tavern" is the title of a play to be given Friday evening at 8 o'clock at Slater hall by the senior class of Backus hospital training school for nurses. A well selected cast has been chosen for the play and the entertainment will be one that will be thoroughly enjoyed by all who attend, while its proceeds will furnish resources for the laudable endeavor of the class.

PLAINFIELD PROS HAVE LITTLE TROUBLE BEATING FITTON A. C. ,36 TO 10

(Special to The Bulletin)

PLAINFIELD, Jan. 11.—The Plainfield Pros made little trouble out of beating the Fitton A. C. tonight and as a result their standing among the quintets in New England received a hoist. The score was 36 to 10, the local five being threatened at no time during the game.

The Fittons did not score until 18 minutes of the first half had elapsed and throughout the first twenty minutes only scored twice while the Pros had run up 23 points by the half. The second half was practically a repetition of the first with the Pros in no danger at all.

The Plainfield guards, Dissinger and Whitey Bernot, held their opponents scoreless throughout the game, Crotty who also plays with the Boston Whirlwinds and O'Rourke tallying nary a point.

Steffy Stavinitsky, lanky center led the Pros in scoring with 14 points on seven neat field goals while Bernot was next with nine. The Plainfield Pros, Normandin and Brusso worked well throughout, many times baffling the oppositon with stellar passing, putting and shooting.

In the preliminary the New Village team defeated the Old Village quintet, these teams hooking up after the Buddies-Coast Guards game had been called off earlier in the day.

Next week Wednesday Jim Thorpe's World Famous Indians from Larue Ohio oppose the Pros at the Community House.

MARKET STRONG IN THE AFTERNOON AFTER SINKING SPELL IN THE MORNING

NEW YORK, Jan. 11—(AP)—Frequent shifts of speculative sentiment in today's stock market was interpreted in Wall street, as revealing the nervousness and uncertainty of professional traders. An opening rally gave way to a sinking spell before mid-day, but a strong upward movement developed in the early afternoon, only to be checked by a renewal of selling pressure in the last half hour. Final quotations were decidedly irregular, the gains running as high as 7 points and the losses as much as 5 points. Trading showed a marked shrinkage in volume, the day's sales falling below 2 1-2 million shares.

Reduction in the call money rate from 4 1-2 to 4 per cent and the importation of nearly $10,000,000 in gold from Canada were offset by the slightly higher rates for time money. Chairman James S. Alexander of the National Bank of Commerce told stockholders that "present indications point not to cheaper money, but to fairly stable moderate rates, a condition highly favorable to good sound business."

Steel shares failed to make much response to the reported increase in mill operations and the firming up of commodity prices U. S. Steel common sold down a point to 147 1-4 after having touched 149 in early trading. Most of the others showed only fractional changes.

Railroad shares displayed a firm undertone, several moderate gains being recorded in that group. St. Paul issues touched new peak prices in reflection of the interstate commerce commission's approval of the reorganization plan, but were unable to maintain the gains. Texas & Pacific touched another new record high at 103 3-8 but a resumption of the advance in Bangor & Aroostook was halted by profit-taking motors continued to feel the effects of selling inspired by fears of reduced profits through recent price cuts.

General Motors closed a point lower at 121 and Nash, Dodge Bros, preferred, Packard, Peerless and a few others yielded fractionally.

Wide fluctuations continued in several of the high priced specialties. Midland Steel Products preferred, which ran up from 106 to 315 last year, dropped from 359 3-4 to 249 and rebounded to 351, off 5 points net. Greene Cananea Copper, which recently attained a new peak at 151 1-2, closed 6 points net higher at 135 after selling down to 120 1-4. Borden soared more than 12 points to a new top at 187 and then slipped back to 180.

New peak prices since 1926, or longer, also were registered by Freeport Texas, American International corporation, Mullins Body, Reid Ice Cream and Devoe & Raynolds. American Machine & Foundry, Stromber Carburetor, Mathieson Alkali, Rossia Insurance and U. S. Cast Iron Pipe also recorded substantial gains.

Adams Express broke 5 points on a few sales. Christie Brown attained a new peak at 110 3-8 and then broke to 105, off 4 5-8 points net.

Sixty to ninety day maturities in the time money market were quoted at 4 1-8 to 4 1-4 instead of on a flat 4 1-4 per cent basis, with similar advances in the longer dates. Prime commercial paper was unchanged at 3 3-4 to 4 per cent.

In the foreign exchange market, sterling cables held firm around $4.87 1-2 but most of the other rates were reactionary. Japanese yen broke 38 points to 46.63 cents and Spanish pesetas sold off nearly 10 points to 17.10 cents. Other continental currencies showed only nominal changes.

LEGAL NOTICES

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Ledyard, within and for the District of Ledyard, on the 5th day of January, A. D. 1928.
Present, BILLINGS F. S. CRANDALL, Judge.
Estate of Mary M. Allyn, late of Ledyard, in said District, deceased.
Ordered, That the Administrator give the creditors of said deceased to bring in their claims against said estate within six months from this date, by posting a notice to that effect, together with a copy of this order on the sign-post nearest to the place where said deceased last dwelt, and in the same town, and by publishing the same once in the Norwich Bulletin, a newspaper having a circulation in said District, and make return to this Court.
BILLINGS F. S. CRANDALL, Judge.
The above and foregoing is a true copy of record.
Attest, BILLINGS F. S. CRANDALL, Judge.

NOTICE
All creditors of said deceased are hereby notified to present their claims against said estate to the undersigned at 20 Shetucket St., Norwich, Conn., within the time limited in the above and foregoing order.
CARL W. BROWN, Administrator

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Norwich, within and for the District of Norwich, on the 11th day of January, A. D. 1928.
Present, NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.
Estate of Ellen Callahan, late of Norwich, in said District, deceased. George H. Gildersleeve, of Norwich, Conn., appeared in Court by counsel and filed a petition praying, for the reasons therein set forth, that administration be granted upon the estate of said deceased, alleged to be intestate.
Whereupon, it is Ordered, That said petition be heard and determined at the Probate Court Room in the City of Norwich, in said District, on the 16th day of January, A. D. 1928, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and that notice of the pendency of said petition, and of said hearing thereon, be given by the publication of this order one time in some newspaper having a circulation in said District at least three days prior to the date of said hearing and that return be made to this Court.
NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.
The above and foregoing is a true copy of record.
Attest, HELEN M. DRESCHER, Clerk.

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Norwich, within and for the District of Norwich, on the 11th day of January, A. D. 1928.
Present, NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.
Estate of Albert L. Penfield, late of Norwich, in said District, deceased.
The Administrator exhibits his administration account with said estate to the Court for allowance; it is therefore Ordered, That the 16th day of January, A. D. 1928, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, at the Probate Court Room in the City of Norwich, in said District, be, and the same is, appointed for hearing the same, and the said Administrator is directed to give notice thereof by publishing this order once in some newspaper having a circulation in said District, at least three days prior to the date of said hearing, and make return to the Court.
NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.
The above and foregoing is a true copy of record.
Attest, HELEN M. DRESCHER, Clerk.

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Montville within and for the District of Montville, on the 10th day of January, A. D. 1928.
Present, DAN D. HOME, Judge.
Estate of Charlotte C. Hermanson, late of Montville in said District, deceased. Hilda Johnson, of Norwich, Connecticut, appeared in Court and filed a petition praying, for the reasons therein set forth, that an instrument purporting to be the last will and testament and codicil thereto of said decedent, be admitted to probate.
Whereupon it is Ordered, That said petition be heard and determined at the Probate Court Room in Montville, in said District, on the 17th day of January, A. D. 1928, at two o'clock in the afternoon, and that notice of the pendency of said petition, and of said hearing thereon, be given by the publication of this order one time in the Norwich Bulletin, a newspaper having a circulation in said District at least five days prior to the date of said hearing and that return be made to this Court.
DAN D. HOME, Judge.
The above and foregoing is a true copy of record.
Attest, CARRIE W. CRAIG, Clerk.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

There's a New Vogue in Smoking.

The war gave the use of cigarettes a great impetus, as everyone knows. But what few people do know is that since the war the use of cigarettes, by both men and women, has increased more than during the war period.

The reason for this, according to an official of the P. Lorillard company, is the progress that has been made in cigarette manufacture.

Take our own brand, Old Gold, for instance, we know definitely that Old Golds have won many people, both men and women, to the use of cigarettes, who never used them before, or if at all, only part of the time.

The reason for this is that when we decided to manufacture a popular priced domestic brand of cigarette we realized that in order to compete with the brands on the market we had to have, if possible, something that would be regarded by a large number of smokers as a distinct advance in cigarette smoking.

We accordingly set about to find out what smokers wanted and what disadvantages, if any, they found in the use of cigarettes.

Of course, the "gay ninety" theory that cigarettes were injurious had long ago evaporated but still we felt there might be room for added refinements. There was still a tendency on the part of many smokers to complain of a cigarette cough. Tests determined that the use of coarse and raw tobaccos had a tendency to irritate the membranes of the throat. So we decided on the use of only the choicest leaves of well aged tobaccos, then developed a further process to eliminate throat irritation. Next we found that women particularly complained at times of smoker's breath. By proper blending and further processing, we succeeded in producing in Old Gold a cigarette that eliminates "smoker's breath."

Naturally, as a result, many have switched to Old Golds from other brands. But it is also true that many who were not confirmed cigarette users before, are now smoking Old Golds with much pleasure and satisfaction and without any of the unpleasant, even if they were not serious, aftereffects, that were considered part and parcel of all smoking some years ago.

This is an age of rapid progress. We have new and better ways of living, and as a part of it, we have today a new and better way of smoking, in which we or the P. Lorillard company believes Old Gold Cigarettes, are an outstanding example. Evidently, a goodly portion of the public believes so too from the way our sales of Old Gold are increasing.

Broadway Theater.

The biggest attraction of the season and the most expensive act in vaudeville is at present the feature of the year at the Broadway theater the last three days of this week. Rose's 25 Royal Midgets have positively been the sensation of Paris, London, Berlin, Philadelphia, New York, Pittsburgh, and now they are to be seen in the same identical production with a car load of scenery and lighting effects. They offer a complete hours stage production, consisting of songs, dances, juggling, musical selections, both vocal and instrumental, acrobatics and unthinkably clever novelties by different members.

These 25 little men and women are all foreign born, having been imported to this country last summer following tremendous runs abroad. They are the cutest little folk in the world and in the troupe are midgets from Germany, Italy, Austria, Prussia, Poland, Java, Spain and Mexico. The show they offer is equally interesting and entertaining for adults and children as well. The management of the Broadway wish to go on record as stating that this is positively the most sensational attraction they have ever brought to Norwich.

In conjunction with the midgets, Clem Tryon in "A Hero For A Night" will be shown as the feature.

Breed Theater.

"7th Heaven," which has been playing to capacity audiences at the Breed theater will have a final showing tonight. None should miss what is said to be one of the greatest of all screen dramas and in which Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell give such a remarkable performance, as to have won the enthusiastic admiration of picture lovers and critics all over America.

The production was directed by Frank Borzage who also made "Humoresque," which until the production of "7th Heaven" was considered his masterpiece. None should lose the opportunity to see this picture tonight.

Strand Theater.

William Boyd, Cecil B. DeMille's fast rising young leading man, whose work in "The Volga Boatman" won instant fame, appears in the male lead opposite Jetta Goudal in "Her Man O'War," her first star picture now showing at the Strand. This, however, is not a sad type of war picture. It has plenty of suspenseful sequences, but far more comedy than battle, and its locale—unique in war pictures—is a quiet section behind the German lines.

"The Beauty Shoppers" is a highly amusing and entertaining comedy drama depicting in bold outline the ways and means employed by the fair sex to keep their slender figures and good looks for those who are ever seeking beauty. The story tells of a young lady who comes to New York to win fame as an artist and becomes a beauty expert. Mae Busch, Doris Hill, Ward Crane and Dale Fuller head a splendid cast of players.

NOTE—It would be illegal to advertise this if not true.

"Don't Get Up Nights"

Says F. H. Marble. This is Nature's Signal of "Danger Ahead."

Fred H. Marble, Danielson, Conn., says in his own home paper, the Danielson Transcript: "My bladder bothered me 4 or 5 times every night. After taking Keller's Lithiated Buchu a few days I saw I was improving. Now I am not troubled at all. They have also relieved my friend Elmer Martin. I will tell or write my experience to anyone."

Lithiated Buchu acts on the bladder as epsom salts do on the bowels. Drives out foreign deposits and lessens excessive acidity. This relieves the irritation that causes "Getting up nights." The tablets cost 2c each at all drug stores. Keller Laboratory, Mechanicsburg, Ohio, or locally at Geo. Engler's, druggist.

PLAINFIELD

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK REPORTS SUCCESSFUL YEAR

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the First National bank was held Tuesday at the banking rooms, a large per cent of the stock being represented. The annual reports were read by Benjamin F. Dawson, cashier. These reports showed that 1927 was an especially successful year. The following were elected directors: Samuel T. Butterworth, Everett A. Greene, Walter Kingsley, John Baton, Everett E. Brown, Herman B. Chapman, Harold B. Mowry, Charles H. Phillips. At a subsequent meeting of the directors, the following officers were re-elected: President, Samuel T. Butterworth; first vice president, Everett A. Greene; second vice president, Walter Kingsley; cashier, Benjamin F. Dawson.

The adjourned annual meeting of the First Ecclesiastical society of Plainfield First Congregational church was held Saturday evening in the vestry, Chairman E. W. Greene presiding.

At the annual meeting of the Sunday school of the Congregational church, the following officers were elected: Primary and junior superintendent, Miss Rose Beaudry; assistant, Mrs. Ellen F. Wallen; secretary, John Dodge; treasurer, Miss Mary Baldwin; general secretary, Miss Helen Krauss; superintendent of Home department, Mrs. Eva Pike; Cradle Roll, Mrs. Sidney Mathewson; birthday secretary, Miss Margaret Lees.

The Lincoln club held its first meeting of the year Monday evening in the vestry of the Congregational church. An oyster supper was served at 6 o'clock in charge of C. Mathewson, Geo. Babcock, James Royle, Elmer Bennet. Former President Elmer Greene called the meeting to order. James Royle was elected president, James Lees was chosen to fill the vacancy on the executive board. The entertainment was in charge of the O. J. S. and included: Piano duet, Mrs. William Krauss and Mrs. August Nolan; sketch, The Train To Mars, Merret Homes, Ellen Homes and James Towne; solo, Mrs. Henry Fontain; reading, A Refectory Cow, Mrs. Lotta Dodge. The speaker of the evening was Rev. Albert Abb

PATRONIZE THESE WELL KNOWN CONCERNS

NUTMEG GINGER ALE WILL SUIT AS BEVERAGE

The Nutmeg Club Beverage company of 200 West Main street stands ready at any time to supply your liquid wants. To the hundreds who have already become followers of Nutmeg Club ginger ale, we do not have to sing our own praises. To you who have not become users of Nutmeg Club ginger ale let us tell you that it is good—and you can get it in both styles, plain ginger ale and pale dry ginger ale.

We pride ourselves on producing a ginger ale that is filled with ginger. A bottle of our ginger ale will convince you that here is a drink fit to grace the table of a king.

Of course we also bottle every variety of liquid refreshments for the home. Refreshing and pleasant to the taste, bottled soda is always a handy thing to have ready when company comes in for the day.

In the summer of course you want soda on hand. Buy Nutmeg ginger ale by the case and save money. Call 2212-2 and let us quote you on prices.

BUY YOUR STAR AUTOMOBILE FROM BAILEY'S GARAGE

The appearance, style, comfort and quality of the Star car needs no praise singing on our part. Bailey's Garage, located at 12-14 Bath street stands ready at any time to demonstrate and prove the above assertion. When considering the purchase of a new car—and many of you are now planning that very thing for next spring—why not call 675 and allow our representative to give you a demonstration.

By calling soon you will have the opportunity of securing a good demonstration, have plenty of time to talk the problem over at home and then make ready for the delivery of your new Star car in the spring. A delay until spring is not good business sense. Be early and avoid the rush.

Besides selling cars Bailey's Garage offers an ideal place for car storage during the day or night. Accessories for your car, gas and oil, in fact almost anything needed in the way of service may be obtained at this garage, and we pride ourselves, speedily and without high cost.

Where Quality and Service are the Watchword

ANTONIO LONGO PROVIDES ONLY BEST OF FRUIT

When considering the purchase of fruit there is but one store in Norwich that should immediately be given attention. Antonio Longo of 20 Bath street for many years has made a specialty of dealing in fruits of the better sort and it is here that you can find all the best of fruit at any given season of the year.

Purchases are made as the season begins and nothing but fine stock is carried. Those of you who have already visited our store and have made purchases of fruit or vegetables do not need to be told that we offer only high grade merchandise. Those of you who have yet to learn this fact are the people whom we are desirous of reaching at this time. We want you to come to our store and see for yourselves that everything we claim about our high grade fruits is correct.

Every purchase made at our store carries with it our guarantee that if satisfaction is not given the purchase may be returned and satisfaction obtained.

Only through constant, better service, have we built up our business until it is recognized as a leader among the fruit stores of Norwich. This service we intend to continue and we trust that, if you have not already patronized us, you will do so during 1928 and become another of the now many satisfied patrons of our store.

HAYES' PULLMAN LUNCH PROVIDES BEST OF FOODS

Norwich people do not have to be told why Hayes' Pullman lunch does a big business in the "feeding" field of our city. They have long since learned that Hayes' food is "cooked differently," that it has that home cooked taste so often lacking in restaurants.

The Hayes brothers made their start several years ago in a small way and business grew by leaps and bounds. Soon there came the necessity of moving the pullman from its first location at the entrance to the New Haven railroad depot. The pullman was then taken to the New Haven railroad property west of the passenger station.

Although not as central, from the standpoint of being visible to everyone passing through Main street, the Pullman really travelled only a few hundred feet to its new home. The hundreds of patrons thought nothing of this slight change and with the moving came a continuation of increased business.

As to food at Hayes' Pullman. There is no need of telling you about it because you won't believe it if we did tell you. Only three words explains it, and that is — "food is different." We invite you to visit our lunchroom the next time you feel hungry while visiting in Norwich. We even go so far as to invite you to visit even though you do not feel hungry. This is no boast and many others will tell you the same—our cooking will make you feel hungry the minute you enter the Pullman.

If you do not already know where we are located ask anyone in Norwich—just say Hayes' Pullman—then let your stomach be your guide.

ELDREDGE HARDWARE COMPANY IS KNOWN FOR GOOD HARDWARE

After having been in the hardware field in Norwich for many years we feel that we have the right to claim that the Eldredge Hardware company ranks among the leaders in the city. For years the quality of goods carried at this store has been kept at a high standard. Nothing has ever been handled by this store that has not been looked into by a representative of our firm to see that the good name of this company would not be injured through our selling that product.

At this time of the year we are making a special mention of Chimney Cleaning Imp. This wonder box contains the means of instantly ridding your chimneys of soot, one of the worst dangers of this season of the year.

Of course you know that this product is only one of many hundreds that we have on hand for home use. We welcome a visit by you at any time. Perhaps there is something you need about your home, something you have long desired but have felt that you could not afford it. Why not come to us and let us show you the possibility of saving through the purchase of that article long put off.

We cannot handle all the hardware made but we do pride ourselves on carrying what we believe to be the best obtainable and we take just pride in offering for sale any article carried in our large assortment of merchandise.

W. B. NOYES & SON SAVE YOU MONEY FOR DECORATING

W. B. Noyes and Son, painters and decorators, say: "In the olden days of wood and coal stoves for heating, gas and oil for lighting, there was a special time of the year for general house cleaning and the removal of the dust and soot resulting. Then there was a spring rush and the services of the interior decorator were in great demand after the closed-in season.

"Now, in the days of oil burners, steam heat, electricity and the vacuum cleaners, the necessity of a particular house cleaning, in the old sense, is, to an extent, done away with, at least the soot and dust removal is done away with and cleaning can be easily done by degrees. The newers methods of heat and light leave no grime to darken or spoil the decorations of a house and a room done over in the late fall or winter is as fresh and clean as ever in the spring.

In an effort to accomplish the extension of the working season by performing some of the work usually done in the rush months at this time, when the business is generally dull, W. B. Noyes and Son are offering a discount of 11 1-9 per cent from their hourly charge of the last season for all inside work done before March 1, 1928.

Painting, paperhanging, kalsomining, graining, glazing, hard wood and floor finishing, stenciling and the newer textured wall finishing done with water or oil plastic paints are among the various decorating operations performed by this shop.

Telephone 2173 and ask them to look over your work. A feature of their service is that they give personal attention to all work, large or small.

GREENEVILLE

The J. G. club held its weekly meeting at the home of Miss Dorothy Turner of Prospect street Tuesday evening. Music and dancing were enjoyed after the sewing hour. A buffet lunch was served by the hostess. Miss Duquette, president of the club, presided at the meeting. The next meeting will be held Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Cote of Central avenue.

Daniel Carrigan of New London was a visitor in Greeneville Wednesday.

Raymond Shea has returned to New Britain after spending a few days with relatives on Fourth street.

Timothy Brennan spent Wednesday in New Haven.

Jacob Goldblatt has returned to his home on North Main street after spending a few days as the guest of relatives in New Jersey. He made the trip by auto.

The annual meeting of the Women's Guild of St. Andrew's Episcopal church was held recently at the home of Mrs. Charles Erwin of Central avenue, a very large number of members being present. The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Fitch A. Dolbeare. Reports from the secretary and treasurer were read and approved, showing that the guild has had a very prosperous year. The report of the treasurer showed that $750 was raised through different sources; $543 was given to the church and a Hoffman hot water heater was installed in the kitchen of the parish hall. At the close of the business meeting the election of officers for 1928 was held and resulted as follows: Mrs. Fitch A. Dolbeare, president; Mrs. Howard Gordon, vice president; Mrs. William H. Taft, secretary; Mrs. Charles Erwin, treasurer. The president, Mrs. Dolbeare, appointed the following committees for 1928:

Sick, Mrs. Howard Gordon, chairman, Mrs. William Banfield, Mrs. Edward R. Risley, Mrs. William Mabrey for Preston, Mrs. John H. Telford and Mrs. Charles Evans. Work, Mrs. Charles Erwin, chairman, Mrs. J. H. Hall, Mrs. Frank Prodell, Mrs. Anthony Benard. Entertainment, Mrs. William Crowe and Mrs. J. Rees Jones. MERCHANTS TO COME TOGETHER IN BETTER BUSINESS CONFERENCE

A "Better Business" conference will be held this (Thursday) evening at the Chamber of Commerce rooms under the leadership of John B. Lyston and Clifford E. Wilson. The meeting is called for 7:30 o'clock.

For some time Mr. Lyston and Mr. Wilson have been interested in providing an opportunity for the merchants to get together and confer on comprehensive plans for the mercantile interests. The meeting tonight will be the first of a series of three. The other two will be held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms on Friday evening.

A number of factors have come up which call for the attention of business men—the itinerant vendor problem; parking space; a retail trade survey, both local and in the surrounding territory; a merchants' institute; cooperative advertising; a collection week and other activities.

The campaign of the Merchants bureau is gathering strength and the work of the bureau will be presented to those in attendance at the meeting, but in no way will any solicitations be allowed. The meeting is for both present members and non-members and is not designed to pledge any one to any movement or any project. It will be purely a clearing house of constructive suggestions from the merchants and business men.

The campaign for the Merchants' bureau takes place next week. At ten o'clock this morning the ten captains meet in the chamber of commerce rooms to make a final alignment of their forces. Thirty men have already promised their personal services and are prepared to go out next week for three mornings and raise the $3,600 fund for the merchants' work. Members of the teams are receiving instructions daily from Herbert B. Cary, campaign chairman.

Mr. Cary feels certain that when the starting gun is fired Tuesday morning, he will have a 100 per cent. successful sales force in the field. The captains who will meet this (Thursday) morning are J. Fred Fleming, C. Edward Smith, C. I. Smith, Abner Schwartz, J. B. Caron, A. Curland, John Lyston, Berton Young, Ernest L. Latimer and Earl G. Taggart.

BANKERS TRUST CO. HAD LARGEST YEAR

The annual meeting of the Bankers Trust Co., of this city, was held Wednesday morning at the bank building on Franklin square. The bank has just closed the largest year in its history. The past year stockholders received an additional one per cent over the regular five per cent. The directors were re-elected as follows:

Angus Park, Timothy C. Murphy, Joseph C. Worth, William H. Oat, John R. Tarrant, Dr. James J. Donohue, David D. Disco, Abner Schwartz, William H. Cruickshank, Louis J. Fontaine, Charles V. James, John D. McWilliams, F. Russell Smith, Flint Brayton, Michael H. Donohue.

The directors, at a later meeting, re-elected all the bank officers as follows:

President, Angus Park; vice president, Timothy C. Murphy; vice president, Joseph C. Worth; vice president, William H. Oat; secretary and treasurer, John R. Tarrant; attorney, Charles V. James.

COLONIAL DAMES' PRESIDENT AT BOOTH PRESENTATION

Mrs. Grace Hall Wilson, president of the Connecticut Colonial Dames, Mrs. Morgan G. Bulkeley, both of Hartford, were guests in New York Tuesday, when representative Colonial Dames from many states attended the luncheon to be given by the National Society of Colonial Dames in the state of New York at the Plaza. At this time Miss Evangeline Booth, commander of the Salvation Army in the United States, received the Eleanor Van Rensalaer Fairfax Medal for Eminent Patriotic Service.

Miss Booth was the second to receive the medal, which was first presented to the late Louisa Lee Schuyler three years ago. It was designed by Malvina Hoffman.

CONTINUANCE TILL SATURDAY IN AUTO THEFT CASE

As one of the principal witnesses in the case is attending the automobile show in New York, the auto theft case against Leon Waterous, 19, of Lyme, was again continued when it came up in the city court Wednesday morning. The new continuance is to Saturday. Waterous is charged with theft of a Chrysler machine from Bailey's garage on Bath street. Waterous, it is said, purchased a Star car from Mr. Bailey last fall and gave a note, signing his name as Cleon Scott. Since then he has paid only a small amount on the note.

It is said that in December he stole a pair of number plates from a machine in Lyme and used them on his own machine. Waterous was taken to jail to await his trial in the city court.

BLINDED LAFLAMME BOY AIDED BY UNCASVILLE DANCE

Kenneth LaFlamme, 14-year Montville boy, blinded in a motor vehicle crash on Mohegan hill on the night of December 10, is still a patient at Backus hospital, this city, where but slight change in his condition is reported.

The Uncasville-Shelton company employes have just given a dance for his benefit, clearing $207. County Commissioner George H. Bradford, of Montville is treasurer of the fund being raised by the New London Day for the youth, which fund now totals $1,992.

CONTINUANCE IN LIQUOR CASES AGAINST CARONS

United States Commissioner Earl Mathewson on Wednesday continued until next Monday the liquor cases against Octave Caron and his son Rudolph. They were arrested December 29th by federal officers following a raid at their place of business on North Main street.

Ernest Viau of Baltic, arrested the same day by federal officials, was bound over to the next session of the U. S. district court under a bond of $500.

Vanderbilts Going Fishing

William K. Vanderbilt, 3rd, and his bride, the former Rosamund Lancaster Warburton, who boarded the Vanderbilt yacht "Ara" at the Thames Towboat Co. shipyard, New London, several weeks ago for Miami, are going on a fishing trip. They will spend two months in the Caribbean sea. A professional fisherman, a mounter and a guide will be taken along. The plan is to obtain specimens for Mr. Vanderbilt's collection at Northport, N. Y.

After the Vanderbilts' marriage in Paris in the fall, the yacht was overhauled at the New London yard. Mrs. Vanderbilt is granddaughter of the late David Hale Fanning, benefactor of many interests in eastern Connecticut and a native of Jewett City.

Will Attend Delco-Light Convention.

Norwich will be represented at the annual sales convention of the Delco-Light company, General Motors subsidiary, for this section of the country, to be held at the Hotel Commodore, New York city, on Jan. 19 by Carl W. Brown, Delco-Light dealer.

A sales program for 1928 will be announced, and an organization of men who volunteer to carry out important sales methods found successful in the company's 12 years of business will be effected.

A banquet in the evening will close the all-day convention program. Speakers will be H. W. Arnold, general manager; W. R. Huber, sales manager; C. C. Whistler, advertising manager; and other company officials.

ENDORSES CAMPAIGN FOR MERGER OF BUREAUS

Archibald Mitchell, 4th, vice president and treasurer of the Porteous & Mitchell company, has mailed a letter to the merchants and a number of the professional men of the city indorsing in strong terms the campaign for the Merchants and Credit bureaus. Mr. Mitchell himself was an early advocate of the mergers of the two bureaus for it was through the experience of his company and their activities that he saw the increased efficiency that would result from the amalgamation.

Mr. Mitchell's letter is as follows:

Dear Fellow Citizen:

I have been greatly interested in the plans of the Merchants bureau looking to the enlargement of its activities during this year. It seems to me the announcement of the merging of the Merchants bureau and the Credit bureau is most opportune.

I have realized that our splendid success in securing more trade through cooperative measures in the past, was but the beginning of the work that could be done in this direction. Norwich has demonstrated its drawing power as a trading center. But we will not get all we can until a definite survey is made of our trade resources and systematic measures are taken to draw that trade to us. This is the work of the Merchants bureau and is one of the reasons for the immediate steps to build up its financial resources.

The use our company has made of the Credit bureau has saved us from the loss of hundreds of dollars in undesirable accounts and has also enabled us to extend our business to many new patrons.

I believe a sound thriving retail section in Norwich means more prosperity for each merchant. I am therefore interested in the welfare of my fellow merchants. I want to urge every concern that grants credit to utilize the facilities of the Credit bureau. Under the new plan, they will be yours merely through the payment of your dues in the Merchants bureau and your cooperation with other members of the Credit bureau.

The voice of one retailer, however eloquent on his own behalf, hardly reaches to our city limits, but the voice of each one of us combined in the Merchants bureau, broadcasts goodwill for Norwich throughout eastern Connecticut.

I urge unhesitatingly that you consider membership in the Merchants bureau as a valuable business asset and that you respond to the invitation to join it with your enthusiastic, affirmative reply.

Cordially yours,
ARCHIBALD MITCHELL, 4th,

WILL HAVE SPEAKER FROM STATE FARM FOR WOMEN

At the meeting of the Woman's league of the Central Baptist church Friday evening at 7:45 the special speaker will be Dr. Rose Howe Jameson of the Connecticut State Farm for Women. Her subject will be Mental Aspects in Social Hygiene. The women are to have an afternoon and evening meeting on that day. The afternoon session begins at three o'clock when White Cross sewing will be done. A short business meeting will be held in the evening.

RUTLAND RAILROAD HAS SERVICE COMPLETELY RESTORED

The Rutland railroad freight and passenger service has been completely restored, according to word received by the Norwich chamber of commerce. Secretary Harry L. Ford, secretary of the Rutland (Vt.) chamber of commerce. The communication received by the secretary of the local chamber of commerce, fro mthe secretary of the Rutland chamber, follows:

We feel sure that you will assist the Burlington chamber of commerce in correcting an erroneous report which has been broadcasted throughout the United States relative to railway service in the state of Vermont.

We are glad to make the following announcement: Rutland railroad freight and passenger service completely restored November 21st, 1927, on schedules in effect prior to the flood.

Reports have come to our attention that the service on the Rutland railroad is still curtailed as a result of the November floods, but suc his not the case. The Rutland railroad is accepting and handling all freight traffic, both carloads and less, to and from all stations on its lines without exception, and rigidly maintaining its freight train schedules in effect prior to the flood, on through overhead traffic to and from points on the New York Central railroad, Boston & Maine railroad, Maine Central railroad and connections.

The manner in which this railroad recovered from the flood was a surprise to everybody in this section of the state and we can assure the former patrons of this railroad that they will get exactly the same prompt service on their shipments that they received prior to the flood. The line is completely restored and has been since November 21st, and is wel able to handle all traffic offered. It needs this business very badly on account of the heavy financial loses suffered.

HISTORY OF SPRAGUE TOLD TO WOMEN VOTERS

Sprague League of Women Voters held its monthly meeting Monday evening in the town hall, Baltic, with the chairman, Mrs. William G. Park, presiding. Business of a routine nature was transacted. The treasurer's report commented on showing a decided increase in the treasury, due largely to a recent whist and food sale which netted a substantial sum.

The splendid report of the secretary was accepted as read.

After the business session the chairman turned the meeting over to programme chariman, Mrs. Ella S. Bennett, who had carefully planned the following programme for 1928:

Jan. 9. Current Events (by members). Questionnaire, "Know Your Town".

Feb. 13, Current Events (members). Topic, Legal Status of Connecticut Women.

March 12. Current Events (members). Topic, Does Connecticut Need a Domestic Relations Court?

April 9. Current Events (members). Topic, What, If Anything, Could the President Do to Contribute Materially to the Breakdown of Prohibition? What Are the Facts as to His Power? What is His Relation to the Prohibition Policy? Other dates are yet to be filled in.

Mrs. Lillie S. Standish read the following interesting account of the founding of the town of Sprague:

"Between 1856-1860 the village of Baltic sprang up like magic in the eastern part of Franklin and has expanded into the flourishing town of Sprague. This new organization took off the northeast part of Franklin, assumed one half the town debt, and the charge of all the poor, with one exception. A census was taken of the town after the separation which gave the following results: 763 inhabitants, 178 electors and 157 families.

"Seventh Society or Hanover was incorporated as an ecclesiastical society in 1761. It included a small portion of Canterbury and Windham. A fund of 1400 pounds was raised by subscription for the support of the ministry and a church of 14 members gathered May 13, 1766, under the temporary ministry of Rev. Timothy Stone. A house of worship was erected about the same time. Rev. Andrew Lee, the first pastor, was ordained October 26, 1768 and faithfully fulfilled his duties for sixty two years.

"The town of Sprague in the rapidity of its growth resembles the changes that often take place in western clearings. Lord's bridge where the Shetucket was spanned to unite Lisbon and Franklin and near which the Lord family had dwelt in quiet agricultural pursuits for more than a century, father, son and grandson living and dying at that place. A grist mill, a saw mill, a farm house and two or three smaller tenements constituted the village. Changes began in July 1856 when the elder Governor Sprague of Rhode Island purchased 300 acres of land on the Shetucket and laid the foundation of the great cotton mill.

"In October, the projector of this enterprise, died and it was feared that his schemes would never be realized. But his son and nephews continued the work without intermission filling out his plans and ever enlarging the sphere of operations until Lord's bridge became the site of a mammoth factory and the center of a new town. (At that time it was given in geographies that this was the largest cotton mill in the world). In 1861 more than 1,000 looms were in operation and 1400 persons were employed by the company.

"In 1861 the town was incorporated by the name of Sprague. It comprised about 12 square miles taken from Lisbon and Franklin.

"The first town meeting in Sprague was held June 10, 1861 and this was celebrated as the birthday of the town. Colonel Ethan Allen of Hanover, moderator of the meeting was chosen as first selectman."

Thus the topic "Know Your Town" was thoroughly dwelt upon and questions were discussed among members present and all felt that they knew more about the origin of the town of Sprague at the close of the successful meeting than previously.

It was announced by the chairman that the next quarterly meeting is to be held in Norwich, Feb. 16. The county work will then be taken up.

SONS OF REVOLUTION GROWING IN STATE

At a meeting of the board of managers of the Connecticut society of the Sons of the American Revolution, held in Hartford on the 7th inst, 40 new members were admitted to the society, two transfers to Connecticut approved, and one reinstatement made. This makes 92 new members received since April 1, 1927, the beginning of the fiscal year of the order. The members elected from eastern Connecticut were Samuel Hutchins Back, Danielson; John Richard Carpenter, Clement Dwight Sharpe, Silas Mandeville Wheelock, Putnam; Cyrus Edward Pendleton, M. D., Colchester; Everett Prentice Chase, New London; Earle Milton Wood, Taftville; Samuel Morgan Alvord, Bolton.

The placing of 121 grave markers, mostly by the request of Daughters of the American Revolution was also reported during the fiscal term.

President General Ernest E. Rogers was present at the meeting and gave a very interesting account of his 11,000 mile trip from which he has recently returned, visiting the state societies in the United States. The Connecticut society is congratulating itself as well as the national society in the very efficient services of President General Rogers which he is rendering to the order. Owing to this, as well as the "push" of Chairman Leverett Belknap of the committee on membership with his assistant colleagues, an unusually large addition has been made to the membership of the Connecticut society and the future gives great promise in that direction.

Gen. Israel Putnam branch, No. 4, of Norwich has sustained a great loss in the death of its late president, Mr. Charles E. Chandler. He was admitted to the order March 5th, 1894, as a great grandson of Solomon Cleaveland, a Revolutionary patriot, from Thompson, Conn., and was one of its staunchest supporters for the remainder of his life.

Standing makes back and legs ache

How ¾ of the workers in the Straus Silk Mills relieve tired muscles

"... It's as good a job as any mill worker could ask—nice people to work with, good pay, fair conditions—but a factory job anywhere is bound to be hard work."

ONLY the mill workers themselves know how legs and feet can ache and how lame backs can be after a long day walking up and down a spinning frame.

Something they must have to take the ache out—to relieve the stiffness and fatigue which might otherwise make it necessary for them to miss many a day's work.

The workers in the Straus Silk Mills in Trenton are a particularly fresh, wholesome-looking lot of women. And so we asked them what they do to prevent aching and strain from standing at a spinning frame all day.

From three-quarters of them came promptly the answer, "I never use anything but Sloan's."

Everywhere the leading remedy for muscular pain

Everywhere you go you hear the same story from people whose work brings a strain on their muscles.

Read the experience of this New York woman—

"I had such a backache I didn't know what to do. I used Sloan's Liniment, and in half an hour I was better. Now, when anyone has a pain, I say, 'Use Sloan's.'"

Another woman writes—

"The pain in my back was like a knife stab and it left me helpless. Sloan's Liniment was given me to ease the pain and I am now able to do all my own work."

Sloan's Liniment is scientific—absolutely reliable because it works by the quickest, surest method known to relieve pain. It stirs up the circulation—brings new blood right to the spot where the pain is, sweeps away the cause of the trouble.

You can get it in any drug store. A bottle that will last you a long time for 35 cents. Use it for—

Rheumatism, Lame muscles, Sciatica, Stiff neck, Lumbago, Colds and congestions, Neuralgia, Sprains and bruises

A company doctor who cares for hundreds of workers every year says: "People whose work exposes them to strain or to damp and cold usually suffer from a good deal of muscular soreness. We find that Sloan's gives them quick, positive relief."

One of the workers in the Straus Silk Mills. ¾ of these workers said that after a long day on their feet they find Sloan's their best help for tired backs and legs

RUTH SNYDER AND GRAY EXECUTED AT 11:09-11:16 P.M

Mrs. Snyder Was Given Three Shocks of 2,200 Volts and Gray Two—As She Walked to the Chair Mrs. Snyder Quoted Biblical Quotations—Gray's Lips Moved as if in Prayer, But He Made No Audible Sound—A Catholic Priest Murmured a Ritual as Mrs. Snyder Died—A Protestant Minister Attended Gray—The Execution Was Carried on Without a Hitch.

SING SING PRISON, OSSINING, N. Y., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Mrs. Ruth Snyder and Henry Judd Gray died in the electric chair tonight, she crying out for forgiveness and he inaudibly muttering prayers.

Mrs. Snyder was pronounced dead at 11:09 o'clock and Gray at 11:16.

Both had been announced resigned to their fate by their spiritual advisers shortly before time for the execution and they walked to the chair without assistance. Neither had been given any opiate or stimulant of any sort.

As each sat in the chair, a priest for Mrs. Snyder, and a minister for Gray, murmured prayers.

The execution was carried through without the slightest hitch. Just before 11 o'clock, Warden Lawes called the official witnesses, four doctors and twenty reporters, into his office and told them that the time had come.

HENRY JUDD GRAY

Briefly he outlined the procedure, to avoid possible confusion, and then all started for the death chamber. The way led outdoors across the prison grounds, into a walled court and so through a door directly into the death chamber.

This is a large bright room about fifty feet square with four doors, four short benches for witnesses and the chair. There are no other furnishings. The plaster walls are a light cream and the floor stone. It is a room giving no impression of sadness but for the central chair with its straps and metal.

Besides the official witnesses seven doctors, half a dozen guards, the executioner and his assistants and the warden were the only ones in the room.

After all had entered and scarcely before the witnesses had seated themselves or found standing room along the walls Mrs. Snyder was brought in.

She entered throug a door behind the chair over which a large sign bearing the one word "Silence" was fastened.

Her first utterances were incomprehensible beyond the fact that she was calling on the deity.

"Have mercy on my soul," were the first words plainly distiguishable.

As she was strapped in the chair by four guards, the matrons stood between her and the witnesses and as the prison priest murmured prayers she was asked if she had any last word.

MRS. RUTH SNYDER

Then suddenly she seemed to realize to the full the imminence of death and pulled herself sharply erect. Her voice came in a shrill treble and her hands clenched in tense emotion.

"Forgive them father," she cried in this strange unnatural voice, "for they know not what they do."

She was silent then and as though at some unseen signal the black mask was placed over her face and the executioner, Robert Elliott, standing in a little alcove, pulled the switch.

It seemed to watchers that death was so sudden that it must have been entirely painless.

There was no struggle and no outcry.

Gray immediately followed and the process was repeated, and he was asked if he had any last word. However, he made no response, merely continuing his soundless prayers, and the mask was strapped in place.

Warden Lawes stood about 10 feet to one side of the chair during both electrocutions but he kept his head bowed and so far as could be told, he did not once look at either prisoner.

As soon as Gray had been pronounced dead, Warden Lawes opened the door into the walled court and the solemn procession of witnesses back to the warden's office began.

There was a mad race of reporters in automobiles for half a mile to the road house where two score telegraph wires had been installed to carry the news reports of the executions.

Mrs. Snyder was the eighth woman to be executed for murder in this state and the third to be electrocuted.

MRS. SNYDER STUNNED; GRAY WAS RESIGNED

SING SING PRISON, New York, Jan. 12—(AP)—The prison grounds were closed and guarded against the curious public tonight as the hour drew near for Ruth Snyder and Henry Judd Gray to die.

Even by 8 o'clock, three hours before the time of the electrocution, a crowd of half a hundred men and women were gathered about the main gate.

Six armed guards stood before the great stone arch and stopped all but those with passes from going further.

Inside the prison, Mrs. Snyder and Gray waited as their last remaining minutes of life ticked relentlessly away.

Gray was said to be resigned but Mrs. Snyder at 8 o'clock was still conferring with her attorneys regarding some last minute attempt to stay the executioner's hand.

In preparation for this move, two deputy attorney generals waited in the prison. They were Deputy Attorney General Beyer and Matthews, who brought Warden Lawes a copy of the vacation of the court stay secured for Mrs. Snyder last night.

The prison itself was deadly quiet as the evening passed. Occasionally a bell would ring in some preliminary test of the electrical apparatus and the sound was startling and jarring to strained nerves.

From the cell tiers there came no slightest murmur.

A quarter of a mile up the road from the prison was a scene of activity, noise and light in striking contrast to the prison.

Here a roadside inn, still sporting the mahogany bar of pre-Volstead days, was turned into telegraph headquarters for the reporters covering the story.

The lawyers came out from Mrs. Snyder's cell shortly before 9 o'clock and said that no further attempt would be made to save their client.

The lawyers said Mrs. Snyder knew that her last hope was gone and was in a daze of stunned emotion.

Judge Hazleton said he left the condemned woman sobbing but in fairly good mental condition under the circumstances.

"I asked her," the lawyer continued, "if she had made her peace with God. She replied that she had."

Joseph Lonardo, third of Mrs. Snyder's trio of lawyers, remained with her when Hazleton and Wallace left the prison. A few minutes later he emerged from her cell to say that although she knew all was over she was calm.

"If ever there was a true penitent," he quoted her, "it is I."

Lonardo said she clung to his hand like a child while he talked to her. Her color was good, he reported and her hand warm.

The lawyer said his client spoke of her daughter Lorraine and said she wanted her to grow to be the woman her mother would have liked to be.

Lonardo said Mrs. Snyder's hair from lack of dye, was streaked yellow and brown.

Father Francis Murphy, chaplain of Queen's county jail, who converted her to the Roman Catholic faith, was admitted and spent some time with her. He reported her bearing up well but gave no details of his visit other than to say she had made her last confession to him and he had given her absolution.

SMITH FOR PRESIDENT TO BE SUBJECT OF DEBATE

MIDDLETOWN, Jan. 12.—(AP)—For a subject of debate in its next series the Eastern Intercollegiate Debate league has taken this: "Resolved, that Alfred E. Smith is eminently qualified to be the next president of the United States." The subject was made known by T. E. Dudley, Wesleyan senior, president of the league, today.

Wesleyan will debate the Yale negative team at Middletown, February 26, and will send its negative team to Dartmouth the same date. The standings of the colleges after the first round of debates place Harvard, Williams and Yale ahead with double victories, followed in order by Pennsylvania, Princeton, Wesleyan, Amherst, Brown and Dartmouth.

YOUNG ELOPERS RETURNED HOME TO BE MARRIED

NEW YORK, Jan. 12—(AP)—A schoolday romance, leading to elopement after a New Year's Eve party, received fresh impetus from Magistrate Silberman today, after it had been threatened with disaster.

The magistrate freed 16-year-old Mildred Coyne, of 10 Magnolia street, Arlington, Mass., and Henry Regan, 19, of 61 Shurtleff street, Chelsea, Mass., former schoolmates, both of whom ad been arrested on information from the Chelsea police.

After telling their story of eloping to New York with $100, which had dwindled to $3, and of being unable to obtain a marriage license because of their youth, the couple were allowed to go home and be married with the blessings of their respective parents.

PROGRESS ON PLANS FOR STATE OFFICE BUILDING

HARTFORD, Jan. 12—(AP)—Steady progress is being made on plans for the state office building for which the 1929 legislature will be asked to make an appropriation, Governor Trumbull said today, following a conference in his office with Commissioner of Finance and Control Edward F. Hall and Motor Vehicles Commissioner Robbins B. Stoeckel. Comptroller Frederick M. Salmon, who is acting for the state in buying property on Capitol avenue, Washington street and Buckingham street, the proposed site of the building, was unable to be present at the conference today.

Studies are being made, the governor said, of floor space requirements of various departments. Before the legislature convenes next January, he expects, architects drawings will be prepared for submission to the legislature with the appropriation request.

The motor vehicle and highway departments will be housed in the new building as soon as it is completed, with the probability that other departments will also be located there the governor said. One suggestion is that the first appropriation be for a wing to house the motor vehicle and highway departments, and that later on additions be built. One of the buildings on the proposed site is now occupied by the highway and health departments, and it has been suggested that the new building be erected on the rear of the tract, to provide space for department now occupying buildings on the proposed site which will eventually be demolished.

CHAMBERLAIN IN THE AIR FOR ENDURANCE RECORD

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Jan. 12—(AP)—Faced with the prospects of adverse weather, Clarence Chamberlin, New York to Germany flier, and Roger Q. Williams were circling above the Long Island flying fields late today in an attempt to establish a new world's duration record.

Dr. James H. Kimball, meteorologist of the United States weather bureau in New York, indicated that there was a possibility that the fliers might follow his advice to them and head for Washington, where they would find more favorable weather.

There, Bellacana monoplane loaded with 471 gallons of gasoline, the two aviators set out at 10.12 a. m., in an effort to better the present record of 52 hours, 22 minutes and 31 seconds. Chamberlin and Williams started their first attempt yesterday but, after four hours in the air, were forced to land because of trouble with their fuel pump.

The present record was set by two German aviators, Johan Risticz and Cornelius Edzard, August 5, 1927.

After circling the field six and one half hours Chamberlin dropped a note in which he expressed confidence that the endurance record would be broken if no trouble developed.

"It's quite pleasant in cabin," the note read. "New breather pipe for motor that we installed last minute keeps all fumes out. Fuel system working O. K. Gas consumption less than we expected. No doubt about breaking record if no trouble."

Miners Battle With Police in Colorado

One Striker K[illed] — Two Miners and [illegible]ate Policeman W[illegible]d.

WALSE[illegible]G, Colo., Jan. 12—(AP)—Rocke[illegible]nfire today in a battle bet[illegible]te police and striking I. W. W[illegible]s with a casualty list of one dead and three wounded, Walsenburg was at peace tonight under the threatening noses of machine guns mounted at vantage points above Main street.

Clashing with the police when a parade of 750 miners and their families was halted, about 600 of the miners this afternoon marched to the I. W. W. headquarters building where they were besieged by the police forces. Desultory firing continued for an hour while police patrolled a battle zone roped off around two city blocks.

Kelmentz Chavez, 35, a striker, was killed by state police as he fired at them from a second story window of the building. Max Lordeman, a state law enforcement officer, was wounded, as were Salistino Martinez, 19, and Peter Verlich, strikers.

A state of unofficial law prevailed in the city tonight. State police, mine guards hastily summoned from outlying properties, ex-service men and other volunteers, all heavily armed, patrolled the streets.

As a precaution against further outbreaks, 75 men were gathered in the courthouse as reinforcements for the police in case of an emergency. A machine gun was placed at a window there from where it could send a sweeping volley down the principal street.

Major John J. Pritchard ordered all pool halls, theaters and business houses closed for the night, and the order was generally observed.

The trouble began this afternoon when the strikers and many sympathizers attempted to stage the parade about the same time a hearing was going on here by the state industrial commission into causes of the present I. W. W. coal strike which started Oct. 18. Parading had been banned by an order of the mayor.

STORY PUTS MUSSOLINI PARTICIPANT IN DUEL

ZAGREB, Croatia Jan. 12.—(AP)—A story amazing even for the Croatian press, which has produced some remarkable items of Italian news was published today in the "Croat People's Voice," as to a duel said to have occurred between Count Calvin, son-in-law of King Victor Emanuel, and Premier Mussolini.

The paper's version of this recent and hitherto unknown duel is that Mussolini desired to strike some new two lire coins bearing his own likeness and the inscription "Duce Mussolini" on one side and the historic insignia of the fasces on the reverse.

The king is said to have told Il Duce to discuss the matter with Crown Prince Humbert, who invited Count Calvi to the conference. While the discussion was in progress a remark of the premier, so the story goes gave offense to the crown prince, who quit the room.

Count Calvi is then reported to have challenged Mussolini to fight a duel with swords, and the premier accepted. Il Duce is said to have appeared on the field of honor wearing a coat of armour under his jacket so that when the count thrust a sword at him it was broken.

The amazed count is alleged to have hurled the remaining half of the sword at Mussolini's face, exclaiming, "coward!"

The Croat paper claims that Mussolini sustained painful injuries of the neck and chin, and that he has secreted himself in his palace since to hide the wounds.

UNITED STATES RENEWS INVITATION TO FRANCE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12—(AP)—The United States has renewed its invitation to France for a treaty declaration against wars of all kinds.

In a note dated January 11 and made public today, Secretary Kellogg takes exception to Foreign Minister Briand's proposal, contained in the last French note, that the anti-war pact dealt only with "wars of aggression" and points out that this contradicts the original French memorandum of last June. Secretary Kellogg quotes from this memorandum and suggests further negotiations be based on "the original formula submitted by M. Briand which envisaged renunciation of all war as an instrument of national policy."

Coolidge Will Start For Havana Today

The Presidential Party Will Number 86 Persons on a Special Train of 12 Cars.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Accompanied by a party of distinguished Americans, President Coolidge will set forth from Washington tomorrow for Havana, Cuba, on a mission of good will and international helpfulness.

He goes there to make the opening address of the sixth annual Pan-American congress which will be attended by delegations from virtually all of the countries of the western hemisphere.

Regarded in this country and especially in Latin America as a diplomatic gesture to indicate the good feeling of the United States for her sister republics of the new world, the trip is the first to take Mr. Coolidge outside of his country as president and the fourth to carry an American president to foreign shores.

On a special train of 12 cars and with a party of 86 persons, the president will journey southward through Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia, and the entire length of Florida to Key West where he will board the battleship Texas for the crossing to Havana. Late Saturday afternoon he will make his only stop, at Miami, where he will tour the city for an hour. Returning, he expects to make a similar stop at Jacksonville on Wednesday. The president will be back at his desk Thursday morning.

The Havana trip will set a new record for presidential travel in that according to White house records, it will be made by a larger number of persons than has ever accompanied a president from Washington. Secretary and Mrs. Kellogg and Secretary and Mrs. Wilbur will be on the train by special invitation. Secretary Davis, of the labor department, has been invited to go as far as Jacksonville where immigration business has called him.

In addition, the president has invited members of the American delegation to the congress to accompany him and those who were not required to proceed before hand to Havana, will go along. These will include Mr. and Mrs. Charles Evans Hughes, Ambassador and Mrs. Henry P. Fletcher, Mr. and Mrs. Morgan J. O'Brien, of New York, Dr. and Mrs. James Brown Scott, of Washington, and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lyman Wilbur, of California.

INTERPRETER FOR MARINES KILLED IN NICARAGUA

MANAGUA, Nicaragua Jan. 12.—(AP)—Roy A. Johnston, civilian interpreter for marines at Quilali, was killed on Monday by rebels, it was reported to marine headquarters today. Johnstone was killed near the recent headquarters of the Rebel General Augustino Sandino, taken from him by marines December 30.

The interpreter said to have been an Englishman, was for many years a soldier of fortune in Central America. He arrived in Nicaragua last November from Salvador where he had been employed in the railway service. His wife and two children were with him.

Johnstone joined the marine forces as an interpreter and was sent to Ocotal by airplane November 25.

Johnstone was killed by Sandino's outposts while on the way to El Jicaro.

20 NEW CASES OF SMALLPOX IN MIDDLESEX COUNTY

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Middlesex county's smallpox victims numbered more than 70 tonight with 20 new cases reported in Middletown during the day. Of these eight were discovered tonight.

Due to the many cases among children and the fact that the local health authorities are over-burdened with work, difficulty is encountered in enforcing a quarantine. The immunization of unvaccinated persons is being carried on as rapidly as possible at the public health clinic where today one child, reporting to to be treated was found to have the disease.

No decision has been reached on the possibility that churches will omit services Sunday. One wing of the alms house is being opened to care for the overflow cases from he isolation hospital.

SIGNALS SENT FROM MISSING STEAMSHIP

SEATTLE, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Signals from the missing steamship Griffco were heard tonight by the motorship Acrangi off the Washington coast, it was announced tonight by the federal supervisor of radio. The message allegiated fears for the safety of the vessel which had not been heard from since S. O. S. calls were sent out last night. The Griffco carries 24 men.

Ships and wireless had vainly searched the seas today for the freighter which last night signalled she was in distress. A gale swept the coast line and the storm threw difficulties in the path of the searching vessels.

LINDBERGH INTENDS TO TAKE OFF TODAY FROM COLON FOR VENEZUELA

COLON, Panama, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Venezuela, mentioned in history as the first mainland of America sighted by Christopher Columbus, is the next objective of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, who flew from Panama City to Colon today, with the intention of taking off tomorrow for Caracas, the Venezuelan capital, or as near to that city as he can conveniently make a landing.

His farewell to President Chiari was said at Camp Lindbergh shortly after ten o'clock this morning, and then he sailed away with all the best wishes of the people on that side of the isthmus, only to be greeted quite as enthusiastically on this side of the Canal Zone.

As he is a reserve officer, Lindbergh was afforded an opportunity which is denied other aviators, and from on high he saw the locks, Culebra Cut and the Gatun dam. He waved to passengers on a railway train and observed natives driving cattle along the roads, the Panama plantations and the humble thatched homes of the sparsely settled residents.

All the people of Colon were gathered either at France Field or along the streets when Lindbergh arrived, and as he passed along in his customary position of honor in the provincial governor's automobile, with marines and soldiers acting as guards, and bands playing, there were shouts of "Viva Lindbergh!"

The Spirit of St. Louis will be thoroughly checked before the next hop-off, the time of which has not yet been definitely settled. If he goes direct to Caracas, he will cover approximately 900 miles, provided he keeps on a straight course.

It is likely he will cross the Gulf of Darien in the southern portion, or will follow the coastline of Panama down to the Colombian border.

DEMOCRATS PICK HOUSTON FOR NATIONAL CONVENTION

Choice Was Made After a Five-Ballot Contest With San Francisco and Detroit—Upwards of 1,000 Democratic Leaders Attended the Jackson Day Dinner—The Keynote Speech Was Delivered by Claude G. Bowers of the New York World—In Their Statements, Neither Smith Nor McAdoo Referred to Differences.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12—(AP)—After deciding to take their party convention into the solid south this year for the first time in history, democratic leaders from over the nation came together tonight at a Jackson day dinner designed to help to harmonize the differences that made for party tragedy at the Madison Square Garden convention in 1924.

Houston, Texas, one of the smallest cities ever to entertain a national party gathering was chosen for the 1928 convention after a five-ballot contest with San Francisco and Detroit in the democratic national committee.

Only one of the central figures of the Madison Square Garden battle, William G. McAdoo, attended the dinner tonight, but the other, Governor Alfred E. Smith, of New York, sent a message, expressing his regret at being absent and urging the party to unflinchingly meet each specific problem of the day.

Neither McAdoo, who has voluntarily retired from the political arena, nor Smith had any reference in their prepared statements to past differences. Instead, each sounded a rallying cry for the party to apply the principles set down by Jackson and Jefferson as the one way to the white house.

There were other signs of harmonizing efforts aside from the addresses at the dinner. During the day friends of Governor Smith in the national committee decided to defer until convention time—June 26—their efforts to change the system of selecting the national chairman so that he would be elected by the committee itself and not the party nominee for president.

Committeemen advocating the change explained that they withheld the resolutions because their introduction now might be construed as an attack upon Clem L. Shaver, of West Virginia, who has headed the national committee since his selection by John A. Davis, the democratic standard bearer in 1924, and toastmaster tonight at the first Jackson day dinner here since 1920.

Selection of Houston as the convention city also was described by some committee members as a further effort at harmony in the party—a recognition of the long service the democracy of the south has given to the party, a service unbroken in every national election since the Civil war. The decision was announced at the end of the fifth ballot of the committee. Many sought the fundamental reason for the choice which had come unexpectedly with Houston scarcely considered in the running. Various possible explanations were advanced in as many quarters.

One was that Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the finance committee of the national organization, and a Houston banker and newspaper publisher had agreed to wipe out the $232,000 deficit of the national committee, but he promptly denied this, declaring that the only consideration was the offer of $200,000 to the committee and the free use of the present auditorium with an added offer to construct a new one to committee plans if that was found desirable.

Another suggestion was that at least some friends of Governor Smith found Houston desirable as they believed if he could be nominated in the south he would gain the undivided support of that section, something many have claimed he would not be likely to do.

Some political observers regarded it as significant that Frank Hague, of New Jersey; Thomas J. Spellacy, of Connecticut, and other Smith adherents voted for Houston from the first ballot and received scattering support from both men and women members of the committee from the east and north.

Besides members of the national committee—and nearly all of them were here for the meeting—upwards of a thousand other party leaders gathered for tonight's dinner. Among them were governors of many states, senators, representatives, state chairmen and other holding places of lesser degree in the national organization.

Chairman Shaver, who arranged for the dinner, was designated to present Mr. Davis for the sounding of a keynote with the advice that the party pick the best brains at its command, put them in the lead and then support the ticket.

The real keynotes Claude C. Bowers, Jackson and Jefferson historian, had as his message a summons to the party to return to the principles which they enunciated and upon which they won to victory. In this speech, Bowers also assailed the present and preceding republican administrations, then asserted that if the party stood where its founders stood "for equal rights to all and special privileges to none" it has its issue for the coming presidential campaign.

BRILLIANT SCENE AT JACKSON DAY DINNER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12—(AP)—A brilliant scene was presented tonight as the hosts of democracy gathered at scores of tables in the ballroom of the Mayflower hotel for the Jackson day dinner—the first such affair of national proportions held here since 1920.

On the stage at one end of the vast room was a life-sized portrait of Andrew Jackson. Festoons of roses were placed about the speakers' table, where also were half a dozen microphones connected with amplifiers.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, widow of the war president, was the first to take a seat at the speakers' table. She was given the place of honor behind a bank of red roses.

John W. Davis, standard bearer in 1924 and toastmaster tonight received a warm welcome, as he and Mrs. Davis took their places. Davis sat to the left of Mrs. Wilson with Representative Finis J. Garrett, of Tennessee, the democratic leader of the house, on her right.

Gov. Ritchie of Maryland likewise received rounds of applause.

Will Rogers, the only man at the speakers' table in a sack coat, could scarcely find time to eat because of joking with Jesse Jones of Houston and Dan Moody, the young Texas governor. The seat to Rogers' left, reserved for W. G. McAdoo, remained vacant during the beginning of the dinner.

The one time secretary of the treasury and a formidable contender for the democrtic presidential nomination in 1920 and 1924 received some applause as he hurried to his place at the speakers' table.

It was announced that 1,343 guests were gathered about the tables.

FOUND MUTILATED BODY OF KIDNAPED GIRL

FLINT, MICH., Jan. 12.—(AP)—The mutilated body of Dorothy Schneider 5 years old, kidnaped from her home in Mt. Morris near here today, was discovered in a creek three miles from the Schneider home tonight. The body had been dissected with a sharp knife, apparently a razor. Dr. R. Brasie, coroner, who examined the body, expressed the fear that the deed was accomplished by an escaped maniac from the state hospital for the insane at Pontiac. An extensive man hunt was begun immediately.

The child was abducted at noon today, a block from her home as she was returning from kindergarten. The mother, Mrs. Mabel Schneider, 24, who witnessed the abduction, told police the kidnaper drove up to the curb alongside the child in a dilapidated automobile, grabbed her and drove rapidly away. The mother, who had been standing on her porch awaiting the return of her daughter, ran screaming to the nearest police station where the affair was reported.

The kidnaper was described as about 50 years of age.

A sheriff's posse, assisted by citizens, scoured the country for trace of the fugitive. They reported finding remnants of the childs' clothing in a woods near Mr. Morris.

Chief Scavarda said the torso was found stuffed under an ice clock in the creek, but that a portion of the child's body had not been recovered.

FIREMEN PUMPING OXYGEN INTO LUNGS OF INFANT

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—(AP)—A faint wail from a 12-day old baby was the reward today for six city firemen who for 21 hours had pumped oxygen into the infant's lungs.

To strengthen further the tiny spark of life beating in its baby's breast its mother, Mrs. Joseph Smith, the mother of five other children ranging from 17 to 22 years of age, just had given two ounces of her blood.

The transfusion developed a marked change in the condition of the infant which once had been declared dead.

Late today the firemen opened their 35th tank of oxygen. The hospital report was that the infant was breathing more easily and was receiving nourishment.

The baby was born New Year's day the first in the Smith home in 17 years. For a time it developed normally and then the child's strength ebbed steadily until yesterday the baby suddenly ceased to breathe and its body turned black.

Mrs. Smith excitedly called the firemen, who, unaware of the nature of the call responded in regulation fire-fighting garb.

FRANCE HAS CALLED THE $70,000,000 8 PER CENT BONDS

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—(AP)—The French government has called for retirement on March 15 the $70,000,000 outstanding external gold 8 per cent bonds, to refund which an arrangement was made to sell $75,000,000 new 5 per cent debentures to the Swedish Match company. This was revealed here tonight in a notice sent to holders of the bonds by J. P. Morgan & Company, sinking fund trustees for the French government. The issue will be retired at 110 and interest will cease after the redemption date.

A PRIVATE COMMITTED SUICIDE AT MITCHEL FIELD

MITCHEL FIELD, N. Y., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Private Gilbert P. Bawdin, son of Herbert Bawdin of 66 Hillside avenue, Short Hills N. J., committed suicide today by shooting himself in the head with a pistol. He was 23 years old and had been at the army field a year. Army officers said he had just returned from leave, that he had an excellent record and was due for promotion. They were unable to assign a motive for the suicide.

C. G. BOWERS DELIVERED THE KEYNOTE SPEECH

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12—(AP)—A ringing summons to democracy to return to the principles of Jefferson and Jackson was issued here tonight by Claude G. Bowers, of the New York World, in the keynote address at the Jackson day dinner arranged by the democratic national committee.

Speaking to leaders of the party from all sections of the country, Bowers, who is the author of several books on the lives and times of the founders of the democratic party, declared "the preservation of popular government and the subordination of money to men" was just as much an issue now as it was when Jackson rallied the people and won to the presidency a century ago.

Assailing the Harding administration on the ground of corruption in high places and the Coolidge administration for what was termed aid to monopoly, Bowers said that if the democratic party stood today where Jackson and Jefferson always stood "for equal rights to all and special privilege to none" the party had its issue for the coming presidential campaign.

Covers were laid for over 100. Remarks were made by Exposition Manager D. D. Cavanaugh in which he thanked the local business men and the exhibitors for their splendid cooperation and called attention to the significance of a gathering of residents of the rural districts and city merchants. During the meeting the "Wid" Card memorial cup was dedicated in memory of the popular poultry judge and breeder. Mr. Card was a resident of South Manchester.

FUNERAL OF MRS. F. F. FOSHAY IS HELD AT MARLBORO

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Jan. 12.—(Æ)—Funeral services were held in the First Baptist church, Marlboro, Mass., at two o'clock this afternoon for Mrs. Cassie M. Whitman Foshay, who died Monday evening in the Lawrence-Memorial hospital at New London, from injuries received in an automobile accident at North Plains, near East Haddam, on Friday, December 30. Rev. P. G. Beatty, pastor of the church officiated and burial was in the family plot at the Marlboro cemetery. The deceased was the wife of Rev. Frederic F. Foshay, who was pastor of the Willimantic Baptist church for several years previous to July, 1926. The family removed from here to Rockville Center, L. I. Mrs. Foshay was born near Annapolis, Nova Scotia, October 31, 1885, the daughter of Carmon S. and Gertrude F. Ruggles Whitman. Her family removed to Marlboro when she was six years of age. She was a graduate of the Marlboro High school, class of 1905, and taught school in East Longmeadow, Springfield and Framingham, Mass. She was married in 1912 to Rev. F. F. Foshay and two children were born to them, Ruth, 14, and Robert, 9. Besides her husband, two children and her mother, the deceased leaves two sisters and two brothers. She was affiliated with societies connected with the Baptist church and devoted her life to the care of her family and to religious work.

Deep Chest Colds or a Raw Sore Throat

END QUICKLY WHEN YOU USE CAMPHOROLE

Stubborn Coughs and Colds that do not clear up quickly, may lead to serious trouble. Fill the Nose or Throat, such as Fullness in Ears, Deafness and Head Noises or extend into Chest followed by Bronchitis or possibly Pneumonia. You can avoid them with CAMPHOROLE, the new ideal treatment, which acts two (2) ways: as it soothes and heals the inflamed membrane, and loosens up a Cough or Cold in the Throat or Chest. It kills the germs. Then you'll know how soon a nerve-racking Cough with a sticky, clinging mucus can be cured.

It's surprising how promptly it opens up clogged nostrils, and takes hold of a stubborn Cough, as it soothes and heals the sore irritating of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and Chest, loosens up phlegm, stops annoying tickling in the throat. You'll then know why thousands prefer CAMPHOROLE, once you have tried it for Colds in Head, Throat and Chest, Asthma, Tonsilitis, Bronchitis and Catarrhal troubles.

DANIELSON

ILLEGAL GLASS OIL JARS SEIZED AT FILLING STATIONS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Jan. 12—Glass jars that are not officially approved and in use at filling stations and other places where motor oils are sold are being seized by County Sealer Gaston A. Maindon of Danielson. Use of unauthorized jars has been forbidden in Connecticut since January 1, by statute provision. Warning was given dealers months ago that they should provide themselves with proper oil bottles before the first of the new year, but some have failed to do so.

At one filling station in Moosup Mr. Maindon seized ten unapproved jars and their "snoots," and at another place in that town picked up four more. There have been no prosecutions. The seized jars are marked and set aside by the county sealer, that they may be used as evidence in cases where places from which they are taken are again found using illegal jars.

The seized jars hold slightly less than a quart, not very much, but enough so they do not measure up to the state standard. Until the warnings of a few months ago were issued against them they were in very general use in Windham county.

The approved bottles that have come into use are full quarts, have the name of the manufacturer blown in the glass and a line showing the quart mark, an arrow pointing to this. Sealer Maindon will attach seals to all approved bottles at filling stations and other places where oil is sold out of bottles, so that customers may know that they are receiving full measure.

All of Windham county is being covered by Mr. Maindon in his check-up on the glass jars and oil bottles, as he has also covered the county checking up gasoline pumps.

LOW QUOTATION OF C. M. STOCK MILDLY INTERESTING

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Jan. 12—Stockholders of the Connecticut Mills who are resident here were a bit puzzled today over being circularized by a Boston brokerage concern that is quoting prices on the stock of the local mills. The circular quotes first preferred at $15 a share, second preferred at $2 a share, common A at 75 cents and common B at 40 cents per share.

In banking circles here no very recent quotations on issues of the stock of the Connecticut Mills were available today.

Such of the stockholders as were talked with about the Boston circular today were inclined to be no more than mildly interested in the quotations. Some of them expressed the opinion that the stocks are worth considerably more than the prices the circular quotes. For instance, an unofficial quotation of $30 a share was heard on the first preferred the first of the present week.

Prior to the general slump in business in September of 1920, the second preferred was quoted up to $180 a share, the original common stock, since divided into two classes as bid for at times at as high as $400 a share.

The Connecticut Mills, continuing to operate here, have only recently completed a new mill at Albany-Decatur, Ala., and eventually will have about 500 people employed there. Numbers of stockholders here are of the impression that they will hold on to their stock in the company in the hope that it eventually will show an increase in value.

At the home on Franklin street, the death of Mrs. Rose Tetreault, 73, wife of Joseph Tetreault, occurred this morning, after a long illness. Mrs. Tetreault, a native of Canada, had been a resident of Danielson for upwards of two score years. She is survived by her husband, two sons, Alphonse of Danielson and Louis of Central Falls, R. I., by a sister, Mrs. Jean Baptiste L'Homme of Riverside, R. I., and by one brother, Hormados L'Homme of Portland, Me.

Last evening the annual meeting of the Danielson Rod and Gun club was held at the Danielson Trust company, reports made and officers elected for the ensuing year. The officers for 1928, are Henry Lague, president; John Ashworth, vice president; L. S. Ingalls, secretary-treasurer; board of directors, Harold B. Atwood, John Ashworth, Elijah Berriman, E. A. Sullivan, Ira A. Warren, Joseph Miller, Charles Hale, Henry Lague, William Nuttall and L. S. Ingalls.

William Nuttall was named as field captain, Sidney H. Perry as chairman of the membership committee, Dr. F. P. Todd as chairman of the grounds committee, Albert T. Sisson as chairman of the handicap committee, A. P. Burns as chairman of the entertainment committee, George Kent as chairman of the fish and game committee and Ira A. Warren as chairman of the rifle committee.

The club plans much activity in trapshooting at its grounds near the Dyer dam during 1928. It was voted to purchase 10 cock pheasants in addition to those that may be supplied by the state for release in local territory and to purchase 1,000 small-mouth bass to be placed in Old Killingly pond, near East Killingly.

Members of the Hi-Y and Tri-Y clubs held separate meetings at the Parish house of the Westfield Congregational church last evening, the two groups afterwards joining for a period of recreation.

L. Edwin Hill, county secretary of the Y. M. C. A., and William Schofield of the Killingly high school faculty met with the Hi-Y group. It was afterwards announced that Mr. Schofield will take over the leadership of the Hi-Y, and the members are delighted with his decision. Mr. Schofield has had long experience in work with boys, as a camp leader, athletic coach and in other capacities.

During their meeting the Hi-Y group elected the following officers for this year: President, Thomas Day; vice president, DeForest Wells, Jr.; secretary, Philip Clarke; treasurer, Bertrand Hammond.

At their meeting the Tri-Y girls elected Miss Phyllis Kenworthy as treasurer. The poet, Joyce Kilmer, who lost his life overseas during the World war, was studied. Miss Doris Shipman read of his life and works. His poem, Martin, was read by Miss Lucille Caron and his famous Trees was sung by Miss Beatrice Beckett. There was a period of song and a period of discussion.

Last evening recently elected officers of Court Oak Grove, F. of A., were installed by Past Chief Ranger Arthur Viens. This year George Gendron is chief ranger, Ferdinand LeFevre subchief ranger and Edward Berthiaume treasurer. Phillias Goulet was installed as recording secretary and Joseph Berthiaume as financial secretary. Moses H. Berthiaume, Sr., is the senior beadle. Dr. J. N. Ferreault is court physician and M. H. Berthiaume and A. A. Bonneville pharmacists.

Arthur Viens, who resigned the office after having been treasurer of the court for twenty years, was given a vote of thanks for the splendid work he has done for the organization. There was a good attendance at the installation ceremonies, which were followed by a social period. Refreshments were served.

The third of a series of weekly whist parties being given by groups of St. James' parish was held last evening in St. John's hall, the attendance surpassing all expectations. The district of the parish that is south of South Main street were the patrons of this particular whist, and they were very proud today of the success they achieved. Dolard Grenon and members of his family took a very active part in promoting the arrangements. Among the awards, a $5 gold piece went to Eli Gaudette. Mrs. A. Fraser received two bags of sugar. At whist honors were won by Miss E. Gagnon, Miss Dora Chabot, O. A. Bassette, G. Boucher and E. Gaudette. Consolation awards went to Miss Exilia Richard and Isadore Biais.

Mrs. Charles Carver has resigned as cashier at Woolworth's and has been succeeded by Miss Helen Congdon.

From St. Petersburg, Fla., where he and Mrs. Colvin are staying for the remainder of the winter F. E. Colvin writes that his health already has improved and that he is delighted with his surroundings and the balmy temperature, which was 69 on Monday. However, upon the day of his arrival in the city the temperature was down to 35 degrees, the coldest experienced there in years.

Another interesting note on what nature is doing in this section of New England in an unusually mild winter is relative to a peony pushing its way up through the soil at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Logee on Winter street. Mr. Logee has covered it over for protection against the severe weather that the winter is yet likely to produce.

Prisoners held at the county jail in Brooklyn to answer to criminal charges will be taken to Putnam Friday of this week and put to plea.

State officers were searching through this section today for Ernest Gould, 24, who escaped last night from the Rhode Island state police barracks at North Scituate, where he was being detained.

Egg prices at some of the poultry farms hereabouts were down to 55 cents a dozen today, and were being taken in quantities by buyers for city markets.

It appears from time to time as some of them are presented at banks here that a considerable number of Second Liberty loan bonds, on which interest has ceased, are held by their owners.

William A. Plankey of Waterbury is visiting with friends in Danielson for a few days.

It's about time that someone reported seeing a ground hog (it will have to be a woodchuck in this territory) out for a spring stroll, but no such information reaches this correspondent. Appearance is due officially, as it were, on February 2.

Officers and members of the Service battery will be on the alert Monday evenings for the emergency mobilization call that is expected within a month.

Superstitious people are not going to like Friday of this week very well, for it happens to fall on the 13th.

At the morning service at the Westfield Congregational church next Sunday Rev. Harding W. Gaylord is going to preach on The Eighteenth Amendment.

W. Irving Bullard is to sail for Europe early in February on a business mission for concerns with which he is connected.

What practically amounts to the first two weeks of the year have produced practically no business for the town court of Killingly, and one may surmise that the New Year's resolutions are working well.

The frame work has been erected for the planing mill and lumber storage plant for LaBelle and Page on Railroad street.

PUTNAM

CRIMINAL COURT COMES IN AT PUTNAM TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Jan. 12.—Friday, the 13th, will be an ominous day for persons who are held at the county jail in Brooklyn or are out under bonds awaiting to answer to criminal charges that have been filed against them, for it means they are to be put to plea in the superior court in this city.

Among the cases that is of particular interest to Putnam people is that of Joseph Larrow, the young man who was arrested a few weeks ago and charged with assaulting a young woman. Upon appearance in the city court he was held for trial at the superior court, under bonds of $5,000. Not being able to raise that amount at the time, he was taken to jail, but the bond later was reduced to $3,000 and his release brought about.

Among the continued cases is that of the state vs. Simon Berthiaume. Berthiaume is charged with a violation of the liquor laws, the third time he has found himself in such a predicament.

Captain William Jarvis and other members of the local police who were on duty today were keeping close tabs on strangers with a view to picking up one Ernest Gould, who last night escaped from custody of the Rhode Island state police while he was being held at the barracks in North Scituate. Gould was being held to answer to a charge of stealing an automobile.

He is described as being 24 years of age, about 5 feet 6 inches in height and weighing about 125 pounds. When he made his getaway, details of which were not furnished to the local police, he was wearing a blue serge suit, light grey top coat and light grey cap.

This strange season is giving promise of an early spring—just a promise. Today children brought to the teacher in the school they attend some fully-blown pussy willows, first harbinger of spring.

The property owners of Putnam yesterday received notices from the board of assessors of what the reassessment of the property amounted to. Receipt of the notices have caused a considerable amount of discussion and a comparing of values. When a change is made for the assessment of a previous year, the law requires a notice to each tax payer that he may have an opportunity to appeal if he feels that the new valuation for taxation is unjust.

Samuel Kaminsky, of this city, has been elected as first vice president of the United Mortgage and Realty Co. of Worcester, with a branch in this city. Louis A. Wolfe, who served as president during the past year, declined reelection. Mr. Wolfe, who is a former well known resident of Putnam, is president of the United L. A. W. Acceptance corporation and wished to devote all of his time to that organization. I. S. Lecber, who was at one time connected with the New England Fur Company here, was elected to succeed Mr. Wolfe. Samuel Rosoff, at one time in business in Putnam under the firm name of Rosoff's Motor Sales company, was elected as clerk.

The Drop In class of the Second Congregational Sunday school held their annual business meeting and social at the church parlors yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Villa Eich is the new president and Miss Annie T. Andrews the new teacher. Fifty dollars was appropriated toward the expense of the church and it was also voted to send a book of kindergarten toys, picture books and other things to Ellis Island. One of the entertainment features of the afternoon was the cutting of a New Year's pie which contained a present for each member of the class.

A great deal of interest is displayed in the appointment of a new school superintendent of the Grosvenordale schools to succeed E. F. Kimball who tendered his resignation to the school board of Thompson to take effect January 27.

Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Roy have returned from their wedding trip and are at their home in North Grosvenordale.

Cadet Allen Thayer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Thayer, has returned to his studies at West Point. He came home on a leave of absence for the holidays but was detained here by an atack of the mumps.

Miss Sarah Kenyon, the head nurse at the infirmary of the Pomfret school has returned from a visit with her sister, Mrs. William Vaughan, at Greenville, S. C. Her mother, Mrs. Mary Kenyon, who went south with her, will remain there for the remainder of the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Brodeur, of Church street, are the guests of friends at Lowell, Mass.

Mrs. Mary Burt and Miss Mary Johnson have returned from a visit with Mrs. Burt's daughter, Mrs. George Newell at Washington, R. I.

Dr. Hugh B. Campbell, of Norwich, will not hold his regular monthly clinic at the Day Kimball hospital this month.

Mrs. Frank X. Lucier, of this city, is at St. Vincent's hospital for observation and possibly an operation.

Mrs. Thomas McDonnell of Newport, R. I., is the guest of her mother, Mrs. Albany Delisle.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Delisle and Mrs. George Grinnell are in New York city this week, attending the automobile show there.

Mrs. Charles H. Rawley and Mrs. A. R. Saunders were in Woonsocket, R. I., yesterday attending the funeral of a friend.

LOSSES THAT SHOULD BE REDUCED

Unless they are in some way connected with the business of handling or repairing automobiles, few people realize the loss which they cause every year. It is therefore an enlightening statement which is issued by the motor vehicle department in which it is set forth that an economic loss of more than $6,190,000 was caused last year by the 26,611 motor vehicle accidents in Connecticut. With this amount divided $2,750,000 in property damage and $3,440,000 from deaths no attention is paid to the medical and hospital expenses, and the property loss is of course restricted to those accidents which are reported to the motor vehicle department. How great an increase there would be if it were known how much other damage is done by those many accidents in which the damage is rated at less than $10 is of course a question.

Nevertheless the very fact that there were 344 persons killed in Connecticut last year, almost one a day, reveals a situation that ought not to be. The auto driver wasn't alone responsible. All classes of users of the highways and streets contributed to the grim total, and all classes must make the necessary contribution of care if it is going to be reduced.

There are those who bask in the shade of that frequent reflection that they are insured. That may relieve their pocketbooks but it doesn't mean that they can disregard the rights of others with impunity, that they can drive recklessly and pick off a child or crash into another automobile. Neither does it mean that the pedestrian should not look to his own protection. Reliance upon the automobile owner being insured is all well and good in case of accidents but it is a mistake for anyone to be more careless because of it.

When we stop and realize that many of those fatalities were probably needless and that much of the property damage that was reported, and as much of that which was not reported, could have been avoided the part which the people of the state can do in reducing economic loss is impressive. What is true of Connecticut is undoubtedly true in similar proportion throughout the country.

STRIVING FOR SPEED

We are living in the age of speed. Almost every day some new record is established, but new records and new plans do not balk the preparations for going faster.

For years there has been a race between steamship lines for the honor of crossing the Atlantic in the shortest time. Fast transportation for passengers, mail and some freight is demanded and those requiring such service are willing to pay for it. Between New York and Cherbourg, the Mauretania holds the record having covered the distance in 1924 in about two hours over five days. A project is now being pushed for the construction of steamships that will make the crossing between this country and Europe in four days. While the Mauretania's time was made on a record run it would be expected that the four day liners would do it as a regular thing. It is in response to the demand for faster crossings.

But while that idea is being urged, terminals being talked and efforts being made to get the government to loan the money for the ships, news comes from France to the effect that a vessel is already under construction in that country, of the type of two pontoons with bridge connections by which the inventor expects to cross the Atlantic in 60 hours, carrying passengers and mails. If everything goes well the test that is promised in the spring should disclose the practicability of such a ship before the four day liners are laid down.

That plan for increasing the speed of getting from one side to the other indicates how thought is running and the desire to cater to the demand for speed. There will always be a demand for the slow as well as the fast ships but the next step is certain to be in the air. Lindbergh and others have expressed the belief that such lines would be established within ten years. But while the eyes are being centered upon the French catamaran it will be impossible not to devote some attention to the British super airship, also to be tested in the spring, which is being constructed with the idea of making the crossing in 38 to 48 hours, with departures on alternate days. Who is ready to say where the struggle for speed is going to stop?

BANNING SUBMARINES

The pleas for the outlawing of the submarine comes at a time when much thought has been directed to that type of warship by the recent disaster off Provincetown. It may well be considered a natural reaction for it is perfectly obvious that there are constant dangers involved in the handling of such vessels and the position in which the crews are placed is not the pleasantest.

But when it comes to eliminating submarines action must be taken in concert by all nations. It is not a move that can be consistently made by one nation and it would be folly to anticipate anything of the kind.

One country may well lead in such advocacy, but that is about as far as it can go until it is apparent that other countries have been won over to the advisability of such a course and are willing to join hands in junking such vessels and refusing to construct any more.

Is it too much to expect that such a time will come? All things are of course possible. It might not have been believed that the time would have come when the leading nations would have agreed to limit battleships, but it did. And yet efforts at that time to restrict submarines failed and in subsequent attempts it has been impossible to apply limitation to other types of warships. This doesn't deny the possibility of some progress being eventually made toward such an end but it is certain that it will not be brought about until all the leaders, at least, subscribe to it.

There are nations which regard the submarine as indispensable. They would not listen to their limitation when the idea was advanced and they are not in a mood for it now. However desirable the outlawing of the underwater boat may be, it cannot fail to be realized that no such step can be accomplished by a single nation's desire. If one nation should want to handicap itself the others might not object but they would not necessarily feel obligated to follow, however much the day might be welcomed when the sub is scratched from the list.

THE HAVANA CONFERENCE

Pan-American conferences have been held before, but probably none has carried greater anticipation and significance that the one which convenes in Havana next week.

Today President Coolidge and the American delegation leave for that city. It is unusual for a president of the United States to leave the country during his term of office. Only on rare occasions and under unusual circumstances is it done. President Coolidge has deemed it a fit time in the interest of our relations with the republics of the western hemisphere to appear in person and present a message which it is believed will have a most important bearing in setting forth our policy in regard to Latin America and impressing upon the representatives of the other republics our attitude under the Monroe doctrine.

It is entirely possible that the president has some recommendations to make which will serve to eliminate some of the lack of understanding and possible suspicion that has prevailed in the past. Backed by some of the American leaders of outstanding prominence, expectations run high as to what is in store for that conference and what he results may be.

Not only in the choice of delegates but in personally leading the delegation, the president causes more than ordinary attention to be focused upon the gathering. Inasmuch as no programme has been set forth and no inkling given as to what is contemplated interest is whetted and it is inevitable that other than the particular countries involved will look to Havana for important developments. It is regarded as the time, the place and the opportunity.

NEW YORK DOES DUTY

In the carrying out of the double execution at Sing Sing, scheduled for the hour before midnight last night, it is firmly believed that the ends of justice have been served. It is a case where the law of New York state took its course in spite of the prolonged and persistent efforts to prevent it and regardless of sex. No case of recent date in that state has called more emphatically for such action.

However much opposition there may be on the part of the average individual to take human life, any other course in view of existing laws and the crime that was committed would have been deplorable. New York has done its duty. It was faced with the punishment of those who committed one of the most dastardly of crimes. It was conceived and perpetrated in full knowledge of the penalty. The guilt was established beyond any question. The pleas in behalf of new trials, delays, mercy have been made upon the slightest of pretexts, but without a good and sufficient reason for interfering with the course of the law.

The principles in this case were not confirmed criminals. They had moved in good society but they apparently believed that they were above the law and so cunning as to be able to avoid its grip. They long ago became aware of their great mistake, but their experience stands out most glaringly as a lesson to any and all others who may permit the thought of similar conduct to enter their minds. In the treatment of this case New York supported its own law and refused to have anything to do with action which could be regarded as giving encouragement to crime. The disposition will not invite more such cases.

ENOUGH SAID.

"There is," said the lady who was dealing the cards, "too much talking in this world! There is no brand of trouble which has not originated in words, and I firmly believe that if everybody had to remain absolutely dumb for a year there wouldn't be a thing for anybody to do but sing hosannas.

"More discord arises from certain set and bromidic phrases and whenever I hear one of them spilling forth, my heart sinks. They are so useless because either they don't mean anything or else they are loaded with dynamite. Whenever I hear a fair young bride chortle that she just loves to have Esmond come home for lunch, I want to shake the silly thing until her teeth rattle!

"During the honeymoon it is a wonderful privilege to watch Esmond butter a roll and daily with a lettuce leaf, and it is entrancing to realize when you see him curl his little finger when he helps himself to sugar that he belongs to you alone.

"But it is another matter when you have planned to clean the butler's pantry shelves, make strawberry jam, stir up the dinner dessert and mend the hosiery before noon in order to get to a party at 2 o'clock. Then with such an intensive program mapped out your husband is absolutely certain to burst out over the breakfast coffee that he guesses he'll stay home and look over those important papers where he can be certain of peace and quiet, and can't you get him a little lunch before he goes down in the afternoon? Just any old thing—oh, say, let's have creamed chicken on toast and waffles, just something that won't take much time! And he can spread his work on the dining room table, can't he?

"An hour and a half is demolished getting up the cute little lunch. Another hour to washing dishes and packing away food and brushing up and getting Edmond off to his train—and you finally reach the party late, unmanicured and all thrown together with the memory of the berries spoiling in the icebox to cramp your no-trump hand!

"Let no woman look me in the eye and claim that she sincerely wants to clap her hands with joy when the man of the house thrusts himself upon the scenery between the hours of 9 and 5! Some smart person defines dirt as merely perfectly good matter out of its proper place. Likewise you can say that an unrestrained nuisance is the presence of a perfectly good and adored husband during the hours when he is supposed to be absent.

"Another superfluity in the line of words, is 'Now, do come and see us! We'd just love to have you!' That's the way we talk when we want to keep the corners of our mouths turned up and be agreeable.

"Maybe there have been those who have taken the words at face value and dropped in, but if they did nobody gave three cheers when they came through the door! Either the host and hostess were giving their most swagger dinner of the season or were engaged in a hot fight over the relative values of Saturday night male poker parties and new fur coats and were just about as glad to see the caller as though he had been poison ivy. Affairs whirl on too fast these days for any family to have time for visitors unless the date, hour and split second has been specified.

"Putting your mind to it, it is quite easy to name all sorts of futile phrases—'mother used to cook it differently,' 'don't you simply adore hearing Dr. Trembly talk on all those elevated things that do improve your mind so, my dear!' 'I am going to bring up my children quite unrestrained so they may develop their own personalities,' 'Genevieve is to choose her own husband with no objections on our part,' 'I just love to make my own clothes.'

"All superfluous! Trouble breeders which may exercise the jaw muscles but have no other sane purpose in the world——"

"We're waiting for you to bid!" interposed her restless listeners implacably. "That is, when you get through talking!"—Chicago News.

YOUR HEALTH

Yellow Jaundice

By L. Winfield John, M. D., New York, Member Gorgas Memorial.

Jaundice is a term frequently employed and implies ordinarily a yellow or greenish discoloration of the skin seen in individuals afflicted with some disturbance or disease within the bile passages. When the skin is discolored yellow or green, it may be taken for granted that a discoloration of corresponding degree has also occurred in the lining membranes of the eyes, mouth cavity, gullet, and other tissues of the body as well as the blood itself.

When jaundice exists, one may be satisfied that the flow of bile from the liver has been interfered with. This interference, however, may vary in character. Upon the nature of the interference will depend also the course, gravity, and outcome of the condition. At all events, the jaundice results because of a reabsorption by the blood and other body fluids of bile pigment which thus becomes distributed throughout the body.

Ordinarily the liver, a most important organ within the upper portion of the abdomen, manufactures the bile. This bile leaves the liver through the smaller bile channels or so-called bile ducts and finally, after passing through the larger ducts reaches the upper portion of the small bowel into which it is emptied. A certain quantity of the bile, during its onward passage toward the bowel, is sidetracked from the main duct of elimination into a channel which leads to the gall bladder. Here the bile is stored for varying periods of time and undergoes concentration. At this site it probably serves certain physiological demands made by the digestive and metabolic functions of the body. The main flow of bile proceeds, however, from the liver into the bowel where it facilitates the processes of digestion.

Commonly, jaundice results from an interference in the elimination of bile from the liver and liver ducts. An obstruction to the outflow of the bile will result in a damming back into the liver and its eventual reabsorption or entrance into the blood circulation. As a result, jaundice occurs. The obstruction most commonly takes place in the chief passage leading to the small bowel. This channel is spoken of as the common bile duct. A blockade in this duct may be occasioned by the impaction of one or more gall stones within it during their onward propulsion toward the intestine from the most common source, the gall bladder. At times, a blockade may be created by parasites within the channel or as a result of a swelling of the channel walls due to catarrh or inflammation. Tumors within the duct, developmental defects, or other mechanical processes may result in the establishment of a similar condition. These mechanical factors may develop from disease within the channels or from disease outside the duct which may produce pressure or traction upon the channel in such a way as to impede its passage.

Symptoms that may be noted in patients suffering from jaundice are clay colored bowel excrement, itching of the skin, very dark or deep yellow urine, extreme general weakness, drowsiness, and hemorrhages or bleeding under the skin. Jaundice, when observed, should demand the consultation of a physician not only when it is pronounced but even when it is hardly seen in the skin and only definitely recognized in the sclera or white portions of the eye balls. The time to investigate all problems of disease is early and not late.

New French Formula Quickly Relieves Rheumatic Agony

A marvelous French prescription treating crippled soldiers at Aix-les treatnig crippled soldiers at Aix-les Bains during the war, banishes the pain of rheumatism by ending the cause.

Dr. Beaupre found in handling thousands of cases of rheumatism, lumbago, neuralgia, etc., that such ailments were due to internal infection, such as blind pus pockets in the teeth. Poisons carried by the blood to the muscles, joints and nerves set up inflammation and cause pain. Dr. Beaupre's prescription neutralizes these poisons as bicarbonate of soda neutralizes acids, bringing prompt relief—that tends to become permanent. Usually a ten-day treatment clears up even an obstinate case.

Any one can now get this marvelous prescription from any druggist.

How to Stop Food Fermentation

In Stomach and Avoid Sourness and Indigestion

It is gas, formed by fermenting food, that after meals bloats your stomach, causing sourness, heartburn, dullness, uncomfortable fullness and pains of indigestion. Drugs, stomach tonics and artificial digestents like pepsin fail to give satisfactory relief because they have little or no effect on the stomach acids that have been proved to be the real cause of gassy stomach and practically all indigestion. Instead an absolutely pure anti-acid or neutralizing agent should be used after meals to neutralize this dangerous acid in the stomach, and undoubtedly nothing could be better or safer for the purpose than pure Bisurated Magnesia. This you can obtain from any good drug store in either powder or tablets, and in most cases a teaspoonful of the powder, or two tablets taken with a little water after meals will be sufficient to instantly neutralize excessive acidity of the stomach, stop and prevent premature souring and fermentation of the food and permit a normal, painless digestion of whatever you have eaten. Try this simple prescription and be delighted with your entire freedom from indigestion.

Independence

It isn't the things that are told you,
But the things that you study and learn,
It isn't the things got for nothing,
It's the thing that you honestly earn,
And high be your aim or ignoble,
Whether piety, power or pelf,
Don't lean upon Luck for advancement,
But go out and win it yourself.

It's struggle that strengthens the muscle,
And practice that gives one the skill;
No mountains are ever surmounted
Unless we begin with the hill.
The man who relies upon others,
Soon finds himself left on the shelf,
The one way to have things done rightly
Is to pitch in and do them yourself.

So keep this for guidance before you,
As you busily toil with your task,
If there's something you really are after
Just go out and earn it, don't ask
For the slightest concession or favor
From luck, the false, fickle elf,
You really don't want it sincerely
If you won't go and win it yourself.

IN THE DAYS NEWS

RUANDA.

Ruanda, which might be called the little Ethiopia of Africa, is settling down largely under native control, after having been the football of African mandates. A bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society tells of this seldom visited kingdom on the "roof of Africa."

"Ruanda may be considered a small edition of Ethiopia, or Abyssinia," says the bulletin, "because next to the regent of that country its ruler is probably the most powerful native chief on the Black Continent. The country formed the westernmost and inmost tip of Germany's vast territorial holdings in East Africa. This extensive former German region has come to be called Tanganyika territory since the World war.

"Ruanda, before the advent of European influence, was an isolated plateau region, densely populated by a people of a single language. There was little contact with peoples of the surrounding plains, and Ruanda was even exempt from the raids of Arabian slavers who harried the lands closer to the coast. As a result Ruanda became a strong and self-sufficient kingdom.

"'The Germans permitted the King of Mwami to continue his rule. During the World war the territory from Lake Victoria west to the Congo, including Ruanda, fell under Belgian control. Later Belgium was given a formal mandate for this territory, while Great Britain received under mandate the remainder of the near-by former German holdings. Still later Belgium, to co-operate in affording Great Britain protection for the proposed Cape to Cairo railway, ceded to Great Britain a strip of the mandated territory lying west of Lake Victoria. This took in a portion of Ruanda, including important grazing lands. Because of the protest raised by the Ruandans over the partitioning of their territory, a final readjustment was made whereby the British corridor was narrowed, western sections being receded to Belgium.

"Today the greater part of Ruanda—some 18,000 square miles—forms a Belgian mandate, but there are small areas of the old Protectorate of Uganda. The population in the Belgian mandate is estimated to be between two and three millions.

"The most active of Africa's volcanic regions is included in Ruanda: the Birunga or Mufumbiro range, whose picturesque name in the native tongue means 'cooking place of God.' Several of the peaks reach an altitude of 14,000 feet. Some of the streams originating in these mountains flow into the Nile drainage system, while others drain into Lake Kivu and so contribute their waters to the westward-flowing Congo.

"The Ruanda plateau is one of Africa's best cattle countries. The highest of the three castes among the Ruandans are the cattle raisers. Below them are the agriculturists, and still farther down the scale, the pygmies who live in the forests, chiefly by hunting.

"The king is greatly helped in his sway over his people by his state religion. By its tenets he is the earthly representative of the chief diety, Muhavura, one of the large volcanoes, is the sacred mountain, and plays an important part in the religious myths.

"On the mountain slopes of Ruanda the huge gorilla, largest of the ape family, will probably make his last stand. The Belgian government has created a gorilla preserve there, a protective measure that has not been taken in the few other areas where the rare beasts live."

Former Norwich Leaders

Charles E. Dyer.

From Norwich Bulletin, Jan. 16, 1895.

The death of Charles E. Dyer, which has for some time been expected came Tuesday afternoon after a long illness.

Mr. Dyer was born in 1834. He was the son of Dr. Elijah Dyer, for forty years a physician in this town and a descendant of Deacon Thomas Dyer of Weymouth, Mass. He in early life displayed a fondness for books and an aptitude for study often reading 1,000 lines of Virgil for a single lesson. He was prepared to enter Yale college at the very early age of 15, but his health became impaired by too close application to his books.

Mr. Dyer, in his young manhood, was a bookkeeper for the Falls Co., and A. P. Sturtevant. In 1862 he was bookkeeper for the Thames Fire Insurance Co., and a year later he was made secretary of the company. In 1864 with James Greenman and I. M. Buckingham under the firm name of Greenman, Dyer & Co., he went into the flour and grain business. Two years later the firm became Cottrell, Dyer & Co., and in 1869 was located in the elevator building, which the firm erected. In 1870 Mr. Dyer withdrew.

In 1871, with Mr. Charles T. Palmer, under the firm name of Palmer & Dyer, a coffee and spice business was carried on in Chestnut street. The next year the firm was dissolved and Mr. Dyer became special agent of the Norwich Fire Ins., Co.

In 1876 Mr. Dyer became business manager of The Bulletin company and continued as such for four years. He held the same position from 1884 until 1888.

In 1883 Mr. Dyer was manager of the New York & New England Express company's office in this city. From 1890 until the firm closed its business in Norwich he was manager of W. L. Patton's brokerage office.

Mr. Dyer stood high in Masonic circles, having taken the 32d degree. He was made a member of the Somerset Lodge in 1858. For many years he was treasurer of Columbian Commandery, No. 4, K. T., grand secretary of King Solomon Grand Lodge of Perfection; V. G., secretary of Van Rensselaer Council of Princes of Jerusalem; and a member of Connecticut Sovereign Consistory. At the laying of the corner stone of the new Masonic temple, July 3, 1893, he was honored with the preparation and delivery of the chief historical address. He was also a member of Pyramid Temple, Ancient Order of the Mystic Shrine, of Bridgeport.

In matters of local history he was exceedingly well posted and in the board of trade he occupied the position of Necrologist, being called upon to furnish suitable resolutions and memorials upon departed members.

He was not only a model citizen but a patriotic one. During the war he allied himself with an organization that understood to bind together all loyal men of all trades and professions in common union to maintain the power, glory and integrity of the nation. He took great interest in public affairs and has of late years been called upon to act as moderator of the Central district in town and city elections. In such capacity his decisions have been impartial and unquestioned.

Last spring he interested himself in a project to have the parks of the towns more appropriately designated. The name "Williams park" was changed to its old appellation "Chelsea Parade" and, through his efforts, a bronze tablet and granite boulder were secured to mark it.

Mr. Dyer was a member of Broadway Congregational church. He took an active interest in religion and benevolent work and had served as a member of the advisory committee of the United Workers. He was a member of the Kitemaug association and the Arcanum Club.

He was a man of business integrity and honor, of positive personality and direction of purposes. He will be widely missed for one who had never sought to receive high public office.

In 1863 he married a niece of Governor W. A. Buckingham. A second marriage was contracted in 1877 with Mrs. Cornelia H. Meeker, who survives him.

TOOK SEVEN PRISONERS TO WETHERSFIELD PRISON

High Sheriff Sidney A. Brown took seven prisoners Thursday from the Norwich and New London jails to the state prison at Wethersfield, where they will serve terms ranging from one to four years as a result of conviction in the superior court in this city.

The list included:

Daniel Brogno, sentenced for two to four years on four counts arising out of operating a house of ill fame in North Stonington and for receiving earnings of women there.

John Foley, one to two years for theft of an automobile.

Andrew Austin, one to two years for arson.

James Lupinacci, one to two years for receiving earnings of immoral women.

George J. Findlay, sentenced to one or two years for obtaining money under false pretences.

Harry Whitford, two to four years for assault with intent to commit rape.

Joseph Serzan, one to two years for burglary.

Sheriff Brown, with a corps of deputies, made the trip by motor bus and after seeing his charges lodged safely behind prison walls, returned home late Thursday afternoon.

MISS PECKH M CONDUCTING DEMONSTRATIONS IN MICHIGAN

Miss Gladys Peckham, formerly home service demonstrator with the Norwich gas and electric department, who terminated her employment here last fall, is now working in the same line in Michigan as a representative of the Michigan Federated Utilities and has begun a course of six weeks of schools throughout Macomb county.

In a recent issue of the Mount Clemens Daily Leader, her picture was given at the head of a column of "Home Service Chats" and the newspaper gave extended notice of her class lesson on cake making.

MIDDLESEX CORONER TO PROBE FORSHAY DEATH

Because of a recent ruling by the attorney general of this state, relative to investigations of death by the coroner, which states that henceforth the coroner in the county where the cause of the death arises shall investigate rather than the coroner in the county in which the death takes place, as has heretofore been the practice, Coroner Jeremiah J. Desmond has turned over for the investigation the case in which Catherine M. Forshay, wife of the Rev. Frederick Forshay of Rockville, died as the result of having been injured in an automobile accident while she was riding in a car driven by her husband, which was alleged to have struck a tree. Coroner Desmond hands the case over to Coroner L. A. Smith of Middlesex county, the accident having occurred in East Haddam.

Mrs. Forshay died at the Lawrence hospital in New London on January 8, following injuries received on December 28.

MADE AWARD IN NOANK MAN'S CLAIM

In the workmen's compensation claim of Kenneth N. Butson, 3 High street, Noank, against Tourgee Transportation company, of that place, Commissioner Albert J. Bailey has made an award that the employer is to pay at once the $21 bill of Dr. W. M. Hill, of Noank, and also pay Butson $60 for four weeks at $15 per week. The employer did not appear at the hearing nor was he represented, so that it was impossible to ascertain whether he had insured his liability under the act.

According to the claim made, Butson was assisting in loading a truck with fish at Noank on Oct. 27 and while stepping off the running board turned his ankle. An X-ray showed that he had sustained a strain of the ligaments which caused a disability which would entitle him to four weeks compensation in addition to the payment of his medical bill.

WILL POSTPONE HEARING ON SIX DIVORCE CASES

Clerk George E. Parsons of the superior court was notified Thursday by Judge Christopher L. Avery that six divorce cases appearing on the list for Friday's short calendar session of the superior court in this city will be continued, due to the fact that Judge Avery will preside over the criminal superior court to hear three cases Friday.

Judge Avery will first hear the motions on the short calendar and will assign cases after which he will open the criminal court.

There are six uncontested divorce cases on the assignment list.

WOMEN'S REP. CLUB TO BE FORMED FEB. 7TH

An informal tea for women members of the New London war committees and represenattives from Groton was given by Mrs. A. O. Colby, of Groton Long Point, a member of the state central committee, at Lighthouse Inn Wednesday. The advisability of forming a Republican club in the 18th senatorial district was discussed and plans were made to organize at a luncheon meeting at the Mohican hotel, Feb. 7. Miss Katherine Byrne, of Putnam, vice chairman of the state central committee, will be present at the luncheon to assist in the organization.

Left Brother In Willimantic.

Mrs. Anna E. Prentice, 73 wife of George M. Prentice, died Thursday in Derby at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Stephen H. Sill. She was born in Willimantic in 1849, went to Holyoke in 1868 and for the past four years had lived in Derby. She leaves three sons' two daughters and a brother George Thompson of Willimantic.

FREEMAN'S FRIENDS DISCREDIT PROPOSED RETIREMENT REPORT

Reports that have appeared in newspapers about the state that Congressman Richard P. Freeman, of New London, would refuse to run again because of ill health, retiring at the end of his present term, are given little credence by Freeman's friends and associates in New London.

According to his friends, the summer spent at his home at Neptune Park, Ocean Beach, put Mr. Freeman in vigorous condition and when he returned to Washington he was fully equipped physically for an active session of congress, and it is the impression that he is already building up his fences towards a re-nomination in the congressional convention in the fall.

If opposition is to be made to his re-nomination, it will come from Middlesex county, according to the reports that are current, where friends and political backers are reported to be grooming Representative Elwyn T. Clark, of Haddam, to oppose Freeman. Mr. Clark was chairman of the house committee on appropriations at the last session of the general assembly and is said to have the support of State Senator Walter Pierson, of Cromwell, Samuel Mattes, republican leader, of Middletown, and Attorney Don Cambria, of the Middletown republican town committee.

With this backing, it is considered that Clark would be able to muster considerable strength from Middlesex in the convention, but he would have to make inroads upon the Freeman strength in New London, Windham, Tolland counties, which are the other divisions of the second congressional district.

Representative John M. Mallon, Jr., of New London, was formerly Congressman Freeman's secretary, was quoted Thursday as saying that he had heard in Hartford some time ago the rumors of Mr. Clark's candidacy, but he felt that Congressman Freeman was too firmly entrenched to be defeated for renomination this time. The opinion was voiced by Sheriff Sidney A. Brown, State Central Committeeman Daniel M. Cronin and Attorney Lewis Crandall. Representative Mallon pointed out that there are 194 delegates to a congressional convention in this district, with 98 votes necessary for a choice.

"New London county alone has 60 delegates; Windham county, 24; Tolland county, 20, and Middlesex county has 23," he said. "This county can be expected to go 100 per cent for Freeman and so, in order to be renominated he will be required to corral only 38 votes from the remaining three counties, less than 13 per cent, and securing these votes should be a comparatively easy matter. I don't see how he can be defeated."

Judge Crandall, intimate friend of the congressman, in commenting upon the reports that have been published concerning the possible retirement of Freeman, said that Congressman Freeman was enjoying fine health and had no intentions of retiring from public life at the expiration of his present term.

"Congressman Freeman," he said "is now completing his seventh consecutive term. He has firmly entrenched himself in the party councils at Washington and through his lengthy service in congress has risen to a point where he wields considerable influence. He is now in a position to get things done and is too valuable to the second congressional district to retire at this time. I have no doubts that he will be easily renominated and again overwhelmingly elected."

COLCHESTER SCHOOL CHILDREN ARE TO BE VACCINATED

Beginning Thursday clinics for the vaccination of school children in Colchester were ordered by Health Officer Dr. Edward J. Howland and all youngsters who failed to be vaccinated or produce documentary proof of having had such treatment were barred from attendance in the town's public schools. Action of the Colchester health officer was the result of the smallpox scare in that township and a precautionary measure to prevent undue spread of the disease in case any members of the dozen families now under observation there develop smallpox.

Under the latest ruling of Dr. Howland, clinics for vaccination of school children were under way from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. and will be continued between the same hours today (Friday) and Saturday. All pupils who fail to become vaccinated or fail to produce documentary evidence that they have been vaccinated will be barred from the public schools on Monday, Jan. 16, until further notice.

Dr. Howland is proceeding under the powers granted him by the general statutes and while vaccination is not compulsory, it may be made nearly so because the state department of education may prosecute parents of children for not sending them to school and the only alternative is to have them vaccinated, or produce medical proof that such treatment would be injurious to the children in question.

30 MINUTE PERIODS FOR CLOSING THAMES BRIDGE

Investigation is being made in Groton to determine whether it will be possible to have the Thames river highway bridge remain closed for 30 minute periods during certain hours of the day.

Secretary George H. Gariepy of the New London chamber of commerce spoke of the proposed enforced closing periods at a meeting of the Groton chamber of commerce. The Groton chamber will co-operate with the New London chamber in an effort to have the plan put in force. Suggested closing times are as follows: 6.45 a. m. to 7.15 a. m. 7.45 a. m. to 8.15 a. m. 4.15 p. m. to 4.45 p. m. 5.10 p. m. to 5.40 p. m.

According to Groton persons bridges are required to be closed during certain periods in other cities. It was recounted that in some places boats are required to anchor until the opening of the bridges and then many of the boats proceed in file, when the bridges are opened.

It was pointed out that the opening of the Thames highway bridge causes much traffic tie-up and inconvenience. Especially is this true during the period preceding the times when persons are going to work. It was said that a feasible plan which would alleviate this condition would be most beneficial.

FORMER NORWICH GIRL IN AMERICAN BEAUTY FOUR

Four of New York's prettiest girls have been chosen by Jean Patou, fashion creator of Paris, to be his American models and have sailed for France where they will be under contract for a year. One of the four to whom this honor has come is a former Norwich girl, Margaret Shea, daughter of Joseph Shea and Margaret Hinchey, former residents of Hickory street, but residing in New York city for a number of years past.

Miss Shea sailed last Saturday from New York on the Acquitania. She has been on the stage for the last three or four years and has last been appearing in the musical comedy Good News. This is the third time she has been picked for one of Patou's models, but on the two previous occasions she yielded to her mother's wish that she should remain in New York. When she was again chosen this year in the competition conducted by one of Patou's representatives in New York, her mother gave her consent for her to go abroad and Miss Shea eagerly grasped the opportunity.

CLARK BELDEN LEAVES STATE CHAMBER COMMERCE

Clark Belden, executive vice president of the Connecticut chamber of commerce, has resigned to become vice president and managing editor of the Financial Digest, of which Seymour Weymss Smith is president. Mr. Belden has submitted his resignation to A. R. Kimball, of Waterbury, president of the chamber, and it will be acted upon at the meeting of the board of directors in Hartford on January 23. The resignation will take effect on February 15.

CLARK BELDEN

Mr. Belden became connected with the chamber in November, 1924, as manager of the legislative bureau. The next year he was appointed assistant secretary and on March 1, 1926, was elected secretary when George B. Chandler left that position for a similar office in Ohio. Later Mr. Belden became executive vice president.

Teachout, president of the national council of the Y. M. C. A., and singing by the Colonial quartet of Hartford on Saturday evening, and an address Sunday evening by Professor William Lyon Phelps of Yale university.

BATTERY E OF WESTERLY DRILLS FOR TOWN COUNCIL

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Jan. 12—Battery E, 243rd R. I., C. A. C. (H. D.), Capt. John F Datson, commanding, had inspection and a prize drill this evening in the state armory. This military body which drills as an infantry and artillery unit, has recently been increased to a peace time enlistment of 88 men. Featuring tonight's drill was the presence of the Westerly town council, headed by President Horace E. Burdick, who attended in a body as voted at the last regular meeting. From that body a $5 gold medal and $20 in gold had been offered for excellence in drill while the Westerly Lions club offered cash prizes for excellence in the manual of arm, schools of the soldier, batallion and company and artillery manoeuvers.

28 IN WEEKLY LIST OF SUSPENDED MOTOR DRIVERS

The weekly list of operators whose licenses to drive automobiles in Connecticut have been suspended for one year for driving while under the influence of liquor was given out Wednesday at the state motor vehicle department as a part of the effort to reduce this highway menace. There are 28 names on the list. One was a Connecticut operator convicted in another state. The department statement advised people to notify the department or the police in case they should see any of the suspended drivers operating motor vehicles.

Those in this part of the state are John T. Filburn, Norwich; Gedeon Ouellette, Uncasville; Joe Riley, Versailles; Frank Manfreda, East Glastonbury; Albert Steinlau, Middletown.

EXPECT 300 TO ATTEND Y. M. C. A. STATE CONVENTION

About 200 are expected to attend the 61st annual Y. M. A. A. state convention which opens at the Hotel Bond, in Hartford Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock and will continue until late Sunday afternoon. The convention will be called to order by Arthur B. Clark, chairman of the state executive committee. Singing will be led by Arthur Kirby Pratt of Hartford. Rev. J. Gordon Gilkey, pastor of the South Congregational church of Springfield, will make the speech of the opening afternoon taking for his theme, "Christianity in the Modern World, from the Viewpoint of a Minister."

IS A HEALTHIER STRONGER GIRL

Because She Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The fertile valleys of Oregon help to supply the tables of America. This is possible thru the magic of the humble tin can.

In one of the canning establishments, Julia Schmidt was employed. It was complicated work because she did sealing and other parts of the work. It was strenuous work and she was not a strong girl. Often she forced herself to work when she was hardly able to sit at her machine. At times she would have to stay at home for she was so weak she could hardly walk. For five years she was in this weakened condition.

She tried various medicines. At last, a friend of hers spoke of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Miss Schmidt gave it a trial.

"Everyone says I am a healthier and stronger girl," she writes. "I am recommending the Vegetable Compound to all my friends who tell me how they suffer and I am willing to answer letters from women asking about it." Julia Schmidt's address is 113 Willow St., Silverton, Oregon. For sale by all druggists.

There will be a banquet Saturday evening at 6 o'clock. William H. Corbin executive vice president of the Hartford chamber of commerce, will act as toastmaster and Mayor Stevens will greet convention members.

"Christianity in the Modern World, from the Viewpoint of the Educator," will be the address Saturday evening by Professor William Lyon Phelps of Yale university. The 2Sunday session opens with a breakfast at the Bond. Dr. H. C. Russ, president of the Hartford "Y" will preside. "Christianity in the Modern World, from the Viewpoint of the Business Man" will be the subject of the Sunday afternoon address by David W. Teachout of Cleveland, president of the National Council of the Y. M. C. A.

TIFFANY BRONZE MEDAL WON BY LOCAL AGENT

In this the biggest year the Connecticut agency of the New England Mutual Life Insurance Co. has ever known, L. M. Crandall, of this city, working on a part time schedule of less than one half a day a week won the company's coveted Tiffany bronze medal which is issued to agents writing from three hundred thousand to a half a million dollars worth of paid for and delivered life insurance in any one year.

The medal was awarded to him at a complimentary luncheon given to the agents of the company held at the Hartford club Wednesday. The medal was presented by Superintendent of Agencies Glover S. Hastings, who spoke in very complimentary and definite terms of commendation and appreciation of the splendid work done in Eastern Connecticut by Mr. Crandall. He stated that the record was most remarkable owing to the amount of time Mr. Crandall devotes to community, school and other interests and the small amount of time devoted to the insurance business.

In accepting the medal for the third year, Mr. Crandall expressed his thanks to the home office, the state office, and to local friends who helped so much to make this record possible, and he stated that during the coming year he would be a contestant for the Tiffany silver medal issued to agents writing from one-half to three quarters of a million dollars worth of paid for and delivered business in any one year.

In addition to winning the bronze medal for the third time Mr. Crandall won special prizes in three other contests during the year, and five times during the year he won prizes for completing each ten consecutive weeks period in the Application-a-Week club. He has written from one to eleven applications every week, without missing a single week, for five years and sixteen weeks. He is working for a ten year unbroken record in the Application-a-Week club. There are only about a dozen men in America who have passed the five year period in this kind of a test. He has won first place among the state agents two years, and this year stands second. During this period the largest number of applications written by him in any one week was eleven, and the largest volume of paid for and delivered business written by him in one single week was $85,000. During the past year he has broken all the records made by the local office since it was first opened in Norwich in 1845, and if he makes the quota of better than a half million which he has accepted for this year he will again beat all records of the past eighty-three years of the New England Mutual's history in eastern Connecticut.

RUBY GOLDSTEIN WILL REFEREE PASTIME A. C. AMATEURS TONIGHT

Besides ten fast amateur boxing bouts, fans who attend the amateur show of the Pastime A. C. at Olympic Hall tonight, will see Ruby Goldstein, champion of the junior welterweight division. Ruby is spending a week at George Shiller's camp at Lebanon and will be present at the bouts tonight, not in the role of a combatant but as an arbitor. Ruby will referee the bouts, and, with a boy, who has been through the professional mill from bottom to top as the third man in the ring, the fighters tonight are bound to be kept on the move.

The last two shows of the Pastime A. C. have been featured by an over abundance of knockouts, some being legitimate while others were flavored with an orange tinge a trifle. It is pretty hard on the management when a boxer decides that a dive is an easy way out when the going gets a little rough. However in tonight's bouts the boys will be matched according to past records as well as weight and with Goldstein handling the refereeing it is certain that the knockouts will not be plentiful.

Seven Norwich boys will perform on tonight's card with Boots Larry, local favorite, swapping punches with Young Polinsky of Colchester in the feature performance of the evening. This bout has excited more or less interest with Polinsky the favorite because of his superior boxing knowledge. However Larry has insisted on being matched with Polinsky and claims that he will pound through Polinsky's science to a knockout victory.

Others from Norwich will be Vic Darr, Young Connell, Charlie Mathews, Young Hudson, Mush Moriarty and Jack West. Westerly is sending up fast boys in Young Mettie at 130 pounds, Young Comfort and Young Sposato, in the lighter classes. Danielson will send down Young Bogash and Young Bruzin two fast boys. Young Polinsky is bringing down his brother Wallie while Willimantic will be represented by Young Bernier and Kid Dunn. From New London will come Young Rockford, Young Hooper, Young Jennes, Young Whitey, Young Cyzen and Young Mingo.

The officials besides Ruby Goldstein will be Jack Carney, timer, Jack Sweeney and M. J. Kelly, judges. Preceding the bouts the Moose orchestra will render a concert program.

NON-SCOUTING PLAN WAS A SUCCESS SAYS NETTLETON

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Yale being committed to the non-scouting principle in football, which was effective in the season just over, the board of control of the athletic association has asked institutions on its 1928 schedule to observe against the non-scouting agreements of the past season.

The fact was made known tonight by Prof. George H. Nettleton, chairman of the board, through the Alumni Weekly in the course of a sketch of the proposal for non-scouting and its adoption for the 1927 season. He includes the text of the vote of the board making the request upon those colleges which were on the Eli schedule.

The vote, unanimously adopted, expresses appreciation of the generous and hearty co-operation of other colleges in playing football games without resort to "organized scouting." It says: "We feel that both game and players have benefited by the added tests of the initiative, self-reliance, and resourcefulness of the teams in action, and that the sport itself has gained by lessening the machinery. x x x We are especially glad that these agreements, undefined in set terms, were clearly defined and interpreted in the spirit of mutual trust and friendly understanding."

Prof. Nettleton says that the proper basis of all college sport is admittedly that of friendly understanding and mutual confidence and "Yale is ready to trust fully their (Harvard and Princeton) integrity in observing agreements whether against 'organized scouting' or proselyting or professionalism, as she is ready to trust their faith and fairness in interpreting any of the countless athletic relations on and off the field. In such consideration of the whole field of college sport Yale's attitude to a special question finds broader definition and interpretation."

SEVEN SCHOOLS TO ATTEND MEETING FOR CLASS A LOOP

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 12. —(AP)—Seven of the nine state high schools invited by Walter B. Spencer to attend a meeting in New Haven on Saturday to discuss the formation of a class A school football league, will send representatives to the meeting. Mr. Spencer, president of the Connecticut Interscholastic Athletic Conference and principal of the Commercial High school, announced today.

President Spencer has been notified that the following high schools will be represented at the meeting which is scheduled to get under way at 11 a. m., at the Graduates' club: Crosby, Waterbury; Bulkeley, Hartford; Commercial and Hillhouse, New Haven; Warren Harding and Central, Bridgeport, and Stamford.

It is expected that the Weaver and Hartford public schools, which were also invited to attend, will be represented unofficially, although the sponsors of the meeting have not given up hope that the two up-state schools will accept the invitation and enter the proposed league.

GABBY HARTNETT'S TEAM IS FAST AGGREGATION

The Millville Mass., team which plays the Taftville Crescents at Parish hall next Tuesday evening not only has Gabby Hartnett as an attraction but it is also one of the best clubs in central Massachusetts.

This team recently beat the Danielson Towners at Danielson and in their line-up will appear Peloquin, one of Holy Cross' best athletes of recent years, being a well-known baseball performer besides starring on the court. They also have Kasper of the Purple Crusaders who has been running up many points as a forward. Hartnett will appear at either guard or center and he is said to be an above-the average performer on the basketball floor.

PROVIDENCE INTERESTS TO BUY SYRACUSE CLUB

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Jan. 12.—(AP)—The Post Standard will say tomorrow that a proposed purchase of the Syracuse International league franchise by the Donnelly brothers, former owners of the Jersey City club, is merely a step toward bringing Providence back into the circuit.

The Donnelly brothers sold their Jersey City holdings last year to a syndicate headed by George Stallings, which transferred the franchise to Montreal. They will buy the Syracuse club providing the St. Louis Cardinals, who control the Stars, succeed in purchasing the Rochester franchise which is expected to be decided definitely at a special meeting of the league in New York Monday.

The league served notice during the Chicago meeting of the minor leagues last Monday that it would not approve any purchaser of the Syracuse franchise unless the purchaser agreed to transfer to Jersey City. A syndicate of business men of this section, but not residents of Syracuse, who had planned to buy the club and continue operation in this city, withdrew their bid upon learning of that move. That left the Donnellys as the only bidders.

The league and the Donnellys, the Post Standard declares are convinced that double a baseball is not a paying investment in Jersey City. The Donnellys however plan to resell the franchise to a syndicate of Providence men who will start operations there in 1929.

GIANTS NOT INTERESTED IN BRAVES STATES M'GRAW

HAVANA, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Inferences of syndicate baseball that have cropped up since Rogers Hornsby was traded to Boston by the New York Giants are "ridiculous", Manager John McGraw told the Associated Press today on arrival here for a short vacation.

"We are not interested in building up the Braves," McGraw said." Talk of syndicated baseball is a joke. It doesn't exist and I can prove it.

"Last Friday we offered Hornsby to the Cincinnati Reds for catcher Hargrave and Hughie Critz, second baseman, the offer was made by long distance telephone to President McDermott of the club and was promptly turned down.

"During the major league meetings in New York last December, I tried to trade Hornsby to the Brooklyn Robins for "Dazzy" Vance. Wilbert Robinson, the Brooklyn manager, turned the proposition down without a second though, saying only: 'I wnat to win a few games myself.' "

"When I talked to Jack Hendricks, manager of Cincinnati after my phone conversation he again turned down my offer for Hargrave and Critz with a flat "no." I tried to swap Burleigh Grimes for Adolfo Luque in a straight pitcher deal. We tried to trade Hornsby to other clubs with no result, although we never offered him to Chicago for Hazen Cuyler."

When these efforts to dispose of Hornsby failed, McGraw said he opened negotiations with the Boston club and the deal for Catcher Hogan and outfielder Welsh was completed.

HORNSBY INCIDENT IS CLOSED SAYS STONEHAM

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—(AP)—The Hornsby trade is a closed incident so far as Charles A. Stoneham, president of the New York Giants, is concerned.

Stoneham's views that he has explained fully the most surprising player deal in recent years, was revealed today by Jim Tierney, the Giants' secretary.

"There will be no more statements from Mr. Stoneham," he said. "The club feels that it has presented the real reason for the trade. If some people are not satisfied with the explanation and want to do some investigating, that's their privilege."

The "experts" still were taking advantage of that privilege. The majority of them, however, had settled upon the theory that the Giants' field captain and the spark of their offensive, had been sent to Boston because of some personal differences with President Stoneham.

It was considered certain that the club did not swing the trade because they particularly wanted Catcher Francis Hogan and Outfielder Jimmy Welsh of the Braves. It is understood that before the deal went through the Giants sought in vain to induce the Cincinnati Reds to part with Hughie Critz, diminutive star, for the "Rajah." There also were well substantiated reports that the New York club dickered with the Chicago clubs in an effort to send Hornsby there in exchange for Kiki Cuyler, himself a "storm center" of rather wide reputation. Both western clubs turned down New York's proffers with or without thanks.

JIMMY QUINN IS ONE OF STATE'S BEST AMATEURS

James Anthony Quinn, local junior featherweight amateur boxer, is fast becoming one of the best boys in his division in the state and it is a safe prediction that he will go far before he hangs up his gloves. Jimmy is a registered A. A. U. boxer so does not see much action in this part of the state and the local fans are not thoroughly familiar with his ability. Those shows at which Quinn appearde he greatly impressed the fans as a clever boy.

In his bouts through the state he has fared well winning the larger part by decisive margins. In his bout at Bridgeport on Wednesday evening he gave away five pounds to his opponent and then forced Eddie Brody, heralded as state champion, to four rounds. Brody was given the decision but only by the smallest of margins.

SOCCER TO BE REVIVED IN TAFTVILLE SUNDAY

The first soccer game in several years will be played on Sunday at the J. B. Martin grounds when the J. B. Martin soccer team, recently organized, will clash with the Jewett City team. This game is the first in an endeavor to revive the interest in soccer in Norwich, an interest which at its best was small. Soccer in other parts of New England, especially around Providence, Fall River and New Bedford, is one of the most popular of sports. This year the interest has been keen and lately Taftville and Jewett City fans have been clamoring for a renewal of the sport.

Soccer, although it never took a real firm hold in Norwich, is an interesting game and there is plenty of action. To those who understand the fine points of the game it is one of the most interesting of sports.

New York Amateurs Break Even

HARTFORD, Jan. 12—(AP)—A New York team of amateur boxers split even in its four bouts with Hartford fighters here tonight, winning two and losing two.

BOSTON HAS HAD ITS SAY ABOUT HORNSBY

BOSTON, Pan.12—(AP)—The Boston Braves, from president to groundkeeper, tonight stood pat on previous announcements and let the rest of the world carry on any desired speculation over the acquisition of Rogers Hornsby from the New York Giants.

President Fuchs had nothing more to say to bewildered newspaper experts who continued to demand bigger and better explanations for the deal which brought Hornsby to Boston to captain the Braves in exchange of Catcher Francis Hogan and Outfielder Jimmy Welsh.

The rest of the office force backed him up and only facts were brought to light. The Braves do not own the Giants, the Giants do not own the Braves, they said; Hornsby has told President Fuchs that he will be glad to play in Boston; there is no truth in the statement that he will oust Jack Slattery as manager and the Braves anticipate no trouble with the stellar second sacker in regard to his contract.

The general concensus was that the Giants had received two good and promising players and with usual Giant determination had paid well to get them. It was just another trade and why everyone should want to make such a mystery out of it was beyond the imagination of the warrior moguls.

While telephones in New York, St. Louis and Boston baseball circles carried continuous appeals for information and instruments over at Frankie Hogan's house in Somerville buzzed, and in response to the usual request for comment the ex-Braves catcher remarked coyly:

"I think it's a great thing for the Giants, as well as everyone else concerned."

BOWMAN TO ATTEMPT COMEBACK IN SPRINTS

NEW YORK, Jan. 12—(AP)—Chet Bowman national 100-yard champion, whose running future is in doubt as the result of an injury to his right knee in an automobile accident, has entered the sprint series at the Millrose indoor meet February 2 to test out his condition.

At present according to Carl Anderson, Newark, A. C., coach, Bowman is only able to run one heat before the knee gives way.

Anderson said Bowman wanted to run in the important meets this winter, and had been entered for the Millrose sprints as well as the Newark A. C., games a week later, but that he would not compete unless the injured knee improves.

Unless he stages a comeback, Bowman's chances of making the Olympic team again will be doubtful. The former Syracuse star was at the height of his form last summr, beating Charley Borah in the national championship in 9 3-5 seconds.

Even if Bowman is not able to compete, the Millrose sprint series will have a fast field. Entries have been received from Fred Alerman, former Michigan State star, now running for the Illinois Athletic club; Alfred Leconey of the Meadowbrook club, Philadelphia; Al Miller, former Harvard star; Hamm of Georgia Tech; Morrill of Boston university and Kamesh of Boston college.

Y SENIORS OPEN SEASON ON SATURDAY NIGHT

The Y Seniors, city champs as the result of thei rwinning the title in last year's City league are again ready for a busy season. The majority of the boys on this club have played two games under the Y Outlaws banner and they are now reported fit for a busy campaign.

They will open by playing the preliminary to the Academy-Tourtelotte high game Saturday evening, clashing with the team from U. S. S. Pequot, one of Uncle Sam's cable ships. An interesting tilt.

The following players are requested to be on hand to play at 7:45: Pineault, Adnopoz, Haris, Barber, Brown, Falcone and Grebe. It is planned to have Barber and Brown at forwards with Harris at center and Grebe and Pineault a gtuards. "Tut" Dahl, star of other years will be missing this year as he is working out of town.

DENNY MURPHY, TAFTVILLE BOY, SOLD TO FORT WORTH CLUB

Dennis Murphy of Taftville who has been a member of the Oakland and Vernon teams of the Pacific Coast league has been sold outright to the Fort Worth team of the Texas league. Murphy is a catcher and two years ago was the All Pacific coast choice for that position. Murphy it will be remembered went to the Pacific Coast league from the Yankees after having played with the Toledo team of the American association.

New London Team Wants Games

The Emeralds basketballteam are looking for games with teams in Taftville, Danielson and other eastern Connecticut teams. Inquiries should be addressed to Manager Burgess of South Ledyard street, New London, or telephone 9102, New London.

Interscholastic Sports

Bulkeley of Hartford at Windham tonight should give Willimantic fans some fast basketball although the home club is favored to win.

Windham has its eyes on that Yale tourney again this year and a defeat over such a quintet as the insurance city outfit will be a big boost down towards New Haven.

Stonington faces an unknown quantity in the Southbridge, Mass. quintet this evening. Coch O'Brien's youngsters received a big surprise in losing to Plainfield but tonight they ought to be a lot better, as they return to their home floor.

Bulkeley of New London and Westerly High are the only schools in this section that do not have basketball teams.

However, both intend to be represented at the indoor game next year.

Bulkeley is planning on a new gym as a sort of sister-project to Mercer Field while Westerly may play at the State armory.

A lot of material goes to waste at these two schools during the basketball season.

The new Interscholastic league ought to get a real start in football next fall with the "Big Six" in action officially.

That making sure of two games in baseball between the Academy and Bulkeley is a good thing and will go a long ways toward preserving the rivalry between these two schools.

Next year in football the Academy and Stonington will meet but it will not count because each team already has its quota of league games. Chapman Tech and Stonington and Westerly and Stonington also have these kind of games. Stonington's schedule is really an All-league affair.

It is to be hoped that there will be nothing in the way of Bulkeley and Windham getting to gether to settle matters in the football league.

The "little three" of eastern Connecticut high school athletics, Putnam, Plainfield and Killingly, still would be able to hold their own with the best of their size in the state.

SHARKEY PRONOUNCED IN FIRST CLASS SHAPE FOR BOUT TONIGHT

NEW YORK, Jan. 12—(AP)—Banishing suspicion in high fistic circles that all was not well with Jack Sharkey's much discussed left "maulie" and that the drubbing administered by Jack Dempsey last summer had left a tenderness about the stomach, physicians of the New York State commission today placed their stamp of approval on the Boston battler's physical condition.

Tomorrow night in Madison Square Garden, Tom Heeney, powerful heavyweight invader from New Zealand, will conduct an examination all his own in a 12 round melee that may produce the first 1928 opponent for Gene Tunney.

Sharkey came to town last night at the edict of the boxing fathers, who demanded an examination of the challenger's left fist to prove that rumors of portside disability were false. While training for the Heeney match, originally scheduled for last month, Sharkey suffered a fracture of a bone just back of the little finger on his left hand, necessitating a postponement.

Doctors William H. Walker and Joseph S. Baldwin, acting for the commission, stripped the heavily muscled Lithuanian to the waist today and drummed carefully upon his anatomy after subjecting the left hand to a series of tests, and their verdict was:

"Jack Sharkey is in very excellent condition, the best of his career. There is no functional defect in the fingers, wrist, or elbow of his left arm. There is absolutely no outward evidence remaining to indicate that he suffered lasting harm in his fight with Jack Dempsey."

The two physicians, both of whom examined Sharkey before his knockout at the hands of the former champion, said the Boston gob's condition today far surpassed that of last July.

After the examination, Sharkey, who scaled 198 pounds yesterday, took a long walk as a final preparation for the match. Heeney rested after winding up gym work yesterday weighing 198 pounds.

Interests in the match, aroused by the mystery that surrounded Sharkey's condition, reached its peak when Garden authorities announced the match a "sell-out." Prospect of a new indoor record gate appeared when Tex Rickard declared that re-scaling of the 17,000 seats would permit a gross of $200,000. Jack Delaney's bout with Jimmy Maloney in the Garden last winter broke the record for the arena by drawing $180,000.

ACADEMY CLASHES WITH CHAPMAN TECH TONIGHT

One of the best schoolboy games of the season is expected tonight at the Y gym when the Academy and Chapman Tech meet in the first eastern Connecticut-western Rhode Island interscholastics of the season, the third and rubber game of these school's basketball relations and also the Red and White's first important game of the year.

The Tech captain, Bill Nield, right forward, comes here with a wide margin over the rest of the scholastic scorers of eastern Connecticut and he with Scotty McKelvie, the other forward, who is second in point-making around here, will have to be stopped tonight if the Academy is to outscore its New London rival. Le Blanc will probably be at center and Johns and Fratelliet guards for the visitors.

For the Academy Red Fagan and Joe Viau will romp at forwards with Less Pingree at center and Capt. Jim Kelly and Buck LaCroix at guards.

In the preliminary the C. F. C., right now the fastest amateur outfit in eastern Connecticut faces the Westerly Collegians, a fast stepping bunch from the Granite City. In their lineup will be several Westerly and Stonington high school players and the local boys will have to be their best to win.

The C. F. C., will have Brown and Capt. Lambert at forwards with Neil at center and Moberg and Davis at guards.

The preliminary will start at 8 o'clock.

FILM FILM CENSOR SUED FOR BARRING BABE RUTH FILM

CHICAGO, Jan. 12—(AP)—Because Babe Ruth chews tobacco and spits in the moving picture, "Babe Comes Home" in which he stars, the film censor of Highland Park has barred the picture, and First National Pictures corporation which produced it, has started suit at Waukegan to force lifting of the ban. Mrs. Albert L. Stevenson, the fashionable suburb's film censor, today said:

"We do not believe there is any inherent virtue in chewing tobacco and do not wish the children of Highland Park to believe that one must chew to achieve fame. The film is filled with nauseating scenes of filth in which tobacco juice dribbles all over the place. If it were possible to cut the objectionable shots from the picture and still retai na story we would do so!"

SEVENTEEN BOXERS TO REPRESENT BOSTON

BOSTON, Jan. 12—(AP)—A team of 17 boxers in seven classes was named today to represent Boston in the international inter-city tournament to be staged here by the New England Association of the A. A. U. on January 23 to promote interests in Olympic year pugilism. Montreal, Toronto, New Haven New York and Pittsburgh will be represented in the tournament. William H. Cuddy, chairman of the New England A. A. U., boxing commission, started the boxers on their training grind today.

DANIELSON TOWNERS DOWN GUARDS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Jan. 12—Playing before a packed house and an enthusiastic crowd of fans in the town hall tonight the Danielson Town Team annexed another game to its credit by defeating the fast Hartford National Guards 34 to 21, in a real flashy game of basketball. The Hartford boys started off by scoring two baskets and a foul followed by a Danielson basket and then scored four more points. With the score 9 to 2 the Towners opened up making the half end 13 all.

The second half opened with each team scoring a basket and right here the Danielson team commenced to show its real pep and gradually pulled away from its opponent until the score stood 33 to 19 in the Towners favor. At this point Reeves and Blackley substittued for Schofield and Godreau and held the opponents down to one basket, making the final count 34 to 21.

Keach, Schofield and Armington each made a great showing on the offensive while Poirier and Godreau formed a defense that the opponents could not seem to break through. Poirier also came through with three nice baskets and a foul. This game was just another one of those great games that is being played at Town hall this winter and Danielson seems to be downing the best.

In the preliminary the Danielson seconds defeated the Jewett City Speedboys 23 to 18.

Next week the Towners play Sammy Moore's noted Pawtucket Tigers. This team claims the championship of Rhode Island.

pipe Smokers:

Here's the life history of the world's best pipe tobacco

No bulky costly tin.
10¢
Sensibly packed in heavy foil.

WE took the finest Burley that ever came out of old Kentucky. We aged it, then mellowed it by an old-time slow-but-sure secret process—the Wellman Method.

We cut it, not in fine, quick-burning chips, but in coarse, shaggy flakes that smoke as cool as a brisk sea breeze.

Then we packed it in sensible, comfortable foil (instead of costly tin) and called it Granger Rough Cut.

To half a million smokers it's "the finest pipe tobacco I ever laid a match to."

PADDOCK SAYS AMATEUR CODE IS TOO STRICT

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12—(AP)—Elimination of the present practice of declaring an amateur athlete a profession because he capitalizes his prowess with the by-products of competition, such as writing, speaking or acting was advocated by Charles W. Paddock, star amateur sprinter, in a signed article in the Los Angeles Evening Express today.

Charging hypocrisy and discrimination in the present straight-laced amateur code, Paddock further asked that an athlete who accepts money for competition in a branch of sport, be declared a professional in that branch only, and allowed to compete as an amateur in other branches.

WATERBURY ANXIOUS TO KEEP BASEBALL CLUB

WATERBURY, Jan. 12—(AP)—Members of the Waterbury chamber of commerce board of directors headed by President Harry B. Dow at a meeting held in the University club tonight, pledged their support and personnel to any movement to retain the Eastern league franchise and professional baseball in this city.

Secretary Frank J. Green, who has made an exhaustive study of the situation, reported that Herman J. Weisman, president of the Eastern league stated that minimum of $20,000 is necessary to retain the franchise and that this amount in his opinion would provide for only a period of two years.

After summing up the situation of professional baseball here President Dow stated that it is contrary to the accepted function of the chamber to assume the responsibility of raising funds for a project such as retaining the franchise but that the board will lend its entire support to any movement inaugurated by the interested citizens to keep this city in the Eastern league circuit.

COLUMBIA

THE LITTLE FREE LIBRARY HAS TOTAL OF 7852 BOOKS

The annual meeting of the Saxton B. Little Free Library association was held at the library Monday evening. The trustees' report showed a balance in the treasury of $7.48. The trustees received during the year interest amounting to $276. The report of the librarian, Mrs. Lillian Rice, recorded a total circulation of 4197 volumes for the year. The school circulation was 1352 and juvenile from the library 318. There were 1830 visitors to the library in 1927. There were 7852 books in the library. During the year 72 books came from the state, 26 were purchased and 7 donated. Copies of the National Geographic and Hygiea Magazines were also donated. Eight monthly and two weekly magazines are subscribed for by the library each year. The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Wm. Wolff; vice president, H. A. Rice; secretary, C. E. Hunt; treasurer, E. P. Lyman; trustee, H. B. Hutchins; assistant trustee, E. P. Lyman; second assistant trustee, Wm. Wolff. Two members of the library committee were re-elected for three years, Miss Amelia Fuller and C. E. Hunt.

The Ladies' Aid society met at the parsonage Tuesday afternoon. The hostesses were Mrs. Wm. Wolff, Mrs. Raymond Lyman and Mrs. Philip Isham. There were 28 present. It was voted to finance the Vacation Bible school next summer to the sum of $10; also to buy and install a church signboard in front of the church. Fruit salad, sandwiches, cookies and coffee were served by the hostesses.

PRESTON

At the annual Sunday school meeting of the Baptist church, held recently, reports showed the Sunday school to be in fine condition with a large gain in membership. The officers elected are: Superintendent, C. C. Fabrikke; assistant superintendent, John Smith; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Nellie Main; librarian, Miss Charlie Hallett.

The World Wide Guild met Tuesday evening with Miss Gladys Wheeler.

Miss Eva Beatrice of New London was a week end guest of Miss Dorothy Bennett.

Mrs. Nathan Hall was the leader of the Union C. E. Sunday evening. The topic was What Prayer Can Accomplish.

WATCH HILL SUMMER HOME IS FOUND RANSACKED

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Jan. 12—The breaking, entering and ransacking of the summer home of Malcolm C. Anderson, located at the junction of Masatuxet brook and the Pawcatuck river on the Watch Hill road, was reported this morning to Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown. James De Marco, the caretaker, made the discovery and reporting to the police, Officer George L. Madison was detailed to investigate.

It was found that the place had been visited by prowlers who had gone through the various rooms as footprints showed. Drawers and cupboards had been opened and rummaged. Among articles reported missing was a revolver and some women's apparel. Entrance was gained by breaking a window on the south side of the house and unfastening a window catch.

In a Beach street auto collision Wednesday, a Ford coach, owned by William E. Spear, of 38 Lester avenue, Pawcatuck, and driven by his wife, Amella Spear, crashed with a Cadillac, owned by Mrs. D. C. Babcock, of Avondale, and operated by her daughter, Mrs. Robert Loomis, figured in a collision at the junction of Juniper Lane about 4:45 o'clock. Mrs. Babcock was thrown out of the machine, but was not injured. William Spear sustained a scratch on one hand.. Officers Robert Kessel and George L. Madison investigated the accident and reported that the driver of the Ford car turned out to pass a passenger bus, operating between Westerly and Thompson's Corners, and collided with the Cadillac. The front end of the Ford car was badly damaged and the windshiel was broken. The front axle on the Caillac car was bent.

So mild has been the weather the past few days that Thursday one observed activities out of doors which are usually associated with the coming of spring. Men in the employ of the Westerly highway department scraped, cleaned and carted away refuse from the gutters on Dixon street. On Railroad avenue holes which had become worn from heavy auto traffic were patched with tar mixture and stone. Along the New Haven right of way, holes were dug and new posts were set to strengthen billboard advertising signs. At the new Chester block in process of construction on Railroad avenue, masons were laying brick, while steel girders and supporting posts for the second story floor were set in position. On the site of the new Central fire station headquarters on Union street, wooden forms having been constructed, the first cement was poured for the foundation walls to basement and tower.

The following transfer has been recorded in the office of Westerly town clerk:

Jan. 11. Albert D. Alderman, of Holyoke, Hampden county, Mass., to Thorp and Trainer, Inc., two parcels of land on the beach between Weekapaug and Atlantic Beach bounded easterly by land of William Rinnie and wife southerly by the Atlantic ocean, westerly by lands of Katherine V. R. Welch, et al, and northerly by Atlantic avenue.

Hancocks Woman's Relief Corps, No. 20, Department of Connecticut, held its meeting in post headquarters, Odd Fellows hall, Tuesday. At the close of the meeting the following officers were installed by Post President Gertrude Roche: President, Evelyn MacDonald; senior vice president, Bertha Stapleton; junior vice president, Cora Fuller; secretary, Alida Chappell; treasurer, Hattie J. Coon; chaplain, Harriet Griffin; conductor, Mildred Collins; guard, Grace Worthington; patriotic instructor, Sarah Vredenburg; press correspondent, Carrie E. Dawley; musician, Maybelle R. Brown; assistant conductor, Bertinette Blackler; assistant guard, Grace Smith; first color bearer, Irene Murray; second, Elsie Butten; third, Lillian Weller; fourth, Kathleen Freeman. Mattie Eccleston, the retiring president, was presented a gold piece and Gertrude Roche was given a pair of pillow cases.

Hope Council, No. 6, Junior Order of United Machanics, met Wednesday evening in Mechanics' hall, Welch block. Officers were installed by Deputy State Councilor James Perry of Commodore Perry Council, No. 14, of Wakefield. The officers are: Councilor, Benjamin Kenyon; vice councilor, Milo Champlin; recording secretary, Everett C. Lawton, Jr.; assistant recording secretary, Albert Perrin, Jr.; financial secretary, Edwin Blackler; treasurer, John Steadman; conductor, Ralph Collins; warden, Halsey Burdick; inside sentinel, Dwight Bromley; outside sentinel, Robert Clark; chaplain, Alev Greig; trustee for 18 months, George Pendleton. An interesting address was made by State Vice Councilor Fred L. Northrup and visiting brothers from Wakefield. A social time followed.

The sixth annual automobile show plans under the auspices of Harold W. Merrill Post, No. 16, American Legion, are progressing very favorably, Chairman Roy Wilcox of the auto show committee announced Thursday. The event will take place in February.

The third in the winter series of lectures is to be given in the assembly hall of the Westerly Memorial and Public Library building Tuesday evening, Jan. 24th. "Censorship of Books," is the subject announced by the librarian, Miss Adele C. Martin, for the talk to be given by Miss Corrine Bacon, writer and educator, of New Britain, Conn.

William F. Donovan, of Potter Hill, left Westerly Thursday morning for New London.

Deputy Sheriff Fred T. Bull, of Kingston, was a business caller in Westerly Thursday.

Following a visit with Westerly relatives, Mr. and Mrs. John Connel have returned to Manchester, Conn.

James Mertz, from Providence, was a business visitor in Pawcatuck on Thursday.

Arthur Leonard and William F. Gavitt were in Providence Thursday evening and attended "The Student Prince."

Dr. and Mrs. A. Howard Gold were in Providence Thursday.

Frank S. Nichols, of New London, was in Westerly Thursday.

Patrolman Michael Curtin began Thursday a week's tour of day duty while Officer Leroy H. Norman returned to night duty.

NOANK

Clamming seems to be the sport among the young fellows in the village since low tides have been running. Over at Ram Island, 14 clammers with their short boots on were making it an afternoon party this week. One old sea captain, John Camerey, knows the history of the clam family. Opening up a long clam he began telling all about it and how old it was. Then came a round clam. "Boys," he said, "it is hard to tell about this clam, but they make the best chowders of the salt water clams."

George Deveau never saw a razor clam. It is about 5 inches long and shaped like a razor. All you need was the soap for a shave. Bruno Bracci was high hoe, with 3 pails full. William Franklin gave the clammers a thrill by taking a swim for ten minutes; they didn't know how he could stand it. The boat Baby took the party over. Steward Thomas Carey gave them a Cape Cod oyster stew, with tomatoes on top. They returned to the packing house dock at a late hour.

Capt. R. Brocky and his mate, Alden Brocky were working on their fish net at their dock, Wednesday morning when a large mosquito lit on Capt. Brocky's neck, "Hold Still!" was the cry that came from the mate and with a mean left he killed the mosquito—the first time ever that a mosquito was in Noank in January. Did the warm sun make it come out and think it was September weather, or it is a sign that the snow storms are a long way off? If that animal doesn't lie by appearing around in the winter time a man can save on his coal pile! The school children have got out their marble bags and are playing on East Main street. It may mean that spring is near.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Rathbun have returned from a visit in Norwich with relatives.

Mike Grant was coming out from under the bottom of new fishing boat at the shipyard with his mate, Jerry Durham and walking along when a block was thrown from the deck and hit Mike on the head making a bad cut. A doctor was called and the man was taken in his auto to the office where the cut was dressed. It did not require any stitches and it happened right as the whistle blew just then to send the men home for dinner. Jerry his mate was not touched and he claimed that he was so short that it could not reach him. Grant went down in the afternoon to finish out the day. It was a good sized block and the hurt is painful.

Clarence Spink of Fall River is home on a few days' visit.

Robert Bruckman who owned the old schoolhouse of the sixth district, on Prospect Hill, came from New York and is a well known artist. He had the schoolhouse turned into a dwelling. It is an up to date bungalow and is used as his summer home and studio. He is in the village now for a few days, painting some pictures which will be on exhibition in New York this winter.

Capt. Frank Fitch and Mrs. Fitch have returned from a month's visit at Lynnbrook, L. I.

Edgar Schoolmaker spent a day in Westerly this week.

Eddie Tryon has gone to New York for a few days.

Mrs. Addie Rathbun is confined to her home by illness.

At the home of Mrs. Lars Thorsen on Front street, Wednesday afternoon the Silver Link society of the Methodist church held the weekly meeting. After business came work hour. Later a social time was spent and refreshments were served by the hostess.

The high wind of the last few days has kept the Young fishing fleet at the dock. Many of the fishermen have been painting the inside of the boat cabins and some were working on the engines. A telephone call came from Fulton market to a fish market on Riverside avenue. Then Dealer Mack called the fishermen together and said that flatfish are bringing a high price now and the order was to ship all that the village fishing men can get and make it a banner week. So the boats put on full steam ahead for the shores of Block Island where the fish are running in large schools. Six boats are in the fleet, each boat getting as high as 12 barrels a day or over.

Peter Deveau is on Fishers Island for a short stay.

Freeman Roger has gone to Spring Hill for a brief visit.

MYSTIC

When the W. C. T. U. met with Mrs. E. V. Whiting Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. W. H. Lamb, the president, presided. Mrs. C. E. Newbury offered prayer and the usual business was considered. The principals of the schools have been asked to observe Victory day in the schools. It was voted to ask the church officials to have the church bells ring eight minutes, commencing at 12 o'clock, one minute for each year since prohibition went into effect. Mrs. Newbury gave a talk on Friendship at the close. Mrs. Whiting served tea.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Pittman, on their way home from New York to Milton, Mass., visited the latter's aunt, Mrs. Samuel Higbee, for a few days.

Worthy Master and Mrs. Leslie Haley, Worthy Lecturer Mrs. Lucy Burdick, Mrs. John J. Jones, Mrs. Perry H. Children's Colds

Best Treated Externally

THAT's why modern mothers prefer Vicks—it cannot upset delicate stomachs. Rubbed on throat and chest, it acts two ways at once:

(1) Its healing vapors, released by the body heat, are inhaled direct to the air passages;

(2) It "draws out" the soreness like an old-fashioned poultice.
